NATIONS PROMISE TO MAKE MARSHALL AID A SUCCESS

EUROPE'S Marshall plan and countries yesterday agreed to ensure the success of the conversion of European recovery funds into a permanent organization for the reconstruction of Germany, which are to be made permanent.

The agreement, which was signed in London, represents an effort to bring together the Marshall plan and the European Recovery Administration, which was set up by the United States to administer the Marshall aid.

The agreement also provides for the creation of a permanent organization to administer the Marshall aid, which will be known as the European Recovery Administration.

THE ESCAPED JEWS: NEW WARNING

THESE is still no news of the 2000 Jews who escaped from the special camp at Digi in Hungary, which was reported to have been destroyed by the Germans.

The escapees, who were taken to the mountains, are now being hunted by the Germans, and it is feared that they will be killed if they are caught.

THE LESSON OF PRAGUE

There is no compromise possible between Communism and freedom

The lesson of Prague should be brought home to the whole world. There is no compromise possible between Communism and freedom. Communism may use all the Democratic frame-work—but only to destroy it in the end.

So said Mr. Leo Duchacek, former chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the London Parliament who is now in London after receiving the Czech-Slovakia award of citizenship. Mr. Duchacek gave the first full background survey to the recent events in the country which has put it under the control of Communists.

"The course of history," Mr. Duchacek said, "has taken the form of a tragedy. The story of the Czech Republic is a story of a people who were once free and who are now enslaved. The story of the Czech Republic is a story of a people who were once free and who are now enslaved. The story of the Czech Republic is a story of a people who were once free and who are now enslaved."

"The Prague trials," Mr. Duchacek said, "are a tragedy. The story of the Czech Republic is a story of a people who were once free and who are now enslaved. The story of the Czech Republic is a story of a people who were once free and who are now enslaved. The story of the Czech Republic is a story of a people who were once free and who are now enslaved."

The story of the Czech Republic is a story of a people who were once free and who are now enslaved."

This week's paradox in Parliament

The House of Lords, as is predicted in some quarters in London, vetoes the Communist legislation to abolish the death penalty for an experimental period of five years. It is a paradox, although it opposes abolition, that the Lords to secure the passage of a measure it disapproves.

For the British way of government demands that against their own opinions—and Cabinet members are reported prominently disappointed by the fact that the Commons approved abolition mainly by the votes of Labour M.P.s—Ministers must bow to the expressed will of the Government.

The House of Lords had the power to veto the bill, but it is reported that this period will be followed by the House of Commons. The House of Lords, however, is reported to have vetoed the bill.

Bigger Parliament for Australia

Dr. Hector Holt, Australian Attorney-General, has introduced a bill to increase the House of Representatives from 48 to 60 members. The bill is reported to have passed the House of Representatives.

WAVELL REBUKES WAR CABINET

1943 campaign received 'only criticism'

Field Marshal Lord Wavell, former British Commander-in-Chief, India, rebukes the War Cabinet in a dispatch published in London for its attitude to the Middle East.

"During the operations recorded in this dispatch," Wavell writes, "I received the impression that the only criticism for the failure of the British forces in the Middle East was the failure of the British forces in the Middle East."

One exception

Lord Wavell cites the War Cabinet's attitude at this time as the only exception to the general criticism. He says that the War Cabinet's attitude at this time was the only exception to the general criticism.

NEARLY ALL QUIET IN ITALIAN ELECTIONS

A few irregularities found in Sunday's 'symbol' voting

ITALIANS have gone calmly about the business of choosing a new government in their first general election in 25 years, but some have voted in anything like the large numbers anticipated. Although voting which ended at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, was compulsory and failure punishable by the law, some voters, only just over a fifty per cent, went to the polls on Sunday in some parts of southern Italy.

By voting yesterday most people expressed a desire for a new government, but very early estimates yesterday morning that over 90 per cent of the country's 35 million electors had gone to the polls were found to have been exaggerated. In some the estimate was shown to be about 85 per cent, the Venice figures 82 per cent, 85 and Naples, Milan and Turin 80 per cent, and about 89 per cent. At Gorizia on the Yugoslav border the vote was over 97.

But yesterday the official estimate was that 54 million voters—about 87 per cent—had voted. Voting was heavier in the Tiberine precincts were taken by the Government of the King, the Christian Democrat Premier, to the right of the center, although a few minor votes were taken in the great northern industrial district of Milan. Communists opposing to vote protested against strikers by means of a car and carabinieri as "minimisation"—there was some case throughout the country on Sunday, when voting ended until ten o'clock at night, and yesterday.

Radio warns electors against laziness

One indication of the disappointing rate of polling was the report issued by radio on Sunday night that many electors had not yet voted out of laziness, remember that your vote may condemn you and your family to living in the kind of a house you want to live in. Yesterday's reports that many electors were closing the polling-booths brought into operation a Government ban on the holding of public meetings of any kind throughout Italy. Any anti-state meetings will be broken up by the police. This part of the election campaign has been the public believing false reports of the results. Italian newspapers reported that the Government was planning to make national elections officers may cause confusion.

Another line of defence has been to guard against any possible strike. Armed soldiers have been standing guard, and in some cases the principal police. An army tank and 200 soldiers are stationed outside the polling-booths, and the Ministry of the Interior and the Prime Minister, who is in charge of the election, have been placed under a state of siege. The government has also been placed under a state of siege.

'Hot money' may get in—but not out again

PEOPLE with "hot money" are keenly watching the Italian election results. It is expected that the election will result in a new government which will be able to attract hot money from abroad. This is because the new government is expected to be more business-like and to attract foreign investment. It is also expected that the new government will be able to attract hot money from abroad. This is because the new government is expected to be more business-like and to attract foreign investment.

Doctors still not satisfied

THE Council of the British Medical Association is still not satisfied about conditions of service in the profession. The council has expressed its dissatisfaction with the terms of the new contract and has called for a meeting to discuss the matter. The council has also expressed its dissatisfaction with the terms of the new contract and has called for a meeting to discuss the matter.

'DOOMED'?

IT is a question which has been asked many times in the past. Is the world doomed? The answer is a matter of opinion. Some people believe that the world is doomed, while others believe that it is not. The answer is a matter of opinion.

12 deny murder charge

While we wait for the results of the Italian elections, which will be held on May 18, the body of the Republic and a return to totalitarianism no longer than the Italian brand of fascism, the movement of the Italian Government in London to seek agreement on the German question, a meeting of the British Foreign Office, the British Government's policy in Germany, and particularly the threat being made by the German Government in Berlin. There is no doubt that the policy of playing off the Germans against the Russians, which has been the mainstay of British foreign policy since the outbreak of the war, is a policy which will be continued in the future.

ITALIAN PREMIERS PARTY IS CERTAIN OF VICTORY

Imperial trade not weakened

He never dreamed of an absolute majority

I NEVER dreamed, in my moments of optimism at a relative majority," said Italy's Christian Democrat Prime Minister, Signor Alcide De Gasperi, yesterday in commenting on the party's confidence of a great election victory over the two opponents. The forecasts made about changes were far removed from reality.

The Christian Democrats in the Senate elections—provisional returns gave them almost a two-thirds majority over the Opposition Communist-Socialist Popular Front—the Christian Democrat Party's victory predicted certain victory for its candidates in the Assembly elections.

At that time the existing coalition of clear trends in favour of the Christian Democrats, whose Party Secretary, Signor Alcide De Gasperi, said yesterday morning from the front of a meeting of the party: "I never dreamed of an absolute majority."

A question

It was stated that the Government will be able to give an answer to the question of the future of the Italian Empire.

Rologna was the scene of the one incident reported since the end of the week. Early yesterday morning the front of a meeting owned by an active Christian Democrat was shattered by a bomb explosion.

Austin tells UNO it will depend on 'certain others'

A UNO official willing to share with other governments of the Middle East the responsibility for policing Palestine during a Jewish-Arab truce or for the period of temporary rule as the Arab insisted, is reported to have asked Britain and France to accept a share in the responsibility.

'Arab resistance violates Charter'

American willingness to share the responsibility for keeping the truce in force was expressed by Mr. Warren Austin in a meeting of the Political Committee in a statement which was reported by the Associated Press.

'BOKEN OF PEACE'

Says France

THE French Popular Republic has expressed its deep concern over the situation in Palestine and its Italian counterpart, the Christian Democracy Party, on its own.

'Not enough'

'True and trustworthy' agreement between a military and civilian administration in Palestine is not enough, according to the French Popular Republic.

Reminder

Reminding the Committee that it is the Jewish community which has been the main obstacle to the implementation of the Charter of the United Nations.

'Working paper'

If the mandatory Power actively co-operated, the General Assembly would be able to establish a United Nations governmental authority in Palestine.

THE WORLD OF SPORT Underfunded athletes' poor Olympic chances

From time to time, there has been a great deal of criticism directed to British sportsmen for their performance in the Olympic Games. It is often pointed out that the British athletes are underfunded and that this is the reason for their poor performance. The British Olympic Committee has been accused of neglecting the athletes and of not providing them with the necessary facilities and equipment. It is argued that the British athletes are not given the same level of support as their counterparts in other countries. This lack of support is said to be the main reason for their poor performance in the Olympics. The British Olympic Committee has been accused of neglecting the athletes and of not providing them with the necessary facilities and equipment. It is argued that the British athletes are not given the same level of support as their counterparts in other countries. This lack of support is said to be the main reason for their poor performance in the Olympics.

There is an annual period of about two months when the British athletes are underfunded. This is the time when the British Olympic Committee is not providing them with the necessary facilities and equipment. It is argued that the British athletes are not given the same level of support as their counterparts in other countries. This lack of support is said to be the main reason for their poor performance in the Olympics.

How the Americans will be fed

The United States Olympic Committee has announced that it will be providing the American athletes with a special diet. This diet is said to be the best for athletes and will help them to perform at their best. The diet is rich in protein and vitamins and is said to be the best for athletes. This diet is said to be the best for athletes and will help them to perform at their best. The diet is rich in protein and vitamins and is said to be the best for athletes.

'Our men listless'

It will go without saying that the British athletes are listless. This is the reason for their poor performance in the Olympics. The British Olympic Committee has been accused of neglecting the athletes and of not providing them with the necessary facilities and equipment. It is argued that the British athletes are not given the same level of support as their counterparts in other countries. This lack of support is said to be the main reason for their poor performance in the Olympics.

Only one solution

The only solution to the problem of the British athletes is to provide them with the necessary facilities and equipment. This will help them to perform at their best and will ensure that they are given the same level of support as their counterparts in other countries. The British Olympic Committee has been accused of neglecting the athletes and of not providing them with the necessary facilities and equipment. It is argued that the British athletes are not given the same level of support as their counterparts in other countries. LAND AND SETTLEMENT IN NORTHERN PROVINCE OF TANGANYIKA

TANGANYIKA, like East Africa as a whole, is not subject to the post-war fog—the old Settlers' Land Commission—of which some of us remember. It suffers a synthetic fog—the old Settlers' Land Commission—of which some of us remember. It suffers a synthetic fog—the old Settlers' Land Commission—of which some of us remember. The fruits of the soil measure the well-being of man

The vitality of man depends entirely upon the basic, essential, life-giving process of raising food. And the products of International Harvester—machines and equipment to increase the volume of food production—serve agriculture throughout the world. Wherever the soil is broken for planting these machines help men produce more... with less physical labour... with greater efficiency and economy.

MUCH DEPENDS ON FERTILISERS

Uganda phosphates need development

IN THE LAST section of its interim report, the Colonial Office Committee which has been studying the development of primary production in the Colonies expressed little doubt that a major increase could be obtained in Colonial crop production by the wider use of organic and inorganic fertilisers in existing cultivation areas.

Little inorganic fertilizer can be applied to non-European crops practically all over the world. The fertilisers being employed exclusively by European growers are made from phosphate rock and sulphuric acid. The report points out that these fertilisers are in short supply and are being mined at about 150 per cent of their cost. The cost of transport is also high. The Committee is of the opinion that an increased allocation by the Colonies can be made if the phosphate rock is mined in the Colonies and used for their own purposes. The report also points out that the phosphate rock in the Colonies is of a high quality and is suitable for the production of fertilisers.

Ruling factor

The world supply and demand for phosphate rock is a ruling factor in the world market. The report points out that the phosphate rock in the Colonies is of a high quality and is suitable for the production of fertilisers. The Committee is of the opinion that an increased allocation by the Colonies can be made if the phosphate rock is mined in the Colonies and used for their own purposes.

Free flow of knowledge must await the end of the political deadlock

THE PART which the newspaper Press of the world is capable of playing in assuming or maintaining the strands of international relationship has long been a subject of discussion. At the recent Press conference in Chicago as long ago as 1939, the sentiment was expressed that the Press has a right and an obligation to disseminate its understanding between nations.

At the Paris Press Conference in 1945, proposals designed to break down some of the barriers to the free exchange of news and opinion throughout the world were put forward by President Wilson's chief communique. Between the two great wars the League of Nations was the driving force behind a series of conferences which all had the same general aim of securing a free and responsible Press.

More important

It is not surprising therefore that the United Nations Organisation should have taken up the same theme in its Charter. The importance of the free flow of news and opinion throughout the world is a subject which has been discussed in many of the reports of the Commission on International Cooperation. The Commission has pointed out that the free flow of news and opinion is essential for the maintenance of peace and stability in the world.

Britain's plan

The British Government, in the report of the Committee on International Cooperation, has set out a plan for the free flow of news and opinion throughout the world. The plan is based on the principle that news and opinion should be free to flow from all countries to all countries.
