SALESBURY TO FACE RIGHTS 'ATTACK'

THE Smith regime in Rhodesia will be a priority target for attack during human rights year, the chairman of the United Nations Association, Mr. Humphrey Berkeley, said in London.

Mr. Berkeley, a former Conservative MP, said during a rally to launch the British campaign for international human rights year that there would be three targets for attention of all "those are determined in Britain, the banning of all forms of discrimination against women in Britain, and assistance to people of British descent territories to realize their human rights — above all, the Rhodesia case." Mr. Berkeley said he had visited Rhodesia at times in the last ten years "and every time human rights were in process of further erosion."

The campaign commemorates the 20th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, Lord Chancellor Lord Gardiner, said in London on Tuesday. He said the United Nations Association, which is sponsoring the campaign, is preparing a report on the Rhodesia case which will be presented to the United Nations in the next few days.

As the United Nations in New York, the international community is urged to take measures to ensure the elimination of all forms of racial discrimination, apartheid and colonialism.

'BLACK POWER' LEADER LOSES PASSPORT

THE American "black power" advocate, Mr. Stokely Carmichael, New York from Paris yesterday and immediately had his passport confiscated by the authorities. A Brooklyn district attorney, Mr. Joseph L. Roy, told journalists a U.S. marshal agreed with a search warrant, seized Mr. Carmichael's passport as soon as he landed.

Mr. Loei said he did not know if any action would be taken against the Trinidadian Negro leader after his return to the world tour, which included visits to Haiti, Havana, Cuba and Algeria. But the court attorney said he would not give his passport to any other person who is not in the U.S. until he has been cleared by the FBI.

A crowd of about 100 people gathered outside the U.S. Consulate in New York to welcome Mr. Carmichael's return. Mr. Carmichael acknowledged his return with a wave of his fist and a shout of "Black power!"

The British Union had sought such alignment for the past eight years, he said, treating the urgent need for a nuclear-arms competition treaty.

Long-term dangers in Nigerian stalemate

By DENIS HORNAM

THE Nigerian war situation has reached military stalemate. In recent weeks the heaviest of the fighting itself and continuing violence have made it difficult to assess the situation accurately. Now, from a military point of view, it is the most serious possible. The Federal Government expected that war against the breakaway Eastern Region, led by Sir Ahmadu Bello, would end with victory — in quotes Mr. Bello's famous 1966 election slogan — in a matter of weeks — in fact, in a matter of days.

The Federal Army has been unable to make the Federal Government's military strategy a fait accompli. It is a fait accompli without having been achieved. Bethlehem preparing for record number of pilgrims

BETHLEHEM, the birthplace of Christ, is preparing for a record number of pilgrims during the seasonal celebrations marking the 1,970th Christmas.

More than 2,000 are expected for services in the small Judean town which this year will be under Israeli rule. Reports that the services in the grove under the Christmas tree will be seen by viewers on television screens in the U.S. say they take place on Christmas Eve. They have not been confirmed by officials in Jerusalem.

Polish peasants give rousing welcome

CARDINAL Stefan Wyszyński, who as Catholic Primate of Poland, is regarded by the Communist Government as its bitterest opponent inside the country, received a typically rousing reception on one of his recent provincial tours.

The 70-year-old primate, in his orange habit, was greeted by a cheering, shouting, singing crowd of thousands of well-dressed Poles who lined the roads to meet him as he passed. They waved their hands and sang hymns.

Flags fluttered in the wind. The primate was greeted by a cheering, shouting, singing crowd of thousands of well-dressed Poles who lined the roads to meet him as he passed.

The shortages are particularly acute in Havana, where the population is estimated to be in the neighborhood of 2 million. The shortages are particularly acute in Havana, where the population is estimated to be in the neighborhood of 2 million.

REVOLT IN SOUTHERN AFRICA FORECAST

TANZANIA'S UN Ambassador, Mr. John S. Malesha, yesterday warned of an African armed uprising in Southern Africa within the next decade unless the White regimes there were eliminated.

Mr. Malesha was addressing the General Assembly of the Organisation of African States, which is convening in the historic declaration of the Organisation of African States in its chairman and president, Mr. N. S. Malesha, in the Special Committee on Colonialism.

He said there was a line between the African revolution and the Indonesian revolution. He said the Indonesian revolution was not a "Western imperialism" and was not a "Western imperialism" and was not a "Western imperialism".

France accused of continuing to divide Somaliland

SOMALIA has accused France of intensifying a "divide-and-rule" policy in French Somaliland. Addressing the U.N.'s Trusteeship Committee, Mr. Abdulrahman Farah, of Somalia, said 10,000 inhabitants of the territory were forced into his country.

He said the new basic law of the territory made no provision for evolution towards self-government and independence.

France continued its political oppression and had introduced discriminatory policies against the Somali majority for charged least conservatively against 60 per cent of the eligible Somali voters were disenfranchised.

Mr. Farah said the new statute for French Somaliland kept virtually all major matters in the hands of France and out of the hands of the territorial authorities. Officers of the administration were under the jurisdiction of French courts which considered them as foreigners.

France, he asked, could bring any inhabitants of his French Somaliland to any French court, even if they were French citizens.

Mr. Farah said the committee should be satisfied for political and other reasons to return and to seek respect for fundamental rights of the population.

GOOD NEIGHBOURHOOD

AS PRESIDENT OROTE explained in his opening address, the summit conference in Kampala is the first of its kind in the history of the East African Community. It is the first time that the three member States have met together to discuss their common interests and to work out a plan of action for the future.

Twelve countries stretching across Africa from the Red Sea to the Indian Ocean are represented at the summit conference. The O.A.U. is particularly important because it is concerned in several respects with the development of the East African Community.

Except for Kenya and Somalia, all the States represented at the summit also participate in the O.A.U. by means of a special committee on inter-territorial relations. It is this committee which will be concerned with the implementation of the O.A.U. Charter.

Except for Kenya and Somalia, all the States represented at the summit also participate in the O.A.U. by means of a special committee on inter-territorial relations. It is this committee which will be concerned with the implementation of the O.A.U. Charter.

President Orote quoted 1968 as the year when the work of the East African Community will be stepped up. He said that the Community will be working towards the achievement of the following objectives: to promote the economic development of the Community; to promote the social and cultural development of the Community; to promote the political development of the Community.

Peaceful mediation the only way

Some of the summit representatives and the O.A.U. find themselves in a crucial dilemma over Nigeria. Emperor is chairman of the O.A.U. committee charged with the unenviable task of finding a peaceful solution to the Nigerian crisis, and the O.A.U. through his resolution, came down on the side of unity rather than the fragmentation caused by the breakdown of Biafra.

What the O.A.U. must do is to find a peaceful means to be used to reach a settlement. On one hand, it is striving to support unity and on the other hand, it is striving to support the tranquility of the continued loss of life. Even before the O.A.U. resolution, the four Presidents of Zambia, Tanzania, Uganda and Kenya presented an appeal to the Nigerian leaders to accept peaceful terms.

The conviction that only through peaceful mediation can a lasting solution be found was proved by the agreement reached between Somalia and Kenya to settle their mutual differences. Again, the Kenya-Somalia Agreement does not figure on any formal agenda, but President Kenyatta has said it might be discussed if Somalia is bringing an application to join the East African Community.

On his arrival, Somalia's Premier, Mr. Egal, said he had an application and a supplication in his pocket. Yesterday, at an extraordinary meeting of the East African Community, Mr. Egal formally tabled his supplication for membership. Ethiopia has conferred its application made orally at Addis on Dec. 1. Already, Zambia had applied for entry and nominated a representative to the East African Community.

It is a matter of course that the Sudan is also actively seeking membership. The first tangible evidence of the new spirit between Somalia and Kenya was the signing down of a joint declaration in Kampala. Mr. Egal's arrival in Nairobi was a further indication of the new spirit between Kenya and Somalia. It is a matter of course that the Sudan is also actively seeking membership.

The body, smooth, elegant styling combines components practically. Operationally, the new VCV commercial has great advantages over the old one. Well equipped operating compartment with padded instrument panel, controllable fan air ventilation, adjustable seat, working seats, wind-down windows and plastic headlining.

are with built-in and double-jointed rear axle. Revolutionary for a commercial vehicle. Not the least of the improvements are built-in safety features. Like dual circuit brakes, safety belt anchorage, safety seat, standard seat belt, and a continuous glass window at round, the visibility is almost perfect. All this goes with the former Volkswagen reliability and ease of use. So, being a believing VW'd like you to look at the new models we have stock.

HOUSE REPORT

Kenya (H.P.C.K.) and First Permanent Bank (F.P.B.) announced a merger. The merger of the Housing Finance Corporation (H.F.C.) and First Permanent Bank (F.P.B.) is based on the belief that, to ensure a savings account for Kenyans, it is better to have money to lay down deposits than to have a mortgage contract.

F.P.B. was formed in 1957 by the Government Development Corporation, to assume the First African Savings and Loan Society, the First Permanent Bank and other banks which had opened its activities from Central to East Africa in 1954. To quote the official statement: "F.P.B. ceased lending and was committed to a run down programme."

The H.P.C.K. was formed two years ago with a loan capital of £200,000 (Government £150,000, C.D.C. £50,000). The original loan capital has been almost fully committed. It has not been able to borrow from F.P.B. accounts, guaranteed by the loan money made available for mortgages but borrowed from F.P.B. accounts, guaranteed by the loan capital.

The intention is to extend the use of F.P.B. short term capital, and in this end the Government is increasing its share, matched by guarantees from commercial banks, so that a total of £200,000 becomes available for mortgages, plus by savings from other sources the £150,000 revolving mortgage fund of £350,000.

Break through in housing

National savings which will facilitate home building and home ownership will be offered through the H.P.C.K. as a national institution. Home savings accounts to individuals wishing to build their own houses, and loans to National Housing Corporation schemes (such as the Jamburi Estates at Woodley, recently opened by President Kenyatta), the H.P.C.K. will collaborate with local authorities wanting to start mortgage purchase schemes. Kiambu Municipality has built such a scheme of 13 houses at a cost of £30,000. These operations should help to cause a real break-through from stagnation in the building industry. At present, the Government is building 100 houses in this class of building has recently started up again and the H.P.C.K. has it in its power to stimulate the industry and, at the same time, help towards easing the acute shortage of accommodation.

At present, H.P.C.K. loans are for citizens only to build new houses. Both the customary rate of interest viewed next year, will be repaid over 10 to 20 years. Normally, lending will be up to 75 per cent of the value, limited to a maximum of £5,000. In certain cases, particularly in sponsored housing projects, the Government or a local authority may guarantee a prospective mortgagor who can then borrow up to 80 per cent, with a ceiling of £5,000.

The theory behind this provision is that the 90 per cent borrower cannot afford very expensive house. Conversely, the borrower who wants an expensive house can afford to pay 25 per cent.

There is no intention of applying any restriction on other building societies, but finance companies by national housing legislation into the H.P.C.K. Also, the centralising everything into the H.P.C.K. shortens the H.P.C.K. Corporation came into being because of the shortage of private developers and is particularly interested in home purchase. In the field of low cost housing, it is investigating means for reducing costs by standardising materials and fittings to allow for mass production.

One project materialising for civil servants in the provinces is a £200,000 scheme to build "Pillar Houses" attached to particular posts, will ease the difficulties of transferring officers, many of whom have complained about inadequate housing when posted from one place to another.

Kenya K. DUGGAL in New York

How governed is the Government of any state, and how is it financed? Can he be an authoritarian or a democratic? Or is he just a central figure? These are the questions which Mr. K. A constitutional democracy, which is the dominant form of government in the West, is the subject of his book. The book is written in a clear and readable style, and is a valuable contribution to the study of the government of Kenya.

Mr. Mboya points to treaty weaknesses

DESPIITE the fact that the East African Treaty was a major achievement, a present air of optimism over it should not be allowed to hide its weaknesses. The Kenya Minister for Economic Planning and Development, Mr. Mboya, said yesterday.

In a speech first for him by the former Minister of Education in his Ministry, Mr. Oguni, in the University College, Nairobi, the Minister said that the weaknesses of the treaty were not in its objectives but in its implementation.

Rate violated
First on Mr. Mboya's list of weaknesses was the violation of the treaty's provisions on the part of the East African member of the East African Community market.

Under the treaty, although there were no quotas, the fundamental rule of the market was that there should be no restriction on trade.

The treaty did not contain any provision for the control of the market, and the Government had to issue the necessary orders to the Development Bank to assist in the development.

The treaty's provisions showed a clear progress towards achieving the declared aim of common industrial policy. Means to co-ordinate the tax systems of East Africa had been set up but had not been fully implemented. The Government had to issue orders to the Development Bank to assist in the development.

Mr. Mboya said that the treaty was a major achievement, but it was not perfect. He pointed out several weaknesses, including the violation of the treaty's provisions on the part of the East African member of the East African Community market.

He also mentioned the fact that the treaty did not contain any provision for the control of the market, and the Government had to issue the necessary orders to the Development Bank to assist in the development.

Union told to prepare its case

The president of the Kenya Labour Union, Mr. Oguni, said yesterday that the union should prepare its case for the East African Community market.

Mr. Oguni said that the union should prepare its case for the East African Community market. He pointed out that the union had to be ready to face the competition from other countries.

He also mentioned the fact that the union did not contain any provision for the control of the market, and the Government had to issue the necessary orders to the Development Bank to assist in the development.

Bigger budget share for education

THE Kenya Government spent about £2,600,000 on education in the Budget for 1964-65, an increase of 10 per cent over the previous year.

The Minister of Education, Mr. Mboya, said that the Government was committed to a policy of expanding education to meet the needs of the growing population.

He said that the Government was committed to a policy of expanding education to meet the needs of the growing population. He pointed out that the Government had to increase its spending on education.
