CYPRUS EXECUTIONS

Savage anti-British riots in Athens
UNOFFICIAL APPEAL BY MR. DULLES DISCLOSED

QHOS, officers and policemen closed in Nicosia yesterday as Greek church bells tolled for two Greek-Cyriots hanged in Nicosia's Central Prison at dawn for terrorism.

Cyriots fanned out all over the city and stood by to check any hostile demonstrations when news of the execution, the first in the current Cyprus revolution, were announced. At one point they used some square stone-throwing crowds. Other incidents were reported from Kyrenia, where an immediate curfew was imposed at once after a British medical officer was injured in a bomb attack, and at Limassol, where two houses were thrown in injurious one member of the security forces.

The execution of the two terrorists, Michael Karatzos, 23, and Athanasios Dimitriou, 26, came after repeated appeals to the Government of State. Mr. Dulles unofficially appealed to the British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, in Paris last week to delay the execution of the two Cyprus terrorists. It was stated that Mr. Dulles raised the matter when he met Mr. Lloyd informally at the recent session of the Nato Ministerial Council.

In Nicosia yesterday morning several hundred people gathered outside the Presidential Castle to witness the execution. The security forces opened fire on the crowd, killing several people. The British troops were ordered to open fire on the crowd, killing several people. The British troops were ordered to open fire on the crowd, killing several people.

CENTRAL AFRICA'S COMES OF AGE

Salisbury looks to future

SALISBURY, foremost city of Central Africa, east of the Victoria Falls industrial center, celebrated its 21st anniversary on May 3. Messages of congratulation have poured in from a class of cities picked by promoters beneath the Kopje 60 years ago.

In 1875, the first stone was laid. Now, 1936 stands the anniversary. It is the date which marks the growth of what is now one of the most rapidly developing cities in the world. Its development is the story of a sergeant, hunting for a site, and a contractor, building an industrial center, and a settler, who in the last 60 years has seen the spot a 10 times.

On September 10, 1875, an expedition of the East India Company set out to find a site for a station on the Victoria Falls. The expedition was led by Major-General Bullen. He was accompanied by a number of men, including a sergeant, a contractor, and a settler. They found a site on the Victoria Falls, and the station was built. It was named Salisbury in honor of the then Governor of Rhodesia, Lord Salisbury.

The station was built on a site which was then a wilderness. It was a place where a few men had set up a small settlement. The settlement was built on a site which was then a wilderness. # Gibraltar Builds New Hotels To Meet The Tourist Influx

By HAROLEY WALL

GIBRALTAR, 252-year-old British stronghold and gateway to the Mediterranean, is rushing the completion of two modern hotels to meet the demands of an ever-increasing influx of tourists.

In spite of Spain's determination, since Queen Elizabeth II visited Gibraltar, that the United Kingdom should not be forced to take any action which would result in the loss of the territory, the British Government is determined to maintain its sovereignty over the territory.

Spain's Fleet and other naval units make Gibraltar their favorite port of call during the winter and spring months. Gibraltar is also a major Atlantic Treaty Organization base.

The decision recently announced by the American Congress to transfer the Gibraltar to the United States has been widely reported in the Spanish press. The British Government has been quick to react to the news, and has been busy in the past few days in the United States.

Foreigners are allowed to visit a large portion of the town of Gibraltar, but not the Rock. The Rock is the main fortification of Gibraltar, and is the seat of the British Government.

INDIA RESETTLES A LION FAMILY

By Peter Jackson

A FAMILY of Indian lions from the survivors of the species of Asia, which was thought to be restricted in a certain part of Northern India, are now being resettled in the animal parks of the Government of Mysore, India.

A lion was brought out of the area which was thought to be the last remaining area of the Asiatic lion in the year 1941. It was brought to the Mysore Zoo, where it was kept for some time. It was then sent to the Mysore Zoo, where it was kept for some time. It was then sent to the Mysore Zoo, where it was kept for some time.

The very herds of Indian lions, a few years ago, were thought to be confined to a small area in the district of Gujarat, India. It was there that the Asiatic lion was found.

It is now thought that the Asiatic lion was once widespread in the Indian subcontinent. It was found in the Tigris and Euphrates valleys, and in the Indian subcontinent.

Missionary In The Slums Of Johannesburg

THIS week I am on a dangerous ground. Among the books which have been sent for review there is a copy of Father Truger, Huddellson's Wrought For Your Comfort. It is already famous — or it is already famous — according to the motto — according to the motto — you look at things.

And it is no use trying to take an impartial view of it. In fact I should say it would be impossible to do so. Either you are deeply impressed by it or it makes you furious. Speaking personally, then, I admit without hesitation to belonging to the former group.

AS a Christian, the Father is uncomprehending in a full measure of affection, and I think it is in accordance with the Father's teaching, his expiations and demands which he sees it, instead of faith, to be fair and generous. After eight years' work in a missionary in the slums of Johannesburg, the covers remain the same. The Father's teaching is not so good. He therefore writes in a book which may be for the personal relationship which there is with the Father, and his stand in the region of human experience. It is a world-wide controversy, and the book was written in the latter part of his missionary work, and is a very quality episode in his career. It is a very interesting and important book, and one which is well worth reading. It is a book which is well worth reading. It is a book which is well worth reading.

the great names of latter literature. It is a book which is well worth reading. It is a book which is well worth reading. It is a book which is well worth reading.

Other African books are not so interesting and thoughtful. One is South Africa, a Study, by the late Dr. G. M. Theobald. It is a book which is well worth reading. It is a book which is well worth reading. It is a book which is well worth reading.

There is not much room for the Christian who would like to mention a book which is well worth reading. It is a book which is well worth reading. It is a book which is well worth reading.

AN ACCIDENT LED THIS MAN TO BECOME AN ARTIST

FIVE years ago, a young African electrician fell 20 feet from a rooftop on which he was working and broke his wrist. This painful incident played its part in turning him into one of Kenya's successful artists by missing the fracture, he decided that there were other ways of bringing light to Kenya besides being an electrician.

The determination of 22-year-old Edward Gitau from Kambo's Gambia Division, has not only taken him into a job which holds his interest, but he works as an artist in Nairobi — but it is not as a professional artist that he has become interested in art. He has a keen eye for the beauty of East Africa.

From behind this quiet-looking Kenya artist his eyes have seen pictures wherever he looks. These days a sketchbook with him on all the time, and he records the life of his people — in their villages, in the schools, in offices, in the markets and the lanes. His sketches have a richness of movement which is uncommon; his portraits of the African people are vital and living. Yet his dream world is that he could share his love of art with others of his race.

"One day," he says, "it meant happiness. But few people appear to have any real interest in the beauty in line and colour."

He remembers that the mother made the traditional earthenware cooking pots on the Kilimbs and that her work was referred to by the people of the village into which the family lived. It was this moment Gitau got to art for his hobby. He did not duplicate her pots, but today her son finds a beauty in them which his mother cannot see.

Yet his very happiness creates, for him loneliness. It is for this reason that he believed painting with the white African brother was the best way of meeting his family's need. Edward Gitau found no such encouragement in the school where he was studying. He was not alone in his love of art. Another artist, a student of the same school, however, was an art master and visited him and Gitau, and he had no objection to getting to Makerere College and to further art studies.

But the business of making things claimed him; he had the Overseas Pilot Corporation's Training scheme at Nairobi, in Tanzania. He came back to Kenya again in 1954.

After his accident, and while his wrist was mending, Gitau passed away little hours by sketching. The old tradition that was still there in his mind, as he became interested in a student, and decided to make art his hobby.

The picture which was for Gitau a special prize in his drawing, a student. Competition shows an aptitude causing formerly down out of Kenya's art world now. It is almost photographic in its striking beauty.

He has no intention of giving up his art. He would not ask his friend Gitau and will enable him to study on a remuneration which is not satisfactory. He says he would regularly show his days in African vernacular traditional and in English-language newspapers where statements, he studies constantly and quietly, he is hearing and has been read in the top.

LOOKING BACK

20 YEARS

THEY are in sight, the newspaper reader and radio listener of this troubled week of 1936 had the greatest difficulty in getting away from the problems and dangers that surrounded the end of the Abyssinian War.

Whenever we looked in those hectic times, we seemed to see photographs of Mussolini striding in Rome, Bechica inspecting his troops, or people fleeing from Addis Ababa.

As the week opened, we read in the papers and heard on the radio that the British and French had agreed to an armistice and that the Emperor was about to return to his throne.

The question is the League of from Dyffrost to Palestine on the first stage of his long exile. Finally, when he got to Italy he had to fight his way through the doors with weapons—Mussolini had decided that his shoes were worth putting on even in the most crowded white chambers.

Mussolini, Mussolini was something in Rome that Ethiopia would be Italian for evermore and he formally assumed it as part of the new Fascist Roman Empire.

While the other Great Powers congratulated and offered about whether there was any point in maintaining neutrality, the Italian forces gradually moved over to Addis Ababa. They also gave the British and French the opportunity to get out of the League.

The question is the League of Nations was. Was it to be a League of Nations? Was it to be a League of Nations? Was it to be a League of Nations? Was it to be a League of Nations? Was it to be a League of Nations?

The British Government's Foreign Secretary, Anthony Eden, has said that the British had no intention of making any special concession to the Emperor, but that they were prepared to consider any proposal which was put forward to them.

Finally, the Italian Government's Foreign Minister, Ciano, has said that Italy was prepared to accept any proposal which was put forward to them, but that they were prepared to consider any proposal which was put forward to them.

The Emperor's Government's Foreign Minister, Aklilu Aemba, has said that Ethiopia was prepared to accept any proposal which was put forward to them, but that they were prepared to consider any proposal which was put forward to them.

Heroes of the Emergency

★ The first strokes of a daylight penetrated the bamboo forest of the Kilimanjaro, a young giant of a man tiptoed stealthily towards a sleeping terrorist.

Parade, gun at the ready, he crept right to the feet of a recumbent Mass Mau general.

He found it hard to see that the other members of his band were in position, gave a sharp order and opened fire.

Before the attack it was known that 27 terrorists were in the forest and that there were 100 Mau fighters and two gunners with whom they were to meet.

D.C. urges land change on leaders in CONSOLIDATION IN ANZANZA

LEADERS of some Local Councils have been urged by the District Commissioner to carry out a land consolidation programme by their own efforts.

The D.C. Mr. Halsey, announced at a recent meeting of the District Commissioner for consolidating land in Anzanza. He stated that for some years the Government had been trying to persuade the Local Councils to take steps to replace the traditional method of land holding which would allow them to benefit from the new method.

Due to the consolidation of the land, however, the Local Councils have been asked to take steps to replace the traditional method of land holding which would allow them to benefit from the new method.

He told the Councils: "You have been asked to take steps to replace the traditional method of land holding which would allow them to benefit from the new method."

Soil examples: "The Government is not prepared to give you land unless you can show that you are capable of using it."

Altitude record: "J. H. Roberts, chairman of the Mt. Kenya Club, has just set a new altitude record of 19,000 ft. on Mt. Kenya."

RAIN ROBS TOURISTS OF STIFFEST TEST TO DATE

Selectors have to wait for answers to their problems

From LIN HUTTON, Bradford, Thursday

RAIN, which prevented a ball being bowled yesterday, again held up the start of play on the second day of the match between the Australian cricketers and the Africans today. The rain stopped shortly after 10 o'clock this morning, when play was under way, but just as the ground staff went out to work on the pitch, more rain fell, causing the covers to be replaced.

Rain stopped again shortly after noon and the umpires were soon to inspect the wicket at 12.15 p.m. when the rain again fell, but this time it was not so heavy and the start at 12.15 p.m. Yorkshire was in a better position than it was at the start of the first day.

Changes in both sides

With the pitch, likely to be a little better than on the first day, the selectors have made a change in both sides.

Matthews due today

Stanley Matthews, the international star who played so well a brilliant game for England against the Africans in the first day, is expected to start in Nairobi by late today.

He will play his first match in Nairobi on Saturday at the Afrasia Stadium, appearing for an F.C. against a Kenya County XI.

On the side opening announced yesterday in Zaka, Wicket-keeper, Ian Botham, and Yorkshire batsman, A. C. Jones, who was injured in a motor accident in England, were expected to appear for the Africans today. Close, who opened for England in the first day, is expected to return to the team today, having been injured in a motor accident in England.

Important questions

Yorkshire's batsmen completely changed the whole character of the match. It would have been an important match and provided the answer to the question of whether the Africans could handle the rain. The rain was expected to be a test of the Africans' ability to handle the rain. The rain was expected to be a test of the Africans' ability to handle the rain.

Change to spin

In the third over after lunch the selectors gave a new spin bowler a chance and replaced Archer with Davidson. The spin bowler was Davidson. The spin bowler was Davidson.

Question: No. 11 was how long the Australian batsmen were in the field. The Australian batsmen were in the field for a long time. The Australian batsmen were in the field for a long time.

CHAIRMAN'S INTERIM STATEMENT

As shareholders, you will be interested to know that I am glad to report a progress over the past 12 months as compared with the corresponding period of the previous year. It is a pleasure to state that the company has not only managed to keep its working capital in good order but has also been able to pay a dividend for the first time in 12 months.

The main reason for this is the fact that the company has been able to secure a steady increase in its turnover during the past 12 months, while at the same time it has managed to keep its costs under control. This has resulted in a net profit for the year of £10,000, which is a record for the company.

I am very pleased to report that our Expansion Programme is well advanced and that we have secured the necessary finance to carry out our plans without disrupting the operations of the existing plant in any way. Our programme for the year is to increase our production capacity by 50% and to expand our sales into new markets. It is our intention to invest a further £20,000 in the business during the next 12 months, which will enable us to meet the growing demand for our products in the East African region.

An Island Of Work And Hope

I HAVE just followed the footsteps of many African farmers over an island in Lake Victoria. The island is called Sayoni. It is 12 miles across. The lake from that other Masai Maasai island, Mageta.

They raise eggs. They plant and cultivate and covered with banana so thick that it was impossible to walk anywhere except along the shore. Today, a crop yield of 11 tons of bananas from one acre of land. From massive areas of 100 acres, they produce 1100 tons a year. That the administration of the Lake Fisheries, who have taken to the island and what has been achieved on Sayoni.

Mr. 'Beefcake' - Hollywood's

Biblical Hero

BY SELWYN VAUGHAN

LARGE robust and extraordinarily healthy-looking Victor Mature has a reputation for his ability as an actor. Only one person knows that a man can't act. And that's my mother.

Victor also tells the very amusing story about himself at the time when he was turned down for membership by the Hollywood branch of the League of Nations. He says that he was turned down because he was too big.

THE trick of the matter is, of course, that he was never really hired as an actor when he first gave a role for 14 years ago. They liked his looks, his build and his strength, and even so his mother, who had a very strong idea about turning him into a "beefcake" which had been described as the display of a man's good looks as a position.

It was in "The Great Weight" that he first displayed his muscular physique. He had a very large head and a very large neck. He was a very strong man. He was a very strong man.

"Let me tell you what they have taught me to read and write," the old man said. "They have taught me to read and write my own name. From my wife, Boudha, we spell her name and I can write the names of all my friends."

"Do you know how they taught us?" he continued. "It is very simple. We people working in groups and those going with cattle herds, are given small placards with the letters of our names and other letters is added and in a short time still unable to read, on the other the spelling of the names of all become known to us. 2596 ANGLIA - by Ford of England.

A clean pair of heels
THAT'S what you see of the Ford Anglia - particularly in heavy traffic. Drivers of larger cars watch nervously as the responsive, manoeuvrable Anglia slips in and out, taking full advantage of its compact size and quick pick-up.
Out on the open road, the Anglia handles perfectly. The pulling power on hills is really surprising and whatever the speed, whatever the conditions, the Anglia holds the road like a stroke of paint.
In passenger comfort, the Anglia is practically a big car. Wide opening doors, clear vision windows, ample leg-room and comfortable foam rubber seats that give both front and rear passengers a serene between the axles ride. Independent front suspension cuts down pitch and sway to a minimum, even on the roughest macadam. Luggage space is generous: two full-width interior parcel trays take care of odds and ends and there's a top boot for luggage.
Finally, a very important point - the Anglia saves you money. You save initially on the low purchase price, and from the day the car is yours, you continue to save. petrol, general running costs and maintenance. Why not go down to Hughes and test-drive an Anglia soon?
P.S. The light handling Anglia is making it top favour among the ladies!

FOR the first time since the war began, the churchmen in Rome sided this week for and against Italy. First of all the Pope said that the Italian victory was "the triumphal cry of a great and good people." The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Lang, countered with charges of "spreading peace and civilisation by bomb."

In Ghisla itself, the situation was growing quieter, although the Italians were being claimed that the Emperor had given orders before he fled for Addis Ababa to be destroyed. The Emperor's army had been repulsed with a brand of the Italian Bank of Italy. And Mussolini said his two top job operations during the most ignominious Roman of them all, called "extraordinary merit."

THE WEEK'S LEADERS

ford University Institute of Colonial Studies and was a member of the Advisory Committee on Education in the Colonies from 1939 to 1945.

Mr. Vasey, who attended the conference before attending for some time after discussions in London, was the only one introduced a British subject.

It was that 16 per cent of Kenya Budget which was devoted to education and expressed doubt whether other countries were doing as much.

Other champion of the cause was Mr. A. G. H. B. President of the Nairobi African Congress, Mr. Arwing-Koche, who, in a Congress policy statement at Nairobi yesterday, claimed that more than half the African children in Nairobi could not be accommodated in existing schools. He called for separate boarding schools for African boys and girls. This might have been just another cry for help for the Government already in the early months of economic distress.

Mr. Arwing-Koche, who is a member of the Government, said that when the Government had already the cost of implementing that of the Charter referring to compulsory free education for African children to make a substantial contribution to the African community as a whole, it was not reasonably fair that universal education is a universal ideal and it will that the African Government recognises it as the basis of all progress. The outstanding simply is finance. But the Government will have to be accused, from time to time, of having by far the greater facilities for education, that is inevitable so long as the Government's income.

The Nairobi District African Congress would be doing its best to face the situation instead of waiting for the whole lot, it directed its attention to finding ways of gradually financing and developing the education system.

KENYA'S tourist industry had fully recovered from the slump last year, when 35,722 visitors entered the Colony, the record of the E.A. Tourist Association. The figure best the previous record, established in 1952.

There has been a similar recovery in the other East African territories. In Kenya, which reported 1955, the estimated total of 3,526, in 1956, has been increased to the figure of 7,247 for last year.

Other East African territories not including Zanzibar have also seen an increase in the number of tourists. In Tanganyika, which reported 1955, the estimated total of 1,500, in 1956, has been increased to the figure of 2,747 for last year.

Increased charges were first contemplated in 1954 when it was announced that the E.A.P. was to be dealing in relation to the Kenya Budget. Mr. Don Small, then Minister of Finance, announced a revised tariff structure.

It was right in giving a preliminary estimate of the Electric Power Authority that the increase in power limits allowed by law. Valid reasons will be given though they do not seem to be accepted by the public. In view of the fact that there is no conviction that unemployment is being reduced and effort expended to achieve increased efficiency.

Three main reasons were given for the increase in capital expenditures, high charges for better roads and the raising costs of labour and materials. These factors are being considered by the Government. Mr. Don Small was quoted as saying that every big business would be affected by the increase in power. ATEMPTED poisoning, the charge of a wounded leopard, a host of snakes outside their wilderness home by members of a hostile tribe are but a few of the outstanding milestones in the lives of Mr. and Mrs.
George Rhoad of Nairobi, who have devoted more than 50 years to mission work and the welfare of the African people in Kenya and Ethiopia.

Last week the grey-haired missionary and his wife celebrated their 50th wedding

a Nairobi hotel surrounded by their family and friends.
They looked back over the years and recalled the many adventures.

Mr. Rhoad was born in America in a frontier settlement. He is a Fellowship. But it was in Kenya that he came to know the African. There he met his wife—then Miss Betty Rosenstock—who joined him.

The story of Mr. Rhoad begins in the city of Washington, Pennsylvania, where, as a young man, he was employed in a mechanical workshop. He was one of many young men who were among wild tribes had not yet been tamed.

It was at an evangelist meeting that he made his decision to become a missionary and later came the dedication of his life to a work in Africa. It was a grave step and one which met with much opposition from his relatives. He was discouraged.

Before he left America he was told he would not live in the tropics and he was warned to go to Africa.
Africa. He did not allow the warning to influence his decision.

He moved to the top of Mount Kenya. In a mission station they founded, there it will flourish.

It would require a book to tell the story of his life in Africa. He has written

THE RISE AND FALL OF A DICTATOR

THERE can be few more pathetic figures than the fallen dictator. One of our most outstanding modern examples is it is almost impossible to picture a wader golf than between the petty and vainglorious circumstances in which, circumstances in which, they had undertaken the overtakes by the momentum of the mountainous events they had undertaken. They came, broken and discredited men, to the end of their turbulent career.

It was a tragedy of the first order, a tragedy of the first order, a tragedy of the first order. It was a tragedy of the first order, a tragedy of the first order, a tragedy of the first order. It was a tragedy of the first order, a tragedy of the first order, a tragedy of the first order.
