JUDGES SEE CALVEYS BEST CATTLE EXHIBITS

TRADITIONAL CHANTS SUNG BY BEDOUIN BOYS' ACT POPULAR WITH CROWDS

TRADITIONAL Bedouin chants sung by a troop of young Bedouin boys - some of whom are only eight years old - of the Hildimari Bedouin Legion, and their lively display of gymnastics won the most applause from the crowd as they packed the main arena stands yesterday. The boys, who are from Aden, held the trophy of their show at a high pitch, much to the crowd's delight.

The boys chanted as they danced - twirled their heads with a young soldier, making into their eyes to save a grinning. On the few occasions where they were laughing, the natural humor of the boys was there through and the crowd was quick to show its appreciation of the day's most popular item.

FIRST BIG SUCCESS BY YOUNG RIDER

MISS VICKIE HARRIS, one of the youngest competitors, won the Grade C jumping competition and the Kenya Steeplechase Cup at the Show yesterday.

It was her first big win in the ring and overseas judges were high in their praise for some of the exhibits.

Arms stands which had been filled on the first day were noticeably empty yesterday morning when people switched their attention to the cattle show.

Despite the forecast of rain in the afternoon - which materialized in a short, brisk shower - crowds continued to flock to Mitchell Park all day.

For most of yesterday afternoon the sky was overcast, but apart from one brisk shower which caused spectators (above) in the members' area to seek shelter, the rain held off.

Wrong to apply 'test of force' to capitalism

It would be wrong for the Socialist countries to try to test the stability of the capitalist system by force, the Soviet Prime Minister, Mr. Khrushchev, said when he spoke at a Peking reception marking the tenth anniversary of the Communist attainment of power in China.

"The people would never understand and would never support those who took it into their heads to act in this way," he said. "We always have been against force."

Referring to the road of Socialism will be settled by it.

Referring to his recent visit to the United States, the Soviet leader said: "When I talked to President Eisenhower and his cabinet members, my impression was that the U.S. people, who have the support of many people, is fearful of the road to a new international system."

The talks he had had in America had "unambiguously established to an improvement of relations between our countries and the relaxation of international tension."

For Chinese needs

The end column HOT SPELL RECORD

WEATHER: Britain's dry, hot summer from May to September has broken all records for at least 200 years, according to the Meteorological Office's September report. The month itself was 72.5c, compared with the previous record of 63.1c in 1758. It was nearly as hot a summer from 1875 to 1899 and 1910.

CHIEF SECRETARY: A Ghana civil servant, charged by Accra and his "intentional falsification of the Prime Minister's Dr. Afrim, has been detained under an order signed by the Government on a hold from the five-year Richard trial.

DEBATE: France's Foreign Minister, Mr. Maurice Faure, said in the United Nations debate that President de Gaulle's plan for Algeria was "the only one that could end war in a short space of time to a treaty, which has lasted only too long."

POLEND: Mr. J. F. Fr. Williams, solicitor for London, Poland, also to be arrested on October 18, said in a London newspaper. A petition will be lodged with the House in November.

REPUBLIC: Mr. H. J. G. Williams, solicitor for London, Republic of the Congo, said in a London newspaper that the Government of the Congo is "the only one that could end war in a short space of time to a treaty, which has lasted only too long."

Moves to end strike

UPON claims that the British Government is planning to end the strike of 100,000 dockworkers, the British Government has announced that it will not do so until the strike has been ended.

The three labor unions concerned are the Transport and General Workers' Union, the National Union of General and Municipal Workers and the Transport, Maritime and Allied Workers' Union.

The unions have agreed to a three-year contract, but the Government has refused to accept it.

The Government has offered to accept the contract, but the unions have refused to do so.

The Government has offered to accept the contract, but the unions have refused to do so.

Judges impressed

He added that the first time Grade C horses had faced a water jump and he was considerably impressed by the fact that there was not one elimination at that jump. Many of the "A" and "B" Grade horses, which will jump nothing else to half of the latter.

Standards in the polo pony classes were described as "extremely low" by the Irish C. M. Carbone, who was criticized for the fact that there was only one entry in the heavyweight class. Many of the ponies were not of high quality.

He described the lightweight "A" and "B" classes as "fair."

The small hacks, which were entered by Beveridge, Salokis, and others, were described as "very good."

Mr. C. Carr, there was a good entry for the class.

Top quality

Society officials were pleased with the quality of the ponies, because of the large number of entries. Many of the ponies were of high quality.

The officials felt that good ponies were being bred and offered this year had great and that people could see it. Some of the ponies were described as "very good."

Mr. C. Carr, there was a good entry for the class.

Merinos STILL ON UPGRADE

STANDARDS of Merino sheep entries in the show were considered as high as in 1958. Mr. H. G. Jones, a South African expert, said yesterday.

Mr. G. Jones, who is secretary of the Merino Stud Breeders' Association of South Africa, is one of four overseas judges officiating in the section.

He added that while the standard itself was not representative of that produced in the country as a whole, he believed "improving by leaps and bounds" in Kenya.

Eight classes had been judged on the opening day and he predicted that the more experienced organization which had introduced the two classes would do the same time next year.

Welcome move

Another welcome move was the removal of the water jump from the ring and strong wood show.

Mr. G. Jones went on to say that the standards were a high standard, but in quality they were not as good as at other Royal Shows.

The first lot of Merinos was a champion Merino ewe, which was the best of the lot.

Of the South African entries, a champion Merino ewe was the best of the lot.

The show was a success for the Merino breeders.

Some of the visitors were treated for injuries sustained by kicking horses and riding accidents.

Mr. Malcolm Cox, of Nairobi, who was the most prominent visitor at the top of one of the trade stands, was treated for a burn on his hand.

New rural phone plan

USERS TO HELP PAY CAPITAL COSTS

PEOPLE in rural areas who want telephones will be asked to meet part of the cost of installation under a new scheme announced yesterday by the East African Telecommunications Administration.

A survey of 800 telephone subscribers will be made for user's necessary income in a two-mile district of installation under a new scheme announced yesterday by the East African Telecommunications Administration.

A survey of 800 telephone subscribers will be made for user's necessary income in a two-mile district of installation under a new scheme announced yesterday by the East African Telecommunications Administration.

Rental reduced

The balance of 15 per cent of the direct cost and all "reduced" charges will be borne by the user. The scheme has been created under these arrangements of a telephone at the premises—and in addition the subscriber will be asked to pay $5 per cent of the direct cost of constructing that part of the telephone line which is more than two miles from the exchange.

Official of the Administration explained: "While the cost of a telephone is of great value to the rural resident, long distance calls are an economic proposition for the Administration. As a result the Government has been studying ways of encouraging the installation of telephones in rural areas. The matter has also received much consideration by the Office Advisory Board and as a result the scheme has been devised."

The official added that the rate of development of telephones in rural areas is being accelerated by the fact that the income from the sale of telephones is being used for the purchase of telephones. The scheme is being financed by the sale of telephones and the purchase of telephones.

GAME PRECAUTIONS ON TANA

The game, particularly the elephant, has returned to the Tana area in large numbers. The local Administration are taking precautionary measures to prevent damage being done to crops and to livestock.

REPLY TO MR. GAITSKELL'S ATTACK

Socialist leader 'trying to mislead Africans'

LORD HOME, Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations, has accused Mr. Gaitskell, leader of the Labour Party, of a 'propaganda' attempt to make 'political capital' out of events in East and Central Africa.

Referring to a speech made by the Labour leader in Edinburgh Lord Home said it was a 'characteristic' attempt when a party leader deliberately set out to mislead the Africans by telling that one party in the United Kingdom was sympathetic to the African people.

He went on to say that the 'propaganda' attempt was not, Lord Home was speaking, but a 'characteristic' attempt to mislead the Africans by telling that one party in the United Kingdom was sympathetic to the African people.

He would have thought that the Labour Party would have been more than ready to approach to the aid of the African people in the Sudan and in the Congo.

Parliamentary Secretary for Africa and the Middle East, Mr. G. D. Brown, said that the Labour Party's policy was to support the African people in the Sudan and in the Congo.

PILOTS LIQUIDATE LOCUSTS TO SAVE KENYA FARMS

NINE hundred miles from Nairobi a team of pilots and ground crew have fought and won a battle against a huge locust swarm.

John Ratten, a pilot, just returned from the centre of operations at Hargesa, the capital of British Somaliland, and says he has seen how the battle was fought and it was a sobering experience.

The swarm, which had a mass of 100,000 locusts, had been invading Kenya since August and has been seen in the north-eastern districts of British Somaliland.

A Scaver of the Desert Locust Survey's air-spray unit leaves a 500-600-wide swath of death as it flies through a locust swarm. Air far from its base at Hargesa.

DAWN DEPARTURE

The operation was one of the most of the Desert Locust Survey who spent their time in the air. The pilots were to make opportunities to spray the locusts in their path. The first mission was during the dawn hours of the morning when the locusts were still on the ground. The pilots were to spray the locusts as they moved away from the ground.

Constantly on alert for swarms

In depth against the party which closed.

It was a frightening sight. Each desert locust can eat its own weight in food every day. They weigh about two grams each. In the areas, about 1,000,000,000 locusts and their constant swarming would be enough to account for hundreds of tons of green food.

Mr. Martel turned behind the swarm and pulled the control lever for the insecticide spray. The light of the sun burned, but so did we and the sound of the locusts rattling through the air was heard above the wind and the planned with dead locusts. The locusts were killed by the spray. The locusts were killed by the spray. The locusts were killed by the spray.

Mr. Martel was pleased. We lifted up over the hills of death, and away to the northwards to see if there were more locusts to come. But though we flew for another hour, there were none, and so we turned for home.

SMALLER SUMS

Part of a £241,000 spending in the current year on fighting the desert locust, the operation was paid for by the Government of Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda and British Somaliland, with aid from the British Government.

Kenya is showing £180,000 this year, Tanganyika £70,000, Uganda £22,000 and British Somaliland £41,000, while Britain comes in with £1,000.

There are far smaller sums than last year and local experts think the locust work is £25,000 down on 1958-9. There are 20 air squadrons in the survey area working hundreds of miles out into East Africa. On East Africa, and over transport and other vehicles, maintenance of the survey aircraft is £12,000, operation of the aircraft £1,000, and fuel £1,000.

DELAYED DEATH

Attempts to use the insecticide DDTs (which were previously settled on the wings and heads of the locusts. Yet they flew steadily on in their hundreds of thousands. The death would not come for 12 to 24 hours.

As suddenly as we had entered the cloud of locusts we were through and out of it and turning, insecticide turned off by another pilot, parallel with the first but farther away. And so we flew for nearly four minutes, death to the invaders.

Our insecticide exhausted, our fuel tank and windscreen

Dry eloquence in 'The Ginger Man'

By HAROLD HOBSON

J. P. DONLEVY'S play is an extraordinary explication of Irish-American dry J. eloquence spouting and frothing out of more than Irish anger...

Manually had they borne themselves on the splashing waves of Mr. Donlevy's irreparable rhetoric, and it was in its way quite a passing experience to see them finally brought to shore with such remarkable triumph.

There are gestures that reach beyond nationality in the context of the Cross, the clothes of two of the characters look to be verminous, and the prevailing atmosphere is of gas and broken lavatories.

It is for more outspoken than, for example, From the French. Yet Poeson the French was hooded almost before the echo of the chorus for The Ginger Men had died away. And I am afraid that this difference in audience reaction was right and proper.

CONSTELLATIONS TO BE SEEN IN THE HEAVENS THIS MONTH

THIS afternoon's eclipse of the sun was fully explained in the last article and we must hope that the sky remains clear for it, specially on our North coast where it will be "total". We shall be glad to see any photographs of it from readers.

Last month, as a result, discuss the stars themselves. Our map shows some other objects for study.

Beginners in setting barfman, at W.S.W. we can see the curved tail and "legs" of Scorpio (♏) with the brilliant patch of the Milky Way which locates the centre of our universe or galaxy.

To the N.W. on the other side about passing downwards in the view and this is the last appearance of these constellations for another six months.

ORION contributes the 6th article in the monthly series on the night sky in Kenya.

after which they will appear earlier each day in the early pre-dawn hours.

Just above Hercules chain on the brilliant Lyra (♐), while higher still is the fine crescent of Cygnus (♁), the Swan.

Compare their positions on that on the July map. Constellations rising northwards tonight, should have no difficulty in identifying in the P.M. the "M" shape of the five bright stars of Cassiopeia (♄).

FORMIS A LINE.

In addition, westerly stars in line with the two higher stars which comprise the side of the "great square" of Pegasus (♁) and these include the "W" shape of the four stars of Perseus (♁), and the "W" shape of the four stars of Auriga (♐).

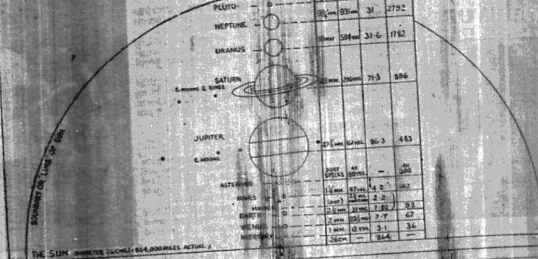

A little below and to the East of the great square is the faint Andromeda (♁), which can be clearly seen with the naked eye. The faint "W" shape of the four stars of Perseus (♁), and the "W" shape of the four stars of Auriga (♐).

DOT OF AFRICA.

The stars of the constellation are in the same relative positions as they were in the last article. The stars of the constellation are in the same relative positions as they were in the last article.

THE UNIVERSE.

The drawing shows what our universe would look like from far out in space. It is a vast, expanding sphere of matter and energy, with the Earth and Sun at its center.

Appreciation of distances most sobering

It has been inevitable, though not known as the "Lemon" constellation (♁), that the smaller circles given the relative sizes of the planets in the same scale.

But if this star could be seen, and for the previous 100 years, it would have required a page 200 yards wide to record it as it is 2,141 years from our Sun to Pluto.

Actual and scale distances are tabulated in the diagram, and you should try to picture them spread out accordingly.

The whole earth takes 24 hours to rotate on its axis. If you could see the Earth from the outside, you would see the rotation of the Earth as a very small dot.

Would that our politicians could reduce their proposals to similar proportions as to just how long it takes for their really costly as a nation.

RED GIANT

Again, to keep us in the property, the Red Giant is actually 25,000,000 times as big as the Sun, and its surface temperature is 3,000 degrees Celsius.

The whole earth takes 24 hours to rotate on its axis. If you could see the Earth from the outside, you would see the rotation of the Earth as a very small dot.

SINGER DISCOVERED AT SWIM CLUB

TIMMY YOUNG was discovered by George Innes who heard him singing at a Thursday afternoon swim club at Mombasa Court. He was given an audition and two weeks later made his first British broadcast in a programme of dance music with Roscoe Pittsford.

Since then he has appeared in many programmes including the following: Variety Show, New Song, Young Man, In With Music, Top of the Pops, and The Night of the Stars. After his first broadcast he met contacts with leading radio firms and was offered a number of engagements in London.

The first record was heard and broadcast by Jack Jackson and three followed with top-selling records, one of the most popular being "The Young Man" which he sang with the band. He then returned to England where he topped the bill at a number of venues. He was then invited to perform at the Royal Albert Hall, where he was the first to perform in the new "The Young Man" which he sang with the band. # WEEK-END STANDARD EAST AFRICAN JET AGE REOPENS THIS YEAR WITH COMET IVs

WITHIN the next two years the majority of international airlines serving East Africa will be operating jet-propelled aircraft. And at least three of the other airlines, which are presently operating for converting to this type of propulsion, will continue to use jet-prop aircraft which have proved so successful and dependable all over the world.

First to re-open the passenger jet age in East Africa at the end of this year will be British Overseas Airways Corporation, with Comet IVs. Second away will be East African Airways, which will also begin Comet IV services between East Africa and London, and East Africa and India and Pakistan. These services are due to start in July, 1955.

Fluctuations in aircraft delivery often make precise dates difficult but, according to present plans, South African Airways are due to introduce Boeing 707s on their Johannesburg-Nairobi-London route in October of next year.

Alu France, which has also chosen the big Boeing, hope to put it on the Paris-Cairo-Nairobi-Madagascar run by October, 1955. Air-India will be another operator of the Boeing, in one of its versions, probably powered by Rolls-Royce engines.

The late introduction to India-East Africa service is not yet known. These operators at Nairobi airport are likely to have to wait until the middle months of the year before they spot future of Comet IVs — relatives of the new DC-8 — on regular services with Scandinavian Airlines System.

As for the DC-8, which has recently given rise to service for an American airline, two Nairobi-based airlines serving East Africa have selected this huge aircraft to enter the highly competitive jet air age. They are Air-India and Sabena.

Air-India cannot say at present when they will be operating with DC-8s, but it is obvious that it will not introduce them until within the next two years they will be at a disadvantage compared with their jet-powered competitors.

As for Sabena, the Belgian Congo-East African services which it operates are a kind of semi-branch line, operated at present by older DC-6s, and it is not unlikely that this airline will introduce jets to East Africa in the near future.

It is people justice that the aircraft that will re-open the Boeing 707 writes on passenger jets to be seen at Nairobi Airport over the next two years. It also gives details of the plans by international airlines serving East Africa.

"Jet-age" set in Africa will be the direct result dependent of the Comet.

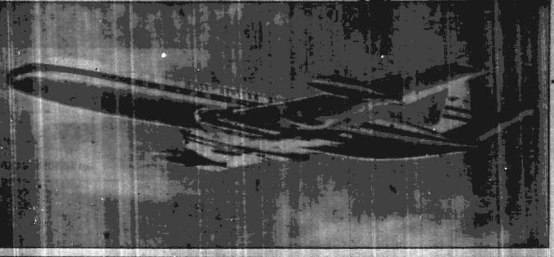

A few years ago, before the disaster to the Comet I, people in Nairobi used to look for planes on this route, and, in fact, only the Comet I was to go into service on these routes. For the Comet I was by many years the best jet aeroplane to go into regular service between Nairobi, the Far East and South Africa.

Personally I believe that the Comet IV should be the first aircraft to resume jet services to reach Nairobi, which is nearly four hours less than the present British service — the fastest on the route at present.

These Comets will seat 20 first-class and 43 tourist passengers. They have a cruising speed of 500 m.p.h. and a range of 2,500 miles against headwinds of 50 m.p.h.

It is likely that Comet, and Air-India, will carry the B.O.A.C. flag and serve the route for the next three or four years. After that, the present Vickers V.C.10, which will be able to carry up to 150 passengers at 600 m.p.h. are due to take over and reduce even further the flying time between Nairobi and London.

It is not known whether B.O.A.C. will introduce De Havilland Comet IVs on its East African routes, although the corporation is about to take delivery of these aircraft. It also seems that there will be

A DISPATCH FROM THE SAHARA

AFTER three years' absence we return back into the early history of life in Tanganyika as though we had never been away... This is how GOSSETT in GILGARY, of Nairobi, begins his second dispatch from the Sahara and the banks of the Tazara. It will be published next Friday in the "Week-end Standard" and illustrated with a fine selection of photographs taken by the author.

Mr. Holroyd states the narrative where the previous one left off. He deals particularly with the White Fathers' mission, as he calls it, "where is the importance of the Order in East Africa and also our journey into the Sahara, where brought us on much into contact with them that they cannot be passed over lightly."

Among today's articles are "Ginshuru Looks Back on 1952" (Page 12), "Wheat Farming in Kenya" (Page 17) and "Hobby for Men This is Women's Fashion" (Page 17).

Other features are — New events on the streets, Page 18; 12 Children, Page 13; London Diary, Page 13; Crossword, 4, 5, 6, 7; Weddings and radio program will read in the main, next section, Page 22 and 23.

London flight time to be cut

The flight will be between Salisbury and London. From London the Comets will take 11 hours, 50 minutes to reach Nairobi, which is nearly four hours less than the present British service — the fastest on the route at present.

These Comets will seat 20 first-class and 43 tourist passengers. They have a cruising speed of 500 m.p.h. and a range of 2,500 miles against headwinds of 50 m.p.h.

It is likely that Comet, and Air-India, will carry the B.O.A.C. flag and serve the route for the next three or four years.

It is not known whether B.O.A.C. will introduce De Havilland Comet IVs on its East African routes, although the corporation is about to take delivery of these aircraft. It also seems that there will be

MIXED CLASS

The layout of the E.A.A.C. Comet IV is convenient for mixed class operations and the roof-mounting of seats allows for adjustments in its day-to-day passenger accommodation plans on international services.

Provision will be made for first, tourist and economy-class passengers and this will help to meet varied requirements and seasonal peak period fluctuations.

It is B.O.A.C. which the E.A.A.C. Comet will take 11 hours 50 minutes to reach Nairobi from London. It will be powered by four Rolls-Royce Avon RA.29 engines each with a static thrust of 15,000 lb.

South African Airways, which now operates DC-7Bs, on its international routes, originally planned to buy a fleet of DC-8s.

However, in February, 1953, the South African Minister for Transport announced his Government's decision to order the Boeing 707-120-100 jet aircraft.

The Traxcavator is a ruggedly engineered machine that's designed to dig and load. It's not just a bucket mounted on a tractor, but a complete balanced unit built to work faster, more economically and more reliably than any other machine of equivalent size and horsepower. The Traxcavator's weight, speed and power are balanced to give maximum traction, largest possible shovel load, and fastest rate of loading.

Three Traxcavators are available

- 30.000 H.P. 11 CU. YD. CAPACITY
- 30.000 H.P. 11 CU. YD. CAPACITY
- 30.000 H.P. 11 CU. YD. CAPACITY

Alternative buckets are available for particular applications, and even greater versatility is offered by such attachments as Side Dump Buckets, Hydraulic Ripper, Log Loading Forks and Trenching Winches

Magnificent annual mirrors the life of East Africans

By DEKOR COARE

FROM the magnificent cover to the last of its 150 odd pages, this year's East African Annual—published today—cannot but hold the reader. Without doubt, it is the finest annual to be produced since the first edition appeared in 1939.

A mere glance through the varied contents is certainly enough to prove the high quality of publication—particularly the lavish number of colour photographs taken by the leading photographers in the three territories.

Indeed, even the advertisements set a standard previously unknown in East Africa. Artistic, attractive, MacGee.

It is better, too, that East Africa should be seen to stand in the position of a world-class.

Timely analysis

Here, Kenneth Robinson—writer, analyst and poet—has written a series of articles, and he recalls the words of the Chief of the Imperial General Staff, Gen. Lord Gort, who said: "Kenya is a happy part of the world of our day, a place where the best of the world's troops, at its head, are a living potential for treating mankind's ills."

The Senior Service is not forgotten either. The British critic has East Africa's records in the "Missionary" and "You're Not Ready".

Turning to the reader will find a beautiful reproduction of the "The Nightingale" by Robert Lynd, a leader of the literary profession in the United Kingdom.

Neutral news, the Queen Mother's visit to Kenya, the superb, Philip Marlowe's "Victory over the Desert", a selection of photographs taken recently by the author. A great number of a wonderful list of events.

A true joyous

East Africa's life has been a quiet, untroubled time. The author has been so busy in his work that he has not had time to write the article by Dr. William H. Hall, with that famous title, "The New Kenya".

Appropriately, even the first letter to the "Land of the East" is penned by Doris

Makerere appoints honorary fellow

SIR ALEXANDER CARROLL has been installed as an honorary fellow of Makerere College at a ceremony in the main hall this afternoon.

The appointment of an honorary fellow at the same time as the installation of Sir Alexander Carroll as a professor of social studies at Liverpool University, was announced by the Vice-Chancellor of the London School of Economics.

He has done much for Africa in various capacities and has been a member of several commissions including the Asquith Commission in 1949 to the development of university colleges in overseas territories.

The Alexander was largely responsible in several territories for the special relationship agreement under which institutions like Makerere have been taken into relationship with the United Kingdom.

First chance

He was the leader of the first African mission to the United Kingdom in 1957. He has been unable to visit since then because of his duties in the United Kingdom.

The honorary fellow of Makerere is the Philip Mitchell, former Vice-Chancellor of Makerere College and now professor of agriculture at Makerere.

Gay and outstanding tale of Egyptian in London

By J. HUMPHRIES

THE Middle East in general, and Egypt in particular, has provided material for some excellent novels by English writers in recent years. Outstanding among these is Mr. P. N. Newby—first The Phoenix at Sokhara, then Revolution and Roses and now A Guest and His Guest.

His latest novel is not only a young Egyptian, but also a tale set in London. Mr. Newby has obviously enjoyed himself in writing the book and the scenes of Sokhara and Cairo are recounted with gusto and gusto to the reader.

The title is new, but with the rapid changes which one expects of a novel, the characters ring true all the time and give the book serious value. And Mr. Newby's quality and style of narration has the quality of a dry, sardonic wit.

Mr. Newby's Trust by itself is striking but not too far from the actual quality of the novel. It is remarkable for its boldness and its wit, but it is not too far from the actual quality of the novel. It is remarkable for its boldness and its wit, but it is not too far from the actual quality of the novel.

It is of a young officer, Alan Mearns, in Cambridge University life in Cambridge during the period of the phoney war, who is the central figure of the novel. He is a young officer, Alan Mearns, in Cambridge University life in Cambridge during the period of the phoney war.

After a dramatic and comic chapter in Cairo, there are three more chapters in which there are people who have had to get out of Egypt, such as Walter Gribble. Being a caricature of the British soldier in Egypt, it is not surprising to find that Alan Mearns should not be accepted there at all.

Most international stories develop when the young Egyptian goes to Cairo, but in this case, Alan Mearns goes to Cairo, but in this case, Alan Mearns goes to Cairo, but in this case, Alan Mearns goes to Cairo.

Military exploits on a very different scale and much lower plane are the subject of the novel. It is a young officer, Alan Mearns, in Cambridge University life in Cambridge during the period of the phoney war.

It is established as a young Colonel, Howard Stone, as a young Colonel, Howard Stone, as a young Colonel, Howard Stone, as a young Colonel, Howard Stone.

The first time they are in contact is in a very dramatic scene. It is a young officer, Alan Mearns, in Cambridge University life in Cambridge during the period of the phoney war.

They become John and John, they become John and John, they become John and John, they become John and John.

When things are not going well, they become John and John, they become John and John, they become John and John, they become John and John.

The publisher says that the author is obviously fond of the subject, and this is not surprising to find that Alan Mearns should not be accepted there at all.

The same was a bit of a surprise. It is a young officer, Alan Mearns, in Cambridge University life in Cambridge during the period of the phoney war.

There was someone of the same name and character in the novel. It is a young officer, Alan Mearns, in Cambridge University life in Cambridge during the period of the phoney war.

It is a young officer, Alan Mearns, in Cambridge University life in Cambridge during the period of the phoney war. It is a young officer, Alan Mearns, in Cambridge University life in Cambridge during the period of the phoney war.

A PROBLEM of the way in which the world is changing is the subject of the novel. It is a young officer, Alan Mearns, in Cambridge University life in Cambridge during the period of the phoney war.

In the face of these changes, the author is obviously fond of the subject, and this is not surprising to find that Alan Mearns should not be accepted there at all.

A GOOD SUBJECT AND WORTHY BIOGRAPHER

SHOW PAGE ARTS COUNCIL AIDS PUBLIC IN BRITAIN

By SIR WILLIAM EMRYS WILLIAMS, Secretary General of the Arts Council of Great Britain. DURING the last 20 or 25 years the fine arts have prospered abundantly in Britain, not only in terms of quality and performance but also in the exceptional extent to which they have secured the support of large popular audiences.

For example, ballet is not traditionally a British art, and it is less than 20 years since Dame Ninette de Valois opened a school to train girls and boys for this exacting art. Her genius and determination have produced within a generation the world's first Royal Ballet, which is now other factors which in the past have made British ballet over two centuries old.

Other signs of the country's artistic renaissance are equally evident, such as the remarkable popularity of the visual arts. Since 1946 the Arts Council has recruited dozens of international artists from France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Holland, China and Japan.

Public influence in its admirable provision of serious music on the radio. But one other factor of deep importance is that the Government has at last accepted a measure of responsibility for music, drama, opera and ballet.

Some bright ideas for the home

by JUNE FIELD

TRICKS of hearing about what's new in fashions? Then let's take a look at what's fresh for the home. There are many new fitted bedrooms (the first of their kind) to go with our fitted kitchen (over 200 models) and a new wardrobe with the personal touch of embroidered linings - a coffee shade which doubles as a seat, and a new furnishing fabric from which all marks and stains can be wiped away with a damp cloth.

BAKE A CAKE

There's no need to grease the tin any more when making a cake. The latest ovens are designed so that you can grease the tin once and it will do the trick for the rest of the year. They cost only 75p more than the standard oven, and it's estimated that if you bake a cake a week it will last for years!

COLOUR ABOUNDS

Other demands in the new bed rooms. There's one in a special base which has a special apron. The set is a good investment to handle any emergency.

WIDE CHOICE

A new special choice of fabrics... you can get it for use on beds and curtains, and as the weather and the leaves don't move... you can get it for use on beds and curtains, and as the weather and the leaves don't move...

SEVEN new ideas for your home

- Above, a gay apron and tea towel set in berry swelling.
- Top left, the latest in the bone china.
- Left, plastic foam jacket to slip over the milk bottle and stainless-steel pans with bright red lids.
- Bottom left, a "feebly" combining the duties of kettle and teapot.
- Below, candlewick bedspread with personal copper-plated metal.
- Bottom, the fitted blanket with fitted corners and special buck-in-side-pieces.

how not to blow your top in town traffic

THE DAILY torment of snailing along tail to bumper in town is enough to try a saint's temper. However, it costs nothing extra to be considerate to fellow travellers. And it certainly pays you to treat your car engine with consideration in such conditions.

You see, this low-gear crawling leads to a faster build-up of power-wasting deposits in the combustion chambers. Of all premium perols only Supershell gives you the added benefit of I.C.A. which effectively neutralises these harmful deposits. Ignition Control Additive is vital in your engine today—and it costs you nothing extra to get it either!
