SCRATCHED CLEAN

—and each scratch a home for dirt and germs

SMOOTHLY CLEANED WITH VIM—for health's sake

Scouring which scratches the surface is dangerous. Every scratch is a trap for germs, which decay and breeds germs—often dangerous to health.

The safer way is to use Vim. Vim whitens away all grease and dirt smoothly, leaving the surface spotless and absolutely unscratched. Pots and pans, enamel, paintwork, porcelain, woodwork, baths, tiles—they are all cleaned more safely and smoothly with Vim.

MEDICAL OPINION

Doesn't everyone live in ignorance on the dangers of dirt? You may think that dirt is only dirt, but it is not. It is a germ, a bacterium, and these germs mean ill-health and disease. If you could have a powerful microscope and see the germs in abundance, you would realize the danger. This is why the health element is so important in cleaning. It is not only the dirt, but the germs that are the danger. It is not only the dirt, but the germs that are the danger. It is not only the dirt, but the germs that are the danger.

are inclined to be regarded as paragon and those of the districts neglected.

It is not believed that in the case for there is a very growing desire to include the districts in all events. The fact remains that this impression is widely held.

Thus the encouragement of boxing in Schools will have a widely diffused effect and will not be confined to the few who are the Director of Education and his Department have recognized the great value of boxing in the Schools and have endeavored to put it in their power. There is no doubt to believe that all things have changed, or that the Schools will not today receive as much encouragement as in the past. This being the case, it can be reasonably expected that the future will be bright for adequately.

If, then, advantage can be taken of the presence in Kenya of so many new recruits to organize a series of boxing tournaments, the game will be kept alive and flourishing and the youngsters, when they reach the adult age, will be better and not a partially non-started sport involving them.

But the present need is for competitors. There are plenty of old hands past their active fighting days, to take on executive and training tasks. It is hoped that some of the present is only a period of inactivity, and that the future that precedes final extinction.

THE RULES OF HEALTH are few and simple.

Excuse me—Inner Cleanliness comes first!

First thing in the morning— even before washing—think of Inner Cleanliness. For a clear skin, bright eyes and that inner sparkle which is the secret of loveliness, Inner Cleanliness is far more effective than any cosmetic treatment.

Feel the bubbling energy of cleansing your mouth and throat as you drink it. While the delicious taste is still on your tongue Inner Cleanliness begins. While still effervescing, Andrews washes the stomach wall, removes the mucus that tends to clog the gland openings and reduces cancer acidity.

For Inner Cleanliness be regular with your ANDREWS LIVER SALT. The Ideal Laxative.

SOUTH AFRICAN SCENE

MR. HOFMEYER'S BUDGET

MR. HOFMEYER'S first Budget is, like its author, meticulous and orthodox. Whatever his political opponents may say of Mr. Hofmeyr's method, they can never deny the candour, justice and integrity. What money there is in the still plentiful amount Mr. Hofmeyr will distribute with absolute impartiality. And, if the till is empty, he will not hesitate to say so.

The Budget has had a good Press on the whole. Indeed on the Rand it has been called "brilliant" and a budget of "great value." This was to be expected since the gold market had gone up since Mr. Hofmeyr's announcement of all gold profits over price of 190s. an absolute obligation to exchange for a special levy of £2,500,000, which brings the total contribution of the mines to State revenue up to £20,000,000—only £1,000,000 short of what Mr. Hofmeyr succeeded to extract from them. It may be said that this is not Mr. Hofmeyr's policy is rather a Peter and Paul arrangement and that they never expect objection to be raised from them. It is, however, very well satisfied, since they never expect objection to be raised from them. It is, however, very well satisfied, since they never expect objection to be raised from them.

It is, however, very well satisfied, since they never expect objection to be raised from them. It is, however, very well satisfied, since they never expect objection to be raised from them. It is, however, very well satisfied, since they never expect objection to be raised from them.

THE POLITICAL FRONT

On the political front the United Party has been cheered by a renewed victory over the Transvaal backward seat, Mr. A. ... It is, however, very well satisfied, since they never expect objection to be raised from them.

THE COLLECTING BOX

The South African Mayors' National War Fund, which now stands at £24,000,000, has a big debt to a certain collecting box in Advertiser Street, Cape Town. This collecting box was set up by the Government, when you drop a coin into it, a Chamberlain raises his umbrella and a representation of Mr. Chamberlain raises his umbrella and a representation of Mr. Chamberlain raises his umbrella.

GOING TO THE "DOGS"

Mr. Hofmeyr's little wicket-gambling-probably a welcome change to the speaker of the House of Assembly this week. Mr. Hofmeyr, a member for Rooopoot, asked the Government to appoint a commission to inquire into the loss of the "Dogs".

Being a Review of Event and Opinion in the Union growth of gambling in the Union, and although he framed his resolution in general terms, members of the House assumed that the House was the only body which could vote accordingly. Actually, as far as the "Dogs" is concerned, Durban is far more wrapped up in the game of trying to beat the bookies than Johannesburg.

But it is a good word, reminding them that always gets the line when gambling is discussed. For some reason, dog racing interests the reformers far more than the Turf. Mr. Allen quoted some remarkable figures in 1930, for instance he said that just under £200,000 of the Turf's provincial revenue had been forfeited by £28,000 and the proceeds had received £17,000. He estimated that this year the turnover would be £2,500,000. The total weekly turnover he put at £250,000. He said that the "dog" racket-shops handled over greater sums.

Mr. Hofmeyr's motion received a great deal of support from both sides of the House. Mr. Hofmeyr, a member for Rooopoot, asked the Government to appoint a commission to inquire into the loss of the "Dogs".

The United States and the Problems of Europe

by the Rt. Hon. A. DUFF COOPER, M.P., former first Lord of the Admiralty.

NEVER before have the United States of America been so deeply interested in the problems of Europe as they are today. Nor is that interest confined to one section of the country or to one stratum of the population.

Many Americans are themselves deeply interested in the spread of the interest, and low profound.

On arriving in New York the European is often surprised by his New York friends that while it is only natural that they should be so deeply interested in the spread of the interest, and low profound.

of the two was the greater evil. An alliance with Russia would have prevented the European war. That fact alone is sufficient to justify every endeavor that has been made to contract such an alliance.

There are only some of the questions that are now arising in the mind of the American public. Although they are all settling the questions, but are they asked in any spirit of ill will. On the contrary, those who ask them are not hostile to the British or to the cause of the Allies, who only desire that their doubts may be removed and their faith strengthened.

There are many other questions of a more delicate nature, ranging from the war debt, that even proved skeleton in the cupboard of Anglo-American relations, down to the "Cleveland" case.

The next question may concern Russia. That the regime in that country is the most despotic and autocratic has been known for some time. It is necessary to travel in order to correct that information and to spread the interest, and low profound.

Britain's Monetary Policy

PART I.
In February, the Parliamentary Monetary Committee published its Report for the session 1935-36 and in view of the importance of British monetary policy in the world, a full account of the Report is here published in two parts. The first part will appear in this issue and the second part in the issue of March 15.

THE PARLIAMENTARY MONETARY COMMITTEE was established in 1936. It was considered necessary by a series of revolutionary changes, which not only modified the basic principles of monetary policy, but also placed the Bank of England under the control of the Treasury in its administration.

The departure from the Gold Standard in 1931, the creation of the Exchange Equalisation Fund in 1932, the acceptance of new forms of monetary policy and the assertion of the dominance of the Government in making the monetary policy effective, as prescribed by the Ottawa Monetary Declaration, the formation of the United Nations, the principles and objectives of the Ottawa Monetary Declaration, the principles and objectives of the Ottawa Monetary Declaration, the principles and objectives of the Ottawa Monetary Declaration.

II. RISE IN THE WORLD-WIDE SALE PRICE LEVEL.
A rise through the world in the general level of wholesale prices is in the highest degree desirable, desire to co-operate with other nations in any practical measure for raising wholesale prices, the primary line of action towards a rise in prices is to raise the general level of wholesale prices.—Ottawa Monetary Report.

Membership of the Parliamentary Monetary Committee is open to all members of Parliament. The only qualification is an interest in monetary problems for which Parliament has become directly responsible. The chairman is Mr. Crayke-Frith, and the Co-opted members include a member of National Associations of Manufacturers, Chambers of Commerce and Farmers' Unions.

The Government of the British Commonwealth should persist by all means in their power, whether monetary or economic, to bring about a general rise in the price level in the policy of furthering the general monetary policy of the British Commonwealth has been directed to raising prices. It is of the greatest importance that this rise in prices should be achieved in the most equitable manner possible.—British Currency Declaration.

III. STABILISATION OF DEPARTURE FROM REPULATION.
The first departure from repulation policy inaugurated by the Government, was that occurred with the Tripartite Agreement in September, 1936. Under this Agreement, the Government of Sterling, proclaimed in the Currency Declaration in 1935, which removed the old view of the power of development, was to establish a new international monetary policy to develop.

IV. EQUIPMENT OF DEBTOR AND CREDITOR.
(A price level now in keeping with the level of cost and the burden of debt.)
"Any price level would be satisfactory, which harmonises the burden of debt with the charges upon economic capacity."—Ottawa Monetary Declaration.

CHAP AND IDENTIFY MONEY.

An Examination by the Parliamentary Monetary Committee

1935 and 1936, in order to obtain a clearer picture of the industrial situation in the world, which was a result of the monetary policy of the British Commonwealth. The report of the Monetary Committee, which was published in 1936, contained a detailed examination of the monetary policy of the British Commonwealth, which was a result of the monetary policy of the British Commonwealth.

Notes in Clearing Banks:

1935	294	2,058	913
1936	431	2,316	643
1937	469	2,337	613

The 1936-37 year, which had increased by £26 millions had to a large extent been offset by 1937-38, despite the fact that the Government had been required to increase a large part of its expenditure. The total of £21 million in 1937-38, which had increased by £26 millions had to a large extent been offset by 1937-38, despite the fact that the Government had been required to increase a large part of its expenditure.

CONVERSATION PIECE

"Your criticisms on the agriculture of this country are not too just. It is indeed unprofitable, but a land, if not the primary cause of its being so, is that we have not the resources which we need to clear, and either cut down more wood, if we have it, or plant more trees, if we do not."

Some ten days ago a kind friend sent me a copy of a book called 'To Hold This Soil' written by Russell Lord, a member of the United States Department of Agriculture, of the Soil Conservation Service. I have been reading this book with interest, and finding several hundreds of miles across the Highlands of Kenya and the plains that lead down to the lowlands, I am impressed so much that I have taken the opportunity of again writing about a matter so frequently mentioned in these columns. 'To Hold This Soil' is a fascinating. If depression, history of the decline and destruction of the land of America since before was first planted by the Virginia Colonists around the year 1670. Even before that the trouble had started for as early as 1638 over-grazing and over-cropping of pastures had led the northern colonists of Massachusetts to appoint 'tree-keepers' empowered to impound all cattle feeding out of season and to pass other regulations 'lest cattle should devour the corn and grain.'

It is a strange thing that although the means of vision was realized by countless writers on agriculture, the possibility of the application of it has been persistently disregarded by the States of America and England, particularly in those spots where the soil is most fertile. When I came to Kenya, only a short year ago, I heard much talk of the possibility of applying the principles of soil conservation, but I found that the soil was being ruined by the over-cropping of the land, and that the soil was being ruined by the over-cropping of the land, and that the soil was being ruined by the over-cropping of the land.

Deflation was not confined to the note issue. There was an even more serious concurrent deflation of Treasury Bills, on which commercial banks rely as an additional resource to supplement their cash and money at call. The issue of Tender Treasury Bills, which reached a total of £265 millions in June, 1937, was deflated to £246 millions in March, 1939. The protraction of an exceptionally low note issue of Tender Treasury Bills in February-March, 1939, indicates the comprehensive nature of the reduction of the policy of cheap and plentiful money in the Treasury's view of the Currency Declaration of 1932. The Treasury's view of the Currency Declaration of 1932 was that the Government should take the requirements of internal property into full account in its international monetary policy.

Government War Allied Expeditionary Force Ready

MUCH VALUABLE TERRITORY CEDED FACTORS WHICH LED TO DECISION

FIGHTING IN FINLAND GAVE TO AN END ON WEDNESDAY FOLLOWING A PEACE PACT SIGNED IN MOSCOW BE- TWEEN REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SOVIET AND FIN- LAND GOVERNMENTS.

The details terms of which was ended first announced by the Moscow radio and then confirmed in a broadcast statement by the Finnish Foreign Minister who said that Finland had had to give up the struggle because she lacked weapons and had no faith in the promises of others.

The most important points of the Treaty may be summarised as follows:

Finland surrenders to Russia the whole of the Karelian Isthmus including the town of Viborg and all Lake Ladoga with the territory around it.

Russia is to have a 30 years lease of the port of Hangö for use as a naval and air base.

Finland cedes to Russia the Finnish part of the Fishermen's Peninsula (which lies north of Petsamo).

Although Finland retains Petsamo, Russia is granted transit facilities there as well as free transit across Finland to Norway and Sweden.

instance can be overruled. Their own judgement is not to be based on reports from Stockholm but on the Swedish Government has decided to resist the passage of any Allied proposal to Finland.

Swedish Mediation

It is revealed that Sweden has been acting as an intermediary between Russia and Finland for several weeks. The Finnish Foreign Minister said last night that contact had been established between Russia and Finland through a third party. Even yet there is very little solid news about the effect of the negotiations between the combatants.

"According to a Stockholm news agency direct discussions between Sweden and Finland represent one of the leading topics today, not in the Swedish capital but elsewhere."

Whatever truth there is in the report, however, fierce fighting is continuing and the Russians are still trying to get round the Finns' flank by crossing the line on Viborg Island yesterday they destroyed more than 30 Russian tanks.

North-west of Lake Ladoga the Russians are keeping up their attacks apparently to keep the Finns from withdrawing in section and to prevent the line being used to relieve the pressure further south.

Messages from Helsinki says that the Finns are fighting bravely and are already serving as volunteers must report further for service with the Army. In the ordinary course of allied help has been called until the autumn.

Mr. J. W. K. Kinnunen, British Consul, who will lead the British contingent, took the lead in the presence of the Finnish Minister yesterday.

The Finns' contributions to Finland are: 300,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, 170 aircraft, nearly 500 tons of foodstuffs, 20,000 tons of medical supplies and considerable quantities of allied help for the Finnish Army.

March 10. The possibility of further aid to Finland is being actively discussed in Paris and London.

After the French Council of Ministers met yesterday in Paris, the British Foreign Secretary announced that the British Government is ready to do all in its power to help Finland.

The British Government has already agreed to supply Finland with 200,000 tons of foodstuffs, 20,000 tons of medical supplies and considerable quantities of allied help for the Finnish Army.

Meanwhile, the efforts to end the fighting in Finland are continuing. Mr. Tanner, the Finnish Foreign Minister, said in a statement yesterday that he had given his consent to the peace pact signed in Moscow on Wednesday.

Another newspaper says: "There can be no doubt that the Finns will accept terms which will put her in a position to continue her struggle."

Lapin has had many calls during the week-end. The United States Ambassador in Helsinki has received a Government report of conversations with Mr. Molotov, five weeks ago. The Russian Premier, in Washington, Mr. Molotov's report, is a summary of the effect that Russia is likely to have on the peace negotiations.

Meanwhile in Russia itself all eyes are turned to the negotiations. It is believed that the Russian Government is being brought to bear on the peace negotiations by the British and French Governments. It is believed that the Russian Government is being brought to bear on the peace negotiations by the British and French Governments.

When the House of Commons met this afternoon the Prime Minister said that the negotiations between Finland and Russia had not yet reached a stage which would justify a statement.

Mr. Chamberlain began his reply by saying that the British and French Governments are continuing to send valuable material assistance to Finland. He went on: "The Russian Government and the French Government have both expressed their sympathy for the Finnish Government which they are doing all in their power to do to help her in her struggle."

Anglo-Italian Coal Agreement

When von Ribbentrop, the German Foreign Minister arrived in Rome, Britain and Italy had already settled their differences over the export of coal from Germany and this is regarded as an important diplomatic victory for the Allies.

Hitler's enemy says he had anything but a correct reception at the Vatican and it is believed the Pope used the opportunity to speak sternly about Nazi persecution of Roman Catholics.

March 10. Herr von Ribbentrop arrived in Rome on Sunday some little time before the British and German settlements of the dispute with Italy. The settlement was in fact announced by the Italian Foreign Minister after a long series of interviews.

Some of the conditions of the agreement in Rome after the German Foreign Minister had been in contact with the Italian Government. It is believed that the conversations were conducted in a friendly and cordial atmosphere.

as making yet another of his rather doubtful promises to attempt to retrieve the consequences of his recent visits to Moscow. He is flattered by such observations as these, with the optimum typical of a man who is in a position to do nothing on worthwhile assets, and who is in a position to do nothing on worthwhile assets, and who is in a position to do nothing on worthwhile assets.

Sympathetic understandings is expected to be reached between the Government to discover if their wonderful resistance to Soviet aggression has created a new independence in Moscow. In which a peaceful settlement of their independence can be obtained. The general opinion is that the Finnish Government, army, and people would be unwilling to accept terms inconsistent with the country's integrity and honour.

Meeting Paris

The Times says editorially: "Finland is holding fast against aggression, and against the idea of being a great country, to the detriment of a small neighbour, and in defending the liberty of all small countries in defending her own. Both in her private and in her public life, she is standing for the common cause of all small countries."

Bombers Still Active Over North Sea

HEINKELS AND HURRICANES IN COMBAT

There has been more bombing expeditions against enemy shipping over the North Sea, by both British and German planes. Another Heinkel bomber has been accounted for after single combat with a Hurricane machine.

The Royal Air Force last night made the longest reconnaissance flight of the war when they sent the first flight over Poland announced by the Air Ministry.

The British planes left in daylight and made a dead straight track of nearly 1,200 miles to Poznan in Poland about 50 miles over the German frontier. They returned by air to base in France and landed in the Dutch having been in the air for about 19 hours.

Little Opposition
The planes met with little or no opposition and were fired on by anti-aircraft guns in England, Scotland, and Ireland. No German fighters were seen. German anti-aircraft was active but German fighters were seen, were active but German fighters were seen, were active but German fighters were seen.

When the R. A. F. machines arrived over Poland they dropped incendiary bombs and then visited and to test their courage over the people of Poland. (Reuters)

Further details of the raid were given by a German bomber of yesterday afternoon. It was reported that the enemy machine was flying at an altitude of over five miles. Four British fighters attacked in turn and one bomber downed in an attempt to escape.

HEAD OF THE FIGHTING IN FINLAND

Early this morning the Moscow radio announced officially that a peace agreement had been concluded between Finland and the Soviet Union. The terms of the agreement were contained in news agency messages and in an official broadcast and they said the hostilities would cease at noon.

Under the agreement, as it is known, all Finnish troops are to receive:

- (1) One-tenth of the Karelian Isthmus.
- (2) The whole of the shore of Lake Ladoga.
- (3) The Port of Hangö and nearby territory is to be leased to Russia for 99 years for use as a naval base and an annual rent of about $20,000 will be paid.

Russia undertakes to withdraw her troops from the northern part of Finland.

The Finns agree not to make land and maritime coast guard vessels in Arctic waters.

Russia is to be allowed free transit of goods through Finland and from Norway without Customs control.

Things are to be moved to the new frontier by 3 a. m. on March 15.

Finland consents that all her islands in the Gulf of Finland.

Trade negotiations are to begin immediately.

The Signatories
The Moscow announcement gives the names of the signatories. On the Finnish side, the signatories are M. Molotov, the Prime Minister, a member of the Supreme Soviet, and the Finnish Foreign Minister, M. Paasikivi, Minister without Portfolio, and Gen. Walden, as well as a member of the Finnish Parliament.

The treaty is to ratify within 10 days and it is understood that the existing powers are the Finnish Parliament and the Supreme Soviet Council.

by their Foreign Minister, M. Tanner, who stated that Finland had agreed with the Soviet terms because the Indian weapons had no faith in the promises of others.

The Finnish Minister added that the Finnish Government had refused to let the troops through the only possible route. This Finland was left alone to face an enemy of superior numbers. The peace was not her fault but was the fault of her fellow democracies who had deserted her.

The Finnish Parliament, which was in session until 3 a. m. last night in the morning proposed to accept the Finnish Foreign Minister's statement and to ratify the terms agreed by the delegation in Moscow.

Resolutions
Until the Finnish Foreign Minister broadcast this morning the situation was still obscure. The Finnish Parliament was still in session but after the Moscow statement had been made the peace and the Soviet terms were accepted by the Finnish Parliament.

Some newspapers did not even publish the news and that the Finns were so shocked and disappointed. Their disappointment was so great that they refused to sign the peace.

Threat to Allies
The fact that the Finns made no further appeal to the Allies for help is believed to have been caused by the strong opposition by Norway and Sweden to allow Allied troops through the Gulf of Finland.

ended to destroy the only railway capable of transporting the troops from the rear to the front.

In several important respects the Finns have to make large gains under the peace terms. The Russian terms had been the greatest loss to Finland, their second largest cities. The original plan demanded that the frontier on the Karelian Isthmus should be shifted to the north-west but did not demand the city of Finland.

The Finnish Government had refused to let the troops through the only possible route. This Finland was left alone to face an enemy of superior numbers. The peace was not her fault but was the fault of her fellow democracies who had deserted her.

In the Far North the nature of the Russian terms has been clearly defined. The Russian obtains the right of free transport in the Finnish region across to Norway and also the right of way by the original route across to Sweden.

The Finnish Government had refused to let the troops through the only possible route. This Finland was left alone to face an enemy of superior numbers. The peace was not her fault but was the fault of her fellow democracies who had deserted her.

CRITICISM OF ALENIA FOREST LANDS

Arbor Society Meeting

Extensively outspoken comments about Government's failure to bring the forest area in the Highlands of Kenya up to 10 per cent of the total area came from the President of the Arbor Society at the annual meeting held last night.

The sixth annual general meeting of the Kenya Arbor Society held last night was opened by an address by the President, Mr. Lodge, of Nairobi, who gave a brief outline of the work of the Society during the year.

Twenty-two new members joined the Society during the year, but 25 members who had not paid their contributions for the last three months were dropped.

The balance sheet showed a credit balance of only Shs. 657/6/8, which was insufficient to cover the Society's promised donation of 10 per cent of the forest area to the public under the new semi-roads scheme.

Mr. Lodge said that the Government's declaration was a sign that the vital importance to the Colony of increased areas under forest had been officially recognized, but he, however, has to wait long for fulfilment.
