COURAGEOUS OLYMPIC DECISION

DARK CLOUDS HAVE GATHERED OVER sport in South Africa with the controversy about Basil D'Oliviera, but a break is discernible because of the positive attitude adopted by the President of the country's Olympic and National Games Association to a commission appointed by the International Olympic Committee.

The Executive Member, Mr. Le Roux, rubbed salt into the wounds of colour bar in sport by saying D'Oliviera would not be permitted to represent South Africa while the question of his inclusion is chosen for the M.C.C. tour. While it is true that the Government has expressed an opinion on this issue, as reported yesterday that the Government is procrastinating in the hope that, losing form, D'Oliviera will be selected, and the storm will subside.

Reactions to the Minister's request statement have been immediate. Externally, the sponsors of the national cricket match to be played in Barbados cancelled invitations to two South African and one Rhodesian players for the tour of the West Indies. Internally, the South African Government is encountering severe Press criticism, for both the Cape Times and Rand Daily Mail have criticised the policy of apartheid in sport with the increasing South African isolation from the international sporting world.

For this very reason, continued South African membership of the Olympic movement is being jeopardised. Not that the International Olympic Committee failed to penalise sportsmen, barring them from competing, but that the question of South African participation in the Olympic Games has been deferred.

Risk of split in association

Accordingly, at the Olympic meeting in Rome last year, a commission was set up to study the Olympic movement there to the end of 1967. This commission is expected to report to the next Olympic committee meeting in 1968, at which the question of South African participation in the Olympic Games has been deferred.

The three members of the commission are the greatly respected Nigerian Chief Justice, Sir Ade Adenubi, Mr. R. S. Alexander, who has wide experience of the Olympic movement and how multi-racial sport is conducted in South Africa, and the Secretary-General, Mr. Westendorp. Naturally enough, there was some curiosity to know the composition of the commission, would be recruited, particularly Sir Ade's presence.

The situation was not improved when the South African Association's Vice-President, Mr. Foster, made a statement to the effect that South Africa should have a say in the composition of the commission, objecting to the inclusion of "anti-South African" members and generally displaying a dishonest defence of the apartheid policy.

How encouraging, then, to find the President of the South African Association, Mr. Brahm, dissociating his executive committee from the views of Mr. Foster's press campaign. This is tantamount to an association in a special capacity. This is tantamount to an association in a special capacity. This is tantamount to an association in a special capacity.

Although termination is fruitless, when something positive like this happens on the side of human nature, it increases the disappointment that Kenya had a similar African athletes would have given the right to compete among their own merits, and that they had been with international athletes, and take back to complete racial harmony at work and play in Kenya.

MR DONALD SCOTT is a brilliant and passionate young man whose life and thoughts have been influenced throughout his life by the racial conflict. He is a White South African, who graduated from the University of Cape Town and took a degree at Cambridge. Back in his own country after cutting short his studies in Africa, he established an intellectual and crusading periodical and campaigned against the State of Emergency which declared after Sharpeville.

THE SCHOLARS WHO ILLUMINATED A FORGOTTEN WORLD

By R. L. GLEN
TESTAMENT OF TIME by Leo Deust
(Morris Scott and Werberg, 6s.)

UNLIKE geographical explorers the scholar adventurers who hunt for written records of the world have hardly any account of their adventures. The liner habits of the day have made it difficult for them to go on any expeditions, and they are now confined to the study of the past. Time by Time is a history of the various expeditions of the various scholar adventurers since the beginning of the world.

The author has collected historical records from before the beginning of the world. He begins with early records of the Greeks and Roman literature of the time. He then goes on to the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. He then goes on to the modern world and the present day. He then goes on to the future and the end of the world.

The series shifts from Italy to the Orient. It is a history of the world from the beginning to the present day. It is a history of the world from the beginning to the present day. It is a history of the world from the beginning to the present day.

TASK AND INSURANCE

Standard Staff Reporter Dar as Salom.
PRESIDENT NYERERE of Tanzania yesterday told 100,000 workers in Dar es Salaam that the Government had "almost accomplished" the task assigned to it by the Arusha Declaration.

The President made no further announcement of nationalisation to follow that of the banks earlier this week. Earlier there had been persistent unconfirmed reports that other industries, including oil, textiles, breweries, tobacco and insurance, were on the take-over list.

In Nairobi, the Central Bank of Kenya announced last night that insurance is now expected to be nationalised outright. It is thought that with other industries the Government's intention is to arrange a controlling share. No official confirmation has been forthcoming as yet.

The President heard the general secretary of UAW, Mr. Kamaliza, say that the Government would be urged to take the necessary steps as soon as possible against owners of industries and large farms: "Whoever does not do his outlay should pack up and go home," he said.

TANZANIA LOST A LOT OF MONEY

PANTRIC's amounts of money had been transferred to the Arusha Declaration for the Arusha Declaration and the Arusha Declaration, Mr. Peter Kibuka, said a mass rally was held yesterday.

The United Africa Commission was yesterday quoted as saying that a "fantastic" amount of money had been transferred out of Tanzania soon after the Arusha Declaration. He warned that drastic steps would be taken against any transferring money.

In Nairobi, the Central Bank of Kenya announced that by agreement with the Bank of Tanzania it would continue to hold Tanzania notes and exchange them until February 14, when such notes were to be replaced by Kenya notes.

Mr. Kamaliza in Dar es Salaam and Nairobi, Kenya, yesterday made demonstrations of support for the Arusha Declaration policy of socialism and self-reliance.

BIG FIRMS TRY TO GET FACTS

Major business interests in Toronto are understood to have been among the many inquiries to the small Tanzania Interest Section of the Canadian High Commission in London about the nationalisation of banks in Tanzania.

Those asking information are said to have included the British Petroleum Company, which has a majority stake in the company, and the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

The inquiries to the company are said to have come up at a meeting last night at the home of John Bevan in Toronto. Bevan is president of the Tanzania Interest Section.

NEW KENYA CROP HELPS THE SMALL INDUSTRY

Kenaf harvested by Masai may cut reliance on foreign imports

A traveler, winding his way along a dusty track through the forest at the foot of the western Rift Valley mountains, would turn one of those sharp-angled bends in the bank and a few yards before him would be an inconspicuous sight.

A TRAVELLER, winding his way along a dusty track through the forest at the foot of the western Rift Valley mountains, would turn one of those sharp-angled bends in the bank and a few yards before him would be an inconspicuous sight.

One of the simplest tasks grows an estate of land — a tall, thickly branched tree which yields a soft, fibrous material. It is known as kenaf, and is harvested in many of the tropical regions of the world. The fibres of the plant are used in the manufacture of paper, rope, and other products. In Kenya, the plant is being cultivated on a large scale, and the resulting fibres are being used in the manufacture of paper and other products.

By PETER HOBSON

The seeds of a new national industry are being sown in the Rift Valley mountains of Kenya. The Government of this country has been successful in introducing the kenaf plant into the country. The plant is being cultivated on a large scale, and the resulting fibres are being used in the manufacture of paper and other products.

was every reason to try again." To the Masai this strange new fibre is an important export commodity. They discuss it with officials of the Bag and Cattle Commission and with agricultural experts from the Ministry of Agriculture. They agreed to the project and were introduced to the various details of the project by the Ministry of Agriculture. They were shown the various stages of the process, from the planting of the seeds to the harvesting of the fibres. They were also shown the various uses of the fibres, from the manufacture of paper to the manufacture of rope and other products.

Yanagiers join in the harvesting of the new crops. The initial stages of processing are completed in the field before the fibre is sent to the East African Bag and Cattle factory near Thika, which is adding another 300 workers to its labour force.

Early crop lost Much will depend on the experimental site at Ngarama and on the hand of Masai workers who are leading the pioneers into this new industry. Despite an early setback when unexpected rain washed away the young plants, the experiment has not been abandoned. The workers are continuing to work on the site, and the Government is providing them with the necessary support and resources.

"It looks our hearts when we lost so much of that early crop," said a member of the Bag and Cattle Company. "We lost more than 40 per cent of it. But at least some new industry in Kenya."

Presently the Government is providing the necessary support and resources for the project. The workers are continuing to work on the site, and the Government is providing them with the necessary support and resources. The project is being carried out in a systematic and organized manner, and the results are being closely monitored.

For the farmer on the banks of the river in the Rift Valley, the new industry is a source of hope. The plant is being cultivated on a large scale, and the resulting fibres are being used in the manufacture of paper and other products. The project is being carried out in a systematic and organized manner, and the results are being closely monitored.

Mr. Masai believes that the majority of the people in the Rift Valley will benefit from the project. The plant is being cultivated on a large scale, and the resulting fibres are being used in the manufacture of paper and other products. The project is being carried out in a systematic and organized manner, and the results are being closely monitored.

Another barrister, Mr. Albert Reed, said that the project is a source of hope for the people in the Rift Valley. The plant is being cultivated on a large scale, and the resulting fibres are being used in the manufacture of paper and other products. The project is being carried out in a systematic and organized manner, and the results are being closely monitored.

Seychelles election plans

Two Masai women lay out long strips of kenaf fibre which are spun in the Thika factory. The Masai were introduced by an early settler when carotene resin caused a stem rot in the crop.

PRELIMINARY discussions are being held in the Seychelles Islands regarding the holding of a general election. The Government of the Seychelles is planning to hold a general election in the near future. The election will be held in a democratic and free manner, and the results will be binding on the people of the Seychelles.

Farmers as in inquiry on stock thefts

CHANGES WANTED IN DAIRY INDUSTRY

Several farmers yesterday called for a commission of inquiry to consider the problem of stock thefts, which was described as "a major menace to the dairy industry" by the farmers. The farmers said that stock thefts would be unable to continue.

The K.N.F.U. annual conference in Nairobi was told that the rustlers had been given the green light by the criminal organisation and were winning the "war" they were waging against farmers.

An Eldoret farmer, Mr. J. Callender, moved the motion unanimously carried - calling for a commission of inquiry. It was felt that the stock thefts had been given the go-ahead by police stock theft units and sought an assurance that their effective strength would be increased.

Mr. Callender said farmers would have lost without the stock theft units to help them. During the last year a total of 500 cattle had been stolen and Mr. Eldoret area, 427 had been recovered.

QUARTER OF HERD STOLEN

The situation in the district was obviously much worse than in other areas. Stock theft could put a farmer out of business in a matter of days if his stock were lost. It was estimated that a quarter of his herd was lost. There should be a body of people to look into the whole problem and to decide what action should be taken.

The rustlers were well-organized. "They have state departments of information and war departments of propaganda," it was said.

Witnesses in court cases were nearly always prepared to cooperate with the police and to be taken up for questioning. "They have state departments of information and war departments of propaganda," it was said.

The conference carried a motion - introduced by Mr. Paul - which asked the Government to take urgent steps to recover the situation.

Mr. Hales said many areas of the country had been destroyed.

PAKISTAN: PROUD OF ITS PAST — CONFIDENT IN ITS FUTURE

Report and pictures by MICHAEL ROE

A representative of the "East African Observer" was in the party of journalists and travel agents from Dhacca who flew to Karachi on the recent official inaugural flight of Pakistan International Airlines from Dhacca to Karachi. It gives some impression of Pakistan.

KIPLING once wrote an epistle: "A fool lies here who tried to hustle the East." Having just returned to Nairobi after "doing" Pakistan in six days I have an idea of what he meant.

For although one party travelled from Karachi in the West to Chittagong, 1,300 miles away near the Burma border, and flew north to Rawalpindi, only scratched the surface of the country.

We had no time to visit places with much scenic appeal as Karachi, with the exception of the Maldives, is the only city on the Arabian coast. Lahore, the hill station with its famed Roper Reservoir, the mountain city of the Peshawar, the beautiful coast of the Bay of Bengal, which claims the longest unbroken beach in the world.

But there will be much to remember, much that has changed little since it was recorded as being by Kipling. The writer, whom the little book of 1911 mentions, was in Karachi in the 1860s. It is still the same streets in Karachi — though nowadays some have got with it and are paved.

Some of the buildings on which he sat and looked have, continuous to stand guard in the centre of Lahore, Pakistan now returns to it as King's Own as it is called in Karachi. The architect is in full charge of Karachi's main shopping places, and has many buildings in Dhacca. Today, many of these are named like Ahmad Abad, but he is a man of the past. The Pakistan is proud of its country's past and does not seem to have a competition to live on the evidence of the past. Indeed, some look back on it with a sentimental affection.

A bazaar scene in Karachi.

Developing capitalism, despite starting as one of the poorest in the world. The country, that is the Pakistan. One way for the poor people can still be the same as in the past, and the country of Karachi is continually being brought to date. The Pakistan is still far from democratic, but it is being made so. It is still far from a modern country, but it is being made so.

Yet to have the will of the vast majority of his citizens and the people has Government have achieved in the field of industry is a very wide mark of a Pakistan that is making progress.

One of the main problems is that have been a number of political leaders of greater importance than Pakistan's recent record of development. Unfortunately, the obstacles that have been a number of political leaders of greater importance than Pakistan's recent record of development. Unfortunately, the obstacles that have been a number of political leaders of greater importance than Pakistan's recent record of development.

The 15-day war help to set up a basic law which is official but what might have in Karachi is the best in the world.

More than 2,000 miles apart West and East Pakistan during the war with all sides fighting between the two countries had to be unified by force. The people, too, look at the united Pakistan. The people, too, look at the united Pakistan.

No rivalry

Yet I saw or heard no sign of any ill-feeling or rivalry between the two provinces. The reason, I think, is that a common religion, Islam is a common religion, Islam is a common religion, Islam is a common religion.

Wise the leaders of the country who have advised the government is in one province of the country. The government is in one province of the country.

Again, while the National Assembly in the past has been in the West, a new Parliament Building is now under construction in Dhacca. The other provinces can be held entirely in the East.

Here the new buildings are in the West. The new buildings are in the West. The new buildings are in the West.

The elegant uniforms which were ordered for the P.I.A. have a way to reflect the spirit of the country. The elegant uniforms which were ordered for the P.I.A.

It is a second article in the current architecture of the country. It is a second article in the current architecture of the country.

ABOVE: The letter writers still play their trade in the streets of Pakistan, just as they did in Kipling's day.

RIGHT: Worshippers at prayer in the impressive new mosque in the centre of Dhacca, East Pakistan.

BELOW: Beside the Shah Jahan Mosque in Lahore, 300 years ago. When this picture was taken the fountain were not playing as they were being checked for the visit of the Shah of Afghanistan.

Seven days devoted to literature and drama

Mr. Omeri
AN INITIATIVE TO BE COMMENDED
 A message from the Secretary-General of the East African Common Services Organization.

WITH the opening of the National Book Week in East Africa, I would like to thank the three National Book Week Committees who have worked so hard to make this important event possible. I would also like to thank the Publishers Book Program for their assistance in the organization of the event. The history in three ways the participation of people of letters and individuals, all who contributed in many ways to an idea designed to bring developing a reading habit among our people and to help them to know the value and importance of books. In a common effort the East African Literature Bureau has taken the initiative in proposing this worthwhile event. The Bureau, together with all other departments within the framework of the East African Common Services Organization, stands ready to provide a library with all the necessary equipment to help you to read and to be read as well as to be better informed in the widest sense of the word.

The National Book Week, which starts tomorrow, is an exciting experience in East Africa to read and to be read as well as to be better informed in the widest sense of the word. THE UPSURGE OF CREATIVE WRITING IN EAST AFRICA

By Dr. EDGAR WRIGHT, Department of English, Louisiana State University
 The beginning of 1967 sees East Africa established as a literary area in the context of modern African writing. While there is no point in putting forward extravagant claims about the amount published in Africa, there can be no denying the active role of writers in the development of their own literature. There has been a steady stream of new titles published in the continent in the last few years, and it is not only the quantity but also the quality of the work that is remarkable. The history of young African writers is a history of a new awareness of their own continent and a new sense of their own responsibility. It is a history of a new awareness of their own continent and a new sense of their own responsibility.

EAST AFRICAN LITERATURE BUREAU

ON THE OCCASION OF THE EAST AFRICAN NATIONAL BOOK WEEKS, THE EAST AFRICAN LITERATURE BUREAU WISHES TO EXPRESS GRATITUDE TO ALL THOSE WHO HELPED TO BRING ABOUT THIS IMPORTANT EVENT.

Like all the departments of the East African Common Services Organization, the East African Literature Bureau is pleased to be participating in the National Book Weeks in the three countries—a responsibility which it discharges in two ways: it encourages African literature and it publishes and distributes a great variety of books. In addition, it also organizes writing competitions for the young people of the East African States. At the same time it helps the writers of the three countries by providing them with a place where they may meet, discuss their work, and share their experiences. Searching for World Cup supporters

What the recent football fan who cheered England to victory in the World Cup competition last July will think of the elaborate decorations which were strung around the camera posts on this week is questionable. Crucial moments in the action are shown in a way that is almost comical.

It is not only the decorations but the camera work itself that is the cause of the trouble. The camera is so close to the action that it is almost impossible to see the players' faces. The camera is so close to the action that it is almost impossible to see the players' faces.

If you are one of the many who still think of history as a distant past and fascinating piece of antiquity, you will be surprised to find that history will pleasantly surprise you.

in the first place it is the best recorded of all the world's religions and the only one which has been carefully studied at all practical points. But recently it is history brought right up to date and dealt with in a way which makes it as interesting as any of the most remarkable events of the past. The study of African history is a new and exciting field. The late J. H. K. Burley, who is now chairman of the Department of History at University College, Nairobi, has done a major work on African history and has written a book on African history which is a valuable work. It is now being translated into Kisumu and is being published by the University of Nairobi.

A SHORT HISTORY OF YUGOSLAVIA
(Cambridge University Press, 22/6d.)

THE story of the peaceful emergence of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes into a united Yugoslav State in 1918, its troubled existence under the rule and domination of Marshal Tito are traced in detail by five contributors. Throughout centuries of domination by various empires the Yugoslavians have maintained their independence. In 1918, when the Austro-Hungarian Empire collapsed, the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes joined to form a new State. This was the beginning of the Yugoslav State.

The thriller after abolition

DOVE AND THE WINDING ROAD by Eric Linklater
The abolition of the slave trade in the West Indies has made a new thriller out of the old one. The story of the abolition of the slave trade is a story of the struggle for freedom and justice. It is a story of the triumph of the human spirit over the forces of evil.

This is a sign that will mean fertile soil to your country

ONCE, when you thought of Kuwait, you thought just of oil. Now, think of soil—your soil.

Natural gas, from Kuwait's oil, and free air are being combined to produce the world's most vital growing force—nitrogen.

A new petrochemical plant, the Kuwait Chemical Fertilizer Company, is already harnessing these natural resources to produce the two most urgently needed nitrogenous fertilizers, Urea and Ammonium Sulphate. Soon the soils of the Middle East, Africa and Asia will be richer, to provide abundant crops and to help cope with the problems of rising populations.

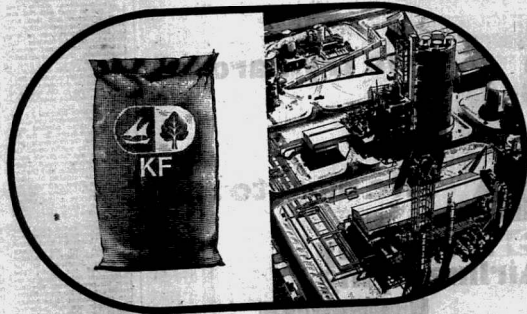

The entire output of Kuwait's dynamic new fertilizer industry is for export.

Production is economical because natural gas (and air) are always on tap in Kuwait.

Quality is guaranteed because only the world's most advanced techniques are used. Distribution is efficient because the Kuwait Chemical Fertilizer Company has an ideal geographical location, modern port facilities and a well-organised network of commercial agents throughout its vast marketing area. So low prices and continuity of distribution can be guaranteed to every farmer who needs these fertilizers.

Kuwait has taken a big step forward into scientific world-agriculture.

So why don't you take the step towards higher food production—write for more detailed information about Kuwait's new fertilizer industry to the address below:

COMMUNISTS 'ATTACK' NIGERIA REGAIN POWER

RECENTLY the Ghana Government has been reported to be in the process of sending a mission to Nigeria to discuss the possibility of a military intervention in the country.

The mission is said to be headed by a high-ranking Ghanaian official and is expected to arrive in Nigeria in the next few days.

The Ghanaian mission is believed to be a response to a request from the Nigerian Government for assistance in dealing with the military coup in Nigeria.

The mission is expected to discuss the possibility of a joint military intervention in Nigeria and to discuss the possibility of a joint military intervention in Nigeria.

MISUSE OF PUBLIC FUNDS

DISQUIETING PASSAGES occurred in the report tabled by the Controller and Auditor-General in the Kenya National Assembly that the Government has rendered a significant service to the country in presenting a barefaced exposure of its critical analysis of the accounts of the various ministries and other official bodies.

Not only did he refer to individual defalcations but was generous in overlooking by departments which necessitated supplementary votes. He found irregularly drawn accounts in the Budget, irregularly drawn and sent among some of the staff who were employed in the Government service involved in the financial year ended last June. In 1963, he recalled, 182 cases of theft by Government employees involving KSh.7.8 million were reported during the first 11 months of 1967. Many of these were reported during the internal checks they are required to make.

Kenya has many stalwart civil servants, especially in the senior grades, including efficiency and trustworthiness. Permanent Secretaries are diligent and conscientious. Many of them have broken the trust placed in them.

Mr. Barnett also raised the misuse of official transport. Letters are frequently received from readers who complain that the misuse of the Government's fleet of motor vehicles for shopping and other purposes is a serious problem. The Government is expected to take steps to reduce the misuse of public funds.

TWO ARRESTED

If the welfare and prosperity of the people of Ghana is to be maintained, it is essential that the Government should be able to control the country's economy. The Government has taken steps to control the country's economy and to ensure that the welfare and prosperity of the people of Ghana is maintained.

Queries about claims by M.P.

In a reference to the Ministry of Lands and Settlement, Mr. Barnett's report said considerable sums of interest and redemption of loans that were created from £243,414 in June 1965 to £21,208 a year later. One week ago, Mr. Gachago told the National Assembly that nearly 20,000 outstanding in settlement schemes had failed to repay their loans, involving a loss of nearly £200,000, representing about 80 per cent of the total. So far £140,000 has been processed and some £100,000 is expected to be processed in the next few months.

Such irreparability and failure to pay back borrowed money, the revelation of a massive loss of interest on public funds, and the misuse of official transport are grave enough, but the most serious expected of elected representatives.

Mr. Barnett had serious complaints to make concerning many Members. During the audit inspection of the National Assembly in 1966, the accounts of 31 Members were the subject of serious complaints to make concerning many Members. Pyrethrum output up by 39 p.c.

At the end of the first five years of the settlement scheme in the former 'White Highlands' all 50,000 acres of the original 100,000 acres have been purchased and the Government is now in a position to purchase the remainder of the settlement, published in Nairobi yesterday.

The report drew attention to increasingly poor yields of pyrethrum in settlements and it was stated that this should be improved considerably if the financial situation was not to be jeopardized. A number of settlers had their plots requisitioned and other cases were pending.

In a forward to the report for the Director for Lands and Settlements, Mr. Angweny, said that during the year 4,500 more families were settled, bringing the total to 25,752.

He said that settlement farmers had shown good progress both crops and livestock and it was concluded that some of the best small-scale farmers were to be found in settlement schemes.

LAZY MEN TO BE OUSTED

The Government has introduced legislation to enable drastic steps to be taken against loafers. One task now requires to be replaced by few lazy settlers with energetic and successful farmers so that the 1,000,000-acre scheme can fulfil the hopes required of it by both the unemployed and unemployed and the investors alike, Mr. Angweny said.

Mr. W. J. Maina, who until recently was Director of Settlements, said the programme, possibly because of the size, had given rise to fears about the possibility of success and the programme's impact on the economy.

He said the Government had introduced legislation to enable drastic steps to be taken against loafers. One task now requires to be replaced by few lazy settlers with energetic and successful farmers so that the 1,000,000-acre scheme can fulfil the hopes required of it by both the unemployed and unemployed and the investors alike, Mr. Angweny said.

WHEN GENERATIONS THINK DIFFERENTLY

WHAT is a miracle? Somebody once defined it as a woman who does not talk. Sharada Tagore is this type of a miracle worker in ANUPAMA which continues at the Liberty and Gaiety. Sharada's silent language is obvious from her sensitive performance, as a depressed introvert who hardly speaks in this touchingly-charming film.

Set in Allahabad during the twilight of the British raj, the picture depicts the yearning of the people for the return of the British Raj, the corruption and the prevalent of the Indian independence movement.

The film portrays the clash of ideas between the old and the new. It is a comedy about a man in a 10th-century setting. It is a comedy about a man in a 10th-century setting. It is a comedy about a man in a 10th-century setting.

JOHN MAKES A PRESENT

By CYNTHIA HUNTER

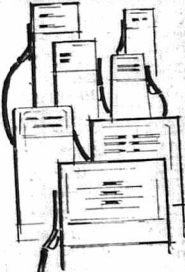

JOHN had been looking forward to his annual holiday for a whole year and now he was sitting on the sand, feeling utterly miserable.

He had arrived that morning with his mother. He was sorry to leave her all alone, when the following afternoon, when his father and brother had arrived, he was with all them.

John looked up at a pair of dark, heavy clouds in the sky. The sunset part of the day had been a beautiful one, but now it was dark and the wind was blowing hard.

COMMUNAL PENALTIES MAY STOP THE ATTRITION

court prosecution in such cases — would obviously reduce their — but in considerable expense.

A different and cheaper approach is favoured by a number of houses. They appreciate that the sales and the Government are determined to control stock theft.

They fully acknowledge that the Government is aware of the evils posed by the trade. President Kenyatta this month gave a stern warning to cattle thieves when he said, very recently, addressing the necessity of the country.

In November the then Minister for Home Affairs, Mr. Mui, told the Senate that the Government would not hesitate to impose severe penalties on stock theft, which gave the country a bad name and diverted funds for development in the maintenance of law and order.

Little hope

The Minister told Senators that the Kenya Constituents had no approval for the imposition of communal penalties, which normally affected the farmers.

Farmers know they have little to be done in securing the introduction of communal fines. They doubt, however, to a system which would obviate the necessity for communal fines but which would at the same time provide a reliable deterrent — in that it would affect the individual.

Under the system they propose, better surveillance would operate within each district. They would also have to check how many cattle were stolen and how much they were worth.

The committee would then reach agreement on a suitable rate of compensation in the form of a contribution to the committee in whole area the committee is the committee representing the district from which the cattle were stolen. Compensation would then be paid to the individuals who had lost animals.

This scheme is based on the fact that it is not until the cattle raid occurs that the administrative machinery of the Government is set in motion. It is not until the Government is notified of the raid that it can take any action. The Government would not be able to take any action until it is notified of the raid. The Government would not be able to take any action until it is notified of the raid.

might not be fully worked out in compensation.

Each rate would be set in the district. The rate would be set in the district. The rate would be set in the district. The rate would be set in the district.

Two districts
The system would not eliminate cattle raids, but it might keep them down to a manageable level in some areas, where two clearly defined districts for in close proximity to each other.

From the long-term point of view, it is hoped that effective administrative measures might be taken to reduce the incidence of the type of crime. If stock theft could be reduced to a non-existent level, the cattle industry might come round to the view that it was no longer a matter for government.

Until that time, however, the Government will have to remain outside the domain on the subject of Kenya.

Dr. Nkrumah arms his Congo enemies

By RALPH BAWENES

CHALLENGE OF THE CONGO TO THE WESTERN WORLD
(Thomas Nelson and Sons, Ltd., G.)

CONGOISE history, in nearly seven years of independence, has probably reached more heights and descends than that of any other African State. Dr. Nkrumah's contribution, the latest to a varied selection of contributions on the Congo situation, is, I feel, likely to provide good reading for his readers.

Throughout the book, which includes a good deal of highly interesting information on the Congo, one sees a certain amount of bias. This is not surprising, for the author is a member of the African Union, and his attitude is clear from the beginning.

He stresses the whole of this book to be unimpaired alike by the Western powers, and imperfections and un-constructive criticisms. He also points out that it is not his intention to "sell" what is, in his opinion, the best of the Congo. Dr. Nkrumah's views and those expressed, support of the Congo's first Prime Minister, Kwame Nkrumah, has been the main theme of the Congo's political and economic development since his death.

For such a sophisticated and well-read man, Dr. Nkrumah's desire to get across his own point of view is rather surprising. He does not seem to be in the least bit aware of the fact that his own point of view is not shared by many of the Congo's political and economic leaders.

Dr. Nkrumah worked hard to create an African Black Command but got little support beyond the borders of the Congo. He is a member of the African Union, and his attitude is clear from the beginning.

WHISTLER AS AN ART PROPHET

THE artist James Whistler was a master of the "equilibrium," says the British critic, Denis Sutton, in a new penetrating study of the 19th-century American artist's work.

Mr. Sutton, an acknowledged authority on Whistler, adds that the artist anticipated certain modern movements such as abstraction and displacement. The book is a collection of many of his paintings, sketches, drawings and watercolours in a handsome volume, James Whistler, published in London by the Pavilion Press.

A MOVING STORY OF A LUO FAMILY IN TANGANYIKA

By MICHAEL ROE

THE PROMISED LAND by Grace Dyer (E.A. Publishing House, 7/6)

THIS novel is a major event in the development of indigenous literature in East Africa. Apart from the naturally clear and simple style of writing, there is a knowledge of no book that has captured before the atmosphere of day-to-day life in a remote African village.

The tale set some after the war, in a remote African village. The Luo people are the main characters, and they are the main characters.

KENYA'S NIGHTLY WAR OF NERVES

WITHIN sight of the hills of Nairobi, with horns and hooves, the cattle herds have been driven back against stock fences, if they attack, they are met with sharp bullets and snarling dogs.

The game has been driven through the area known as the Nairobi stock fence. The cattle have been driven through to the first fence to get past the stock fence.

High price of keeping vigil against menace of cattle thefts

By PETER NARES

The ranch bought by a Kenya citizen, Mr. Jack Howell, who—along with other farmers—was forced to take action to keep his herd from being stolen last year. The ranch was raided 12 times last year, and the loss of one cow was the result of the fact that 23 horns were being hidden and injured by raiding stock thieves.

Something had to be done to protect them. The Land Office has approved a plan for the ranch about a year ago to install a perimeter fence.

The value of the cattle is reduced. The thieves may also have driven them to areas where quarantine restrictions are in force. This complicates the task of returning the stock home. In many cases the thieves have been seen. The cattle cannot be returned.

The stock of Land Rover owned by Mr. Howell's ranch was proved successful in the event of a poaching stock theft. The police—each having a box of snare—and the dog were the main weapons.

The security men must be alert against a herd of thieves who may have been driven to the ranch from the north.

The cattle guards are from nearby farms. They are tough and they have to be fit physically.

The ranch is a party of the stock fence. The fence is made of wire mesh and is 12 ft high.

Three of the 23 armed guards on Mr. Jack Howell's ranch of Akiki River are pictured (left) outside one of the houses in which the fences cattle have to be kept at night. The guards are equipped for stock-thieft— they each carry a bow and a sheath of arrows. Mr. Jack Howell (right) makes a brief stop at one of the cattle houses on his Akiki ranch to talk with the armed guard. In the background is the Main House of the ranch. The photo was taken by Peter Nares.

Most of the fences have been built by the Government. The fences are made of wire mesh and are 12 ft high.
