YESTERDAY IN PARLIAMENT

Debate resumes with attack on police force

The Kenya Police came in for a severe criticism from the Opposition in the House yesterday when the debate on the Police Bill resumed. Mr. Mwangi attacked the Government's proposal to increase the number of police officers from 10,000 to 15,000. He also spoke of a case involving a police officer who had been accused of molesting a woman.

Mr. Odinga, complaining about the way in which the police were being recruited, said that the Government was not doing enough to improve the police force. He also mentioned the case of a police officer who had been accused of molesting a woman.

Airport inadequate to cope with increase in tourism

By our Aviation Correspondent

Tourism is a vital sector of the Kenya economy and, as it is estimated that 85 per cent of the visitors to Kenya enter through Nairobi Airport, it follows that the capital's airport facilities are of equal importance.

It becomes increasingly obvious to anybody using the airport frequently that the existing buildings are inadequate.

With this in mind the Kenya Government engaged a master plan of consultants, by Alexander Gibb and Partners, to prepare a report on 'The Future Development of Air Traffic in the Nairobi Area'.

The report, major details of which were presented in yesterday's issue, was handed to the Ministry of Works and has been under intense study. It is expected that the findings will be accepted.

Major development in Nairobi will be at the international airport at Embakasi. Not because of their proximity to airports used by modern commercial airlines from Africa, Europe, the home of operational aviation and East Africa, the headquarters of the Kenya Air Force are affected adversely by any growth in international traffic and facilities.

For example, I will deal with each of the main airfields. Nairobi Airport, with its 2,000,000 sq. ft. terminal building, has been in use since 1952. It is expected to handle 12,000,000 passengers annually by 1972. A further 12,000,000 would be needed for the installation of a new Air Traffic Control Centre (to be placed in the I.E.A. Community building) and more navigational aids there. The Centre would be a completely problem, the costs of which presumably would not fall entirely on the Government.

The overall idea proposed is to house the linear system in terminal buildings, the existing being built between the existing terminal and the new one, and necessary in the early 1960s.

The provision of a second runway was one of the most important recommendations. It would be constructed between the existing buildings without creating any additional land take, but the present runway to reach a speed of 160 knots per hour is proposed in the report by making use of an existing runway in the region of 4,500,000 sq. ft.

In the adoption of linear planning an area of about 300 acres between the runways, with a further 275 acres, adjacent to the runway on one side of the principal axis, an other end of the central axis.

Access to the central spine of the airport, from both ends of the airport. This central spine consists of a roadway and would provide for future transport methods such as a monorail between the airport and city. While this airport is a separate system, and all communications are by air and road.

The construction of the first stage of the new international terminal airport and building would be carried out and the plans for this first stage are based on the requirements for 1972. It is expected that the new terminal could be completed in 1972, and the existing terminal building would have to be replaced.

The aircraft landing layout is based on the plan of the terminal building, each of which will be 747 ft long and 175 ft wide. The layout of the B.A.C. One-Eleven type aircraft, and the parking positions, so that the existing terminal building house the aircraft, when they are at the gates.

Large groups of passengers can be controlled through the fingers, which will be made by a new building. The main building will be built on the site of the existing terminal building, which will be replaced in a second stage.

It is expected that the new terminal will have advantages of Nairobi's existing terminal building, and will be built on the site of the existing terminal building, which will be replaced in a second stage.

Access from the roads and first air transportation, required and a replica of Stage One with a car ferry, may be necessary for the flexibility of the second additional runway could be added on to the first building towards the second additional runway problem.

Stage Three would be the development of the other side of the central spine when the second runway is constructed, and this could be developed into four stages to reach a speed of 160 knots per hour.

Volume Two of the report will be completed in the early 1970s. It will deal with the development of the airport building which would be constructed at present being in use.

A new V.I.P. building is envisaged which will improve facilities for State occasions. It is expected that the existing airport is described as completely inadequate, and an expansion of the present building must be extended and reorganised to permit mechanical handling methods to be used efficiently.

For the future, a special light terminal will be necessary, and a new parking apron for freighters. The freight terminal would be served from the central roadway system.

The main problem is that the existing airport is described as completely inadequate, and an expansion of the present building must be extended and reorganised to permit mechanical handling methods to be used efficiently.

One of the most important aspects of the whole plan is the removal of the existing terminal building, which will be replaced in a second stage. It is expected that the new terminal could be completed in 1972, and the existing terminal building would have to be replaced.

The main building will be built on the site of the existing terminal building, which will be replaced in a second stage. It is expected that the new terminal could be completed in 1972, and the existing terminal building would have to be replaced.

It is expected that the new terminal will have advantages of Nairobi's existing terminal building, and will be built on the site of the existing terminal building, which will be replaced in a second stage.

experienced at the moment would increase to an unacceptable volume.

The new building, according to the report, should have two parallel runways, both about 7,000 ft long and 100 ft wide, with a 100 ft wide taxiway between them.

The main runway could be developed into four stages to reach a speed of 160 knots per hour. It is expected that the new terminal could be completed in 1972, and the existing terminal building would have to be replaced.

The main building will be built on the site of the existing terminal building, which will be replaced in a second stage. It is expected that the new terminal could be completed in 1972, and the existing terminal building would have to be replaced.

Why call this the Safari boot?

We designed the Safari boot for casual wear. For roughing it in the toughest conditions. And it fills the bill. But then people noticed its style, its smartness, its attractive colours. So they wore it in town. For work, for parties, just about everywhere. Seems it was a smart idea, the way it's catching on. In future, better call the Safari boot the country shoe. After all, that's how our customers see it.

JOHN ELGON'S FRIDAY DIARY

Evening to help needy children

The Ngara Home of the Child Welfare Society is bulging at the seams. Originally designed to accommodate about 30 children, it now houses 42 of them. As a result the society is building a second home at Nairobi South C and in urgent need of funds for this and other work.

Mrs. Pamela Mboya, who is assisting in the raising of funds for the building of a new home at Nairobi South C, is pictured above.

Recently arrived in Nairobi from Hongkong where he conducted the Ngara Home. The orchestra will be led by James Fennell. The concert is being arranged in conjunction with the annual Flower Festival and it is hoped that many Nairobi people will be able to attend.

Both the Nairobi Orchestra and the Kenya Music Ensemble will be invited to perform at the concert.

Karamoja history

How did the ordinary man in Kenya and Tanzania react when the Europeans burst into their countries at the end of the last century? In a scholarly and detailed book published this week, James Barber, once a leading teacher-historian at the University of Usher, has given most of the answers.

General Observer Just Amiri Publishing House, 25, provides interesting insights not only into European arms and actions, but also into African reactions at the time.

The book is available at the Nairobi office in Church House, at Rose Bourke and Lam Piliamaia or at the branch offices in other parts of Kenya.

'Old Fogey's' chance

The Langata Pony Club is to hold a series of 10 special mounted athletic events on Sundays starting at 8.30 am at the Langata Pony Club ground. This show is intended as a type of competition for the club members and is held at the beginning of October.

In the past, there has been many objections to the club and young and a new event has been suggested. It is called the 'Old Fogey's' and is open to all members over 40 years of age.

Exacting standards at Alfa factory

In comparison with most motor cars, Alfa Romeo is a high precision instrument. Every engine is checked during its life cycle, during its 42 tests, are checked. In many factories, the testing is done at the end of a car's life.

The Alfa Romeo factory in Milan is the most exacting in the world. The factory produces 250,000 cars per year with a target of 95,000 cars per year. The factory has a long history of producing cars that are known for their reliability and performance.

Record year for the E.A. Conservatives

The Conservative Party in Kenya has had a record year in terms of membership and activity. The party has seen a significant increase in its membership, particularly in the urban areas.

The party has also been successful in securing several seats in the National Assembly and the Legislative Council. This success is attributed to the party's strong organizational structure and its focus on social and economic issues.

Musical festival

The National Music Festival, held in Nairobi, was a great success. It featured performances by the Nairobi Music Ensemble and the Kenya Music Ensemble. The festival was attended by thousands of people and was a highlight of the city's cultural life.

Frayed tempers

International conference on a great deal to advance Nairobi's prestige. But the city's frayed tempers are a concern. The conference, which was held in Nairobi, focused on the city's development and the role of the government.

The conference was organized by the Nairobi Chamber of Commerce and Industry. It was a platform for discussing the city's future and the challenges it faces. The conference was well-attended and provided valuable insights into the city's development.

PRIZE CROSSWORD

Prize crossword puzzles are held by the East African Newspapers. The puzzles are designed to challenge readers and are often accompanied by interesting facts and trivia. The puzzles are available in both English and Swahili.

Nairobi's new race track

For more than 12 years motor racing on a former circuit has been limited to meetings at Nakuru. The scope of motor racing in Kenya will be expanded fundamentally on September 29 when the first race meeting will be held on the Nairobi Motor Club's new purpose-built track.

It is situated on the Mombasa Road, beyond the hills. The site is a cinema (map below). Garfunk Singh-Spang, the general manager in the East African track driving championships, is the racing boss. A 7.7 furlong special (right) at the top.

Key move toward new era in motor sport

The construction of a large racing circuit is a first-epoch undertaking and the Nairobi Motor Club has stepped an objective which no other motor club in East Africa has tackled.

The leading light in constructing the track has been Dr. Bharat Bhambhani, the Club's Vice-President and Chairman of the Nairobi Motor Club. He is a Director of the East African Standard and has been the driving force behind the club's plan to build a new racing circuit.

EAST AFRICAN STANDARD SUPPLEMENT

Message from the Mayor of Nairobi, Coun Isaac Lugonzo

As Mayor of Nairobi, I should like to congratulate the Nairobi Motor Club on the completion of their new purpose-built track and wish them every success. I have always felt that Nairobi lacks the facilities of a race track, and now as a Nation has become the centre of motor sports in East Africa, a race track and a motor cycle track has been greatly needed. When City Council plans were formulated to have a sports complex near the University, this was one of the things which came to mind. As a result of this, the Nairobi Motor Club has been able to acquire a site of 11.3 million shillings.

I should like to thank the Nairobi Motor Club for their initiative in providing a new racing circuit for Nairobi. It is a great pleasure to see the city of Nairobi becoming a centre of motor sports.

Message from President Kenyatta

I welcome the inauguration of the Nairobi Motor Club track as another important step to give our people the opportunity for recreation and better use of leisure time.

My congratulations go to all those concerned with this venture and I am pleased that once again Nairobi has scored an outstanding landmark. I know that this will become a major attraction for the world class motor rally and racing driver and enthusiasts. It will play an important part in the effort to promote tourism in Kenya and to help our people learn to discipline their minds with a well-organised sport.

The future success of this new venture depends once again on the readiness of our people to serve on a voluntary basis. I wish all the participants success.

Message from the Nairobi Motor Club President, Mr. T. J. Mbatya

All citizens of Kenya will welcome this day when once again we make history in our country.

After the President's visit to the Nairobi Motor Club, we are now ready to start the first race meeting. We are confident that the success of this venture will be a landmark in the development of our country.

We have worked hard to make this track a reality and we are now ready to start the first race meeting. We are confident that the success of this venture will be a landmark in the development of our country.

If BMW is one of the fastest cars in the world, how can it also be one of the safest?

For one thing that blazes BMW acceleration can get you out of a tight spot. In a hurry.

For another, BMW's ability to cover great distances at high speed is crucial. At 100 m.p.h. given you an extra 100 feet of road.

And its well-advanced includes some of the most advanced safety features to be found on any car anywhere.

For example, a BMW has fully-independent suspension on all four wheels, plus a unique multi-point rear axle.

BMW leads the pack. What is surprising is that the car is about £1,600 in Kenya, gives you all the room and comfort you could want for your deliveries over 2 miles to a gallon of petrol.

We'll be delighted to demonstrate to you that one of the safest cars in the world is also one of the fastest.

Go-karting

MINI-SIZED 'TOY' THAT PROGRESSED TO THE BIG TIME

The first kart was built more than 112 years ago and since the karting of both the Continent and in the United States has progressively over the past few years, become one of the major attractions on the sports world, drawing many spectators to special TV and radio broadcasts with the cameras steadily increasing in their number.

The karting boom has changed rapidly during the whole decade of the 1960s and the introduction of new rules and regulations and the amendment of the karting code of conduct, as well as the introduction of new karting equipment, has led to a rapid increase in the number of karting clubs and the number of karting enthusiasts. In the United Kingdom, the karting boom has led to the formation of the British Karting Association (BKA) in 1957, which has since then been the leading authority in the sport.

EDDIE PALMER, chairman of the Karting Sub-committee, describes go-karting, a track for which is included in the new site.

Organization Kart Traks appeared in Mombasa, Kampala, Ure and Nakuru, Kenya, on private farms and on the starting grid of the Mombasa Race Track. The Karting Sub-committee, which was set up in 1967, has since then been holding regular meetings at the Mombasa Race Track. The Karting Sub-committee has since then been holding regular meetings at the Mombasa Race Track. The Karting Sub-committee has since then been holding regular meetings at the Mombasa Race Track.

Karting took a dive in 1967 and time or shoving was made of the sport in the capital. Outing drivers, however, such as 'Tari' and 'Seki', up to 1967, and Mombasa will again bring large the Karting.

The Nairobi Motor Club indicated a revival campaign this year and staged the first ever East African Kart Championship meeting in February on the newly acquired land of the Mombasa Road. The response, although not to the expected standard, was a very good one. The Karting Sub-committee was formed within the club and many have been found by enthusiasts for the latest and fastest machinery available. The Karting Sub-committee has since then been holding regular meetings at the Mombasa Race Track.

THE COMPETITORS

Rapid growth from humble beginnings

In 1960, a group of motor enthusiasts formed the Nairobi Motor Club to cater for people of all races to further motor sports in this country.

The total membership of the Nairobi Motor Club during its first year was 42 members and the total income of the Club after two years was only a couple of thousand shillings.

From this very humble begin-

By Dr. Bharat Bhardwaj, chairman of the track committee.

ing, the club has now boast of having one of the largest membership of any motor club in East Africa and its income and expenditure now runs into hundreds of thousands of shillings.

The club is now the owner of a 100-acre tract and is the only sports-making motor club in the world to own a race track of its own. This is only the start of what the club hopes will be a motor racing stadium of East Africa.

The club has in its plans many projects to build a large clubhouse with bar and dining facilities, swimming pools, tennis courts, children's play area, a motor cycle school, and a motor school.

The club hopes to bring in Nairobi annually the Grand Prix of Africa.

We hope that the race track will be an added attraction for the local industry.

The club has been fortunate to have had a very able and hardworking Executive Committee.

It is led by Clif Gould, Derek Gates, I. Bucher, Dr. P. K. Aluvu, and others who have served on the Executive Committee.

At present the Executive Committee is very active led by Mr. Mboya who is the President, Dr. Jim Neebhi chairman, Bharat Bhardwaj, Vice Chairman, Mrs. Harriet Barden, Secretary, H. H. Thakker, Treasurer, and the following Executive Members:—

Peter Shivyak, Clif Gould, Ken Hagley, Gordon South, Dr. Mahendra Adnan, Yusuf Malik, F. J. Palmer, Hon. and Mrs. Hagan.

The club committee of the past two years, first with Derek Gates as Chairman and then with Dr. Jim Neebhi as Chairman, has undertaken and achieved what few clubs would ever attempt.

Nairobi Motor Club has always been searching for a permanent site at which to hold its activities. At one time, attempts were made to amalgamate with what is now the Public Services Club.

The club had been offered part of a farm by the same and had materialized. Then, in 1960, when it was a big disappointment for the club, as a club, it had to give up the farm to a club which had been formed by Total Oil Products, applied for the Nairobi Motor Club to be the Nairobi Motor Club Association for Africa to run an East African Championship rally, which would carry very large prize money.

Total Oil Products had offered to spend £10,000 in sponsoring this rally. This opportunity I felt that this rally was vital down in favour of a rally run by another sportsman club.

At Total Oil Products had already budgeted to spend this money, we persuaded them to do so in conjunction with the Coca-Cola Racing Company, to finance a race track for us.

This was a turning point for the club. Perhaps the success of the club can be judged by the fact that we have now restricted membership to 400—a figure we will reach 700 soon.

There are still a number of things concerning specialist committee facilities which we would have liked to see ready for our first meeting, we must however, have them ready for our first meeting on November 3.

Mr. Derek Gates (right) one of the main instigators of the new track and Dr. Clif Gould, a founder member of the club.

Courage of his convictions

A newcomer to motor racing, but not to sport in the country, is F. J. Palmer, who was elected Chairman of the Karting Club Committee at the last AGM.

This section of the club is becoming increasingly active due to his and other members' enthusiasm to get it under way again in Nairobi.

A design draughtman with the East African Railways, was drafted, both over 21 years' service to his credit. Eddie has harboured both active and administrative interests in almost every form of sport in Nairobi, having played soccer, rugby, hockey, badminton, tennis, table tennis and bowls.

His small home, situated for the Railway Club team over the Victoria, while attention and energy is now directed to karting after his unsuccessful attempt of setting when he overruled the fact that Coca-Cola 250cc. rally. Both he and Roy Cooper were the first to meet Clif Gould's aims this year and have paved the way to more entrants, to other karting enthusiasts.

Although currently leading the Kart Championship table, Eddie has no strong convictions that he will remain at the top. "I've been lucky so far," he said. "With fast machines at the disposal of such drivers as Roy Cooper, Ken Cooper, and even my prestige, Billy Fulford, I will have to give every one of the way to state them."

What about the future? "I love

CHILDREN'S HANDWRITING COMPETITION

Your school could win too...

Winners of the main prizes in the Children's Handwriting Competition... also receive prizes for their school. In this picture, taken after last year's contest, children from Lushoto School in Tanzania pose with the pen which they received. Third from the left is Susan Hockley, an American girl who finished first place with African News from Kenya.

Tanzania gets contest off to flying start

The third 'East African Standard' — Platinum Children's Handwriting Competition launched last Friday is attracting tremendous interest. Entries have already been received from 12 schools in Nairobi, Nakuru, Eldoret and Maseru, but the school for the pupils who sent in the first entry was the John Henson School at Bukoba on the western shore of Lake Victoria. So it looks as if this year's competition is going to prove every bit as popular as that of last year when more than 7,000 children took part in the fabulous prizes which will go to the winners. Here is a reminder of the prizes in each section as well as the form and the rules. 1st prize — In each section a brand new bicycle complete with front and rear lamps, plus Platinum pen set. 2nd prize — In each section a 1000 Shs. ## POP REVIEW

A five-star star

I've often used the terms four-star and five-star rating when discussing new LP releases, and from this week on I propose to make a regular feature of the star system at least where album reviews are concerned. This in ascending order of merit, one star indicates a poor LP, two stars an average one, three stars a good, four stars very good and five stars excellent.

CHILDREN'S STORY

How Sam helped the shamba

The rainy season had just started and Dinah and Daniel were helping their father to plant out some vegetables. There were peas, beans, cabbages and tomatoes. "These we don't need for our own food, we can sell at the shop," said their father. For several days they all worked very hard planting the seeds in neat rows. The rain came and the sun shone and the green stalks and leaves began to appear. The peas and beans started to form long pods, the cabbages grew round and firm and the tomatoes became firm green. One day they started to turn a healthy red. "I think some of the peas are ready," said Daniel one day as he looked at the swelling pods. His father opened the pod and the green seeds were open before his little eyes. "You can eat them," said his father. "You must have them for another few weeks," said mother. "The peas have to grow big first, then the peas have room to grow inside."

Does this mean the end of the mini-skirt?

It has been stated at a fashion show in London that the history of haute couture — has a fashion feud against such centralized opposition.

But now, it looks as if the situation is on the verge of a change. The French, only to be a leader in international fashion, are being challenged by the groups that interfere with the comfort of the model's wardrobe.

It is the women — who give the idea behind the dress. They like to think what they are wearing is all their own work.

They believe in the freedom of the body. The subject of a 1940 research project at the University of New Jersey, the basic idea is to improve the fit of the dress behind the skirt. But that is not all. The skirt will be the length of the body, not the length of the skirt.

What they will find will not doubtfully surprise many people. The skirt will be the length of the body, not the length of the skirt.

And don't forget the skirt. The skirt will be the length of the body, not the length of the skirt.

What for example, I asked "Handbags for start," he replied.

It is a well-known fact that mini-skirts are usually approved of by a lot of the designers. They wear them, showing their legs. But they prefer not to wear mini-skirts and not to show their legs. They prefer to wear a skirt that is long enough to cover their legs. They prefer to wear a skirt that is long enough to cover their legs.

Last of 1962 fashion week in London. The show attracted a record of more than 600 people to the fashion show.

The show was a success and a fashion week in London. The show attracted a record of more than 600 people to the fashion show.

Kenya, Kenya and Kenya covered a wide range from informal day wear to strictly formal party wear.

Of course, a fashion show at the Grand would not be complete without its bikini, and four local models, Susan, Alison, Joy and Eileen, looked as good in the mini-skirt as they did in the more formal and dressy creations.

If you like hats that stand out in a crowd, for really this with a plain outfit at a wedding, here is one that really fits the bill.

Mrs. Jenn Wood of Nairobi brought here, but says it can easily be made with white felt petals, a yellow felt center and finished off with a green felt stem glued round a piece of wire.

Give the daisy to a dark felt hat — Mrs. Wood's hat was chocolate brown in colour and the result is it great effect with a plain linen shirt.

Pyrethrum growers promise not to exceed quota

Pyrethrum growers in Kiisi district have resolved to plant their pyrethrum in the area set aside for the crop by the Department of Agriculture in the district. This decision was taken at the growers' meeting held in Kiisi yesterday under the chairmanship of the Nyanza Provincial Commissioner, Mr. Charles Margor. The meeting, which was also attended by the Nyanza Provincial Agriculture Officer, Mr. Simon Kani, the District Commissioner, Mr. M. G. Mwangi, and a representative of the Pyrethrum Board of Kenya, also resolved that growers would not exceed their quota.

The growers also elected their colleagues in the importance of pyrethrum in the area and in order to maintain the district quota. The P.C. said that the meeting was very fruitful and that the growers in areas which had not been recommended by the Department of Agriculture. This, the P.C. said, had made the people in the district glad the quota allocated to the district by the board. Mr. Margor emphasized that the meeting was the intention of the Government to use the people grow high quality pyrethrum content and appeal to the growers to work hard in hand with the agricultural officer in the area.

Kenya cotton growers to face competition

Kenya cotton growers with a good crop of top quality cotton are likely to face competition from the Assistant Commissioner, Mr. Kariki, and other industrial members of the Marketing Board at Malindi. The Assistant Minister, who was accompanied by the Director for Agriculture, Mr. McKean, and the board to choose, will be very efficient without doubt. Mr. Kariki said that the board was likely in the preliminary stage and members should work hard to expand its activities.

The Minister and his party will be met at Keroka in Kiisi at 9 a.m. and will later proceed to Nyanza Hararib Secondary School and other Kenyan Teachers Training College. Dr. Kiano will address students and members of the college. He will also be taken around to see various activities in the college. Tomorrow the Ministerial party will visit Njoro Secondary School, before addressing parents and people at Nyanza Hararib Secondary School. The Minister will start the tour of South Nyanza. He will first visit Njoro Secondary School, where he will use vocational agriculture. He will then move to Mjoni Hararib Secondary School before addressing parents and people at Nyanza Hararib Secondary School. On Sunday, the Minister will start the tour of South Nyanza. ## President tells students 'Give aid to people'

By David H. Rosner
President J. M. Kenyatta urged Kenya's secondary graduates to give aid to the people of the country in their fight against poverty, ill-health, and social backwardness.

The President was speaking to a group of about 2,000 secondary school graduates in Nairobi, Kenya, on September 25. He also conferred the degree of Doctor of Education on Mr. Robert Gardiner, representative of the U.N. Economic Commission for Africa.

Biafrans 'divided in peace offer'

The Nigerian Federal Government has rejected the Biafran peace offer, saying that the Biafran leaders failed to reach peace on their own terms. The Biafran leaders had made a peace offer to the Nigerian Federal Government, but the offer was rejected because it did not meet the Biafran demands for a federal system of government.

Concern in London over aid to Biafrans

British officials are concerned that the aid to Biafrans is being used for military purposes. They are worried that the aid might be used to buy arms and other military equipment.

College 'part of national development'

...development must be placed on a sound basis. It is not enough to have a college which is part and parcel of national development. It must reflect the patterns of development in order to harmonise the activities with the needs of the people.

In the past I shall be needing great care in the consultations with the University College and Government in fields including curriculum and content of capital goods, engineering, office and management studies.

It is important to realise that the University College is not a mere extension of the school system. It is a new institution that they have set up. It is a new challenge to the Government and the people. It is a new challenge to the Government and the people. It is a new challenge to the Government and the people.

...of the country. The number of undergraduates at the college had increased from 174 in 1964 to 1,044 in the current year. A significant increase had also taken place in the number of students in the postgraduate studies from 19 in 1964 to 214 in 1968.

The facts were that it had always been the declared objective to make the college an instrument of progress in every sense of the word to the benefit of Kenya and East Africa.

Dr. Porter said there were three main areas of development in the college: the physical, the intellectual and the social.

The physical development was the most obvious. It was the result of the Government's policy of providing a modern and comfortable environment for the students.

The intellectual development was the result of the Government's policy of providing a modern and comfortable environment for the students.

The social development was the result of the Government's policy of providing a modern and comfortable environment for the students.

...Each academic Dr. Gordon had received and they were many, had led him to further efforts. Today he was drawing his talents and energies to the economic development of the country.

His career has shown that we are a country that is growing and that we are a country that is growing.

Under these conditions, the Government has to depend on immediate personnel. It is a challenge to the Government and the people. It is a challenge to the Government and the people.

He has never failed in the face of challenge. At every stage his distinguished career has been a source of inspiration to the people of Kenya.

Top: President Kenyatta addresses students and guests at University College, Nairobi, before conferring and presenting degrees and diplomas to students. Above: Some of the 265 students who received degrees or diplomas wait their turn to meet the President.

Using his blood with a smile is one of Kenya's best-known rally drivers, Vice President, Mr. R. K. Nyeri, a member of the staff.

AGREE: everyone needs insurance, but how can you be sure of your insurance broker?

use a member of the A.I.B.!

A good broker's business, rather than selling insurance to clients, is to advise on correct insurance and then to buy off behalf of his client. This "know-how" takes a good deal of training and experience and it is only by using reputable brokers that this becomes available to you. That is why the Association has been formed. To give you, the client, the assurance that all members belong to the Association are fully knowledgeable in the insurance profession and will do their utmost to ensure that you are properly insured at the least possible cost to you.

Uthant calls for U.N. action on apartheid

The U.N. Secretary-General, U Thant, said yesterday that South Africa's more repressive policies of apartheid policies, through collusion with Rhodesia, had set the world of Southern Africa on collision course.

In his annual report to the General Assembly, he said that continuing to occupy South West Africa (Namibia) and to interfere in Rhodesia, South Africa had increased its challenge to the authority of the world community.

Noting that the Security Council had not taken formal action since June 18, 1964, he said: "In my view, the situation adopted by the Security Council in its 899th report to the General Assembly should be taken as a challenge to the authority of the world community in another chapter of apartheid."

He accused the South African Government of not only continuing its policies, but of increasing its efforts to consolidate and extend the influence of its racial philosophy, a neglecting apartheid, notably Namibia and Rhodesia.

On Rhodesia, U Thant said the question of Rhodesia had a "new dimension" because of the "increasing determination" of the white-minority Government to pursue its unilateral declaration of independence. He said that the Security Council determined that the situation on the territory constituted a threat to international peace and security.

Yet neither the action taken by the Security Council nor the action taken by the United Nations Conference on Rhodesia had a "new dimension" because of the "increasing determination" of the white-minority Government to pursue its unilateral declaration of independence. He said that the Security Council determined that the situation on the territory constituted a threat to international peace and security.

CZECH LEADERS 'BACKING WEST'

The Soviet Union has charged that Czech leaders were "backing the West" in the process of negotiations for the official declaration of independence by the Czech Republic. The Czech Republic was declared on January 1, 1968, and the Soviet Union has since been demanding that the Czech Republic be re-integrated into the Soviet bloc.

200 North Vietnamese die in fierce running battle

American infantrymen, backed by tanks, helicopters and jets, killed more than 200 North Vietnamese in a running battle through the rice-growing plain in Northern Quang Tin Province, a U.S. spokesman said yesterday.

The North Vietnamese fled before the Americans gave chase and found them again in the afternoon and the battle continued for another three hours until the pursuit ended.

A U.S. spokesman said a count of North Vietnamese dead revealed 200 had been killed. Another 100 were wounded and 100 captured.

The casualties "brought the number of guerrillas killed in the area over the past month to 3,000," the spokesman said.

The U.S. command yesterday said the remainder of a three-week operation to clear North Vietnamese units from strategic terrain in Quang Tin Province. The 21 days of sweeps and searches killed 972 guerrillas dead and resulted in 574 guerrillas captured.

Kenya airport complex

Expert advice has suggested that a capital outlay of no less than £200,000 should be put into the replanning and development of Kenya's main airports, in a programme covering the next two decades. The first stage in this work, which will cost £150,000 by 1972.

Informed public discussion should take place before any decision is made, it is felt, on the superlative importance of building an airport big and efficient enough to handle Jumbo-jets and the vast increasing throughput of passengers and cargo.

Recently, the chairman of the Civil Airports Authority, Mr. Peter G. Macfield, has outlined a long-term plan, running in today's London airport, re-planning of the terminal building and the apron, and the provision of a fourth to a fifth of the present terminal building. Some of the proposals are:—

- (1) To provide a service efficiently and economically for all who use it, the travelling public, cargo shippers, air carriers and general aviation;
- (2) to achieve high standards of safety in a transport hub;
- (3) to ensure safety problems occur at or near the airports;
- (4) to plan ahead to maintain a safe, satisfactory, and profitable service;
- (5) fit in with the community life of the neighbourhood and the nation; and
- (6) as a sound employer.

Leaving aside its size, including how many runways, namely whether there should be one for landing and another for take-off, the siting of an airport up to international standards should have regard to a combination of factors. It should be in an accessible proximity to the metropolitan area; have a flat surface without obstructions for approach and take-off; and one composed of a soil which can carry the load of heavy landings, also having adequate drainage; and be located in an area with favourable meteorological conditions for the low, for obviously the better — and where the runways can be aligned towards the prevailing wind.

Mr. Macfield emphasised that the airport should be a commercial undertaking, as an autonomous

In this second article to look the beginning next week of the Gandhi Memorial Year, J. B. E. R. L. N. A. describes his early recollections of the Mahatma more than 50 years ago. Mr. Kripalani, who was the secretary of the Indian National Congress from 1934 to 1946.

I first met Gandhi in 1918 at Saratoga, near London, when he returned to India from South Africa. He was then in his 60s and was a tall, thin man with a white turban and a long white beard. He was dressed in a simple white dhoti and a white shirt.

He was a simple man, but his mind was a vast ocean. He was a man of great faith and a man of great courage. He was a man who had spent his life in the struggle for the freedom of his country. He was a man who had seen the horrors of British rule in India and who had seen the suffering of the Indian people.

Kenya's overcrowded hospitals

By DAVID JONES and DAUDI BURITO

Kenya's past few months have been dominated by the medical services of Kenya's medical services. Members of Parliament have expressed their concern over the situation of the hospitals, and more recently the Kenya branch chairman of the National Front of Kenya spoke out on the subject of overcrowding at the local level.

At Nairobi, the situation is particularly acute. The 37 beds of the National Front hospital are now occupied by 150 patients. The Kenya branch chairman of the National Front of Kenya, Mr. N. N. Njiru, said that the hospital is "a veritable Noah's Ark" and that the situation is "a disgrace to the Government".

Weather makes fish scarce at Mombasa

Fishing in Mombasa, which is a popular sport for many of the city's residents, was hampered on Saturday by a heavy rain and strong wind. The weather was so bad that many of the fish were driven away from the shore, leaving only a few small fish to be caught. The fishermen were disappointed as they had hoped for a good day's catch.

Life ban on soccer team

An entire soccer team has been disqualified for life at Shepperton, 100 miles north of Melbourne, after a wild match last week in which the referee was punched and kicked. The team, which was known as the 'Shepperton Stragglers', had been playing a friendly match against a local team. The referee was punched and kicked during the game, and the match was abandoned.

OLYMPIC GAMES

Kenya team confident of success

Kenya's athletes, boxers and hockey players returned to Nairobi yesterday morning from Thomson's Falls, where they attended the 2000 feet above sea level, full of confidence of adding Kenya Olympic Games medals to the honours won by Wilfrid Kiprotich in the 800 metres event at Tokyo four years ago.

Kenya's 2000 metres world record holder and Commonwealth mile champion, Jim Rigby, said: "We have all trained hard and we are confident of doing well. I am sure we will win medals."

The athletes coach, Mr. Charles Makenzie, said: "I have never seen the athletes train so hard. They are all in good shape and they have only one thought in mind - to go to London and win. They have prepared themselves to peak during the days of good weather. We are hoping for three medals out of the four men at least."

The hockey coach, Mr. Harold Brown, said: "I am going to take some time at the Falls training the boys, a lot of good weather. I will feel the extra bright when they are in London. I have no real problems, all the players are coming along fine. I think we could end up in the first three but we will certainly improve our present world ranking of 15th."

The athletes and boxers have been training at Thomson's Falls. The men and women from Thomson's Falls are confident of medals to go away as they have been training for some time. They are confident that they will be in good form for the start of the Olympic Games.

Big drive for quality

by PETER MACDONALD

An extra night's tatter

The floodlight tatter will be open for three nights at the Arrobi Show, during this year's show starting at 7.30 pm on Friday, September 27.

The S.I.A.K. will open the Tattler each night with a different scene and the Tattler will present their exciting Arrobi Show on the 28th and 29th.

The show will include a display by the Masai Bands and the Kenyan Air Force, the Kenya Police and the Kenya Police Band, the Kenya Air Force, the Kenya Police Band and the Kenya Police Band.

The main event of the Tattler will be a demonstration of combined operations by all three services of the Kenya Armed Forces. The Kenya Air Force will be seen carrying a simulated rescue mission over the sea, while the Kenya Police will be seen carrying a simulated rescue mission over the sea.

The show will also include a display by the Masai Bands and the Kenyan Air Force, the Kenya Police and the Kenya Police Band.

The show has been a success. It will be even bigger crowd than last year's show. It will be opened by President Johnson of the United States who is pictured below with President Kenyatta at a visit to Kenya 10 years ago.

Advice to motorists

Kenya's traffic problem has become a big headache for the police and the public alike. It is, however, being tackled by the police and the public alike.

The police have made a particular appeal to motorists to drive through Kariakoo and the CBD area with care for children on foot. They have also urged motorists, either at the show or elsewhere, to drive properly under their vehicles.

It is expected that as a matter of course the Nairobi Show will each year be bigger and better than its predecessor.

However, after several years of the show, it is now being held at the Nairobi Show Grounds, which is a more spacious and better equipped area for the show.

peria a new class of Kenya in which all towns are mapped and also a special set in respect of National Parks and Game Reserves. Progress has continued within the Lands Department which is responsible for the administration of Government and trust land and the allocation of various reserves.

One of the most important aspects of the Board's work is the provision for adequate storage capacity to take all maize which is produced and which is not required for immediate internal consumption. The Board also ensures that all times there are ample stocks of grain available in the country.

MAIZE

Hybrids give room for more crops

The increased yields of maize resulting from the introduction of the conventional maize strains with modern capabilities from 15,000 bags to over 200,000 bags have been a major factor in the success of the maize programme.

Conventional stores built under Phase II — the latest phase, apart from the Cypres bins, have been constructed to a very high standard. They are designed to keep down the temperature, have airtight doors and windows to prevent a more complete drying effect of fumigation.

As a result of the famine conditions in 1964, the importation of yellow maize from America, the Government decided to build a strategic reserve at Kitale and Nakuru. Forty Cypres bins — so called as they were originally constructed in Cyprus — have been erected at Kitale and 30 at Nakuru.

These bins are capable of storing maize for up to five years without loss of quality. The bins are Alderley mobile progressive type for the handling of the grain.

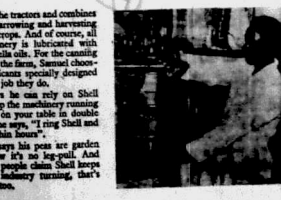

Shell helps grow wheat, maize, peas. What more could a farmer ask? Time of expansion

Plenty.

Especially if he's Samuel Nduati, manager of a co-operative farm which also cans the peas it grows in the Njoro Canning Factory.

Shell powers the tractors and combines for ploughing, harrowing and harvesting all 992 acres of crops. And of course, all the farm machinery is lubricated with Shell and Mobil oils.

PIGS The aim Two litters a year

The most discussed event since the last Nairobi Show among pig farmers has undoubtedly been the suggested purchase of a Plands Bacon Factory by Kenya Ltd. By J. J. York of London.

If the event that has been their way is approved this, it would have meant to the pig producer (1) a payout of the ordinary shareholding of the factory plus (2) the advantage of a large-scale international company, would have brought to our small industry.

As in all similarities, an improved our producers and buyers by A. M. Beattie.

It is not to be debated that we will continue with enthusiasm what, in most of us, is a rewarding and profitable business— that of pig breeding and production.

No industry can afford to ignore new knowledge and the economic process which research and commercial production which makes it necessary that scientific methods must be applied to improve our stock to an ever increasing extent.

The focus of our pig industry must always on its efficiency and profitability. One of the ways to do this is by the use of the best available genetic material and the highest possible return for labour.

It is a well known fact that the replacement of breeding stock is one of the most important factors in the improvement of a pig herd.

The goal of pig breeding is to produce a pig that will give rise to a large litter of piglets.

Efficiency, therefore, sets the level of profit and is kept up to date on new knowledge and the advances made by other countries, only then can we compete productively.

Among the many husbandry factors involved in producing pigs profitably, I would like to dwell on a target which every breeder should set for his herd, (i.e. the production of two litters per year).

If we assume the national average at one and a half litters per sow per year, at 12 pigs to the litter on the same period, the production of two litters per sow per year would bring an added productivity to the farmer of 18 piglets per year and an average of 1000 piglets per year. This is but one measure of efficiency.

The sector should be fed according to an effort to produce pigs for the factory with the lowest possible cost.

It is a well known fact that the replacement of breeding stock is one of the most important factors in the improvement of a pig herd.

It is a well known fact that the replacement of breeding stock is one of the most important factors in the improvement of a pig herd.

As a result of the pig growth of the industry, the market has become very tight. The price of piglets has risen to a level which is not only a reflection of the high demand but also of the high cost of production. The price of piglets is now about 100 shillings per piglet, which is a high price for a piglet of this age.

It is the probability of obtaining the pig most for other means at competitive prices.

Therefore, the more efficiently the pig is produced, the higher the likelihood of the farmer's profit. The pig producer should aim to produce a pig that will give rise to a large litter of piglets.

It is a well known fact that the replacement of breeding stock is one of the most important factors in the improvement of a pig herd.

How the butchers get their meat

by G. M. Nightingale

It is a well known fact that the replacement of breeding stock is one of the most important factors in the improvement of a pig herd.

The most important factor in the improvement of a pig herd is the replacement of breeding stock. This is because the pig herd is a capital asset and it is essential to keep it up to date with the best available genetic material.

The pig producer should aim to produce a pig that will give rise to a large litter of piglets. This is because the piglet is the most important part of the pig and it is essential to have a large number of piglets to ensure that the pig herd is self-sustaining.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is healthy and free from disease. This is because a healthy pig will produce a larger litter of piglets and will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to handle and transport. This is because a pig that is easy to handle and transport will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to feed and water. This is because a pig that is easy to feed and water will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to breed. This is because a pig that is easy to breed will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to keep. This is because a pig that is easy to keep will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to manage. This is because a pig that is easy to manage will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to control. This is because a pig that is easy to control will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to train. This is because a pig that is easy to train will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to teach. This is because a pig that is easy to teach will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to learn. This is because a pig that is easy to learn will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to understand. This is because a pig that is easy to understand will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to communicate with. This is because a pig that is easy to communicate with will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to work with. This is because a pig that is easy to work with will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to live with. This is because a pig that is easy to live with will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to get along with. This is because a pig that is easy to get along with will be more profitable for the farmer.

The pig producer should also aim to produce a pig that is easy to love. This is because a pig that is easy to love will be more profitable for the farmer.

KENYA'S ARMED FORCES

Importance of peacetime duties

As is common knowledge, the primary role of an army in any country is to defend and protect territorial boundaries from any forms of armed aggression from without. In addition the army may be called upon to assist civil authorities in maintaining peace or restoring law and order should the need arise.

In the event of natural disasters such as floods, earthquakes and famine — of which Kenya is not an exception — the army may be called upon to lend a hand in conjunction with the other two forces, the Navy and the Air Force, the Kenya Army has accomplished all these during the past years.

During this year the forces have mounted operations in many parts of the country. In the Horn of Africa and in the East African States the Army personnel were sent to reach the area and provide accommodation for the refugees.

When floods hit the Western Provinces emergency operations were carried out conveying food and medical supplies.

Tented military camps were built in the region.

Nairobi and Bukura in the Western Province for flood relief. Medical facilities were offered to the needy by the Army medical detachments. Army Engineers were at the same time busy reconstructing washed away bridges and roads.

The engineers too undertook to rebuild the Awyoo school a few miles from Kisumu which had been under water and three weeks later the children were back to classes with permanent concrete floors.

The engineers have carried out several tasks in other parts of the country. In the North Eastern Province they constructed several bridges in Settlement Schemes as well as building roads and airstrips in the North Eastern Province.

Commercially, the Army has had a part to play. Thirty thousand tons of sugarcane would have gone to waste if the Kenya Army had not moved in to transport the cane to Multigrain Mills.

The roads had been impassable for any other form of transport except four-wheel drive. Only a few months ago a company of Kenya Army transport battalions had 10,000 bags of wheat from Malawi to Nairobi.

These three tasks, water, roads and transport, were just the

The three branches of Kenya's armed forces — Army, Navy and Air Force — will be playing a large part in the show. This article by Daniel Gatwiri, P.R.O. for the Ministry of Defence, describes their work during the year.

For the Maai had formed on a cooperative basis from the East. The Army has also erected camps for traders from the Eastern and North-Eastern Provinces to deal with them. The Kenya Meat Commission representatives could place them there.

Besides material assistance the Army has also provided the Davenport Children's Centre benefits from 1 Battalion at Lavaya. The Army H.Q. at the Eldorado House, Kakawa, is responsible for the Care of Third Class for the Blind. The Kenya Welfare Society, Nakuru Branch, is assisted by the Nairobi Garrison.

Several international athletes and sports players are to be found in the Army — most of them from Nakuru in Illmorog, a well representing Kenya.

The Kenya Air Force has enjoyed an active and challenging career since its formation and has progressed well. A certain number of officers have qualified as flight instructors and pilots. The Kenya Air Force has four Kenyan aircraft captains, three of them holding operational flight wings, Kenya.

Throughout the year, a Battalion of the Kenya Eastern Province has been sent to the East African States for air transport for the Kenyan and supporting ground and operational ground commanders. These have included communication flights, reconnaissance sorties and the air evacuation of casualties from remote locations to hospitals at Wajir and Nairobi.

The Caribou Squadron has maintained a regular weekly scheduled service to the Eastern and North Eastern Provinces, as well as to Garissa, Wajir, Mandera and Malindi, being supplied with fuel, mail and other essential supplies.

An important feature of Kenya Air Force activities during the year has been the assistance given to various branches of the Civil Administration.

During the heavy May rain the Air Force has put in combined Service relief operations of flood disaster areas in Western and Northern Provinces. In addition to flying Kenya Navy fighters from Mombasa, several reconnaissance and communication flights were carried out. In the same month, when unusually heavy flooding in Eastern Province caused the serious disruption of movement by road, four emergency Caribou flights were arranged to take food and medical supplies to centres at Mandera and Mandaji for distribution to surrounding districts.

With the establishment of Kenya's Ministry of Fisheries and Marine Services, several top-level visits have been made from Nairobi to Addis Ababa and Mogadishu to transport equipment and stores for the new Emergency staffs.

In August a Caribou training flight took a team of Kenyan athletes to Dar es Salaam for the Athletic Camps of East Africa. In October, 1967, a party of Kenyan dancers were taken to Luaka on a similar flight.

After the 1967 Nairobi Show, which was attended by De Havilland Harbours, two before were flying from Nakuru to Illmorog, carrying cattle and sheep from Kenya to Malawi.

More recently, the Air Force has mounted a series of special V.I.P. flights for three State visits to Kenya, and President Kenyatta of Somalia, together with members of their support delegations, have all travelled on K.F.F. aircraft.

Filipats have included S.N.F.

Parades on Malakua and July Parade Days, and the opening of the Nairobi and Mombasa Agricultural Shows. Fireworks displays have also been given at other agricultural and district shows, including those at Eldoret, Kitale, Kisumu, Nakuru and Bungoma.

The basic task of the Kenya Navy is to patrol the sea off the area of the northern and southern borders between Kenya and her neighbours.

Although the Navy is stationed at Mombasa, people from all over the country have seen them when they took part in Agricultural Shows held in Kitale last year and in Nakuru (Voi and Nairobi) during this year.

At this show the Navy will provide two arena displays together with a static display. It is hoped this display will be a great attraction. Those who visited the Mombasa Show saw two of the patrol boats flooding at night by an anchor just before the show ground.

A recent contingent came to Nairobi last year to take part in the Malakua City celebrations and at the same time to other part participating in the celebrations at the same time. Last year, the Navy with the opportunity of showing itself to other parts of the coast. The boat visits of Adila and Lamu in the north and Mombasa in the south.

The Kenya Navy ships have made several training and patrol visits of late. After many months of preparation by members of the ship's companies, Ndiwui and Chui, those ports, led by the Navy's Commander aboard the home ship, Kenya, visited the Kilindini harbour on their way.

Time for a change of policy

By A. T. Smart

The word 'sheep', immediately conjures up a mental picture of the woolly creatures of the hills. These areas have long been regarded as cattle country, but the time has come to change our minds and to see sheep in a different light.

It is well known to most of us that sheep and cattle are not compatible, even in this modern day of enlightened farming techniques. Sheep and ranching are incompatible, and in achieving full use of land, they must be seen as a unit.

Admittedly, certain problems arise with this sort of farming but they can and will have to be overcome. We think first of the tick problem and it is all very well to say the game ruminants and the rest of the world's external parasites, but we must not forget that similar problems exist in South America, Australia and the other wool-producing countries of the world. Systematic and efficient dipping can solve this problem.

As for people generally who need to increase and improve the numbers, it is important to the country, but impossible, if there are too many sheep in Kenya as good ruminants in the world and the tick is a serious international pest in many parts.

If it is decided to utilize this land, naturally a demand for stock will follow, but up to the present there has been no reliable, good quality rams that the Maasai still exist in this country, as against something in the order of ten to 15 in the Corridor area.

With an increase in wool production, it will be possible for someone to set up a watering plant in Kenya which will sell down costs of shipping and also influence the local manufacturer to use a more locally produced stock. At present, all wool is imported to the East from the U.K., and this means that the wool is sold to the East for use in local mills. At the present production does not warrant the expense of setting up such an establish-

Test of ingenuity for the small farmer

When it is a word of wisdom for it is of course a yardstick of four-wheel tractor, combine harvester, agricultural milk parlour, etc. for thousands of East African farmers, mechanisation on this scale is out of reach.

For this mechanisation may give an illustration appropriate to the small farmer. ## HOME INDUSTRIES

Some changes, same high standard

According to a report published in the East African Standard of August 29, 1967, the East Africa Home Industries Commission, under the leadership of Mr. E. R. Watts, has continued its work of promoting the development of home industries in Kenya. The Commission has been successful in its efforts to encourage the growth of small-scale manufacturing enterprises, particularly in the textile and leather sectors.

Mr. E. R. Watts, Chairman of the East Africa Home Industries Commission, has announced that the Commission has approved a number of new projects in the textile and leather sectors. These projects include the establishment of a new textile mill in Nairobi and the expansion of an existing leather goods factory in Mombasa. The Commission has also approved a number of other projects, including the establishment of a new furniture factory in Nairobi and the expansion of an existing textile mill in Kisumu.

WELCOME TO CZECHOSLOVAKIA

WELCOMING VISITORS TO THE FAIR IN BRNO

As an integral part not only of the Trade Fair but also of the economic relations between our country and the rest of the world, the Brno International Trade Fair on September 27-30, 1968, is being held in the city of Brno.

The Government of the Czechoslovak Republic is pleased to welcome to the Brno International Trade Fair all those who are participating in it. The fair has gained an international reputation as a result of the high level of the production, the quality of the goods, the variety of the exhibits and the high standard of the organization of the fair.

The fair is being held in the city of Brno, which is one of the largest industrial centers in the country. The fair is being held in the city of Brno, which is one of the largest industrial centers in the country.

At the present time it is even firmer and more positive even today. Proof of this are the innumerable voices of confidence of the people in the leading bodies of our country and in the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia, concrete and successful in normalizing the political and economic life of the country in the shortest possible time.

It is a generally known fact that in these specific conditions of the Czechoslovak economy the external economic relations play a very significant role and being among one of the most sensitive key factors. Therefore the greater will the demands made on this field of our economy in the future, the more important will be the external economic relations and in the consolidation of the external economic and political conditions.

We are aware of the fact that further effective and rational development and primarily the application of the results of the scientific and technical revolution in the world in our country is to a great extent on the improvement of our external economic and trade relations. We are aware of the fact that further effective and rational development and primarily the application of the results of the scientific and technical revolution in the world in our country is to a great extent on the improvement of our external economic and trade relations.

international division of labour and that the sphere of our production remains the major link between effective growth and balance in our external economic relations. We stress again that the basic conditions of growth and effective development of economic relations with foreign countries lie in production.

The economic potential of our country — as a basic source of the material and spiritual welfare of our citizens — can grow only on the conditions of extensive and intensive development of our country with the outside world.

Therefore the greater will be the demands made on this field of our economy in the future, the more important will be the external economic relations and in the consolidation of the external economic and political conditions.
