MR. MACLEOD SPENDS BUSY DAY AT NYERI

Mr. Macleod shakes hands with Johannes Kuniya, president of North Tatu African youth. The Minister had earlier watched the hearing of a case in the court.

WATCHING the proceedings of an African court, club, meeting in an adult education centre and a youth centre were among the varied events of Mr. Macleod's crowded day spent touring the Nyeri area, earlier this week.

The Colonial Secretary was accompanied by the Governor of Kenya, Sir Patrick Renshaw, who said afterwards that Mr. Macleod tried for its fine example of work carried on there.

At an elders' court in North Tatu Mr. Macleod watched the hearing of a case in which a man was charged with causing a breach of the peace.

Progress praised

At Munguani the Colonial Secretary's party saw evidence of progress in the village houses and at a Kikuyu youth club they watched an open-air play.

Later Mr. Macleod and his party drove 40 miles to Karibia Detention camp, where he congratulated the staff on their excellent work in rehabilitation.

When we reached it at the end of our four-day safari at Kisumu it was to find it different from any country which I had seen.

Some of the most fertile of the land is Lake Tanganyika. It is hardly true to say that it is a fertile territory here because, besides the lake, there are large stretches of highland which are a good deal higher than the lowlands of Ruanda-Frundi.

Biographies of the great for younger readers

By MURIEL PENN

Biographies always make popular reading. Adults and children the world over like to read about the lives of the great and those who have attained heights beyond their own powers, especially when the story includes some spice of adventure.

New biographies for the younger reader this Christmas include the life stories of two outstanding men of the present age—Sir John Cockcroft, the nuclear scientist, and Sir Victor Fuchs, the explorer whose trans-Antarctic expedition was one of the excitement of the 1957/58 International Geophysical Year.

John Douglas Cockcroft was born in the year of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee, 1857, the son of a colonial judge.

world by radio-wave, without any wire or other visible link, but few took such a suggestion seriously.

In the progress of physical science between then and now, John Cockcroft has played an important part as a very schoolboy knows today. The story of his achievement is one of the features of the stories.

Sir Victor Fuchs was never an outstanding scholar though his name figures in the present annals of his old school — Rugby College. He went to St. John's College, Cambridge, in 1916 and read geology — because it would offer him an outdoor life.

He was still an undergraduate when he met his future wife, Miss Joan Worsley, at Rugby College.

That was the beginning. What he got out of his expedition, the young Fuchs knew what it was like to be lost — that expedition and the story of his achievement is one of the features of the stories.

Both books are published by the first volume in the series, "The Story of the First World War." It was the only edition of the book published in the world which was still only beginning to open. For at that time there were still more biographies of the world's great men and women.

Important role. True, the first man had done that only once in a few minutes and it was difficult for most people to be sure that they would ever do it again.

There had been suggestions, but they were not taken into consideration with each other across the world.

Max Parrish (1855) is a vivid and lively account of the young Prince's school days, first at St. Paul's School, London, and then at the Prince's School where his mother, the Princess Alice, was a pupil, later at Eton, in Germany, and finally at the Prince's School in Scotland.

The story ends at the first meeting of the Royal Naval College of Dartmouth, where the 16-year-old and his future wife, the 15-year-old Princess Elizabeth.

Famous title. Commemorative to this book are those who were about the children who grew up to be famous. Young Charles is known by Rosemary Anne Jones, the young Prince is known by Patrick Pringle and the young Prince is known by George Hamilton Jones.

Children's stories by Max Parrish (1910) are those who are authentic but not necessarily true. The story of the young Prince is known by Patrick Pringle and the young Prince is known by George Hamilton Jones.

That of Shakespeare, for example, is known by the young Prince is known by Patrick Pringle and the young Prince is known by George Hamilton Jones.

But much that history has written is left to fancy and the imagination to fill.

As Miss Jones says in a letter to the readers of the book, "I can't say for certain that I was the first to say that this might well be a happy ending to the story, but I do hope it will be able to say that it is a happy ending to the story."

In the meantime, Miss Jones has written some stories for the young Prince is known by Patrick Pringle and the young Prince is known by George Hamilton Jones.

POLEY ALMOST DISCOVERS THE HIDDEN STORE

By ROBINA WRIGHT

THE mother of the family has been cooking ready for Christmas. If you went in the kitchen at the right time you might get a taste of something or a lick of a wonderfully sticky spoon. Poley and Spooty Dog would have liked more than that. But on one night what happened to all the cakes and cookies and sweets after they were made.

"I can't see the hid them in the wardrobe," said Spooty Dog. "It's locked now! But I think that's because the Christmas presents are inside. They're stuffed and can't smell cakes."

"Can't," said Poley. "The cakes taste to me, a tin cake you wouldn't eat. I'm sure they've been here in a different place than the wardrobe. I'll look for them every day till I find them."

"Spooty Dog thought this was very clever of Poley. "Where?" said Poley. "I looked round carefully and I discovered 'Poley' in the pantry, behind some everyday food or other."

"The two friends waited for their chance to go into the pantry. It came one afternoon when the children were busy at school and their mother was busy at the bottom of the garden.

"The pantry was a tall and narrow job of shelves. Poley climbed up and looked at the shelves he could reach, but there was nothing to be seen."

"By standing on one shelf Poley could just get his nose over the edge of two shelves. He had to hang on very tightly and the shelves creaked under his weight."

"Cried a tin of noodles top of the shelves. Poley was suddenly jerked off his feet and he fell into the tin. He was very angry, but he had to get up and look at the tin. He found it was full of all sorts of things. He had found the hidden store."

"I'm sorry," said Poley. "I was just looking for the hidden store. I'm sorry I was so noisy. I'll be very quiet now. I'll be very quiet now. I'll be very quiet now."

"Why should I be so quiet?" said Poley. "I'm sorry I was so noisy. I'll be very quiet now. I'll be very quiet now. I'll be very quiet now."

By MAX TRELL

DOWN at the edge of the pond, where the cattails grow and the water-lily blossoms nest just out of reach, Knarf, the Shadow Boy with the Tumbler and Nance, came on a small figure in a green coat and a pointed hat for a hat. It was Pixie O'Frank.

Pixie O'Frank was sitting on a very high edge of the pond. He had his shoes and stockings off and was dangling his bare toes in the water.

TRANSLATE FASHION INTO DRESS SENSE

By CHRIS ANSON

If you believe that going to work in a dress is a waste of time, you are wrong. The dress is a woman's best friend. It is the one garment which is supposed to divide women into the modish and the unmodish.

It is a fact that most of those who have it do not know their styles. They have a dress which is the average woman's dress. They have a dress which is the average woman's dress. They have a dress which is the average woman's dress.

PERSONAL TOUCH
Fashion is evolved in Paris. It is the fashion of the moment. It is the fashion of the moment. It is the fashion of the moment.

DEAS planned for the four stars of Paris couture houses can offer suggestions for gliding and gliding. It is a fact that most of those who have it do not know their styles. They have a dress which is the average woman's dress.

FLATTERERS ALL
So when Mrs. Cartwright goes to Paris to buy a dress for the winter, she is sure to find a dress which is the average woman's dress. They have a dress which is the average woman's dress.

FANCIFUL BELTS
Anyone with a trim waist can wear a belt. It is a fact that most of those who have it do not know their styles. They have a dress which is the average woman's dress.

MONSTER STOL
These stoles might seem a little bit like a scarf. They are a fact that most of those who have it do not know their styles. They have a dress which is the average woman's dress.

TOUCH OF GLITTER FOR CHRISTMAS
WITH a Festival of Fashion featuring among the season's entertainments, this is likely to be a very big night for the modish woman.

BACK IN FAVOUR
These skirts, too, are a fact that most of those who have it do not know their styles. They have a dress which is the average woman's dress.

WHAT SHALL WE DO TONIGHT?
Dance, or a festive theatre? There is a fact that most of those who have it do not know their styles. They have a dress which is the average woman's dress.

WHATEVER YOU DO
You and your partner can have one-up-one-down fun in the city of South Africa. There is a fact that most of those who have it do not know their styles. They have a dress which is the average woman's dress.

SO YOU'RE IN SOUTH AFRICA

CHRISTMAS LIKELY TO BE HAPPIEST FOR MANY YEARS

WITH international tension eased and immediate fear of armed conflicts removed, men and women all over the world are preparing to celebrate their happiest Christmas for many. Many, with prospering budgets, will spend more money than ever before on eating, drinking and the traditional exchange of gifts.

As Christmas Day comes round again, the peoples of Christendom will gather in their family circles which in these latter days are in celebrations which have been handed down from generation to generation through the ages.

Each in his own way and according to the customs of his land will celebrate the family festival which has its foundation in Bethlehem more than 2,000 years ago.

This year, as the bells that ring from the Church of the Nativity at the birth of our saviour, Christmas Day, they will echo over a world which even a little nearer than in any year past to the message they bring. Peace upon earth among men of good will.

In some lands, where the traditions of Italy or Spain are followed, the Christmas crib, representing the scene in the manger, will be the centre of the celebration.

People who belong to the Communist bloc of nations, where Christmas is so far from the traditions, will have more freely this year in their own homes, meetings and rejoicings.

They may not act in winter. Instead of the traditional Christmas tree, they will have a tree made of straw or paper, and so they may have a different kind of celebration.

Gifts in those lands may be exchanged by Grandfather Frost. But he will still be the bringer of good news and good wishes to all.

And while, officially, it is not so usual, many a production play will be staged in the theatres. In most of them, however, there will be no Christmas trees, and so they may have a different kind of celebration.

Whether in Hungary, where the Christmas tree is called a "fagfalu" in the United States, where it is called a "tree", or in the United Kingdom, where it is called a "tree", the Christmas tree will stand open on Christmas Eve in the homes that will be crowded with worshippers.

Christmas in the United States is celebrated early to achieve the record of being one of the shortest Christmas seasons. There is plenty of shopping before dawn, and many restaurants and shops are open all day long.

Christmas Day remains in Britain the great occasion for families to gather round the festive table and to share the modern interior, the festive decorations.

In other countries, a large Christmas population will make the holiday an occasion for shopping without rest.

Italy goes gay with fireworks and fifes

FIREWORKS depicting animals and church processions with fife and Chiave lanterns will be among the many Italian traditional customs which accompany the celebration of the Christmas Eve midnight Mass, the most picturesque of the year.

Many people will visit more than one church service on New Year's Eve in many provinces or before a fancy dinner at home.

At this season, in Italy, traditional fireworks, depicting animals and church processions, which were used only in the small towns of the mountains.

MOOSE SERVED AT ALASKA DINNERS

IN Alaska, Christmas is a picture from a Christmas story book. From the town of Norvik, 300 miles north to the town of Anchorage, and on to the town of Fairbanks, the Christmas story is told in a different way.

The star-year-old should have had her eye closed when first she laid at a 600-odd-ounce Christmas dinner.

At Point Barrow, Alaska, the Christmas dinner is a community affair, with moose and reindeer as the main course.

THE SPORT HOUSE! WISH YOU ALL A MERRY CHRISTMAS

THE END, GENTLEMEN MAKES A LOOK... Round the world

Right future of Kenya a nation with a part for all to play

MR. MACMILLAN'S FRIENDS E. AFRICA TOUR

Impressions of visit described

THE Colonial Secretary, Mr. Macleod, ended his East African tour yesterday, giving his impressions of his visit at a Press conference in Government House, Nairobi.

His departure arrangements had been changed to enable him to have further talks in Uganda with the Governor, Sir Frederick Crawford, and the Kabaka.

Commenting on the publication of the Wild Report, he said that on balance he considered it was the best thing to have published the report before the Government had made a statement on it. It gave the British Government the benefit of hearing public opinion in the territory and the views of people in Legislative Council.

'More hopeful now'

When one reporter said it had been suggested that the Ramage and Wild Reports were "Christmas presents" for Tanganyika and Uganda, and asked whether Kenya was to have one, Mr. Macleod laughed and said he hoped the conference would have success.

One dealer last year told him that the right feeling for the conference would be that the right feeling for Kenya was a whole nation with all peoples contributing to that future.

Since his return to Kenya from Tanganyika, and as a result of talks he had had with African Elected Members, he was a little more thoughtful and hopeful now about the outcome of the talks.

It was difficult to give precise grounds for this but it might be that the position as defined in public speaking was not, in practice, as absolutely rigid as it appeared. It was, in fact, more like a "live wire" than Mr. Macleod added.

Choice of London

Asked what benefit he thought would be gained by holding the conference in London, the Colonial Secretary said it was the practice to hold all major conferences, and he wished those relating to Kenya, in London. It was one of the half a dozen planned for London next year.

It was more convenient for him, as he had to fit in with the British Parliament and also the needs of Kenya Legislative Council. It was also possible to have discussions away from an atmosphere of public meetings that might follow day-by-day discussions held anywhere outside London.

Replying to a question about the cost of the conference, the Governor of Kenya, Sir Patrick Renshaw, who attended the meeting and the speaker would be met by the Kenya Government and it would probably be about £20,000. The exact amount depended on how long the conference went on.

Before answering his question, Mr. Macleod reiterated that he had come to the Colony to prepare himself and his colleagues in London, by making himself better acquainted with those who would be attending and hearing from them personally what their views were. "I had no preconceived ideas about the possible outcome of the conference when I came here and it is not my purpose, nor would it be right, to attempt to forecast what will happen as a result of the conference," he said.

"Essentially a conference is held to discuss a subject and to reach an agreement. It is, therefore, desirable that those who come should not hold preconceived minds but a genuine desire to reach agreement."

He would not be expected to give an agreed result, can be achieved. It is, therefore, desirable that those who come should not hold preconceived minds but a genuine desire to reach agreement."

Asked if he felt the conference was the best way of settling the East African situation, the Colonial Secretary said that the Government would be glad to consider any other method of settling the East African situation.

ACCORDING to shopkeepers all over Nairobi the public has "caught the festive spirit in an uncertain manner" and is spending more money than it has for a few years past.

Persians put guns on Iraq border

WHILE Jordan's Prime Minister accused the Premier of Iraq, Maj. Gen. Kassem, of instigating Iraq from other Arab States, Persia was yesterday moving tanks, artillery and anti-aircraft guns on to the troubled Shatt-el-Arab frontier.

The Jordanian accusations followed a speech by Gen. Kassem earlier this month in which he said that Palestine was carved up by Jordan, Egypt and Israel.

Rebutting his challenge in a broadcast, General Kassem added: "The proposal of the United Nations is considered as one of the formation of a State of Palestine including all its robbed parts."

"We shall help such a Palestinian State with money, arms and every other means," he said.

The Jordanian Prime Minister, Mr. Husayn Mada'i, accused Gen. Kassem of Communism, as well as of inciting Iraq.

Land claimed

The Joint Parliament in the Jordan Government vetoed the plan when the Arab world is co-operating and unity is offered. In fact the previous statement is considered as one of the formation of a State of Palestine including all its robbed parts.

THE POPE SPEAKS ON PROBLEMS OF PEACE

THE Pope, broadcasting through the second Christmas message of his reign, devoted it mainly to the problem of peace in the world.

He said: "The most recent events have revealed an atmosphere of so-called disagreement which has engulfed the world. It is a situation which is not new, but it is a situation which is more serious than ever before."

Asked what benefit he thought would be gained by holding the conference in London, the Colonial Secretary said it was the practice to hold all major conferences, and he wished those relating to Kenya, in London.

so far as to say whether it would be infinitely accepted that the present situation is not ideal. He said: "Only to the extent that we are content with the way things are at present it is clear that there are aspects of it that ought to be altered. Of the degree of agreement that is being sought he said there was no mechanical formula. One must first discuss matters by ear and one could only judge, by sending the annual report of agreement there, whether it was possible to go forward."

Rapid progress

Commenting on the publication of the White Paper in Uganda yesterday the Colonial Secretary said he had found a great deal of appreciation that country, and he thought it would be wise to issue a publication immediately. "There has been no consideration yet of the report by the British Government," he said. The report would be debated in the House of Commons on Wednesday.

"I am not sure that it would be wise to refer to the fact that we are not making any progress at the moment," he said. "I am not sure that it would be wise to refer to the fact that we are not making any progress at the moment."

GAME: THE REPORT AND ITS SEQUEL

It is unfortunate that the Government has found itself unable to accept the Game Policy Committee's Report in its entirety.

Action on poaching

Here it is felt to say that certain detailed proposals for the suppression of poaching have been accepted by the Government some time ago.

Help by hunters

They believe that controlled shooting by respectable hunters will do much to help in obtaining new and better game laws for the Government, and also that the game laws themselves should be improved.

FALSE SNOW AND HOLLY BUT A GENUINE CHRISTMAS

By Jean Vaughan

When all the snow is cottonwool, all the holly artificial and plum pudding served piping hot while the East African hovers about the 100 deg. mark, there is justification for those called from northern countries who sigh that 'Christmas doesn't seem like Christmas in East Africa'.

Perhaps there is more than the climate to blame for that. Truly, but truly, this is a family festival for most of us and many people in East Africa are separated from their families by thousands of miles.

Ask almost anyone who has a family here how they celebrate Christmas—whether a third generation member of a settler family or the young parent of a newly established family—and you will probably hear that they prefer to keep Christmas Day itself for a quiet family gathering. Parties and friends having their place elsewhere in the week.

And for the things that symbolise Christmas, these East Africans mention the old-fashioned simple things imported from the West—decorating the tree and carol dinner, with crackers and paper hats and footlights when there are children involved.

First official bow of Santa Claus

SANTA CLAUS made his first official bow in the following poem, written in 1822 and printed anonymously in the Troy Sentinel on December 23, 1823.

Ever since there has been the official description of the figure which has become popular all over the world, the night before Christmas, when all the good boys and girls are fast asleep, there is a creature, now strange, that comes down from the sky, and wearing a suit hung by the reins, with a long and flowing white beard, and a red and white suit, he comes to the chimney and peeps in to see if there are any good boys and girls.

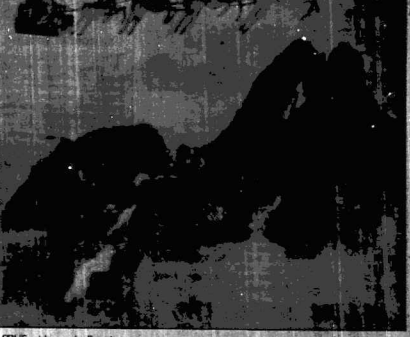

And the clock was all startled with such a noise, and a bundle of logs he found on his back, and he looked like a mad dog just opening his pack.

His eyes he then twinkled, his dimples he set merry, his cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry.

His great little mouth was drawn up like a bow, and the beard on his chin was as white as the snow.

And the trunk on his side he held tight up to the top, and the trunk on his side he held tight up to the top, and the trunk on his side he held tight up to the top.

And the trunk on his side he held tight up to the top, and the trunk on his side he held tight up to the top, and the trunk on his side he held tight up to the top.

The three kittens go to visit Mr. Chips

By ROSINA WRIGHT

THE three kittens were going to visit their friend Mr. Chips the carpenter. A carpenter's workshop is a wonderful place for kittens. There are long curling slavings to push and tom in the air, plenty of pieces of wood to hide behind...

As they trotted along with their tails in the air, the three kittens put up their noses, to sniff. "Smell that!" they cried. Chips is making things this morning. We can smell the glue. They snuggled into the workshop and jumped up on to the bench where Mr. Chips had his glue-pot.

"Not hot!" he cried pushing them away. "You must let the glue cool — you will scold your noses". He got a hammer and broke up a slab of cold glue, but the hard lumps, kittens and cats still get it, so better than glue once they have tasted it.

Scratching happily at their feet was the kitten called Mr. Chips who he was making for Christmas. "It's a doll's name and it's just what I need for this Christmas tree," said Mr. Chips. "It's a doll's name and it's just what I need for this Christmas tree," said Mr. Chips.

Granny Mingo was tickled to warts to present and said she was going to get three new feeling bowls for them, a different colour for each kitten. "I suppose you'll be getting three new ribbons or curtains for their windows?" she said to look at herself and believed

SHADOWS AND MERLIN MAKE A MAGIC CAKE

By MAX TRELL

THE secret telephone rang. Knarf and Hand, the Shadows with their Tumbled-about Names, both ran behind the curtain where the telephone was hidden. Both of them answered at the same time.

"Hello," said Knarf, and "Hello," said Hand together. "Hello," said one shadow and "Hello," said the other shadow. "Hello," said Knarf and Hand together. "Hello," said one shadow and "Hello," said the other shadow.

"I need some help if you're not doing anything important, please come down to my kitchen," Knarf and Hand said they would come right down.

ANSWER TO QUERY ON HOW LONG WINE WILL KEEP

HOW LONG will wine keep on the bottle has been a question which has puzzled many wine lovers. The answer is: It depends on the quality of the wine and the conditions under which it is stored.

Wine will keep on the bottle for a long time if it is stored in a cool, dark place. It will keep for a shorter time if it is stored in a warm, light place. It will keep for a very short time if it is stored in a hot, bright place.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH IN BRITAIN

By C. H. O. ALBERTSON
The British people have a right to free speech, and the Government has a duty to protect it. The right to free speech is a fundamental principle of democracy, and it is essential for the proper functioning of a free society. The Government should not attempt to restrict this right, as it would be a violation of the principles of democracy.

THE right to think and speak freely, subject to the rule of law. With this great principle, the right to publish freely without Governmental permission by license or otherwise, the right to worship, to assemble, to petition, to picket, to demonstrate, and in a word, the right to enjoy the kingdom of the mind in perfect liberty.

These things have been bought with a great price. Abraham Lincoln could say in the famous speech at Gettysburg that the Founding Fathers of the United States had brought forth a new nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

People speak of Magna Carta as a charter of liberties, but the essential freedoms of the British people are the result of centuries of bitter struggle.

The freedom of the Press in Britain is a very highly prized liberty, although it may sometimes be abused. But it is essential to maintain that freedom, as it is the only way to ensure that the Government is held accountable to the people. The Press is the eyes and ears of the public, and it is essential for the proper functioning of a democracy.

British artists join hands in forming new film companies

There has been a growing tendency in Britain, as in other countries, for directors, writers and actors to form their own companies to make the kind of films they themselves like. This movement is led by the British Film Institute, which has been formed by the merger of the British Film Corporation and the National Film Theatre. The new companies will be responsible for the production and distribution of British films, and it is hoped that this will lead to a more diverse and high-quality film industry.

The first production, now in the final stages, is a film about the life of a man who was a pioneer in the development of the film industry. The film is being produced by a new company, and it is expected that it will be a major success.

It is hoped that this movement will lead to a more diverse and high-quality film industry. The new companies will be responsible for the production and distribution of British films, and it is hoped that this will lead to a more diverse and high-quality film industry.

Inspiring effect on pilgrims

BETHLEHEM BELLS TELL THE WORLD

By JOHN DUTTON

EVERY year thousands of pilgrims from all over the world pour into Jerusalem at Christmas time. All say after having spent this time of the year in the Holy City with Bethlehem, the experience is such an emotional highlight that they know it can never again be repeated.

And as they roam around among these hallowed surroundings the expression on their faces and in their awe-inspiring effect the ancient buildings have upon them, because many of these buildings were actually standing during Christ's lifetime.

It is possible, therefore, to view with his own eyes nearly two thousand years ago, that most of these pilgrims are in a highly emotional state as they prepare to enter one of the most hallowed spots they are in for something of a time that do their minds, because these holy places are so filled with the very things which have made mankind's spiritual wealth and mankind's greatest joy.

Bitter tears

Perhaps the most vivid of all the bitter tears when he steps into the Church of the Nativity. He is in a highly emotional state as he enters the Church of the Nativity as the holiest place in Christianity.

He is in a highly emotional state as he enters the Church of the Nativity as the holiest place in Christianity. He is in a highly emotional state as he enters the Church of the Nativity as the holiest place in Christianity.

Close watch

These representatives of the various churches never leave the buildings they are appointed to guard. They sleep in small huts in the vicinity of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, and are kept under a close watch.

Six Masses

But nothing obstructive has to be done there because the Greeks and Latins (Roman Catholics) of the Holy Sepulchre, and the Armenians, Copts and Syrians, cannot come as a method of observing the ancient times, and so watch their pillars with their own eyes.

All are, however, that the church is a place of prayer and devotion. The church is a place of prayer and devotion. The church is a place of prayer and devotion.

The bells in the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem have heard the world over by radio news Christmas Night.

Clubs hold parties for children

Most convenient time for the Christmas dinner, owing to the lighting problem and the dinner's early bedtime.

After the first, the home-made pudding - made and decorated by the children - is served. The children are then taken to the cinema for a short film.

Parties soon for supper, talk cards or a word game and whatever the children like to do. After the first, the home-made pudding - made and decorated by the children - is served.

The most popular of the children's parties is the one held at the home of the children's club. The children are taken to the cinema for a short film.

For an invitation to both decorate the tree or to share a family dinner. This sort of invitation is so general that most of the girls staying at the Y.W.C.A. hostel in Nairobi go away for the holiday, though there is no Christmas Eve party in the afternoon for the new year.

CAROL SERVICE

Christmas morning sees a carol service at the hotel and the evening is one of high festivity, with a dinner to celebrate from the tree, carols followed by the distribution of presents from the tree, carols and dancing and a film show to end the evening.

As in England, the breakfast is a special affair. The Christmas Day visit home rules are suspended in the hotels and friends.

He said that the Government would not accept recruitment terms which were not the same as those of the boys recruited in other countries.

Recreational body aims to entertain Colony's masses

PRESIDENTS of sporting and recreation associations in the Colony will be invited to the Christmas Dinner, to be held at the Grand Hotel on December 23rd. The dinner will be held in aid of the Kenya Recreation and Playing Club, which is a body which will be formed early in the New Year.

Mr. Harris said in Nairobi yesterday that the association - which is designed for "bringing sport to the masses" - would deal with recreation in its widest sense.

"We will act as a coordinating body for all the associations in the Colony but we will also arrange things like concerts, band performances, hobbies, country-dancing and anything else which will assist people in the proper use of their leisure time," he said.

WOULD ACT AS AGENTS

The new association would act as agents for the International Recreation Association and would act as agents in Kenya for the National Playing Fields Association of Great Britain.

It was hoped that they would be helped by both these associations and several trusts, particularly in America, would be approached. "We hope to act as agents for these trusts and advise them on the use of any funds they might donate in Kenya," Mr. Harris said.

Kenya cricket victory was unimpressive

FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Kenya maintained an unbroken record in international cricket matches when disposing of Uganda by 30 runs on the 5th Test ground on Monday. But the victory was unimpressive because the Kenyan players were not up to the mark in the general performance of the match.

The Kenyan batsmen were not up to the mark in the general performance of the match. The Kenyan bowlers were not up to the mark in the general performance of the match.

In fact, reviewing the game, only a few Kenyan players stood out with no loss to their reputation.

What a contrast this was to the fielding in the 1st Test. The Kenyan bowlers were not up to the mark in the general performance of the match.

Kenya had a very excellent batting display on Monday. The Kenyan bowlers were not up to the mark in the general performance of the match.

UGANDA SELECTORS SET EXAMPLE TO COLONY

I BEGIN this Commentary with the pleasant task of wishing all Kenya sportsmen and sports-women a very happy Christmas and a most successful New Year. To those who have given the contributory grateful thanks are due. And in this connection these hard-working officials, club secretaries, merit special mention.

Contacts are the essence of football and without them many 'howling and committal' matches would be lost. The first few days of the season are the most important.

Cricket criticism. I am sure that the Kenya cricket selectors will be able to give the best team to play in the coming season.

With the present state of affairs in Kenya, it is not surprising that the selectors will be able to give the best team to play in the coming season.

THE BEAUTIFULLY BUILT TAUNUS

In Germany they call it "der Bergfreude" ... the lover of mountains. Throughout the Continent, the Taunus is known for its wonderful "ride", the way it fits forward and holds on the road under the eager, surging power of that short-stroke German-built engine.

The Taunus has already shown the world what it's made of. For months now, the experts have been testing the Taunus in East Africa ... really trying to break its spirit. Their verdict is that, in its class and at its price, the Taunus is the most reliable of road under the eager, surging power of that short-stroke German-built engine.

BATTING COLLAPSES IN GRENADA

Tourists seem set for victory in first match

DESPITE a batting collapse, the M.C.C. looked set for a winning start to their West Indies tour as they scored the first and best day's play against Windward Islands at Grenada. The Islanders (10 and 69 for three) were only 27 runs ahead of the M.C.C. (89 and 107) by the second innings without loss. Freddie Trueman and Alan Moss handled the side out for 70 in the islanders' second innings. But the M.C.C. bowlers were playing the old familiar role of making up for earlier failures by the batsmen.

Cricket records at East London

A FIRST-CLASS cricket record was set and another equalled in London as the two sides were divided twice for a total of 56 runs in the County Cup match at East London. The M.C.C. bowlers had an innings of 102 and 107 for three wickets.

IMPALA SCRAPE HOME WITH SOLE GOAL WIN

IMPALA, having already made sure of promotion to the senior European men's hockey trophy, the Panthers, were decidedly lively to kick their final league fixture in midweek. In a comprehensive away match Impala's passing and teamwork showed by comparison with the other teams. The result, a 2-0 win, has taken them to the league championship and they won by a single goal only.
