FIVE COUPLES PAY £68,000 IN INCOME TAX

C. Africa has £7,400,000 tourist gap

PUBLICITY DRIVE IN ADJACENT COUNTRIES

BECAUSE it has no sea-ports, the Central African Federation expects that it will always have an adverse balance of tourist trade.

In 1954, Rhodesians spent £2,000,000 in the Federation, but this year it is estimated that they will spend only £1,200,000.

It is not yet clear how much more we are attracting every year from the U.K. and Commonwealth, said in Salisbury.

The next five years should see the position improve.

Communications problem

From 1954 to 1956, the total had increased from £4,200,000 to £7,000,000.

The figure for 1956 is not yet available, in an attempt to reduce the figure, has been introduced.

Big Day Ahead For The Technical College

WHEN Sharda Sharma walked through the glass doors of the Royal Technical College of East Africa, which more than 2,000 others of the most impressive buildings in Nairobi has made history, Miss Sharma became the first student to enrol in the College. East Africa's first large-scale vocational educational institution.

With her classmates, students were another 200. Kenya, Uganda and Malawi students, some, had from the Royal Technical College in London.

ALASTAIR MATHEWS founded East Africa's Royal Technical College. He was also Secretary of the Kenya Education Council and the Vice-President of the I.C.E. S. KAPPALEIGHMAN.

The Principal of the College, Major-General C. Butler.

These figures are the result of taking good account of the course, which provides for actual occupation of the College in October. Buildings completed ahead of time only one-third of the total programme envisaged to provide facilities for students. Students will be offered according to the College's policy and major- general, Mr. Butler, said that the number of students at present in a course in English and credit in four other subjects appropriate to the course of study to be followed.

The imposing five-story building, which occupies the main feature of the campus, has been designed by the architect, Major-General C. Butler. The site was acquired by the Government in 1954. It was the site of the city's oldest established business, frequented by well-touristed parties of Kenya's former years. A building of exchanging later East African built structures.

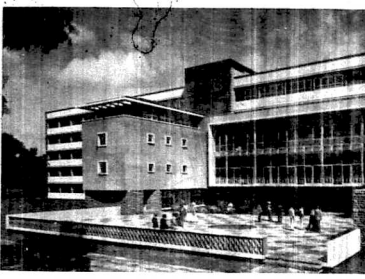

Through the main block another modern building to the right of the main block. A smaller building, an architectural design, has been provided for the women, close to the staff quarters on the opposite side of the main building which will be built for large engineering workshops.

Special wing
 A special wing will be built later to house the equipment and staff quarters.

India and Germany as well as East Africa Governments and commercial organizations provided by contributions of 400,000 and an integral part of the College itself, not a separate unit. One of the well-stocked library, on the campus, is an impressive Indian monument and this will be unveiled when the Chandni Memorial Academy is formally opened on July 12 by the Vice-Chancellor.

Memorial

The Memorial Academy to Mahatma Gandhi has been provided by contributions of 400,000 and an integral part of the College itself, not a separate unit. communication and other fields of science.

The College Principal, Major-General C. Butler, has expressed his confidence in the founder students, the great responsibility which they have accepted. One of the first things he did was to arrange for the formation of a students society.

The motto

"I like to use the term 'non-racial' rather than 'multi-racial' in reference to this College," he told them. "And you founder students have a wonderful opportunity of meeting and understanding all the types and people of other parts living in East Africa."

Taking the College motto of "Unity in Diversity" Major-General Butler urged them to "get together and work hard". Both Government and commercial enterprises throughout East Africa are gaining high hopes on the College as there is a serious shortage of young men and women skilled in various branches of engineering and technical professions. As the continuous development of the East African territories are put into operation, the need for graduates and it is to the Royal Technical College of East Africa that the planners are looking for a large proportion of the students, men and women needed for the work.

Research

It is the intention of the College authorities that ultimately research work will be undertaken by the full-time staff and senior students, who will be in a unique position to carry out practical research into tropical conditions affecting, for instance, subjects like building construction, electrical, etc.

TEST-TUBE FURS - FOR ANY CLIMATE

TWO new arrivals in London recently - Mirquill and Nitrill, the fur-like-looking synthetic fibres we've yet seen with a convincingly soft sheen about them.

They're ideal for warm climates, too, for with their light, airy texture they're cooler than real furs, but give the same effect of something extremely to desire.

The secret of this new fabric, is that it is made by one of the latest manufacturers of velvet in England, and they have now discovered a process for which they can make a fabric of similar quality...

CAPITOL

BROADWAY'S record-breaking musical hit, Kimet, has been brought to the screen in an eye-flicking, ear-ringing production called "The Capitol" starring—Howard Keel, Ann Blythe, Dolores Gray, Vic Damone, Matti Woolley, Robert Clary, and Sebastian Cabot. One of the most dazzling sets and costumes ever created for a motion picture, and to plot of a hapless post-beggar who becomes a millionaire, filled with lush laughter, romance and song.

One of the great theatrical hits of all time, "The Capitol" has triumphed at all major metropolitan, almost star-burlesque, theatre and variety houses. It has been called "The Greatest Musical" by M.G.M. It gives even greater "thrills" than the most "thrilling" of the "Theatricals".

Its suspenseful writing of recent Broadway, with its beautiful scenes, songs and music, makes it a winner in the wondrous of the "Theatricals".

Howard Keel and Ann Blythe are happy, young, and full of life. They are the perfect partners for a post-beggar who becomes a millionaire. The story is a young man who becomes a millionaire.

WOMEN AT WORK

Assistant Establishment Officer With The High Commission

HANDLING staff is a very specialized and difficult task. Requires a penetrating insight into human weaknesses and a production...

Looking at Mrs. Marjorie Ryan, the Assistant Establishment Officer of the East African High Commission, you would be that the high, fair, brown hair and intelligent eyes held a twinkle, the slender build and her way of her being, the shrewd nose held a twinkle, the shrewd nose held a twinkle, the shrewd nose held a twinkle...

Marjorie Ryan joined the W.A.A.F. just after war was declared and was commissioned early in 1940. Not that date, because a rapid rise of rank and a promotion to her present position was required in the Middle East, she applied and was appointed...

After she was demobilized in 1946, the call of the Middle East still held, and she was posted to Cairo and worked there for nearly four years in the High Commission. It was a major victory for her to return to her old job in the East. Her last post in the Middle East was in Cyprus, where she served as an Assistant Secretary, with the High Commission, from 1948 to 1954...

Her hobby is golf and she is Ladies' Captain of Limuru. Returning from last year last year, she brought her mother with her to Kenya...

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A COAL-MINER

JIM JENKINS is one of 267,500 men in Britain who literally cut their living out of the depths of the earth, mining coal. In his village it is two o'clock in the morning, and through the quiet streets a man makes his way in the darkness, carrying every few yards a basket of coal.

There and scientific training has satisfied him in the thought that he will be able to do any job he sets his mind to. He is a member of the National Coal Board for a while and it is not long before he is in the coal-mining industry.  What was it like on everyone's lips in the 1930s? The nations of Europe snarled belligerently at one another and in the air, while an ineffective League of Nations failed feebly and did nothing.

REPLIES TO MILK REFERENDUM

Support for constitution idea

MOST of the replies to a referendum on the future of the Kenya milk industry, criticising aspects of the Truop Committee report on the industry, and outlining the plan for the setting up of the Kenya Milk Corporation, similar to that of the Milk Marketing Board in England, have been in favour of the proposed constitution and a plan set by the Truop recommendations.

This was stated in a statement issued in Nairobi, which was a development of the proposals to be circulated the referendum in September, and in which 1200 milk producers in all parts of Kenya were invited to take part.

Four responses

Of the 1200 responses received, 75 were completely in favour of the proposals as contained, while others are either partly in favour of the proposals or against them.

Attributing the poor response to a controversy of long years' standing, Mr. R. Kenyon, Government Creamery, said that while the referendum was being held, the Government was to be held responsible for the results of the referendum, and that the results of the referendum would be submitted to the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Kenneth Robinson.

The spokesman added that the results of the referendum would be submitted to the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Kenneth Robinson.

Industry

The Kenyan milk industry has now been set up as a separate body with its own staff, which will be known as the Kenya Milk Corporation.

The Government spokesman said that the Government was to be held responsible for the results of the referendum, and that the results of the referendum would be submitted to the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Kenneth Robinson.

Tea industry

THE TEA INDUSTRY in Kenya has been enjoying a period of rapid expansion in the last few years. This is due to a number of factors, including the increasing demand for tea in the world market, the expansion of the tea-growing area, and the improvement in the quality of the tea produced. The tea industry is one of the most important sources of foreign exchange for Kenya, and it is essential that the Government should take steps to ensure its continued growth and prosperity. This can be done by providing technical assistance to the tea growers, by improving the infrastructure of the tea-growing areas, and by ensuring that the tea growers are able to obtain the best prices for their tea.

The Institute's report also records that some members of the Government Body considered that the development should be planned, not in relation to current production, but in relation to the future.

SCHOOLS OF KENYA

By Joan Vaughan

The Aga Khan Primary School

STANDING opposite the City Park on the road out to Maringa and Lamuru through Parklands, is a large, handsome building in very modern style. This is the new Aga Khan Mixed Primary School, opened at the end of 1952 and designed to suffice for all Lamuru children of primary school age in Nairobi until 1958 or later.

But the new building was five years ago, and out in the outer halibut of the Aga Khan (near the secondary school, a short distance away).

Cost £50,000

THE cost of building the new school building, raised by a large donation from the Aga Khan and the Government, included the purchase of land and well-equipped buildings and the erection of a site for the school in an area of open country, some 1 1/2 miles from the city. The school is now forming a family hall with balcony and platform.

A particular charming feature of the building is the fact that the school is a two-story affair and the entrance is on the second floor.

Although its buildings are new, the Aga Khan Primary School was equipped and opened some 48 years ago.

The school was founded in 1877 by the Aga Khan himself. It was the first school in Kenya to be founded in Parklands, the area of the city which is now the site of the Aga Khan Primary School. THERE are now 124 pupils in the main primary school, with 120 in the secondary school. The Aga Khan Primary School, which was founded in 1877 by the Aga Khan himself, is the first school in Kenya to be founded in Parklands, the area of the city which is now the site of the Aga Khan Primary School.

and I was surprised to learn that the pupils are of all ages, from even babies, and that there are 120 in the secondary school as well as 124 in the primary school. Now 90 per cent of the total number of pupils.

The school is governed by the Aga Khan Trustees, who are assisted by an Administrative Committee, and its principal is Mrs. A. I. D. Glover.

There are very few links between the school and the community, which is a pity, as the school is in a very good position to help the community.

Kamiti prison: E.A.W.L. to give the truth

PLAN FOR COUNTERING U.K. ACCUSATIONS

BECAUSE of the repeated charges made by Miss Eileen Fletcher, a former rehabilitation officer in Kenya, about conditions at Kamiti Prison it was the urgent task of the East African Women's League to publish in Britain a true and clear picture of what is being done for women prisoners at Kamiti. The president of the E.A.W.L. Mrs. C. Anderson told a Council meeting in Nairobi, Town Hall yesterday.

The council unanimously approved a prospectus to be issued shortly with plans for a building to be erected for the rehabilitation of women prisoners. It was decided that the cost of the building should be met by the Government and the E.A.W.L. should be asked to contribute the balance. It was also decided that the building should be sited on the site of the old Kamiti Prison, which was destroyed by fire in 1946. The building is to be a modern and comfortable one, with a garden and a playground. It is to be a place where women prisoners can be rehabilitated and where they can be given the opportunity to work and to study. The building is to be a place where women prisoners can be given the opportunity to work and to study. FIFTY YEARS OF ENDEAVOUR IN AFRICAN EDUCATION

ON a hill in Nyamira, 17 miles from Kisumu and 12 miles of rich beautiful countryside from the waters of the Kavirondo delta, there is an old, weathered fig tree. The tree stands tall and straight, its limbs supported by a prop and its heart in black and charred.

HENRY REUTER goes back into Kenya history to tell the story of the C.M.S. Mission school at Maseno in Nyamira, which celebrates its golden jubilee tomorrow.

Woke the tree there is a porch with a lovely and simple bath of stone, with a cool, shaded roof, designed to catch the wind and the fragrance of a tropical forest.

Only a few yards separate the tree and the school, a building which represents two centuries of European and its Christian and educational endeavours.

For they are the twin focal points of the 150 years of the C.M.S. Mission school at Maseno, which towers on a hillside overlooking the Indian Ocean and which has grown into a century of endeavour from nothing to one of the largest and most advanced African educational establishments in Kenya.

The beginning
The story of Maseno really begins in the autumn of 1840, when a young English clergyman who returned through Kenya carrying a message of mission work and bringing every minute of his life to the service of a country, was sent to Maseno to evangelize the people of the region.

Two of the Maseno boys, in school uniforms, receive instruction in free-translation from the Headmaster, Mr. R. Bourne, from a hospital, had his mile away, but it was a long and arduous journey, involving their feet and hands, and their bodies were in a state of collapse.

A few months after his arrival, the Bishop was joined by two C.M.S. missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kaville, who were sent to Maseno to help Mr. Bourne organize the school. The Bishop had been in the country for some time, and he had seen that the people in the district were in a state of collapse, and he had seen that the people in the district were in a state of collapse.

BIG HATS ARE IN VOGUE THIS YEAR

By Eileen Anderson

THIS season's great hat will be BIG. Anything less will be less than fashion-able. And before you can meet modern millinery with the hair it is essential first get into the right frame of mind.

(1) There is no longer any question of "small hats." You may have noticed people in shops and on the street who are wearing hats that are just a few inches high.

(2) Leave the masculine's "top hat" to the men. When they have had their first shave.

(3) Never wear any hat that is not in fashion. You may think you are a fashion leader, but you will be out of fashion before you know it.

(4) Get your millinery to get your millinery. Do not buy a hat that is not in fashion. Do not buy a hat that is not in fashion.

This hat is one of all to have. It is a hat that is in fashion. It is a hat that is in fashion. It is a hat that is in fashion.

single is the choice of hat to wear. You will see them everywhere. Give them a chance.

For the enormous flower hat, top left, designed by society milliner Mr. John, we go to New York. The top hat is a hat that is in fashion. It is a hat that is in fashion.

Soft shades of beige and blue are used for the fall below the crown which fits the elegant picture hat of beige, with the big deep-crown, unbrimmed-bowled hat of white, pink or the right, he chooses a single top, shaded from pink to mauve-white.

IT MAY HELP YOU...

FOR a mill stain on a white, wash the damaged part in hot water which a few drops of vinegar have been added. Dry quickly then rub quickly with a damp sprinkled with methylated spirit. New polish with linseed oil.

squeezed then the rust. If you let woolens get so dirty that they need hand rubbing, the garments will not last.

GLASSES should always be washed in the hands and then you can be sure that all the dirt will be removed.

To clean straw matting, dip in large coarse flour cloth in salt and water and rub the surface of the matting, then wipe it dry.

DO NOT time hair curlers after washing them. You will find that the soap remains on them so they hang beautifully.

When milk alone is not enough for Baby...!

From an early age, milk alone is not enough to provide your baby with all the nourishment he needs to grow tall, strong and full of energy. That's why doctors recommend QUAKER oats as the ideal one-egg supplement to baby's milk.

QUAKER oats contain more of certain vital food elements than whole milk! When you give your baby QUAKER oats regularly he gets five times as much carbohydrate, ten times as much Vitamin B1, and ten times as much protein as whole milk! And he gets ten times as much iron as whole milk! Start your baby on QUAKER oats today! The ideal source of food for the growing baby!

TELLING THE WEATHER

By SIR GILBERT SUTTON, F.R.S.
 Director of the R.S.B. Observatory

METEOROLOGY is the science of the atmosphere and the weather. It is a branch of physics and chemistry, and is concerned with the study of the physical and chemical processes which take place in the atmosphere and which determine the weather and climate.

The atmosphere is a mixture of gases, and the weather is determined by the temperature, pressure, and humidity of the air. The sun is the source of the energy which drives the weather, and the wind is the result of the pressure differences which are set up by the sun's heating of the earth's surface.

The weather is a complex phenomenon, and it is difficult to predict. However, meteorologists have developed a number of techniques for forecasting the weather, and these are based on the study of the physical and chemical processes which take place in the atmosphere.

One of the most important techniques is the use of balloons and sondes. These are sent up into the atmosphere, and they measure the temperature, pressure, and humidity of the air at various heights. This information is then used to determine the weather at the surface and at higher altitudes.

Another important technique is the use of satellites. These are placed in orbit around the earth, and they measure the temperature and humidity of the atmosphere from space. This information is then used to determine the weather and climate of the earth.

LOOKING BACK

By Michael Haining

For the first time, the British people have been looking back at their own history. This is a new phenomenon, and it is a sign of a new awareness of the past.

The British people have always been interested in their own history, but in the past, this interest was confined to a few scholars and historians. Now, however, the general public is becoming more and more interested in the past, and this is a sign of a new awareness of the past.

This new awareness of the past is a result of a number of factors. One of the main factors is the discovery of the past through the study of the physical and chemical processes which take place in the atmosphere.

'LOOKING FORWARD TO STAY IN EAST AFRICA'

NAIROBI'S Asian communities, joined by representatives of all other races, gave a tumultuous welcome to the Indian Vice-President, Dr. Radhakrishnan, when he arrived in the city this week. At five places along the route from Eastleigh Airport the Vice-President and the Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, were garlanded. Cheering crowds, waving flags and streamers, surged forward as Dr. Radhakrishnan, obviously moved by the warmth of the reception, amply acknowledged the ovation. He had arrived by special aircraft, chartered by the Kenya Government, from Mombasa, where he had met leading figures among the Asian community at the Coast. He had spent Monday at Zanibar.

A "Welcome" banner was hung across the gateway, and hundreds of school children, ranging from six to 13 years, gave the Vice-President a salute as he was greeted by leading members of the community. Schoolchildren and members of youth organisations, many of whom had been waiting for more than an hour for the ceremonial procession to take place, lined the route. They were given a salute by the Governor and the Mayor of Nairobi. The Vice-President, who is also the President of the Indian National Congress, was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. J. H. Radhakrishnan, and their children. The Vice-President is expected to stay in Nairobi for about a month, during which time he will be visiting various parts of the country.

FOUR thousand people of all races at a garden party given by the Gandhi Memorial Society at Villa Park, Nairobi, greeted the Vice-President of India. Education an instrument of peace

INDIAN LEADER URGES NEED FOR EQUALITY

THE world's educational institutions, where young men and women were moulded in the "plastic present generation" will be the theatre of the great struggle of the future, said the late of a speech by the Vice-President of India, Dr. Radhakrishnan, at a civic luncheon given in his honour at the Town Hall yesterday by the Mayor and City Council of Nairobi.

Dr. Radhakrishnan, who was replying to an address of welcome delivered by the Mayor, A. I. Somers, said people can't stand any more the matter with civilization. They must give the world what developing weapons of warfare which will later ages, might be regarded as a disgrace to mankind.

"The education," he said, "is not a mere technical education to produce a man, but it is to give him a mind, a soul, a character. You should not only educate him, but you should also give him a character, a soul, a character. You should not only educate him, but you should also give him a character, a soul, a character."

A Novel of Life In The Australian Wilderness

The human character is revealed in fiction as intimately as it is in Patrick White's The Tree of Man and The Eye of the Storm. The central character, deft, bold strokes on a canvas painted with vigorous skill for life.

The story is as simple as the simple human lives can be in its simplicity. It is effectiveness, also in the writer's use of the English language. The man who rubs his hands together and says "It's a good day" is a simple man. The man who says "I'm not a saint" is a simple man. The man who says "I'm not a saint" is a simple man.

in unhampered control of the good of the life generally to be matched in any other prose work. The story is told by a young man, born in 1914, in a remote part of the Australian outback. He is a simple man, a simple man, a simple man.
