TIGHTER CONTROL URGED FOR AFRICANS

Naivasha approves scheme

A PLAN for closer administration of Africans in the Naivasha area outlined in a memorandum by Mr. Humphrey Slade, Member for Aberdare in Kenya Legislative Council, was unanimously approved by Naivasha County Council yesterday. The aim of the plan is to restrict the activities among Africans in the Colony and to improve their respect and confidence.

The idea of the memorandum, said Mr. Slade in his covering letter, was to gain the support of the Council for the general approval and the general line of organization. The Council approved the memorandum after the District Commissioner, Mr. Tanshall had stated that he had received instructions from the War Council to implement some of its proposals.

"It is apparent," states the memorandum, "that in the present stage of the Emergency and for a long time after the cessation of open hostilities, we must undertake and persevere in a difficult struggle for the re-establishment of discipline among Africans in this Colony and to implement some of its proposals."

Local check

"Close administration is required by a majority of a necessary majority of the population. It is a matter of the public interest that the population should be brought under a firm system in the Colony, and this system should be established before it has been introduced there in a haphazard fashion, as well as being limited to the local area."

The memorandum, however, is concerned with closer administration of Africans in the County and particularly the County Council area.

"During their visit closer administration in these areas, it is suggested that the general approach should be localisation of administration, with active co-operation and assistance from the Five points."

Five points

This would have the purpose of establishing closer relations between the Government and the people. The five points are: (1) To ensure that the Government and the people are brought closer together; (2) To ensure that the Government and the people are brought closer together; (3) To ensure that the Government and the people are brought closer together; (4) To ensure that the Government and the people are brought closer together; (5) To ensure that the Government and the people are brought closer together.

Protest over scheme to resettle Kikuyu

"African" Commissioner

THROUGH the Tanganyika Government considers itself under a "positive obligation" to resettle its loyal Kikuyu settlers in the Northern Province of Tanganyika, the Government is opposed to the scheme.

New officers

"It is that objective is accepted," the Commissioner, Mr. Tanshall, said, "that the Government, in the event of a local European or African officer, will be appointed to the post of District Commissioner."

Not persuaded

The Kikuyu members of the Legislative Council, however, are not persuaded that the Government is sincere in its intention to resettle the Kikuyu in the Northern Province.

Thoroughly vested

The Government, however, is not persuaded that the Kikuyu are thoroughly vested in the Northern Province. The Government is opposed to the scheme.

The Royal Garden Party at Entebbe

BY LESLEY CLAY

ALTHOUGH the fair grounds of Government House, Entebbe, provided a naturally lovely setting for the garden party which was attended by the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, a great deal of thought and care had been given to the arrangements for the party. The bright beds of petunias surrounding the drive, the red Lifter gates had been painted and treated and the Cape chrysanthemum and other late flowers made a shabby yet charming display.

The flowers

Mr. Jean Allen, who had been in charge of many of the arrangements for the Queen's visit, was called upon to give the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, Mr. C. Booth, who was responsible for the gardens and had arranged with considerable artistry the great beds of lily and ferns which were the main attraction of the garden party. Mr. C. Booth, assistant A.D.C. at Government House, told me rather proudly that the plants of the last two weeks had completely broken the flowers and that they were not over the ground since it was very early in the season, but that the brightness of the flowers

Misty blue

It was a blue that was used in the Queen's visit, but the color was not the same as the one which she introduced a year ago for the world of fashion-conscious women, something between a blue and a grey with a hint of lavender to it and, as the present color to me, I could see that it exactly matched her eyes. Her hair, of the same shade, but it really did seem to favour her. Her hair was not, with a few exceptions, all the same color. However, all her hair was not, with a few exceptions, all the same color. However, all her hair was not, with a few exceptions, all the same color.

As the various preparations

Her Highness, the Queen, with the Princess Elizabeth, the Duke of Edinburgh, and Mr. R. K. Karim, Governor of Uganda, who is the Princess's chief attendant, at the garden party, with Mr. R. Karim, Governor, and Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Vioran.

Mr. Oliver Lyttelton, the Colonial Secretary, Lady Mears, Lyttelton, General Sir George Erskine and Lady Collins.

...I looked around for some of the people from which I had been told had been flown out from the U.K. for the occasion. I saw, however, very few outstanding celebrities. One of the two big "badly" party hats there were, several very ornate and wide-brimmed hats, some of which I had been led to expect. Most of the rest of the afternoon was, as usual, spent by the African and Asian women in their handsome robes and beautiful hats.

So I set out to look for the party hats as well as the some of the most striking features of the party. I saw a few hats, some of which I had been led to expect. Most of the rest of the afternoon was, as usual, spent by the African and Asian women in their handsome robes and beautiful hats.

THE WEEK'S LEADERS

God-speed
 As the Queen and her husband, renounced their British titles and honours in favour of the British monarchy, the Queen and the Duke have left us many happy and memorable memories. Indeed, throughout her arduous Commonwealth tour the Queen has helped to cement relations in a manner transcending the best endeavours of statesmen and politicians, because of her personal charm and dedication to the duties of the Crown.

Passbooks
 From the Kijombe, via the Red Book, the Blue Figure, the yellow card, the buff card and divers items, we come now to the Passbook.

In effect, the Passbook is a passport to respectability for the Kijombe and Meru and without it, when the issue is complete, no member of these tribes will be allowed outside their own area.

Work started yesterday on the general distribution of the Passbooks. The District Officer sent his officials first to the Meru and the Kijombe and Harbours Administration at Nairobi. Criticism has been expressed because the High Commission and Government Departments are at the top of the list.

But the sheet and complete answer to a start has to be the Meru and Kijombe, followed by the Harbours Administration, the Provincial and District Officers.

During the next six months, the Meru and Kijombe, the Harbours and Government Departments, and the Provincial and District Officers, will be issuing Passbooks to members of the Meru and Kijombe tribes.

It is not only the better power to suggest Kenyan members of the Meru and Kijombe tribes and the great respect for the Meru and Kijombe tribes which has been shown by the British Government.

When the Queen and her husband renounced their British titles and honours in favour of the British monarchy, the Queen and the Duke have left us many happy and memorable memories. Indeed, throughout her arduous Commonwealth tour the Queen has helped to cement relations in a manner transcending the best endeavours of statesmen and politicians, because of her personal charm and dedication to the duties of the Crown.

WHERE warriors from Uganda once fought across the River Nile to raid their neighbours, and near to the spot where, nearly 100 years ago, Captain J. H. Speke was the first white man to look upon the largest lake in Africa, Lake Victoria, today stands the huge £15,000,000 Owen Falls hydro-electric scheme which was opened by the Queen eight days ago.

If it was not for Speke's quest for the source of the Nile the rich little country of Uganda — now days termed the "heart of Africa" — might never have been discovered a century ago.

In 1858

It was on August 3, 1858, that Speke discovered Lake Victoria, second largest lake in the world, and it was he who named it Victoria Nyanza. As he stood on the shores of the lake he realised that he had discovered the headwaters of the Nile.

"I saw that out Father Nile without any doubt rises in the Victoria Nyanza," he wrote in 1862. "Though beautiful, the scene was not exactly what I expected, for the broad surface of the lake was about 100 feet above the level of the Nile, and 400 to 500 feet broad, were broken by rocks. But it was a sight that attracted me to the river, and the rest of the journey I spent in tracing the waters. The thousands of rapids and cascades falling down on all the rocks with roar and boom, and numerous waterfalls bringing down the water, the ferry at the margin of the lake, and the forest above the falls and wide fertile plains in depth in the margin of the lake."

From Ripon Falls (named after the then premier of the United Kingdom) the Victoria Nile flows to the north of the lake, which was later named Edward Nile, not far from Kasenyi, near the central capital of Uganda — Kampala. After Speke many other explorers came to Uganda, and prominent among them being Sir M. Stanley Livingstone, who, after Christianising the country.

Churchill

FOR nearly 20 years after the discovery of the source of the Nile the possibilities of that great harvest of water were not considered, and the river began its 1,300-mile journey through the remotest to the Mediterranean seaboard.

In 1907 another great Englishman, Sir Winston Churchill, then a young man, in his early thirties, came to Uganda. Sir Winston, who was in that time Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, gave three pieces of advice to the country and to the British Government, and today his counsel has very nearly been carried out. Churchill said in 1907: "Harness the Nile to produce electricity; build a railway through the heart of the north; but above the cotton, which should make Uganda a fortress."

Last month saw the realisation of his first piece of advice, the railway is now being built westwards to the Belgian Congo, and almost certainly will be completed in 1962. In the book which he wrote in 1910, "My Uganda, My African Adventure," Sir Winston wrote about the source of the Nile, "The water power rushing to waste, such a sign as was long unrecognised, and power to control the natural forces of Africa, unrecognised, cannot but attract attention. And what plan to make it use, and how to begin its journey, is giving thought to a writer. And when I speak of a harness, it is by no means a simple matter, and it would be well to hold it for a while."

First steps

THE Owen Falls, site of the dam, which was later named Edward Falls — now being subjected to the stress of the new road across the top of the main dam.

of the lake is being raised to generate power for the dam — were named after a man who probably never even saw them. The man who gave his name to the new world-famous hydro-electric scheme — and Major K. R. (Roddy) Owen, D.S.O., of the Landwehr Battalion, who came to Uganda in 1923 with Sir Gerald Portal — who first established the Uganda Protectorate. Three years later Owen died of cholera in the Sudan. His name was given to the Falls quite arbitrarily by a following of the country Owen was an accomplished horseman, was the Grand National on Father O'Connell in 1922.

The first steps towards the construction of the dam, at Owen Falls were taken in July 1952, when the Uganda Legislative Council, in the House of Representatives, passed the Bill for the construction of the dam, and the Uganda Legislative Council, in the House of Representatives, passed the Bill for the construction of the dam, and the Uganda Legislative Council, in the House of Representatives, passed the Bill for the construction of the dam.

storage of all the water so was likely to flood. The Government of Egypt agreed to pay for the cost of the extra work involved, and also to compensate the lake water property which was eventually to be submerged when the lake was in its full height — though it is expected that this will not happen for another 20 years.

A detailed report on the scheme was made by two firms of consulting engineers in July 1952, and by the end of the year estimates had been made of the cost of the dam and the cost of the electrical and mechanical works to be carried out.

The contract for the major part of the dam was awarded in September, 1952, to a group of British, Danish and Dutch firms who formed a partnership, known as the Owen Falls International Company.

Experiments with models were made at the Imperial College of Science, and the results showed that the dam would be a very satisfactory structure, and that the dam would be a very satisfactory structure, and that the dam would be a very satisfactory structure.

World's greatest lubrication knowledge for Uganda power project . . .
Future development of Uganda and Kenya will be immeasurably stimulated by the electricity provided by Owen Falls Dam, recently opened by Her Majesty the Queen.

Started in 1950 by the Uganda Electricity Board, the dam is 2,725 feet long and 85 feet high, with ten 15,000 kW generating units. Like so many of the world's power projects, Owen Falls Dam will use Gargoyle DTE Oil Heavy Medium in its generating units, and will also be protected throughout by a programme of Correct Lubrication. The same unsurpassed protection is available for all forms of industry.

Miniature town

A TOWN in miniature spring up on the banks of the River Nile as workers from all parts of the world came to Canada to work on the construction of the great dam. Africans working on the dam could be seen in a little over 2,000, but during a peak period in November the number of African workers reached 2,500. These laborers were housed in a well-planned residential village with hospitals, canteens, a church, cinema, school, shops and recreation fields.

From the very beginning of the scheme the Uganda Electricity Board has been a constant factor in considering the welfare of the workers. The amenities of the miniature town have been improved before the start. They could

It May Be Only The First

THE Owen Falls dam, unique as it is, may well be only the first of a series of hydro-electric stations along the Nile between Lake Victoria and Lake Albert. The fall in level between these two lakes is 216 metres, and the water from Lake Victoria, which rises to a level of 3,600 metres above sea level, is carried down through a series of turbines. This arrangement would be a most efficient method of generating power from the Nile. UNSETTLED WEATHER EXPECTED TO LAST

WIDESPREAD rain over East Africa during the last week has been due to wave disturbances in the south-east monsoon, says the East African Meteorological Department. Further disturbances are expected and the weather is likely to remain unsettled over Kenya, Uganda and Northern Rhodesia until about the end of the month. Although showers will be rather widespread, they will not be of great intensity and will be occasional thunderstorms.

On the Coast the afternoon squalls are expected to be generally less but there will be morning showers and possibly periods of prolonged and heavy rain.

Metropolitan showers will probably continue to be of moderate intensity with periods of heavy rain but, on the whole, the weather is likely to be cooler and less oppressive than has been the case during the past few days.

the sensational new tyre by GOODYEAR

- ★ GIVES YOU GREATER MILEAGE
- ★ SLASHES MOTORING COSTS!

THE PROBLEM Faster machines, faster roads, abrasive surfaces and corrugations mile after mile, high temperatures... these are the driving conditions one has to face in Africa today. They are among the toughest in the world and getting tougher as improved highways permit higher speeds. Ordinary tyres were not good enough.

THE PLAN Goodyear was determined to build a tyre that would not only be abreast of the breath-taking new motor cars that are now coming off assembly lines, but that would also be years ahead of conventional tyres.

THE METHOD A technical training team was sent to Africa where thousands of miles of territory were covered in studying road and climatic conditions under which motor vehicles operate.

Back in Akron the experimental and research divisions of the world's largest tyre manufacturer went to work.

AND THE RESULT

The outcome was the development of an entirely new type of tread compound with amazing wear-resisting and heat-defying properties. This new long-wearing tread, in combination with an immensely strong rayon cord fabric carcass, has been mainly responsible for the exceptional performance of the "PLUS 10" and brings closer the tyre maker's dream of a tyre that will last as long as the average owner drives his car.

Goodyear "Plus 10" Super Cushion tyres are available in the following sizes:-

In the past

There were no railways at the time when the monarchy was something very different from what it is today. It was a time when the monarch was a figurehead rather than a political figure. The monarch's power was limited to the ceremonial and judicial functions of the monarchy.

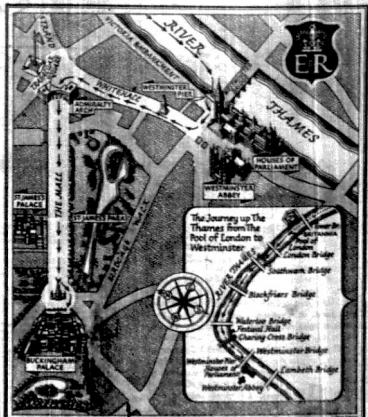

Victoria was a great Victorian. She was a woman of great strength and character. She was a woman who was loved and respected by her subjects.

The fact that she has given that title to the island of Bermuda is a tribute to her memory. Bermuda is a beautiful island with a rich history and a beautiful landscape.

For the first time being the much-praised "happy wife and mother" you will be asked to ask yourself personally if you are really happy in every way. It is not enough that the husband is intelligent and successful in his work when love reigns among people. You do know a lot more about you and your husband than you are aware of. It is not enough that you are happy in your own mind and that you are happy in your own heart. It is not enough that you are happy in your own mind and that you are happy in your own heart.

FOUR TIMES OUT OF THE BLUE LINDBERGH Leaps for Life

CHARLES LINDBERGH flew the Atlantic Ocean, across from New York to Paris, in May, 1927. This ocean had never been flown, but Lindbergh's achievement caught the imagination of the whole world because it was the first single-handed, nonstop direct crossing.

It was typical of his life. From his boyhood in Wisconsin, Lindbergh had been a leader in all that he did. He had been a member of the Caterpillar Club from three to five years of age. It was typical of his life that he had on four occasions saved his life by jumping out of a doomed aircraft in a parachute.

GERALD BOWMAN continues the adventures of the Caterpillar Club.

He quickly climbed into the air, but as he was falling and he could not see the ground below, he was very nervous. He was very nervous, but he was very brave. He was very brave, but he was very nervous. He was very nervous, but he was very brave.

RAINMAKING—WITH A GRAIN OF SALT

EXPERIMENTS aimed down over the parched soil of West Pakistan without using the expensive method of seeding clouds from aircraft will be continued for a month of August and September this July and August by a team of scientists from the Pakistan Government Agricultural University, Faisalabad, Punjab, and the United Nations International Geophysical Year Scientific and Cultural Organization.

By Daniel Briggs
the place "might have been" for this matter, and that so much more increased in the months of the present year.

World's driest

ALTHOUGH no clouds registered by the instruments in the air, he later reported, "When we reached the area, the clouds were not there, but the seeds were following this experiment, and we were not sure if they were not particles by the ground or not."

'Ground-seeding'

BETWEEN August 21 and August 23, 1952, the United Nations International Geophysical Year Scientific and Cultural Organization conducted a series of "ground-seeding" experiments over the parched soil of West Pakistan.

The first of these experiments was conducted on August 21, 1952, when a plane flew over the area and dropped a large amount of salt.

The second experiment was conducted on August 22, 1952, when a plane flew over the area and dropped a large amount of salt.

The third experiment was conducted on August 23, 1952, when a plane flew over the area and dropped a large amount of salt.

What Pakistan meteorologists hope to do is to seed the clouds with salt. This is done by dropping salt from a plane over the area.

Only way

The formation of clouds is a complex process, and it is not yet known exactly how it is done. However, it is believed that the addition of salt to the air can help to form clouds.

The United Nations International Geophysical Year Scientific and Cultural Organization is conducting a series of experiments to determine if the addition of salt to the air can help to form clouds.

The results of these experiments will be reported in the next few months.

FIRE DIVE

Another story of the Caterpillar Club
By GERALD BOWMAN

IN September, 1936, when he was down by the air, a small plane was at its height. Sgt. Pilot Perkins prepared for his third operational trip in a Hurricane single-engine fighter with No. 72 Squadron based on Castle Combe, Wiltshire.

Scramble!
AFTER days of being on the ground, he was to take a short burst of flight. The Hurricane was not due to be at its height until 1.30 a.m., and he had until 1.30 a.m. to get ready for the day.

Something stuck
PERKINS could feel the aircraft as it came to a halt. He had a sudden feeling of something being wrong. He looked at the engine and saw that it was not running. He tried to start it, but it would not. He was in a predicament. He had to get out of the aircraft as quickly as possible. He jumped out and fell 20,000 feet.

Tight formation
THE formation kept very tight — three "V's" of three aircraft each. The formation was in a tight circle. The aircraft were in a tight circle. The formation was in a tight circle.

This Man Studies The Soil of East Africa

A PROBLEM facing scientists and agriculturalists throughout the world—and in East Africa no less than anywhere else—is the growing shortage of food.

Everywhere populations are rapidly increasing—but food production is not increasing to the same rate. Only recently in the world's most fertile Makerere College in Uganda students went to discuss ways and means of tackling this problem, and to meet their classmates which is an arduous contribution to the preservation of life in the soil and which produces a fertilizer of considerable importance. He has seen it in a "rubber economy" which is a real asset and an asset to the farmer.

Nitrates

ANY before, farmer knows that before the soil will give good crops it must be enriched with nitrates. This is done by using fertilizers which contain nitrates. In a fertilizer, nitrates are the most important because of the importance of these elements in the growth of plants.

Washed up

ANOTHER problem facing farmers and agriculturalists is the preservation of life in the soil. Although the preservation of life in the soil is a problem, it is not a problem of the soil itself. It is a problem of the soil's ability to produce a fertilizer of considerable importance.

PERSONAL TAX BRANDED AS BEING PUNISHMENT ON INDUSTRY

Hardship foreseen among workers

Criticism of increases in personal and income tax during the second day of the session by Kenya Legislative Council.

The £10 personal tax was regarded by many people of the lower income group as a punishment which "considerable hardship" would be the necessary result of its imposition. Some people of the lower income group were of opinion that considerable hardship would be the necessary result of its imposition on the basis of ability to pay.

Mr. Oso (Coast) said that although he was not a member of the Legislative Council, he believed Kenya's tax was not a hardship on the industrial sector. He stated that the Ministry of Finance had secured from the United Kingdom Government the permission to increase the tax on certain goods, but that the Government had not done so. He stated that the Government had also increased the tax on certain goods, but that the Government had not done so.

WITNESS SERVICE ECONOMY INQUIRY PROPOSED

There has been much talk over the overnight adjournment of the Legislature (Mullin-Best) said that several of the Government's products should be subjected to tax at the same rate and more should be levied on tax at the same rate as those which are levied on tax at the same rate.

Mr. Oso (Coast) said that the Government had not done so. He stated that the Government had also increased the tax on certain goods, but that the Government had not done so.

CORRESPONDENCE

How much fun is a dog's life?

A dog's life can be a lot of fun. It's really up to you. Your dog doesn't ask much of life. A roof over his head, as many wags as you can give him, and, once or all, someone to look up to, preferably you.

But his needs sound more and more complicated. He needs vitamins and minerals every day if he's to enjoy his life to the fullest. He needs health care and conditioners. He needs a good conditioner, preferably one that contains vitamins and minerals every day if he's to enjoy his life to the fullest.

How They Beat The 'BLACK DISEASE' IN KITUI

GOOD rains have fallen in Kitui, the 12,000 square-mile Wakamba district which begins 40 miles north-east of Nairobi and stretches northwards to the banks of the Tana. The rains have turned Kitui into a lush green landscape as a temporary boom and waiting land.

By Anthony Lavers

Horrifying

Dr. CAKWELE, a 30-year-old, anti-racist, South African, who has been working in the district for 10 years, says that he did not consider the disease to be a problem for the district. But in August, 1953, he was appointed to assist a physician from the African hospital situated in charge of the Wakamba district.

The plague

The plague was killed-off in Kitui, the 12,000 square-mile Wakamba district which begins 40 miles north-east of Nairobi and stretches northwards to the banks of the Tana. The rains have turned Kitui into a lush green landscape as a temporary boom and waiting land.

In the doctor's first case a group of 12,000 people were affected. He had to find out what was the cause of the disease. He found that the disease was caused by a bacterium which was carried by a fly.

The peak

In July the epidemic touched its peak with 4,000 patients recorded at Tarkwa. In August the figure dropped to 2,000 and by October it fell still further to 1,000. The battle was nearly over.
