7,000 on alert as New York visit starts

MORE than 7,000 police and an army of special security forces stand guard in New York yesterday as Mr. Krushchev arrived for a two-day visit.

Sharpshooters, judo experts and armed special service men were among those who watched for the least sign of trouble in the city, which is the haven of thousands of bitterly anti-Communist refugees.

So strict are precautions in New York's biggest security operation that police have enlisted rubbish bins along the Soviet leader's routes to be removed to prevent their possible use as hiding places or missiles.

Cold war ice melting

The train bringing Mr. Krushchev into New York's Pennsylvania Station was preceded by a special "trouble-shooting" express cranked with armed railroad detectives and Soviet agents.

Before leaving Washington Mr. Krushchev said he had started to "unravel" the "ice" of the cold war and create normal conditions of life for our peoples and good friendly relations between our two countries.

Soviet plan on arms

MR. KRUSHCHEV has his own views on the arms race. He said that the arms race is a waste of money and that the only way to prevent it is by mutual agreement.

Indian proposal

Mr. Krishna Menon, the Indian foreign minister, has proposed a new arrangement for the United Nations Security Council. He has suggested that the Council should be reformed to include more developing countries.

Algeria to determine path after interval of peace

GEN. DE GAULLE has said a president of Algeria by declaring self-determination was a necessary, once peace had been restored.

"I consider it necessary to proclaim this venture by self-determination today," he said in a radio-wide broadcast broadcast.

He would arrange for a consultation of the population of Algeria about their future, not more than four years after the country had been pacified. He urged pacification in the period before more than 150,000 people had been killed by ambush attacks in a year.

Political secret

When the time for a new constitution is reached, Algeria would be able to choose between a constitution which would mean poverty, chaos and slaughter, or a constitution which would mean peace and development.

His proposals were the heart of French political secret in Algeria. The secret was revealed in a speech, the "main lines" were explained at a Cabinet meeting but only the Premier, Mr. Michel Debré, knew the full details.

It was well reported in the Algerian press that the French Government was ready to accept a new constitution which would mean peace and development.

Confession related

The British military leader of the Algerian army, General de Gaulle, has related a confession made by a French soldier who had been captured by the Algerian rebels.

CHINA'S PLEA RENEWED

CHINA'S PLEA for membership in the United Nations Security Council has been renewed. The Chinese Government has asked the Security Council to accept its application.

KARATINA ENTERS NEW PHASE

Two-storey building

"Standard" Correspondent. Karatina began a new phase of development when the first modern multi-racial bar and restaurant, the Karatina Hotel, was opened by the late Dr. A. R. Paterson.

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE DR. A. R. PATERSON

It is felt that a tribute should be paid to the late Dr. A. R. Paterson, great Director of Medical Services, who showed vision and had a broad conception of public health work.

He was an outstanding man of high ideals and in many ways a pioneer of his day. While caring for the needs of the people, he also had the vision to see the need for the establishment of a new hospital in the country, he laid the foundation of the Karatina Hospital, a building which has become a landmark in Kenya which has brought forth today.

He realized early in his career the importance of promoting better health and that the well-being of the greatest people of Africa depends on raising their standard of living.

Profile writer

Mr. Harbison constantly reminded that better agriculture in a country economy leading to material property was an essential prerequisite for health.

Dr. Paterson was a prolific writer and his book of Christianity, which is a guide to improved spiritual conditions in Africa and his memorandum advising for a Royal Commission on land and population, are perhaps his most outstanding contributions.

He was a man of great moral courage and always gave his honest opinion to members of his department; his kindness and inspiration to his junior colleagues are remembered with gratitude and affection.

He died on the 15th of August, 1954.

Airline artist for inaugural world flight

"Standard" Correspondent. Mrs. Juliet Parnell, who recently visited her sister, Miss Phyllis Somers of Tabora, has been commissioned as official artist for the Australian airline on its first jet round the world service which is to be inaugurated this month.

Mrs. Parnell will visit New York, San Francisco, Honolulu, Melbourne, Sydney and Canberra, where she will attend a special reception, continuing to London, via Zurich, Singapore, Bangkok, Karachi, Cairo and After 50 years as a building contractor, Karatina began a new phase of development when the first modern multi-racial bar and restaurant, the Karatina Hotel, was opened by the late Dr. A. R. Paterson.

The District Commissioner, Mr. J. M. Harbison, is sponsoring the building of a two-storey building on the site of the late Dr. Paterson's house, which will be used as a school for the training of industrial development workers by the Government.

In the past, there was a definite lack of technical training for the people because people had had no "technical training" and the project had been abandoned and given up.

The District Commissioner added that he hoped that the new building would be a landmark in Karatina and that it would be a source of pride for the people of the district.

EMBU LOANS SCHEME

Embu residents will be able to borrow from £2,500 to £5,000 under the scheme controlled by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry under the auspices of the Embu District Council.

A grant of £50,000 has been approved by the Government and approved by the Embu District Council. The scheme will be able to obtain loans from the bank.

A number of officers have been appointed to the Embu District Council and the scheme will be controlled by the bank.

ROMBE SAWMILL

"Standard" Correspondent. A sawmill at Rombe, N. W. Kenya, has been started after standing idle for some years.

Rate levied to bring water to location

"Standard" Correspondent. MALAKESI Location Government has levied a special water rate in Elgon-Nyanza District. The council has agreed to demand 2/- a head from the 5,200 taxpayers.

It is estimated the new rate will raise £200 which will be used for the purchase of water supply in the location. In addition, the Government grant will be used for the purchase of water supply.

Chief James Barasa said that the rate would be used to purchase water from the Government and approved by the Government.

A number of officers have been appointed to the Elgon-Nyanza District Council and the scheme will be controlled by the bank.

Dams built

Progress has been reported on the dams, which had at one time been held others, was already about them in development. "One thing I am always proud of is that we people in this location have what is likely to happen in the future," he added.

There are now 28 dams in the location, three of them built by the Government and the rest having been built last year and of the location council.

Before the dams' construction people had to travel a few miles to obtain water for their domestic use and a few

Council hut goes up in world

HELP FOR MT. MERU CLIMBERS

"Standards" Correspondent, Arusha.

PART of Arusha Town Council's job often is to assist the rest of the city half-way up Mount Meru.

It has been given to the Mountain Club, which is to set the building up on the mountain's slope, for use as a staging hut.

All essential climbers are faced with two alternatives when climbing the 10,000 ft. They can either make a road which will take the time and cost down to the forest, or they can go to the top, or face a night out on the mountain.

The latter course is usually chosen, and it is customary to set out the afternoon before the climb to the top is planned and to camp at the top of the forest.

More time.

This can be considerable as 10,000 feet and few people spend more than the minimum time on the mountain required to reach the summit.

Provision of a hut will mean that anyone interested in the mountain for more than the mere view will be able to spend time exploring with a comfortable base to which to stay.

The old ones are of wooden sectional construction. Although it would appear to be a major undertaking, there is no doubt that a typical mountain hut will be the result.

The council decided to make the gift when the Provincial Commissioner passed on a query he had received.

GRAIN CONVOY HURRIES TO FAMINE AREA

"Standard" Correspondent, Addis Ababa.

Empire's fleet of ships has ordered 20,000 tons of grain to the famine-stricken north-eastern provinces of Ethiopia where the population is dying.

Doctors and medicine have also been dispatched to the area. Drought and locusts have ravaged crops and thousands of children have been orphaned.

The grain is being taken from stocks sent to Ethiopia as a gift of the American people at the end of last year. The population of the area is now being sustained by emergency grain supplies from America.

The Minister for African Affairs, Mr. Johnston, is about to make a visit to the Mt. Meru area. He is accompanied by Mr. Dixon, Director of the Agriculture Department, and the department's staff at the Mt. Meru.

PETITION ASKS FOR END OF ELDORET DISCRIMINATION

"Standard" Staff Reporter.

ELDORET Ratepayers' Association has petitioned the Town Clerk asking for an end to racial restriction in Eldoret. The petition, signed by Asian and European businessmen, says that the association understands that the Municipal Council has authorized the Town Clerk to examine the possibilities of ending racial restriction in that street.

The Town Clerk has written to all traders at present in business in Coryndon Street asking if they agree to the restriction being removed.

Only one in Kenya.

A letter accompanying the petition points out that Coryndon Street is the only street in Kenya with such a restriction, and asks "A restrictive amendment of this nature is not conducive to good race relations and the development of the town."

The petition also asks the association's intention to have the matter raised in Legislative Council.

TORBESTO

in solving estate housing problems all over East Africa

HERE'S WHY:

- 1 Torbesto units are heavy-duty asbestos cement, maintenance free and easily constructed.
- 2 They are waterproof, rustproof, rotproof, termite proof.
- 3 Torbesto provides permanent housing at low cost.

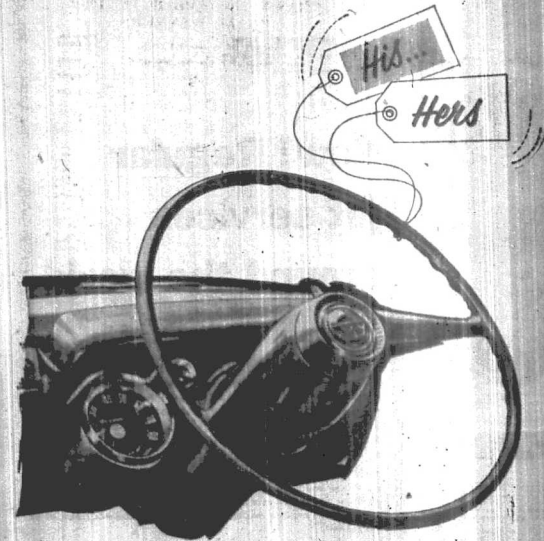

TORBESTO is supplied in rings of 3 sections (two side panels and top) and costs as little as 180/- per ring. A standard Torbesto hut, made up of 9 rings, can accommodate eight single men. Allowing for end walls, fireproof concrete floor, etc., Torbesto means permanent housing at less than 450/- per head. That's why it has become so popular for estate housing schemes in all three territories. There are a wide variety of accessories such as louvers, chimneys, ventilators, flush sinks, draining boards, etc. And Torbesto is adaptable to almost any requirement. Write for illustrated literature. A complete free technical service is ready to offer any advice you may need.

PEMBA—UNSPOILT ISLAND THAT THE TOURISTS FORGET

By Joan Pascoe

BECAUSE Pemba is, for some obscure reason, considered by most people to be off the beaten track, few tourists go there. Yet it is easily accessible, both from the island of Zanzibar near by and from Mombasa and Tanga.

Life goes on there today, as it has for centuries, unburied and unwarred by 20th-century progress. Certainly there are few islands that cater less for the tourist.

There is only one hotel and it is not exactly plush! But the Coon proprietors is charming and could not have been more obliging during my stay there.

There is no bus service in the accepted sense of the word, but rickshaws carry the people to and fro on the island, to a happily abandoned schedule. Taxis are incredibly cheap and many of the islanders can afford to use them regularly. The general idea is to share one with three other people.

To accomplish this, the drivers stand beside their cars, chatting their destinations in a monotonous singsong and anyone going their way just hops in. Unfortunately, the main taxi rank was established right outside the airport throughout most of the day and at the night.

The few tourist items on the island are better (rather too limited) and Chaka Chaka, the most popular country between those in which is the more impressive and better qualified to be the island's capital. This is not to say that the island is not a beautiful place, but it is the main port and, furthermore, being the seat of the only bank, the only telephone exchange on the island, the only printing works (that of the Government's Press) and the only cinema (that of the Government's) — that is to say, the only town on the island.

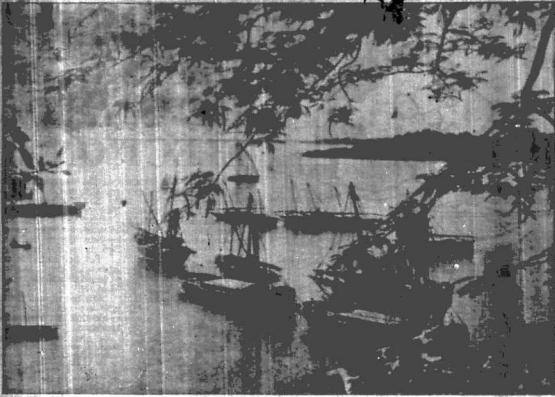

Pemba natives at Tamsu in the North.

DEADLY RIVALS

The people of Chaka Chaka are not so friendly as they seem to be. In the remote of the coast and overlooking the sea, Chaka Chaka is the only place where, as far as I know, there are no other people. It is a matter of time before Chaka Chaka reaches its inevitable end and the island will be a part of the island.

Within of these two deadly rivals in the island, I found it to be a matter of time before Chaka Chaka reaches its inevitable end and the island will be a part of the island.

Dead fish is unnecessary, at the best of times. All well and good, but it is not the island's capital, Chaka Chaka, in the west.

Others lying at rest in Weta Harbour.

Mass invasion in clove season

It is not in the least surprising that I had such a good time in Pemba this year, as I suppose that I am a kind of "tourist" in the true sense of the word. I had about two dozen of these "tourists" with me, and I am sure that I am not the only one to have had such a good time. It is a matter of time before Chaka Chaka reaches its inevitable end and the island will be a part of the island.

OUT OF PLACE

The docks at Chaka Chaka are, each other in number. The goods sold are of limited variety and poor quality, mostly cheap merchandise from Japan. However, like Weta, it is proud of its two cinemas. I was surprised to see one of them, but it is not the island's capital, Chaka Chaka, in the west.

DRAMA CLUBS IN LONDON WORTH VISIT

By TERENCE MACMILLAN

THEATRE-MINDED PEOPLE in entertainment would do well to look beyond the professional productions of the "West End" London clubs, housed in out-of-the-way places are wonderful entertainment.

In the club rooms and bars which are an integral part of the little theatre, the spectator gets a real insight into the workings of the theatre world. It is here that the new facilities and standards are to be seen. The new "Theatre" club, which opened a year with a three-week season, has been a success.

Many of the great names of the British stage have had success in the theatre world. It is here that the most interesting Controversial artists are often found for brief seasons and work on a regular basis. The club has been successful in its endeavours.

Intramural recitals and lunchtime ballets are also part of the club's programme.

Standards are high, too, at the New Watergate Theatre Club in Buckingham Street, the Strand.

The speciality in the intimate circle is available in the pocket-sized theatre, with its wonderful effective stage and lighting.

At the future of the New Watergate is its repertory restaurant, where the menu can be obtained from 6 p.m. onwards on theatre nights.

Associate members, paying 2/6 a year, may use the restaurant on evenings for which they have booked theatre tickets. Full club facilities are available to all members at a reduced rate.

The short run is a feature of most of the private theatre. Since they try to build up a regular clientele, it is essential that the programme be changed fairly often—constantly, if possible, as a rule.

NEW PLAYS

As the Grand Palais in Commercial Road in London's East End, a new show is presented weekly during the ten-month theatre season.

The Joselyn Park Theatre, the only permanent Victorian theatre in Europe, features international stars and energetic and hard-working professional theatre.

The Grand Palais is worth a visit, even if you understand little of the many of the productions of modern drama, whose excellence would be hard to state anywhere.

Workable, except Fridays, seats at a reasonable price, but the Grand Palais is a Sunday Club, with an extensive membership list which permits attendance at many performances.

Another Sunday club is the Old Vic, in the River Thames at Kew. Under the Theatre that new actors and playwrights get the chance to establish themselves and new experiments in drama are tried out.

Better-known artists keep coming back between engagements at the biggie theatres, because the camaraderie of the intimate theatre makes them feel they're coming "home".

ATTRACTIVE PRICES
One of the attractive features of many of the private theatres is their inexpensive.

Associate membership which permits the purchase of tickets for all performances, but does not include the use of club facilities, can be had for as little as 2/6, and full membership rates are usually very reasonable.

The New Landy Theatre Club in the Notting Hill district, provides one of the best of theatre "value for money". Full membership costs only 2/6 a year.

Theatre that new actors and playwrights get the chance to establish themselves and new experiments in drama are tried out.

Management policy of the New Landy is to stage new plays, sometimes by unknown authors.

They are occasionally able to treat social themes which the West End managers will not touch, such as the famous play "Pick-up Girl", which aroused interest as a theatrical study.

MORE EXCLUSIVE

The Arts Theatre Club, in the heart of the fashionable West End theatre district, is a little more exclusive.

Associate membership costs 2/6 a year, but includes use of the very

Individual attention for members

The Theatre Society for 23 years, has made a point of providing new plays and films, including "The Night Below".

A cooperative venture to the ranks of theatre clubs is the Tower Theatre, home of the Tavistock Repertory Company in Islington, North London.

This repertory company, which has had operating since 1931, has toured England and Wales and also appeared in Brussels.

A school has recently been set up in connection with the company, providing full-time courses in drama and dance.

The Tower Theatre is housed in Canonsbury Town, James Blachford House with beautiful playground.

SHACK BAR

Associate membership costs 1/6 a year, full club members 2/6.

There is a snack bar for members, full members may make use of the restaurant and attend club nights, held once a month, at which there is usually a speaker from clubs in the neighbourhood.

Almost half the Tower Theatre's members are women and about 10 per cent of the theatre, the Theatre Society.

London's popular Victorian theatre, the Pavilion Theatre, the London of Chelsea Cinema, which has been the theatre of the past.

The theatre was founded with a local bias, in the 1920s, to provide a venue for the works of the playwrights of the time.

REAL NEED

Occasionally, the Players' Association, from the Victorian tradition, if it can be said that it is a real need, with a body of a little more than 100 members, in London and New York, was set up in 1908.

Membership at the Players' club costs three guineas. There is a two-guinea entrance fee and a temporary membership available for 1/6 a year, with a 1/6 a year discount on subsequent years.

Theatre clubs and repertory theatres are to be found in many parts of the country, but their existence is due to the fact that they are the professional theatre, where they take in very little and need for those to whom they are very much needed.

The theatre club, in which the specialist is a member, may have a real need, and a chance to meet people who

Curtain rises on fashion

By DIANA BURTON
 HOW do Russian women in a dress as people say? These questions have haunted me ever since the Iron Curtain was lifted enough for us to take a peep at the Russian horizon. I cherished a faded list of Russian women—hand-drawn and high-booted, gazing at our fashion scene. We should never judge their clothes by their faces. They are interested in our clothes. In fact they regard our clothes as a mystery. They are a mystery.

COSTLY HOSE
 Their remarks become a shock to some of the British designers who have taken their clothes to Moscow with military aid, hoping to sell to the show there. Mrs. Ford is the fashion director of a well-known stock firm, or she naturally took a good look at the Russian scene. They are tremendously expensive. The usual price in more than 50/-! I saw women buying the cheapest stockings at two pairs a pair. She told me there was a mysterious shortage of elastic in the Soviet Union. Her socks and bras are fastened with buttons. Russian women are very big on their standards. They said of one charming girl who looked like the Brigitte Bardot, but my interpreter told me she had never worn a bra. It was far too thin. They thought I must be very poor and couldn't afford anything but the best for my weight up.

CHANGING ATTITUDE TO CHILD ARTISTS

An exhibition of children's paintings opened at the Memorial Hall, Nairobi, this week. Mrs DONALD DUNNE discusses the changing approach to children's art.

"AND how did you do this drawing?" the inspector asked.

"I think and then I put a line around my. I think the child replied.

In these few words he summed up his reasons for drawing a picture. It is sometimes difficult for the adult to appreciate what a child is getting at, and we are sometimes puzzled and perplexed by the marvellous details which are produced because our own visual world is so different from that of the child.

DREARY ESSAYS

During the last few decades the whole approach to child art has changed. It is now more clearly the agency of the traditional art lesson of 20 years ago, the endless line drawing of objects and objects. The dreary essays in light and shade and the endless perspectives of railway lines vanishing into infinity.

This was the academic approach which produced the dull academic work which was mistakenly regarded as good art education.

Fortunately for children, and for art to general a few imaginative people realised that the approach was leading us nowhere, and in fact, was doing more harm than good.

The aim of the art teacher, they said, was not to produce artists or craftsmen, but to develop the child's mind through art—in other words to teach the child to think and to see and to do things and to see and to recreate in his own way.

AIM OF LESSON

The art lesson should not aim to bring a child to the art room for two periods a week, but, in the words of Sir Herbert Read, "Not two periods a week but 67".

A child will draw from a very early age and express his ideas in line long before he is able to give the conventional shapes of letters and numbers, and this power of creative expression should be carefully nurtured and encouraged. Man is essentially a creative being, which marks him apart from the rest of the animal kingdom.

It is this creative power which we find very strong in the child, and it is this bad teaching and a conventional education system imposed by imaginative grown-ups which turns individuals into robotic workers without any capacity for enjoying the world around them, except by means of the artificial aids provided by the 20th century.

When we consider the art of a child we must remember that he is not painting (when he

Examples of child art in Kenya.

Self-expression more important than convention

It is doing it with any ulterior motive, or copying one's trick or invention of some other person. It is drawing for himself. His creation may appear odd or may attract us with its weirdity but, whatever it seems, it is perfectly normal and natural to the child. The child is his own audience and he creates for the mere joy of creating in the same way as we really store our work, of what he feels and thinks about his own little world. We must not look for the conventions of the art school when we look at the work of a child.

It existed for many thousands of years before the Renaissance and the discovery of form and perspective. These latter are conditions necessary for an individual's means of expression, but they are not imposed in themselves. So it is with the child. He lives in a world of his own, where models and materials are not important—a broomstick may appear to him to be a very real horse and a cardboard box an aeroplane. His art, therefore, must be in harmony with this imaginary world.

The three kittens build a snow cat and scare Granny

By ROHINA WRIGHT

The three kittens who lived with Granny Ming and Granny Ming thought that winter was a wonderful time. Snow-covered was thick, thick snow. Granny Ming, who did most of the work, said that it was very hard times for hunting—all that while world there was nowhere for a black granny cat to hide.

Granny Ming closed by the fire all day and shivered in a delicate way whenever a door was opened. But the three kittens rushed out into the snow and played like other cats, they tossed about at one another and skidded down long hills of snow.

One kitten said: "Let's have a snow cat, and the other two kittens cried: "Yes!"

The three kittens worked very hard, pulling up the snow and putting it with their paws until they had a tall, beautiful snow cat who looked a little like the black and white cat who was a pure flame.

One kitten found some pieces of dry stone for the snow cat's eyes and another brought pine needles and stuck them in for whiskers.

Have you got a headache? Is both your face, and especially your forehead, hot? Do you feel restless, unsteady, as good as ill, do you feel "down-beat" "tired" and weary after the heat but it does not stop you, does it stop you or make you sleep. Keep "Aspirin" for your next attack.

or this?

Is it for children, of course, you would advise them to take Aspirin. It is not, in fact, the doctor's "Aspirin" medicine which makes a child as miserable. The pain comes for children is given on every "Aspirin" dosage.

or this?

"Aspirin" helps you "breathe". When you're in pain, during an attack, it soothes the aching joints, eases the distress and makes you go on your feet. You need a couple of Aspirin tablets at the start of an attack to get rid of the pain before it gets worse.

New buildings for old in Nyeri area

By A. E. SIMON

Part and parcel of the operation of the Government is the reconstruction of the country. This is done by the building of new buildings for old in the Nyeri area. The new buildings are being built on the site of the old buildings which were destroyed by the eruption of the Mt. Kenya snow-capped mountain.

First task

The first task is to clear the site of the old buildings. This is done by the removal of the rubble and the debris of the old buildings. The site is then prepared for the building of the new buildings.

The second task is to build the new buildings. This is done by the construction of the foundations and the walls of the buildings. The new buildings are being built on the site of the old buildings.

The third task is to furnish the new buildings. This is done by the purchase of furniture and fittings for the buildings. The new buildings are being furnished with modern furniture and fittings.

The fourth task is to move the people into the new buildings. This is done by the relocation of the people from the old buildings to the new buildings. The people are being moved to the new buildings in a systematic and orderly manner.

The fifth task is to provide the people with the necessary services. This is done by the construction of roads and the provision of water and electricity. The people are being provided with the necessary services for their new homes.

The sixth task is to provide the people with the necessary education. This is done by the construction of schools and the provision of teachers and textbooks. The people are being provided with the necessary education for their new homes.

The seventh task is to provide the people with the necessary health services. This is done by the construction of hospitals and the provision of doctors and nurses. The people are being provided with the necessary health services for their new homes.

The eighth task is to provide the people with the necessary social services. This is done by the construction of clubs and the provision of recreation facilities. The people are being provided with the necessary social services for their new homes.

1959 CRICKET SEASON THE MOST PROMISING FOR YEARS

JAN PEELES sums up the English cricket season that has just ended, pays tribute to three players whose careers are coming to a close and suggests that the young Yorkshire side who won the county championship may go on to surpasses completely with the country's former glory.

It may perhaps the 1959 English cricket season was the most satisfactory for some years. There were many good features, even the general picture was one of promise rather than defeatism.

It started under the somewhat depressing shadow of an overwhelming defeat in Australia, where it was clearly apparent that English batmanship had suffered severely over a number of years through the wet and flood-ridden pitches at home.

The season could not go to the weather, but some credit goes to the active measures taken to see that a better quality of wicket would be general in all conditions. Weather, therefore, was some disadvantage as to the wisdom of covering pitches last year as to the extent and method of doing so than had opportunity to the extent of the.

In assessing the effect of the English players and Kribbus and Gale have come on quite a way towards this goal.

The general standard of batting was high, but much thought and work with the combination of the present and the future is reasonable to expect a good young crop in the next few years. All this, in spite of the fact that the English cricket has been criticised in a game which must be played on fast pitches. The player whose releases are unimpaired and established on fast pitches practice every one of them.

And while it is difficult to estimate the value of the true elements of his craft in England, it is equally difficult to estimate the value of his craft in England, it is equally difficult to estimate the value of his craft in England.

measure of success in the West Indies this winter. There they were to be seen in strength to that of Australia.

Admittedly the West Indians, bowlers at the moment in neither as varied as we remember. That Australia had that it had to be developed into a very fast left hander and it seems that in the West Indies bowlers are and develop more rapidly than elsewhere. One has had to remember the sudden and unexpected arrival of Karamchand and Valentine to be convinced of that.

And it is possible to envisage with Bowry's performance. It is to be seen that as a complete bowler had been considered that a change of chapters is in the general good. To all well get country better country. It is a splendid thing to see Yorkshire more more to the fore, an event which could be a great deal to further and England's present position.

Units exercised in realistic desert setting

THESE "Sandhairs" were more appropriate names for the 2nd Infantry Brigade, Eastern Districts, now known as the Northern Frontier District.

Designed to give the Brigade—described by the Commander, Brig. J. H. Miers as "a spearhead of British strategy" in this theatre—a realistic "practice" in vehicle warfare, the exercise has taken 2,500 men and 100 vehicles to the strid, dust-ravaged terrain about the Meret Plains.

The temperature which rose well above 100 degrees each day, one of the 100 Kenyan African Scouts, 1st Battalion, King's Regiment (Manchester and Liverpool) Bn. Lt. Col. The Gunamothers, together with other Brigade Group units, are engaged in repeating an "invasion" by enemy force represented by the 2nd A.S. Coy.

ATTACKED BY JETS

"Sandhairs" is providing down-to-earth realistic training with "practically no ammunition for the troops."

Swirling clouds of dust raised by vehicles and marching men rising over the "battle area" when an East African Standard of reporters (and an East African) set off to confirm what the G.O.C. had said, was well up to its eyes in it. They had said earlier that the British soldiers of 1949 are just as tough as the British soldiers of 1914.

When in receipt of orders to "advance" they were ordered to "advance" and "advance" they did so.

STRAGGLERS LEAVE FOR HOME TOMORROW

Nairobi said farewell yesterday to the Kiambu Stragglers C.C. who left for Mombasa by the evening train after their match at Nairobi Club against V.R. Birkmyr & Co. They will on the Kenya Coast tomorrow and will play a number of matches on their way down the coast to the Victoria Falls, where they will embark and go through to the Rhodesias by rail. "Does the four matches on the above tour really do most good sailing time, for the Kenya Coast is due to leave Mombasa tomorrow evening."

COMMENTARY
By G. H. ...
It is although passenger embarkations will be today, according to latest notices. However, they will probably be first to these features.

Fitting finale
OTHER matches are due to be played at Mombasa and Durban on Saturday, and the latter venue against V.R. Birkmyr & Co. The Kenya Stragglers will probably be first to these features.

Good start by Arusha athletes

It was, by the way, greatly delighted to hear recently that the first cricket team played in Nairobi on the new rectangular pitch at the city. The pitch was played between two European sides some time ago and it was very much to be expected that the new rectangular pitch would be a success. It was, however, very much to be expected that the new rectangular pitch would be a success. It was, however, very much to be expected that the new rectangular pitch would be a success.

Meeting arranged

Foot-and-mouth disease cuts Nyeri polo entries

ENTRIES for both senior and junior competitions of the Nyeri polo tournament were severely cut as a result of an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease near Kisumu. Only two teams and three for the Athina Cup. A joint Kikapsa-Kapsaloti team entered for the Cole Cup with a handicap of 18, and Nyeri had a seven-handicap side in the event.

An excellent match
The first match was an excellent one in which Nyeri, needing the big handicap of 18 goals, did the best of the second chukker.

After this, however, the Athina Cup all the better of the game, eventually winning by 7-5. Nyeri put up a good fight in a match played at a good pace, marking well.

Some fine hitting
In the first match North Kenya (handicap 18) beat Nyeri (handicap 7) by 10-5. Excellent play by Thurston in the last chukker evened the game over to Nyeri's favour. Nyeri gave Thurston a real beating on the second day. Thurston took 10 goals, Nyeri 5.

Promising players
In spite of the small entry several polo was seen and the tournament organisation was excellent. The number 2 ground at Nyeri is now almost ready for play. There are many young players to be both seen and heard in the future. Details of other matches such as the 25-hp. Lark (elephant) and the 10-hp. Pous-dity, may be had on application.

International Judges to see high quality of Kenya farming

LEADING steel breeders from Britain, Southern Rhodesia, Tanganyika, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand will be among the judges at the Kenya Royal Show to be held at Mitchell Park, Nairobi, on September 26, October 1, 2 and 3.

The judges are likely to have a difficult task: For months many of the Colony's best-known and most successful farmers have been assiduously preparing animals for the show. If past experience can be relied on, the judges may find it difficult to choose the best, particularly in the championship classes.

In all, there will be about 950 head of livestock compared with 674 last year. The trade section is also bigger than last year. Overall, while it, it will not be Kenya's biggest "Royal," given reasonable weather it is likely to be the best.

Farewell message from Sir Evelyn

The Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, has today issued his farewell message to Kenya. It is a message of appreciation and of encouragement for the future.

Fewer African entries

Entries in the classes for horses, cattle, sheep, poultry and pigs all show an increase on last year's figures. But those for farm and dairy animals are down by 10 per cent.

The Secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society of Kenya, Col. G. M. Allen, explained that this big drop was probably caused by the decision of the Department of Agriculture not to subsidise entries from African farmers. Actual entries will just show a figure in parentheses.

Classes 208 (1959), cattle 463 (419), sheep 122 (149), pig 160 (141), poultry 119 (122). There are two overseas exhibitors competing in the sheep classes and the Australian Corporation Exhibition is to exhibit 5000 in the pig and dairy produce section.

Military arena displays

Arrangements have been made by the organizers to make the arena displays more colorful and interesting than ever before. The displays will be held in the arena at Mitchell Park, Nairobi, on September 26, 27, 28 and 29.

The Kenya Regiment will put on a pistol and rifle display. The Kenya Police Band will give a musical performance. The Kenya Mounted Rifles will give a display of their mounted rifles.

Opener anxious to compare two countries

ALTHOUGH I have not been to Kenya, I feel that I am an stranger to it.

My first job is to open the Royal Show at Mitchell Park, Nairobi, on September 26. I am looking forward to meeting many of the exhibitors and to seeing many of the animals.

THE Royal Agricultural Society's Show of 1939 is a very special occasion for me personally since it is the first that I have attended since I found myself at the other end of the ladder, so to speak, available and attacked by those destructive critics of the shows who peeped up with precise regularity each year.

It will be interesting this year to see if it is the same people who also attack my literary agricultural policy. I today have been privileged to have a review of the show. It gives me great pleasure to congratulate my friends the officers of the Royal Agricultural Society of Kenya and all their many helpers, mostly voluntary, on the splendid condition of the showground, on the well-organized display of exhibits, both agricultural and domestic, and on the many incidents and events which have taken place.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS VIE IN LEAVING NOTHING TO CHANCE

By J. A. R. KING, Chairman, Royal Show Committee

It is the fact that this will be the seventh "Royal Show" and I have had with all seven of them—the untiring, hard work and self-sacrifice by all concerned in producing the show.

None is there any suggestion of the "it will be all right" attitude on the contrary, every volunteer seems to vie with the others in leaving nothing to chance. The attention paid to detail is such as to make it most interesting.

The volunteers are so numerous that it is not possible to name them all. However, a list of the names of the members of the Royal Show Committee is given in the Royal Show Circular. It is a list of names who never give up until the show is a complete success.

SALARY OF TALENT

POULTRY SECTION

Mr. Alton was largely responsible for the reconstruction of the poultry section last year. As a result of the 1938 show it was decided to reconstruct the poultry buildings for this year's "Royal".

Entries in the poultry section are as follows: 10 Rhode Island Reds, 10 Sussex, 10 Australorps, 10 White Leghorns, 10 Waterfowl and 4 Starlings.

Most exhibitors come from Nairobi but there are some exhibitors from Lamoni, Molo, Nakuru and Kericho.

The farm and dairy produce section is also well represented this year. The chairman of this subcommittee is Mr. J. F. Lapchick. A new butter room has been built for this year's show.

Details of the farm and dairy section are as follows: 50 Lushington cattle, 50 Friesian cows, 50 Jersey cows, 50 Guernsey cows, 50 Friesian calves, 50 Jersey calves, 50 Guernsey calves, 50 Friesian heifers, 50 Jersey heifers, 50 Guernsey heifers, 50 Friesian calves, 50 Jersey calves, 50 Guernsey calves, 50 Friesian heifers, 50 Jersey heifers, 50 Guernsey heifers.

BREEDERS IMPROVE STOCK BY IMPORTS

THE reason why breeders in Kenya import pedigree livestock is solely for the improvement of stock already there and to obtain the products of those animals equal to any in the world.

All major countries have had to import to maintain and improve their standard and it is impossible to obtain such stock locally. It has been proved the right type of stock, whether it be sheep, cattle, goats, can produce the products of those animals equal to any in the world.

EXPORTS VITAL

The stocks "A" made need in his neighbour's market and satisfactory to those as the future depends largely on the export of livestock and other products (such as skins, wool, etc.) to the foreign countries. It is vital to produce the quantity or quality available in Kenya.

It is with this in mind that the breeder produces a stock of animals equal to any in the world. Another reason why the breeder imports is that he can get the best of the world's stock and improve his stock by crossing it with the best of the world's stock.

"SHEEP IN NEWS"

The year has seen a greater number of livestock importations into the Colony than ever before, both qualitatively and quantitatively. It is clear that this shows the great importance both farmers and business houses attach to animal husbandry in the further economy of Kenya.

Many have taken the bait with the largest herds of sheep ever seen in Kenya. Some have been from the Kenya Farmers Association, some from the Kenya Sheep and Goat Breeders' Association, some from the Kenya Farmers' Association, some from the Kenya Sheep and Goat Breeders' Association, some from the Kenya Farmers' Association, some from the Kenya Sheep and Goat Breeders' Association.

TWO FOLD REASONS

The reasons behind these importations are (1) the availability of a wide part of the European stock, and (2) the fact that the type of husbandry existing in the Colony is not the type of husbandry existing in the European countries.

New Zealand sheep have their home on the plateau at Christchurch for shipment to Kenya.

Encouragement given to small flock owner

As an aid to those who have only a few sheep, the Kenya Farmers' Association has decided to set up a small flock owner's club. This club will be open to all those who own less than 100 sheep and will be a place where they can get advice and help from experienced breeders.

The club will be a place where small flock owners can get advice and help from experienced breeders. It will be a place where they can get advice and help from experienced breeders. It will be a place where they can get advice and help from experienced breeders.

ers in both Dairy and Cattle in the Kenya Farmers' Association. In Kenya a very small number of breeders are encouraging imports of the best stock available to raise the very best animals.

One can say very little with regard to the import of stock into the industry in Kenya. It is a very small number of breeders who are importing stock and it is a very small number of breeders who are importing stock.

LARGER PIG

The industry was engaged with the subject of training with the large value of the pig which has been produced in Kenya and undertaken to import the best of the world's stock to improve the quality of the pig.

The most recent importation of the best of the world's stock into the industry in Kenya has come from the area of Kenya (British and French) which has been the best of the world's stock to improve the quality of the pig.

THE KENYA PIONEERS' EFFORTS REFLECTED IN GRAND MARCH IN ARENA

PIONEERS' EFFORTS REFLECTED IN PARADE OF CATTLE

GRAND MARCH IN ARENA

By R. A. HAMMOND

It is becoming a tradition that the breed favoured by the President of the Society should head the Grand Parade of Cattle at Kenya's Show, so this year it will be the Charolais, with Redpoll cattle as prominent as ever which will be the first to appear in the Arena on Friday and Saturday afternoon.

When they come in, followed by almost every breed of these early farmers who made it possible to present such a spectacle in a tropical country.

These days with the stock one will find at the Kenya Royal one cannot but be impressed by the fine condition of a few hundred—perhaps a few hundred—polished animals imported fifty years ago from Britain and South Africa. These blood new runs have the vigour of a young bull and a calmness that is a mark of a superior animal. Some of the most progressive cattle raisers in every part of the Colony are now being introduced.

IMPROVED YIELDS

The African Milk Breeding Scheme, which is inaugurated in the S.A.K.K. has made it possible to reap the improvement in average yields which has taken place during recent years. The figures for 1934 have recently been published and these serve to illustrate the continued interest in African, which for many years have had both the highest number of cattle registered in the I.C.A. and the highest number of cows and calves returned in the official milk recording scheme.

Figures show evidence of a steady increase in popularity and the 1934 record average shows them at the top of the list for butterfat yields in both the pedigree and the non-pedigree cow groups.

Fieldwork as of course, way out in front of the other breeds when milk yields are compared, but their husbandry is no means as low as many people might imagine, as it bears out by their average over 1,200 milk cows, of 24½ lb. fat.

As the cattle parade in the arena this, let us say briefly, these days, one can see that these early farmers—some thought them British—who have made it possible to present such a spectacle in a tropical country.

Stern critics round the judging rings

Just about every and everywhere at least their bull and it was nothing unusual for an imported bull to have died before his first calves were born.

BORAN ENTRIES

Just when if you can, and being from your own (the Boran) 20, 25 and 30, these animals are being introduced by the Government and the private sector. The Boran entries become stronger every year and it is becoming known that cattle from such well-known herds as British, Belgian, Dutch, and French, will be competing with the Boran in the Kenya Cup.

last year's Kenya Butterfat champion, will be made under the number 156, in company with A.J. Bennett's Marlowe, Marlowe, No. 424, who won the Marlowe Cup two years ago.

Delaware's Susan No. 30, Dewey's Duke of the Pedigree, and the Marlowe Cup for the Jersey's last year and being the child of a bull, having had ten calves and having produced over 20,000 lb. of milk at 4 1/2 per cent fat he has not completed his career.

There are, of course, those who prefer to see what their own stock looks like before it reaches the show and those will be anxious to watch the Boran entries in the Kenya Cup.

There are, of course, those who prefer to see what their own stock looks like before it reaches the show and those will be anxious to watch the Boran entries in the Kenya Cup.

Farm and dairy produce popular with women

By J. F. LIPSCOMB, Chairman, Exhibitions Section

THE farm and dairy produce exhibits, together with the home industries, which are always so popular with the feminine half of the farming community, comprise the "Exhibitors' Section of the Show. They are housed partly in the "Dome", partly in a new building, and partly in the coffee section—in the Coffee Board's own building.

This year the coffee classes have been reduced to two and 25 lb. sample, coffee in parchment, and 25 lb. sample, coffee cured and cleaned to standard.

The entries are good considering the amount that has been shown in the past. The entries are good considering the amount that has been shown in the past.

Although the total number of exhibits in the general farm produce classes is slightly down on recent years, this is due to a re-arrangement of classes which have been designed to avoid overlap of exhibits by the exhibitors. Most of the classes are well covered by both African and European exhibitors, particularly by African co-operative and association.

KEEN CONTEST

The new disappointing entry is that the Farmers' Exhibitors. Last year's very excellent exhibit were absent out of the exhibit, but this year only two farmers have entered in this class for which the A.S.K. Horticultural Challenge Cup is now awarded.

However, the District Agricultural competition, which has been in operation for some time, has been very successful. It has been held in the past and has been very successful. It has been held in the past and has been very successful.

Take a hundred and fifty million gallons of brine ...

The vast salt ponds at Magadi

Basically, solar salt-making is simple enough—you take some brine, allow the sun to evaporate the water and there's your salt. But when you're making 20,000 tons of salt a year to a high degree of purity, as the Magadi Soda Company does, then it's not quite so simple. Their recipe for salt-making begins: Take 150 million gallons of brine... That's the amount that is pumped from Lake

Magadi in a year and it is evaporated in ponds covering eight million square feet—an area the size of 90 football pitches. After evaporation the salt is ready to be gathered, and following a thorough washing process which removes impurities it is centrifuged and air-dried. The coarse salt, in this way, having a purity of 99.5%, is widely used in households, on farms and in such traditional activities as curing fish, hides and skins.

AFRICAN AGRICULTURE FALLS INTO TWO EQUAL DIVISIONS

GOOD RESULTS FROM PROJECT

By H. A. M. SWYNNERTON, Director of Agriculture.

AFRICAN agriculture falls naturally into two main divisions according to the climate of Kenya. Separating the Coastal strip and the African Highlands and running into the Rift Valley Province is a broad fertile savanna country equivalent to three-fifths of the total area of the Colony, having an uncertain rainfall running down from 20 inches to four inches a year. This belt is suited primarily to pasture, pastoralism, the raising of cattle, the flocks of sheep and pigs, and, on the North, the cereals. Here, the problem of water point to water is not so acute. Drove adequate drainage...

Kisumu village (top), showing the 'real farming and land cultivation which has taken place in the area. Above it follows a native at Weta irrigation scheme who volunteered to do a show after his release contains his four acres of land planted with cotton. Making his 100 men and under production.

TRAINING CENTRES DESIRED

Other useful advice could be given by private land development projects by meeting the Native Lands Department. The officials have provided the means for showing training centres and the nature in the future.

For land conservation, or the prevention of erosion, in mountainous areas, the National Valley Protection is a good example of the Native Lands Department's work in this regard. In other parts of the country, a number of erosion control projects have been completed.

FOUNDATION Laid

In Central Province, for example, where the first step was the permanent establishment of the National Valley Protection, the Government is now proceeding to establish the National Valley Protection in the Western Highlands.

STABLE TEMPERATURE

In the establishment of a permanent temperature in the African continent, the National Valley Protection is a good example of the Government's work in this regard.

ABILITY TO DOMQUER

Despite the obstacles of African agriculture, the Government is determined to improve the standard of living in the African continent.

FINE POTENTIAL

Properly managed, the land has a good potential for the production of beef, Arable crops, and a certain carrying capacity can be increased by a system of grazing.

DOES NOT APPLY

Understandably, the terms which the people in the lowlands and highlands of the African continent are able to manage in their own hands.

In the establishment of a permanent temperature in the African continent, the National Valley Protection is a good example of the Government's work in this regard.

Consolidation completed in Kiambu District

Under the terms of the Land Ordinance, the Government has completed the consolidation of the Kiambu District. This process involves the re-arrangement of land parcels to form larger, more uniform units.

The consolidation of land is a necessary step in the development of the African continent. It allows for more efficient use of land and the establishment of a permanent agricultural base.

Children rehearse for events in the arena

An atmosphere of peace pervades the beautifully prepared showground at Mitchell Park before the opening. But soon it will be swarming with activity and thousands of Kenyans will flock to it to see the events over.

Inquiries had, in fact, already been disturbed by the enthusiastic drumming of a band of Nairobi boys (extreme right) rehearsing for their display. Other children have been practising for a "traffic game" organised by a local company.

EGERTON COLLEGE TRAINING FARMERS OF TOMORROW

LEARNING AMID THE BEAUTY

By R. McD. GRAHAM, Principal of the College

THERE has been an institution for agricultural education at Ngara since 1940 following the late Lord Egerton of Talbot's request, the seeds of which had its inception in 1908. It was not, however, until 1943, just ten years ago, that a start was made towards full college status when a two-year Diploma Course was introduced. The following few years were a period of trial and struggle with inadequate facilities and resources for this management committee and staff in due to the location of the Agricultural College as it is today.

In 1955 under an Ordinance in Legislative Council, the Egerton Agricultural College was established as a self-governing body with financial provisions. Since then, the college has made considerable progress and it is hoped that the results of the survey will be of benefit to the agricultural field.

It is a criticism of many such institutions that their research work is not fully coordinated with the research bodies, which must inevitably lead to duplication of effort and lack of application of the findings to the agricultural field.

SURVEY MADE

This job is being carefully watched of Egerton and this aspect of the work is being carried out in co-operation with other organizations, such as the Department of Agriculture and the East African Agricultural and Forestry Research Organization.

Also in this category is the economic survey which is being conducted from the point of view of the management of the profitability of the farm. This is at present time the survey of the college from the point of view of the profitability of the college. It is also a survey of the profitability and management factors involved in different enterprises on individual farms and the material gained can also be used by farmers and the Government in determining price and policy changes.

With this in mind, the two further Agricultural Extension Committees have been formed, one from the Colonial Department and the other from the Ministry of Agriculture. These committees can be extended to further European farming districts and an African farming area.

Speaking at the College Christmas Dinner on the 7th, the Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, said: "The institution is the foundation of the prosperity of Kenya; the linchpin of the future farmers and the agricultural industry; the foundation of farming."

IMPORTANT ROLE

Kenya has few heavy industries and therefore its dependent resources lie in agriculture. This means severely limited resources which, this college can play to the advantage of the Colony. Yet it is being suggested that the diploma held at Egerton was of too high a standard and that the standard of the two-year Diploma Course in particular should be lowered. The course should be such that it would be bound to lead to a high standard of education in agriculture and to a high standard of entry standard.

Over the last few years the standard of both the Diploma and the one-year Certificate Course has been steadily built up and it is felt that the diploma held at Egerton was of too high a standard and that the standard of the two-year Diploma Course in particular should be lowered. The course should be such that it would be bound to lead to a high standard of education in agriculture and to a high standard of entry standard.

Pineapples prosperous products

By E. Pillew-Narvey, General Manager of a Kenya pineapple firm

FOR hundreds of years pineapples have been a greatly prized fruit because of their exotic appearance, and excellent flavor. But it was not until the end of the last century that people thought of eating pineapples.

The Americans were the first people to grow them on an industrial scale and they built up the great canning factories on the Hawaiian Islands.

ON GREAT TREK

Pineapples were introduced into Kenya by the Kenya Pineapple Company in these great trek from the East African coast to the interior. It was the soil of the former British East Africa Company that started in Kenya in 1910. The first crop was harvested in 1912 and the first export to the United Kingdom in 1913. The first year of production was 1,000 tons of pineapples. This quantity increased to 2,000 tons in 1914 and to 10,000 tons in 1915. The first export to the United Kingdom was 1,000 tons. The first export to the United Kingdom was 1,000 tons. The first export to the United Kingdom was 1,000 tons.

NEW PROSPECTS

Agribusinesses both in production and in processing have been encouraged by Kenya who have given their own opinion that the pineapple is a profitable crop. The pineapple is a profitable crop. The pineapple is a profitable crop. The pineapple is a profitable crop.

HEALTHY RIVALRY IN PIG CLASSES

By CHARLES S. MOORE
Chairman, Royal Show Pig Sub-Committee

ALTHOUGH 1954 was taken to be the year of the "pig" industry, it was not until the Royal Show Pig Competition was held on subsequent days that the "pig" industry was given the opportunity to show its strength and vitality. The more than 100 exhibitors who took part in the competition, and the large number of visitors who came to see the exhibits, were a clear indication of the healthy rivalry in the pig industry which has been established in Kenya.

In the pig ring at the 1957 Royal Show.

VARYING AIMS

There are large white and other pig breeders who are producing pure-bred stock for the purpose of selling to other pig breeders. Some are producing stock for the purpose of selling to the general public. Some are producing stock for the purpose of selling to the Government for the purpose of supplying the army and navy.

It is of great interest to the exhibitors of the pig ring at the Royal Show, and it is of interest to the exhibitors of the pig ring at the Royal Show, that the exhibitors of the pig ring at the Royal Show are producing pure-bred stock for the purpose of selling to other pig breeders. Some are producing stock for the purpose of selling to the general public. Some are producing stock for the purpose of selling to the Government for the purpose of supplying the army and navy.

Benefit of the forest cover which was formerly completely covered by forest. Unimproved cultivation, burning and grazing resulted in the stream being denuded and severe soil erosion taking place. The eroded and abandoned stream have been handed back to the Forestry Department and are being afforested with the aid of "Grass" terraces, the troughs of which retain rain water and on the slopes of which tree seedlings are planted.

FOREST COVER BEST-KNOWN METHOD OF PRESERVING WATER

THE development, prosperity and even the existence of Kenya would be impossible without supplies of water. It is true that water comes from clouds but the intensity of the rainfall here is such that without some check on its movements after it has fallen, floods, erosion and degradation are the inevitable results. The best-known method of checking such movement and ensuring penetration into the soil is a forest cover. Water in the soil moves slowly and will have a long-term effect of forest development, which will not change from time to time owing to extraneous factors unconnected with the aim of this policy.

With these and other considerations in view the Government presented a White Paper on Forest Policy and presented it to the Legislative Council in 1952, where it was debated and approved and is now the guide for present and future policy.

MR. D. L. BLUNT

By the Minister for Forest Development, Game and Fisheries, Mr. Blunt.

Forest policy must therefore be primarily directed at preserving a forest cover in the country in order to secure the water supply. All the same, the Government has realized the need to take steps to improve the water supply in the country, and it is now the guide for present and future policy.

The second major line of policy must then clearly be the planting of adequate supplies of timber for the use of future generations and it is desirable that we should produce additional supplies for export to other parts of the world. Over the years we can produce timber and other products of the forest in a competitive market.

Timber is a long-term crop and even the most rapid growing exotic takes some 10 to 15 years to reach full maturity, while some indigenous species may take 20 to 25 years. It is, therefore, clearly essential that we should have a long-term policy of forest development, which will not change from time to time owing to extraneous factors unconnected with the aim of this policy.

It is of great interest to the exhibitors of the pig ring at the Royal Show, and it is of interest to the exhibitors of the pig ring at the Royal Show, that the exhibitors of the pig ring at the Royal Show are producing pure-bred stock for the purpose of selling to other pig breeders. 146 Stands in Trade Section

FIRMS MAKE INCREASED INVESTMENT

By COLIN CAMPBELL

THIS article deals mainly with the trade section generally, together with its growth and wide appeal. I cannot do better than give a few details of how the expansion of the trade area has taken place at Mitchell Park since the first agricultural show was staged there in 1907.

There were then 92 trade exhibitors housed mainly in temporary buildings set in what was virtually virgin Africa. This trade area has expanded to 146 stands, the majority of them of permanent structure, architecturally designed and set in carefully landscaped and colourful gardens.

From rough cart tracks which grew into roads, there have now been laid out wide, well-kept, and well-drained tarred roads. The making of these roads would not have been possible without the generosity of the exhibitors who, as a business society, stands with monetary contributions, have brought to the trade area of each stand and the neighbouring territories.

Attracting exhibitors from outside Kenya used to be encouraged in order to introduce craft, a new type of machinery which should create employment for the same time, assist us in our marketing process.

The trade given prominence in the exhibition, has also in the neighbouring territories made it possible to set up a valuable sales agency on behalf of Kenya.

I should like to see, in the not distant future, the area removed from the I.A.S.K. and the development in the exhibition of Kenya given a status by the Government of Kenya.

UNRIVALLED SITE Having seen many agricultural shows in other countries, I do not hesitate to say that none has been able to compete with the site at Mitchell Park. The site is a beautiful, well-planned buildings and grounds, which have been built on a hillside. The site is a beautiful, well-planned buildings and grounds, which have been built on a hillside.

CONFIDENCE SHOWN Apart from the small stands which are provided by the Government, the exhibitors have been able to show a confidence in the Government of Kenya which is a credit to the exhibitors. PYRETHRUM INDUSTRY ASSISTED BY TECHNICAL CENTRE

THE Pyrethrum stand at the Royal Show this year features the work of Apitic—the African Pyrethrum Technical Information Centre, writes Jeanne Townsend. Apitic was born at the beginning of 1957 to disseminate technical information on pyrethrum production on behalf of growers in East Africa and the Belgian Congo. The Apitic centre is based on the laboratories at the Pyrethrum Board of Kenya, Nairobi. The board's work has been a greater volume of work than ever before, and it has been successful in its work.

MR. R. H. McLELLAN, Director of the African Pyrethrum Technical Information Centre, is the son of Mr. W. F. B. McLELLAN, of Thomson's Falls, who has been concerned with the pyrethrum industry in Kenya since it was formed and was a considerable time.

representatives have made 180 visits to insecticide manufacturers in Europe and Africa and the visits have been very successful. The programme for the present year is to carry the work of the representatives into the field of pyrethrum formation and to bring home to the growers the latest developments in the industry.

VITAL INFORMATION The technical service representatives provide the vital link between the growers and the laboratories on the one hand and the manufacturers and formulators on the other. The technical service representatives provide the vital link between the growers and the laboratories on the one hand and the manufacturers and formulators on the other.

NEW PLANT Dr. Purting found the Pyrethrum Board in 1953 to develop the preliminary operations of the new extraction plant at Kilbury and was the first to be under control Dr. Purting, because the plant is under the control of Dr. Purting.

Mammoth catering task for members of Women's League

By MRS. Z. FOTHERINGHAM

THE Royal Agricultural Show held in Mitchell Park each year has a country-wide appeal to the members of the East Africa Women's League—whether it be in the Home Industries Section or helping with the mammoth task of supplying refreshments to thousands of visitors, exhibitors and stockmen during the week. The League has been entirely responsible for the catering.

This includes the Public Restaurant, Members' Restaurant, President's Tent, H.A.S.K. Council Room, Club Stand. This year yet another project is being taken over by the League, this is the running of the Creamery.

The maining hand of members in the catering committee has been Mrs. Z. Fotheringham. She has a long experience in the catering industry and has been in charge of the catering for the Royal Show for many years.

MRS. Z. FOTHERINGHAM

It is her, who surrounded by all the work there is a feeling of peace, an enjoyment of work, and a feeling of accomplishment.

Each year the exhibitors appear to be the most busy people in the show. To many visitors it is almost unbelievable that such beautiful and plentiful work can be done in so quickly in the time available.

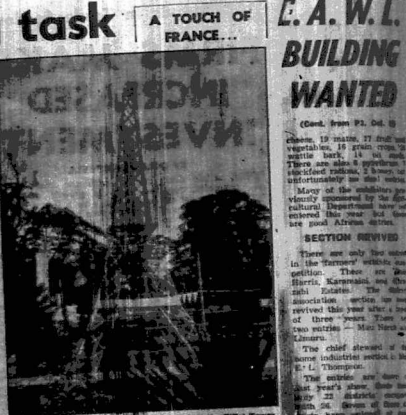

The perfection of an excellent and complete catering service, a task which is undertaken with such a feeling of pride and satisfaction in the mind and appears to be the work of professional caterers.

It is far more than just a local district-dependent task. It is far more than just a task to be done in a few days. It is a task which has to be done in a few days but which has to be done in a way which will be a magnificent portrayal of the history of Kenya.

This is a home to house aged women and it is a home to house young women and it is a home to house all those who are interested in the history of Kenya.

There is a great competition each year between the members for the four main cup awards which are given to the exhibitor who has the best exhibit in each class.

A new venture last year was the Junior Exhibition and it is, perhaps, surprising to note that a country which has a climate conducive to outdoor activities all the year round, many of our young are extremely domesticated.

MODEST CORNER FOR SERVICES TO EAST AFRICA

By JOHN BATTEN

WAVERING through Mitchell Park your attention may be attracted not far from the main arena by a blue and white pavilion set in a wide, clearing lawn, whose natural forest trees frame a small fountain and a simple, low wall.

This is the modest corner where the East Africa High Commission's research, scientific, economic and other services are on show, and whose name of the survey of this non-territorial organisation ministers to the 25,000,000 peoples of East Africa.

These facilities lack the slick, professional touch of the commercial exhibitors in a wide, clearing lawn, and on walls public service and every cent has to go to a lot of work to have some names, figures and worthwhile facts to be seen.

The High Commission's area contains one of the subjects of the survey, the Post and Telecommunications Administration, and one of those that are not in the service of the public, but which are essential to the service of the public. The Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika Ministries, by the High Commission, are on show.

Post and Telecommunications here have the widest range of services to be seen. At the very least, they have provided an interesting display of the progress in the area of telecommunication without which there could be no telephone service.

The main theme of the exhibit will be the "One Office and one service" demonstration, which the Administration is concentrating on high quality in the many services which it provides.

MAIN PAVILION
The main pavilion will have a display of telephone equipment and working models of the services provided by the telephone network and local service centres. A photograph will form the basis of a separate exhibit where visitors can operate telephones. The value of the private wire service will be demonstrated in this section. A new feature will be a telephone booth in which members of the public will be able to discuss and send their own correspondence and see for themselves how the post office functions.

Postal services of interest to Kenya will be given special publicity in the "Postmaster's Office". Visitors will see for themselves how telegrams are sent, and how the service is provided in the field of emergency messages.

CAREER ADVICE
An exhibit will be available to give advice on careers in the Administration. The staff of the Administration will be available to answer questions and to discuss the various opportunities available. ## INSPECTION OF KENYA EXPORTS

Horticulturist makes green oasis of exhibit

Visitors in their fight against disease of crops and animals are two other workers on show this year, the East African Meteorological Department and the Desert Locust Survey, the one keeping the farmer informed about the weather and doing research to try to conserve water, the other fighting a battle for East Africa far beyond its borders to ensure the lower insect does not fly in and devastate crops.

Society president noted for quality of Guernseys

By ALASTAIR BATHSON

A FARMER with a half in two counties and a half in one is indeed a rarity. Mr. J. J. Serr, who is this year's President of the Royal Agricultural Society of Kenya, has a 1,200-acre farm in the Soke Valley north of Nakuru, where he combines dairy-farming with coffee growing, while in England he has a 1,000-acre farm near his childhood home at Chatteris, Surrey. In both countries he is a noted authority on Guernsey cattle.

This year's farmers who make up the body for his own extensive farming activities but also in order to a small degree in the agricultural world as a Governor of the Royal Agricultural Society in England had a Life Governor of the Kenya counterpart, the Royal Agricultural Society of Kenya.

Mr. Serr, who was born in England and who has spent the last 15 years of his life in Kenya, has a wide knowledge of the Guernsey breed of cattle. He is a member of the Guernsey Cattle Society and the Royal Agricultural Society of Kenya. He is also a member of the Guernsey Cattle Society in England.

Mr. Serr's Guernsey cattle are of the highest quality and are well known throughout the world. He has a herd of about 100 Guernsey cows and a number of Guernsey bulls. He is also a member of the Guernsey Cattle Society in England and the Royal Agricultural Society of Kenya.

Drought threat to Serengeti game

WARDEN REPORTS GRIM FIGHT FOR SURVIVAL

Standard Correspondent Anusha
Drought in the Serengeti is necessitating a grim fight for survival by the animals in the park, the warden has told the National Parks Office in Arusha. The shortage of water means that game has been driven to areas where there are still meagre supplies. This makes it necessary for the warden and his staff to dig a great many shallow pits and to dig up many more of the old ones. The warden says that the animals are now suffering from thirst and that the situation is becoming more and more serious.

Arms cache was beyond Colony's border

The United Kingdom's Ministry of Defence has announced that it has received information that a cache of arms and ammunition was found in the Northern Province of Tanganyika.

The cache was found in the Northern Province of Tanganyika and is believed to have been hidden by a group of rebels.

MINISTER CRITICISES TRADE THREATS

Nairobi Correspondent.—The Minister of Trade has criticized the threats made by the United Kingdom to restrict trade with Tanganyika.

The Minister stated that the threats were unjustified and that Tanganyika was prepared to meet any reasonable trade requirements.

He also mentioned that the Government was taking steps to diversify its economy and reduce its dependence on a few commodities.

The Minister also mentioned that the Government was taking steps to improve its infrastructure and attract foreign investment.

He concluded by saying that the Government was confident of the future of Tanganyika and was prepared to meet any reasonable trade requirements.

WEEK-END STANDARD UNIFIED BROADCASTING SYSTEM TO EMBRACE ALL COMMUNITIES

FRIDAY CLAY writes on key members of the staff of the Kenya Broadcasting Service which starts operations on Thursday.

Mr. Gordon Phillips, chief broadcasting engineer, Kenya Broadcasting Service, with Mr. R. A. Davey, (left), superintendent engineer, transmitter and Mr. G. A. Grippo, superintendent engineer, studio.

WHEN Cable and Wireless took over from the British East Africa Broadcasting Company in 1931 and opened up the broadcasting service as we know it today, there was very considerable difficulty in dogged the aerial footposts of broadcasting in Africa with disastrous results. Next week JOHN BATTEN will describe the operation in an illustrated feature.

There are to be technical services, European, Asian and African, and it is the intention to try to "mix" them at certain times and with programmes of interest to all. who about that time come in from their milking and other activities and may reasonably expect to turn on their radios and hear a programme. Full details of the additional hours of broadcasting and additional staff has been engaged so that the scope of the programme service may be extended to the evening.

Up-country listeners may also expect much improved reception in fact, to give a better coverage to the more outlying parts of Kenya has been one of the principal aims of the new service. Mr. Jubb told me that he has been most fortunate in getting together a really keen and enthusiastic team of producers and announcers. But for at least a year he anticipates that there will be many organizational and other problems, due to the fact that some are all under one roof but others are in offices over Nairobi.

On the commercial side of broadcasting it should be remembered that it has been established by Government in Kenya that it shall be a public service to include an element of commercial broadcasting, which to start with, will be limited. There will be a certain number of sponsored programmes as well as "spot" advertising, and the production houses which are being established in Nairobi will provide much of the commercial material.

The fight against locusts

A TEAM of air and ground experts recently fought and won a battle against a huge desert locust invasion which, if not destroyed, might have invaded East Africa with disastrous results. Next week JOHN BATTEN will describe the operation in an illustrated feature.

Kosset carpets

take the floor at the
New Stanley Hotel
Nairobi

The manufacturers of Kosset carpets offer their warm wishes for the success of this magnificent enterprise. Incorporated in Kenya for the New Stanley Hotel, its management have chosen the best-known and most favoured of modern carpets. Kosset carpets are made in Yorkshire, England. The quality of hills and dale, clear water, the woods and textures of Kosset carpets are none of their beautiful colours, their soft and supple tread, extra long wear, ease of planning, and complete freedom from attack by moths. May the charm and luxury they add to the New Stanley Hotel make a real contribution to its success.

WELL-KNOWN VOICES TO BE HEARD

In the hands of Mr. John Anthony, secretary, transmitter of Springvale, South Africa.

In a fully equipped training studio the trainees will run through a week of training through which the African Broadcasting Service still has its studio. This is to ensure that commercial staff off with 75 station operators.

Mr. Anthony, who was previously in charge of the service broadcasting before he joined Springvale.

was arranged in accordance with the plan of the B.B.C. On the programme side, said the director in the B.B.C. headquarters, London. Mr. Anthony, head of programme, said they would make it a point to broadcast in the Kapsa points of the B.B.C. to be heard by his listeners in the Kapsa and other parts.

Mr. Owen was accompanied by Mrs. Owen (Dorothy Owen) and Mr. Owen (John Owen), who was in the B.B.C. in the Kapsa and other parts.

His first contact with radio was in 1931 when, as a member of the B.B.C. in the Kapsa and other parts.

Since after the war he joined the newly formed East African Broadcasting Service, which he left last November to join Kenya Broadcasting.

Finance duties.

In 1952 Mr. Owen was appointed head of the African Broadcasting Service, which he left last November to join Kenya Broadcasting.

He has undertaken special duties in the B.B.C. since 1951 through his work as the head of the African Broadcasting Service, which he left last November to join Kenya Broadcasting.

The Controller, Administration, Mr. Arthur Owen, who for a few months this year was a special secretary of the Cabinet Office. His present position is in the Ministry of Agriculture, and Safety Services.

His duties with the B.B.C. since 1951 have been mainly in the field of the African Broadcasting Service, which he left last November to join Kenya Broadcasting.

With Circles.

I think I should mention next two very special broadcasters who will continue to be heard through the new service. They are Mr. Wally Barnes, formerly of Kenya Broadcasting, and Mr. Alan Robb, formerly of Kenya Broadcasting.

He is to act out of a new broadcasting station in Nicosia. During her time with Forces Broadcasting in Nairobi she has been known to a wide circle of listeners for her clarity of voice in presenting programmes and for her efficiency in matters of organisation. Although her job with K.B.S. will be mainly concerned with the radio, she will not be bound on the air from two to three.

Mr. Alan Robb had been broadcasting since 1948, but he has been in music and singing for a long time. He was born in London. His father, John Robb, was a violinist and conductor. Mr. Robb is now in the Ministry of Education.

An exciting trip to Pacific isle for the Baron

By MAX TRELL.

KNAKE and Handi, the Shadowes and the Shadowes, brought their good friend Baron March, to tell them a story of a great adventure. "I'm afraid my dear Baron," he said, "as he lit his pipe, "that you don't believe my story. However, I shall try to tell you one that you will believe."

"I'm afraid that I won't believe your story," Baron March said, "but I shall try to tell you one that you will believe."

POLEY GOES ON A 'CROC' SAFARI

By ROBINA WRIGHT

POLEY and Spotty Dog were on a weekend safari with the family. They drove a very long way until they came to a big lake, and there they stopped for the night.

Big thorn trees shaded the camp and some leaves out over the water. "What a wonderful place!" cried the children. "Yes, we do," said their father. "I shall think it best to go on a 'Croc' Safari."

O'CASEY WITH IRISH EYES UNSMILING

By HAROLD HOBSON

REALLY, if the Irish get up a protest to the United Nations against the Edinburgh Festival, I shall support them. Last year in The Boatyard it was the Irish Protestants who caught it hot. This time, in Sean O'Casey's Cock-and-Donkey (Royal Court Theatre), it is the Catholics' turn to be roasted.

For two seasons running we have had Ireland held up as a society fit only to be deserted, not a place where happiness is to be found and the cold hell of religious schisms every week.

TERRIBLE VISION

If there is shame here, there is also glory. If Ireland is shown as ridiculous, at least it is proved that Dublin can still play. If the Irish peasant is presented as the man who was short on the day that brains were given out, Mr. O'Casey presents him with an elaborate library of illiterate poetry that makes the speech of wise people seem flat and meaningless. Where the left hand turns bluish, the right covers with purple and the head with blue. But whether the comedians

PIER ANGELO, in a busy Dublin hat, arrives in London from New York to play Richard Attanasio's role in "The Meeting Game".

HOPELESS DESPAIR

Mr. O'Casey chafes dislike that which he will do. He has said that he would have liked to have written the play a year or so before he came to Ireland. He has said that he would have liked to have written the play a year or so before he came to Ireland.

DRESSING UP A LITTLE

BLACK FROCK

By MURIEL JEWETT
COSMETIC jewellery becomes more important than ever in the fashion scene as the "little black dress," which can be dressed up or down according to the occasion, becomes the most popular. The addition of a woman's costume can do much for the wear, and the most important accessories are the necklace and bracelet.

Some of the most attractive of the present crystal jewellery is the "little black dress" collection of Jewellart.

LIGHT REFRACTION

Their crystal beads are set in a special process to deflect light so that they actually refract light in a way that makes them appear to glow. This is done by using a special light which is directed at the beads so that they appear to glow. They are made in a variety of colors and sizes, and are used in a variety of ways.

White collar's dress in black and white check setting has a matching belt, both are decorated with jet bead embroidery.

Opalescent lustre or white enamel

diament. Necklaces can be composed of white and opalescent beads.

A variety of colored and opalescent stones is used, too, for a group of large brooches in ornate shades.

These brooches, round, triangular, rectangular, or rhombic, are just made for adding to a dramatic look to black, grey, or white.

By leaves in what looks like another pearl but is actually a new plastic material offer another new means of adding lustre to the little black dress.

These small necklaces, with matching brooches, earrings and bracelets, and made up in two shades of blue, two shades of turquoise, pink, white and white and coral cream.

MORE USEFUL

Both these and the opalescent type can also be used in multi-colour ensembles which are probably the most popular of all. Perhaps they go with anything.

Especially designed for wear with jetted collars is a range of necklaces. "It is a very

Inherited fashion flair

By ELPHETH ELY
PARIS of 50 years ago. Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough, Sir Winston Churchill's famous ancestor, wrote to the British Ambassador at Paris, asking him to obtain for her "two pairs more of beads (bodkins) of a light-grown" and a memento and petition for her grandchild.

Even earlier there is a reference in relation to the "cotton-wool" by the wife of Samuel Pepys, the diarist. Mrs. Pepys had purchased "a French pair called a hair."

DRAW ATTENTION

Paris has had a dominant influence on fashion for a very long time. Since the late 18th century, when the Duchess of Marlborough was in vogue, Paris has been the centre of the world's fashion culture and is accepted as such throughout the world.

French designers have developed the making of fur, creating unique fashions that have always provided fresh and original ideas. They are always "in" and they are always "in" on the scene.

Their initial impact on some of their own people was so great that they were called "the French" and "the French" by their own people. They were called "the French" and "the French" by their own people.

Bovril

tastes delicious

— does food a power of good too

It's easy to see. Cheering to the last drop. And very good for you besides. That's Bovril.

Regular Bovril does more to keep you well than any other drink. Why? For one thing Bovril contains the concentrated goodness of prime lean beef — and it's a valuable source of these essential 8 vitamins, Riboflavin, Nicotinic Acid, Vitamin B12, Iron, and Phosphorus. What a drink!

It improves your appetite, helps your digestion, really builds you up. And — hot or cold — it tastes absolutely delicious.

Snacks, sandwiches, savoury dishes, soups — Bovril improves an endless list of things. Gives that extra richness, that spice of flavour. And — just a little Bovril and what a big difference it makes!

Cooking to phrase

by Alex. Simmons

COOL drinks and cold salad go hand in hand with long, sunny days and warm evenings. But there are warm-water meals, other dishes, which do not need a lot of preparation yet are much more substantial.

Here, then, are three recipes that will provide tasty meals for lunch or supper.

Stuffed Potato Boats. For these you will need large potatoes. Peel and cut them in halves. Scoop out the centres until you are left with a shell. Boil them for 15 minutes. They will cook something like boats.

"Slice a small piece from the bottom of each to form a 'keel' and make a hole in the middle. Place the 'boats' in a shallow pan and fill them with a mixture of minced meat, onion, and herbs. Bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes. Turn out on a flourbed base.

Roast in the oven in the normal way while they are cooking. Cut the rims off the 'boats' and put them back in a pan.

Now to prepare the filling. Chop the onion, add a little of the fat from the butter and a small amount of flour. Fry for a few minutes. Add a little of the milk to thicken. Add the rest of the ingredients and cook for 15 minutes. Turn out on a flourbed base.

Divide into portions and roll each in a beaten egg, rolling the fishers diagonally. 'Cream' the fishers. The minutes before the potatoes are cooked, put one on each boat, cover with buttered paper, and cook for 15 minutes. Serve with parsley sauce.

Feather Finish. This can be stored down when cold with a little oil, but the best method is to keep it in a small jar. It is a blend of fine Yerdley Powder and delicate cream. The secret touch of it restores your beauty — and your morale. Retains available.

Japan the bulwark of the West against Red domination

By L. KAPLAN, O.G.

I STARTED my tour of the Far East by flying to Karachi via Aden. As far as I could see, Karachi is built on a rocky, smelly and stinky...

Luckily for me when I arrived in the town it was extremely hot, there was a comfortable and air-conditioned rest-house provided by a British airline for passengers...

We were due to get on to the Canal next day. After a harassing few hours we got to the aerodrome late in the afternoon only to find that it was a little late.

Our first stop was at Colombo. It was very hot and extremely humid. This time we had found dinner and were preparing for breakfast. Time moves on so quickly that you have to adjust habits and digestion accordingly — no small task.

Our next port of call was Rangoon, another stop in the per cent humidity. There I met a couple of old friends who turned out to be the party hosts to meet me.

Then on to Hongkong. We will quote only a few paragraphs from the report to indicate how far from the Marx, Leninism has disappeared.

"Such cooperation of various nations in efforts to protect and raise the law of the world and to adjust habits and digestion accordingly — no small task."

"The highest officials of the land from positions in the Government by the Emperor himself."

Interesting also are his remarks relating to the constitution of their courts.

He says "As regards the Judge of the Supreme Court, the Chief Justice is appointed directly by the Emperor and receives a salary equal to that of the Prime Minister."

It is to be noted a judge or a lawyer one who had graduated from the Law School of the Imperial University and the reputation in the whole country to serve some 2,000,000 people.

The worship of a man-god, the Emperor, is a result of the marriage of the Empress's son with the daughter of the Emperor. This marriage is a sacred one and the Emperor is the father of the nation.

"In my humble opinion nothing will stop the younger generation from setting up a younger generation."

HONGKONG, PARADISE FOR ALL WOMEN

It is not a mark of a country but it is rapidly becoming the paradise of the East. A Japanese friend of mine described the women of Japan as the best in the world. I can believe him, but his views will undergo a severe test in the course of my visit to the country and also to the islands of the South China Sea. The lady of Tokyo must be in the balance. Even here they are called 'Kamikaze' or suicide angels.

NO TIPPING

I can well understand this, as all the Japanese are so strict about it. I have seen a man with a tip and some Japanese who had a tip and some Japanese who had a tip.

Until you get used to them there is every danger of your being taken in. The Japanese are so strict about it.

A notable feature of the taxi drivers in Tokyo is his standard refusal to accept tips.

First triumph
The first triumph of Sir Winston Churchill was his election as Prime Minister in 1940. He was 70 at the time and his victory was a triumph for the British people. He led the country through the darkest days of the war and emerged as a hero. His leadership and courage inspired the British people and the world.

His later life
After the war, Churchill continued to play a major role in British politics. He served as Prime Minister again from 1951 to 1955. He was known for his wit and his powerful speeches. He was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1953. He died in 1965 at the age of 90.

BUILD YOUR HOME

ONE trend in the world of motoring is creating cars which attract attention just now. It is the cars which are designed for a range of activities. The little car which comes in assembled in the back yard for under £200.

Two versions
The miniature German car, known as the "PILDAWAG", is now being introduced in Britain, where it will be made under licence. It is a small car, only 4 feet long and 2 feet wide. It is designed for use in the city and is particularly suitable for use in the city.

Joy to build
As yet from these considerations of cost there comes a further advantage. The car is designed to be built by the owner. It is a simple car, with few parts, and is designed to be built in the back yard. It is a car which is designed to be built by the owner.

Puckered brows
There are questions which the motorist asks when he looks at a car. He asks if it is a car which is designed to be built by the owner. He asks if it is a car which is designed to be built in the back yard. He asks if it is a car which is designed to be built by the owner.

FISHING FOR SHARKS CAN BE THRILLING -AND CHEAP

By V. T. HINDS, B.Sc., F.Z.S.

With sport fishing at a comparative low on the Tanganyika Province coastline, one of the big game fish, marlin, sailfin and tunnies, spend many fruitless days furrowing the ocean with their multitudinous variety of attractive lures.

Large sums of money are spent in fitting out small motor vessels and purchasing expensive equipment in the endeavour.

However, if these energies and resources which apparently are fruitfully employed in the search of the "Crescentbights of the Deep" are applied to shark fishing for sport, perhaps results will not only be more economical but also more thrilling.

Amongst the sport fishermen in Tanganyika there are I believe those who have had experience of shark fishing elsewhere and I feel sure that this experience would be of considerable value in opening this line of sport.

Occasionally one of our local fishermen at Pangani

The upper jaw and can work the lower jaw independently. These teeth are set in a manner that if damaged the tooth itself will be replaced by others from the row behind. The stomach is continued by an efficiently streamlined body and tapers to a horrible raw and triangular fish and in four rows around the base.

The shark depends mainly on its sense of smell and also upon sound waves received through water when hunting and the blood sense which is often found amongst all the fishes around.

TREMENDOUS SPEED

The tiger shark is capable of covering short distances better than any other shark. It is a 15-20" monster through the water at full speed.

These sharks cannot be called vicious, and established cannibals, and fishermen frequently have taken large sharks with their jaws firmly fixed on the shark's body.

The reward is good as the tiger is generally easy enough to kill half a dozen times with round shark net used to procure the woodwork of locally built boats.

The tiger shark is basically a noble, stomach-estomach and even a barbed sting from a sting ray's tail.

The shark's snout is a broad elongated shape on the back of the head is often found attached to the body of this shark.

FREE TRANSPORT

It does no harm to the boat but obtains free transport as the shark passes through the sea, and enjoys the debris of its intended victims.

Whenever tiger sharks are known to appear they travel in schools, and may be solitary sharks, and the tiger shark is known to have been reported from the Gulf of Aden, and the Somali Sea.

LARGE LITER

At the end of the year the female tiger shark goes into a year of pregnancy and gives birth to young.

defined black and white body but as he grows the stripes become regular cross bands on a dark background.

The tiger generally numbers up to 48 young, each one around 15-18 inches long, weighing a couple of pounds.

BITTEN IN HALF

Unusual circumstances have been known in lining for sharks and in two men a hooded tiger shark swallowed both men and then spat them through the stern rope.

In the case of another tiger shark half of a 5ft. shark was found attached to the hull head of a boat.

On reasonable grounds it may be expected that any fisher, black or white, in most cases sharks have boats is the shoulder harpoon gun which packs a 100 lb. harpoon with a 100 lb. steel shaft. The harpoon is fired from the muzzle of a rolling and sliding carriage mounted on the deck of the boat. It presents a formidable barrier which is difficult to break to blow and die in the water.

Harpooners have only one chance

As the animal approaches the surface the harpoon is fired from the front of the boat, and a stream of air is blown into the water.

HOLD FIRE

When this is seen it is a sign that the harpoon has broken through the skin of the animal and the harpoon will break through a second before plunging into the water.

Amongst a school of dolphins leaping and holding their breath in air is sure to be one of the sport. For the whole school is in air, and as they are so close to the water with a double amount of air.

The warning signal is given by the harpoon which is fired from the front of the boat, and a stream of air is blown into the water.

BAITED LINES

The sport which is spread on a line upturned has attracted sharks to the baited line of a fisherman on the beach.

Should the baited hook be needed, a couple of fastenings below the baited hook should be used to prevent the shark from pulling the baited hook out of the water.

But the bait half of all is the meat of the double, which the tiger shark enjoys the most.

Shark fishermen must be doubly watchful as they are paid for the shark and pay for the bait. This can be a fair time when the shark is not on the boat, weighing around 200 lb., at the end of the harpoon.

Personnel tests setting a big problem

By Dr. Gordon H. Wilson, former Government Psychologist

The classical question about personnel testing is "Can anyone be pigeon-holed?" The answer to this question depends entirely on the range of tests used and the qualifications of the persons using them.

Psychological tests fall into three categories: achievement tests, aptitude tests and personality tests.

The average layman understands only a few of the standards only measures of those tests that are "IQ" or ability intelligence tests.

LEADING MUSICIAN STARTED YOUNG

LIKE so many other famous musicians, Leon Goossens began his career on the world's leading concert platform at an early age. He was 16 when Sir Henry Wood invited him to occupy the first chair of the Royal Orchestra in 1913.

Born in Liverpool in 1897, he studied at the Chelsea Central School, making a start in his musical education at the tender age of six. He was 11 when he joined the Royal College of Music, where he studied under the direction of Sir Charles Wood. He was 14 when he was offered his chance to join the Royal Orchestra.

When we look back now on the career of this young man, we can see how his early training and the influence of the Royal Orchestra in 1913, which gave him his first major concert throughout Europe, laid the foundation for his success that he decided to give other children in Britain.

Supported by his brother Eugene and the National Trust, he made his American debut at New York in 1923. He returned here in 1939 to perform his brother's Concert for Peace at one of the two concerts devoted to British music in conjunction with the World Fair held in New York.

Since 1936 he has often played on B.B.C. broadcasts on all three continents. He has also followed up his interest in land cultivation, horse breeding and shooting. He has other hobbies, and has been in the States for winter days, his main hobby being to go, of course, shoe-playing.

He has been married three times. His first wife, the soprano, died in 1928. He was married to the soprano, Mrs. M. B. B. in 1930. He was married to the soprano, Mrs. M. B. B. in 1930. He was married to the soprano, Mrs. M. B. B. in 1930.

SPORTING TOURS OF ONLY THREE FINISH IN A TESTING JUMAPILI RALLY

BE OVERDONE
EAST AFRICA in general, and Kenya in particular, will have a brief respite only before further sporting tours take place. While it is not to be taken as evidence of perhaps, it is not being overdone. The objective of a tour are, in general, to stimulate the interest and the improvement of playing standards.

COMMENTARY
The 25 entries in the 1959 Jumapili Rally crossed the starting line but due to four withdrawals and 11 disqualifications there were only three finishers, who took the prizes in that order: Outright (Champion) drove P. J. R. Stafford and J. Robertson; part of which, competition drivers were carried on the side of the competition. As a result of not complying with the regulations, the two cars were disqualified. Of the four cars which were disqualified, the first car was disqualified for not starting at the first control. The second and third cars were disqualified for not starting at the first control. The fourth car was disqualified for not starting at the first control.

Found it stiff going
Reports were conservative, the highest average being 17 m.p.h. and the lowest 21 m.p.h. But many thought the event very stiff going and some were disappointed at the results. It is to be expected that the cars will be able to do better in the future. The cars were disqualified for not starting at the first control. The second and third cars were disqualified for not starting at the first control. The fourth car was disqualified for not starting at the first control.

More in offing
FAMILY next year two more hockey tours are planned. One to the African Universities and a Pakistan tour. It is expected that the tour to the East Indies will be the most successful. The tour to the East Indies will be the most successful. The tour to the East Indies will be the most successful.

Chose wrong car
Down the pre-war Olympic Games great day and for a radio station. It was the main aim of the tour. The tour was a success. The tour was a success. The tour was a success.

Only three survivors
In the afternoon the storm was extremely still in the event. It was a success. The tour was a success. The tour was a success.

Reverting for a moment to the matter of the tour. It was a success. The tour was a success. The tour was a success.
