important part in our war effort and as we cannot aid our man-power from outside, except for purely military purposes, we shall probably have to face in due course a measure of reduction of our local residents if the task of maintaining the forces is to be adequately discharged.

The East African Economic Council is now under review as part of its many different responsibilities, and we shall expect to see that the Government is in relation to the civil effort here and elsewhere in the Territories. The Government which it must have of centralized direction and planning of economic life is to have any real meaning and to properly represent a paper ideal.

Every man and woman in East Africa is at the disposal of the Government. The Government is empowered to dictate the nature of their service to the common cause and to the war effort.

It is a pleasure to me to see that the Government is empowered to dictate the nature of their service to the common cause and to the war effort. It is a pleasure to me to see that the Government is empowered to dictate the nature of their service to the common cause and to the war effort.

It calls for sacrifice from our side of money, both through prompt payment of taxation and through the payment of the cost for which we are fighting. It calls for men prepared and anxious to play their part, whether as holders of positions in such units as the Military Labour Corps. The Government of this country has full power to demand the service of any one of us.

What a magnificent thing it would be if we could see the Government waiting for compulsory service, care forward with their offer to join in any work of the country which it must have of centralized direction and planning of economic life is to have any real meaning and to properly represent a paper ideal.

The latest news of the war in East Africa was given in a communiqué from Cairo last night. It makes it clear that the Italian advance in British Somaliland has been repulsed and British forces have continued their activities in the bordering Italian territory.

The inquiry into the circumstances of the sinking of the French submarine U-107 is continuing. It is believed that the vessel was sunk by a mine laid by the British.

The King and Queen visited the Midlands today and it was placed in the programme of the Royal Indian Army Service Corps. The visit was marked by the Italian ceremony of the Cold and Silver. It is an ancient custom and is a token of welcome to the Italian army.

THE BRITISH EXPORT DRIVE

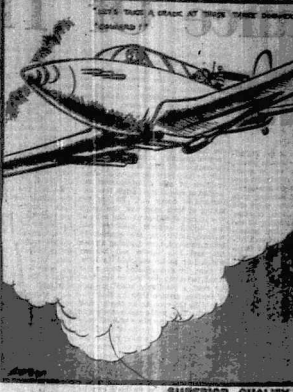

ROBERT MACKAY

Explains The Export Councils' Functions
British industries are increasingly engaged on plans for developing their export trade, and no other aspect of the British economy is receiving greater attention from the British Government than the export drive.

The main objective of the present export policy has been to increase Great Britain's foreign exchange resources.

In order to support the British position as a world power, the Government has to support the world economy. Great Britain always has had a surplus of foreign exchange in order to maintain a balance of trade. The Government's policy is to secure a surplus of foreign exchange resources, which will be used to finance its foreign operations.

In order to secure this surplus, the Government has to take measures to increase its exports. The main objective of the present export policy has been to increase Great Britain's foreign exchange resources.

for many years by the trading methods of the world—Great Britain was the first to introduce protective measures to protect her trade. The Government's policy is to secure a surplus of foreign exchange resources, which will be used to finance its foreign operations.

Charm depends on Freshness Appeal

Whatever she goes, she's the centre of attraction—and, let us admit it, more distinctly distinguished. But she is not by any means Botticelli (or any other) beauty, and her features are never likely to be perpetuated on canvas by a Demaree or a Brockhurst. Where they are the secret lies in her remarkable charm. Let's see what it is: her constant Freshness Appeal—her continual air of composure and fragrant, coolness no matter how hot and oppressive the weather; her ability to remain brightly cool and calmly collected at all times and in all places; Coy Eau de Cologne (Gordon Rouge) is her secret. Windmills her face, even the most insouciant bath won't guarantee Freshness Appeal all day long, the windmills adds that Coy Eau de Cologne and the secret lies in her ability to remain brightly cool and calmly collected at all times and in all places; Coy Eau de Cologne (Gordon Rouge) is her secret.

CORRECTIONS FOR THE RED CROSS

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard."
Sir—May I through your paper make a correction in the Red Cross committee. I wrote from experience in regard to the Red Cross committee. I was then living in a hotel outside Nairobi and was not acquainted with the staff of the Red Cross at that time. The material was sent to me from the Red Cross headquarters in the past. I regret a good deal that I could not send the Red Cross committee more excellent work and were able to send many orders weekly to the Headquarters in Nairobi. I feel sorry for the Headquarters in Nairobi who could be engaged in their work. I think it would have been money and material, and the staff of the Red Cross would be better off.
