CONDITIONS OF LIFE BEHIND THE IRON CURTAIN

With great interest I read all three columns in World Affairs from August 18 especially the sections on the Communist policy toward the Eastern European populations, especially the comments on Poland.

This is the situation of the Communist Parties of Europe as of at least to say our ears through the New Leader and the Daily Worker, the countries where Communist rule is still in force. The situation in Poland is most interesting, especially because that is an area which the Red needs to have a fairly large number of people to support its efforts and to be a part of the Communist bloc.

The same applies to the Czech Republic and the East German Democratic Republic, the latter of which is a Communist satellite of the Soviet Union. The same applies to the situation of the Soviet Union in its control over the Balkans and the Middle East, and to the situation of the Soviet Union in its control over the East German Democratic Republic, the latter of which is a Communist satellite of the Soviet Union.

HANDICAPS TO KENYA'S TRADE GROWTH

Mombasa off main routes

By a correspondent.

SEARCHING for new markets and endeavouring to obtain existing trade links with other countries, Kenya, seeking a comparatively limited range of exportable goods, is further handicapped by its geographical position and the manner of shipping trading via its main port, Mombasa.

Kenya's geographical position is a serious handicap to its trade. The country is a narrow strip of land between the Indian Ocean and the East African continent. Its main port, Mombasa, is situated on the east coast of the Indian Ocean, and is the only port in the region which is not a deep water port. This means that Mombasa is unable to handle large ships, and is therefore unable to handle the bulk of Kenya's exports.

One of the authors.

This, too, is a handicap. The port of Mombasa is situated on the east coast of the Indian Ocean, and is the only port in the region which is not a deep water port. This means that Mombasa is unable to handle large ships, and is therefore unable to handle the bulk of Kenya's exports.

Savings effected.

Routing of cargo has been effected through the Mauritius, which has been the main port of call for cargo from Mombasa to the East African continent. The total saving of £2,000 per annum has been effected through the Mauritius, which has been the main port of call for cargo from Mombasa to the East African continent.

Schedule mapped out.

The big shipping line which has been the main port of call for cargo from Mombasa to the East African continent, has mapped out a schedule of services which will be operated through the Mauritius, which has been the main port of call for cargo from Mombasa to the East African continent.

LURE OF PIRATE GOLD STILL HOLDING MAHE TREASURE-SEEKERS

A cache of treasure worth £150,000,000 is believed to have been buried by the 17th-century French pirate, Calypso, on the island of the Seychelles. The Fleming recently visited the island to discover how the Englishman, armed with silver ornaments, has been seeking the treasure for nearly two years. Behind the scene it, financed by shareholders, has a handsome blend of fact and legend.

HAVE always been interested in buried treasure. I think most men are. Women are brought up on different children's books.

Early reading of Coral Island, The Blue Lagoon, Treasure Island and other Stevenson-like tales and Peter Ruggers gives a boy that golden treasure bug which he rarely lets out of his subconscious even in manhood.

I found my first treasure at the age of nine. We were staying in the summer holiday of the Trinidad Castle Hotel at St. Ives and I spent much of my time looking for ancient quartz in the coves about the beach.

One day (for from the town, I penetrated deep into a little cove and found at the back a lump of ambergris. I was as big as a hulk's tooth). I knew all about ambergris from Stargazer. It should have the consistency of thick paste, be greyish in colour and have the smell. There might have been a few doubts about the thing.

Well, I would in fact and would be glad to see. My little chocolate tin and it would not have to go back to my relatives about or indeed to my school. I had found the short cut and all my childish hopes had now to go in back to the hotel.

Curiously, I extracted the heavy lump, picked out some of the pebbles that had stuck to it, and looked at this from the top of the great jersey which with grey shorts I was wearing.

DREADFUL SIGHT
The long wack back was ex- haunting and the back was not yet fully healed a fraction of my treasure. (It is now as usual I could reach after the small wreckage in that most my jersey and shorts were a dreadful sight.)

What did I care? There would be no soldier or British-ness was again.

People looked curiously at me as I walked out of the street and went through the big gates and up the hill. I carried my treasure and I carried the palm court (as I remember it) at the hotel with a handsome soldier.

A line of tables and covered with food, the looked started at my expression and my little appearance.

Quite casually I rebound the top of my jersey and let the

A NEW DEAL FOR LOCALLY-PRODUCED POTTERY IN THE MARKETS OF EAST AFRICA

By LESLEY CLAY

When I learned that there is a very big potential market for pottery in Kenya, and also in Tanganyika and Uganda, I decided to visit the country to see the way things are done in the pottery industry. My first stop was Nairobi...

At present, Mr. West is looking to the future for his business. He is going to get the necessary finance from overseas. He has three kilns and three operators, one of whom, Mrs. A. Mbarati, has been in the business for the whole twenty-five years of its existence.

Every dipping of clay from the kiln...

Mr. West's pottery operator goes to work on some more bowls. There are two machines for "pottery" for making bowls and saucers.

Into the kiln...

Mr. H. B. West, who has spent a year or so in the States, joins an experienced potter in Kenya to set up a pottery business. Mr. West is the sole supplier of the necessary equipment to the potter.

THE PROCESSES

An operator "throws" the clay into a bowl and the wheel starts to rotate. The clay is then thrown into the wheel and the wheel is turned back.

WEEKEND SOLDIER LAUNCHED ATTACK AS DAY BROKE

By COLIN GIBSON

FOUR HUNDRED men recently reported back to offices, workshops and farms all over Kenya after attending the Kenya Regiment annual week-end training camp at Naruru. Almost without exception these men were in a good deal better than they did a fortnight earlier.

During these two weeks they experienced the regular soldier's life: back at home and the rough beds, straw-filled pallets and blankets of their camp. They had to get up at 6 am every day and wash and shave with spiced water. They had no mess-boy to make their beds and clean their boots.

For two weeks they have lived as nearly as possible like regular soldiers, with no furla and no reinforcements. Many of the men arrived at the camp with decidedly depressed views about 14 days of "playing soldiers out in the bush for 12 a day, but after a couple of days they were down to the discipline and routine of the camp.

Cap M Lawrence Brown, Inspector of the Kenya Regiment, is seen with some of the men during the week-end training camp at Naruru.

LONG DISTANCES

An officer who took part in "play" said that the object of the exercise "was to provide training in operations in desert areas with particular emphasis on day and night patrolling."

"The men were being taught to live and work under extremely hard conditions in waterless and hilly country." During the 12-hour operation of "play" the men had little sleep than eight hours sleep, ate only limited, cooked rations and walked long distances in the middle of the night.

LIGHTER SIDE

On the last day the men were up at 6 am and marched six miles through scrubby scrub to a start line from which they launched a dawn attack on the camp.

A permanent staff instructor said that the men had to take a chap from behind his back and within 10 minutes they had to march through the scrub for a distance of 10 miles. But I have not heard one man complain."

There was a lighter side to the "play" as well. At the end of the first week of the camp a regional sports day was held at Naruru Club grounds, the most interesting at greater part of a large crowd by the people of Naruru.

A party of men went on a day's climbing trip up Mount

Last camp for commanding officer

Kenya, and others were on furla and home.

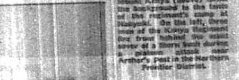

Some men found relaxation in swimming in the cool waters of Nakuru during their brief furla and pleasant stay at the swimming pool of the Northern Province.

All the camp was a success, and the men were well and happy when they returned to their homes.

number of them still training, and a slight annual decrease.

The year there was a small decrease of about 100 men, but they will be low and far below the level of 1950.

It was the last term of the commanding officer of the regiment, Lt Col C. S. Martin.

Fine spirit displayed by volunteers

After the extensive absence of the Kenya Regiment from the country since the end of the Second World War, the Kenya Regiment, which is now being retrained at the Kenya Regimental Depot at Naruru, is showing a fine spirit of volunteerism.

He said that if Kenya was faced with trouble again, it would most certainly be more organized than after the war, and in consequence more formidable.

TYPICAL EXAMPLE

The Kenya Regiment has a total of 1,000 men, a healthy figure as it stood but 400 of them are reported as being "volunteers" when the Kenya Regiment will still on active service in Kenya.

With the disappearance of the Kenya Regiment from the country since the end of the Second World War, the Kenya Regiment, which is now being retrained at the Kenya Regimental Depot at Naruru, is showing a fine spirit of volunteerism.

They are 60 volunteers among the regiment's ranks and it is expected that the number will increase as the new recruits are trained at the depot.

WHITENESS IS NOT ENOUGH

Decay reduced over 50% by using Ammi-dent

White teeth may not mean strong teeth. But soon you can be satisfied that this really has proved to be true. After 12 years of research have led to the isolation of a new ingredient, British scientists have subjected it to a series of strictly controlled clinical tests and proved that it reduces the risk of dental caries by more than half.

This ingredient is incorporated in a new dentifrice, Ammi-dent. By removing the live of Ammi-dent, Ammi-dent fights the bacteria which are the chief cause of tooth decay. It removes stains and decoloration, too, leaves your mouth fresh and healthy.

Go to your dentist today and buy a tube of Ammi-dent. Thus too for yourself how it really will give you wonderfully white, decay-free teeth!

Federation of Kenya at its best

By ERIC BAYLES

KENYA 1956 Royal Show—The sixth to have been held at Mitchell Park—will be opened officially by the Prime Minister of the Central African Federation, Sir Roy Wellesley, on Wednesday afternoon. The show will last for four days.

It will be the second time on which a Kenya show has been opened by a Rhodesian statesman, Lord Aliborn, then Sir Godfrey Shuggens, former Minister of Southern Rhodesia, performed the opening at the Nakuru Show in 1950.

Message from Sir Evelyn

It is a great pleasure to me to be able to write to you on the occasion of the opening of the Kenya 1956 Royal Show. I am sure that you will find it a most interesting and profitable one.

By the 1957 President of the Royal Agricultural Society of Kenya, Mr. Roger Mackham to open last year's show but was unable to do so because of other commitments. Among the distinguished visitors will be the President of the Royal Agricultural Society, Lt. Col. H. Carter, who himself opened the Nakuru Show in 1951. It will not be Kenya's biggest show. That honour was held by the 1954 "Royal" which broke many records. Attendance figures were naturally increased because of Princess Margaret's visit to Nairobi during the show period.

VARIED EVENTS

Nevertheless, the R.A.S.K. will continue to provide a wide range of standards with at least 100 exhibitors and 100 exhibits. It will comprise favourably priced livestock, which will be accompanied by a wide range of other exhibits. The show will be held at Mitchell Park in Kenya's capital Nairobi.

LOOKING BACK

It is a pleasure to me to be able to write to you on the occasion of the opening of the Kenya 1956 Royal Show. I am sure that you will find it a most interesting and profitable one.

AN IDEAL BACKGROUND IN MITCHELL PARK

R.A.S.K. TAKES PRIDE IN COLONY'S PROGRESS

By SIR CHARLES MARSHAM

THE Royal Show is the most important event of the calendar of the Royal Agricultural Society of Kenya, but it must not be forgotten that the activities of the Society are far more extensive than the holding of shows. This year has been a difficult one to say the least, and the Society has been faced with new problems, many of which have caused considerable difficulties.

KEEP SUPPORT

The proposal to fund such a society has not only been supported and the value to us in Kenya of such a body, which can give valuable co-operation to the Government, but also the support of the public.

SHARD WORK

It is because we have to work so hard to get the best out of our land that we should be proud of the progress that we have made.

VALUABLE HELP

Over the years there has been a growing co-operation between the Government and the public, and this has led to the development of many of our industries.

Peugeot continue

QUALITY ALWAYS PAYS

U.S. for Automobile Peugeot is a leading manufacturer with a reputation for durability. All the best of the manufacturer today we have in Jean Pierre Peugeot, grandson of the founder, who is being followed by his son.

From the early days at the turn of the century, when the Peugeot family was turning its attention to the internal combustion engine and its application to a "torque" motor, more recently, exports to North America have done to a large manufacturing plant, the Peugeot plant in the U.S. has been producing more than 700 quality vehicles every working day.

Advancements made by the more modern scientific equipment employed in the Peugeot plant to ensure the same reliability and standards Peugeot is today producing cars and trucks that are as good as the Peugeot standard.

The Peugeot family has been supported by the continuous strength of its products, which are measured by the popularity shown by the public.

October 1958

A heavy engine was added to the back of the Peugeot Peugeot. The type reported to have been mounted on all models.

November 1958

The Peugeot started and mechanism was provided by an electrically operated push button on the dash board.

YOUR '403'

AND YOU

As engine temperature instruments and an electric clock were added to standard equipment.

September 1958

The direction indicator lights (mounted on the front and rear of all 403 models). In addition, a steering wheel on each side of the vehicle is incorporated on all models equipped with parking lights.

January 1957

Modified wheel discs larger in diameter and more pleasing in appearance were featured. These were designed to eliminate noise on curving and become standard fittings on the "hamburger" carrying range of vehicles.

April 1957

A vinyl plastic material was put into use on all models, for upholstery on seats, doors and interior roof linings.

1958

Parallel windshield wipers, instead of inverted ones, were introduced.

Sealed beam headlights may now be locked on both sides of all models. Increased use has been made of sound-proof felt matting to eliminate the "drumming" type of noise experienced on most East African roads.

If only two persons are traveling in the '403' when you undertake a long journey, it is not necessary for you to worry about hotel accommodation during the trip. The above illustration proves this to you.

He used pirate spies

Faithful—if you look after her...

The '403' is a fine car—a quality sedan, which can give you many, many years of motoring pleasure.

Even a quality product, however, must be looked after, and that means regular servicing. In East African conditions, regular servicing is of primary importance and it is comforting to feel that wherever you may be, skilled Peugeot mechanics are at your disposal.

Marshall's (East Africa) Ltd. have fully equipped workshops incorporating the most modern equipment and a staff of experienced mechanics. No matter what work is done on your car, you can be sure that only genuine Peugeot spare parts are used.

Remember, Marshall's (E.A.) Ltd. are here for a purpose—your best.

50 Years of experience

Since the beginning of this century, Peugeot has been a household word in car circles throughout the world. Most motorists will recall the outstanding performances of Jules Gonze, driver of a 3-cylinder Peugeot in 1904. In more recent years, driving a 203 and 403 have earned on the family tradition and have been extremely successful. The reason for these successes can be put down to the solid construction of the chassis, expert attention and the powerful 4-cylinder engine which powers the Peugeot. The Peugeot is a car designed to withstand East African conditions. A car which can stand up without "hamburger" over bad roads. It is a car which has proved itself over and over again.

LESSONS LEARNT FROM THE PROGENY TESTING OF CATTLE

By L. E. A. SOWDEN
Deputy Director of the Physiology

There has been reference in a recent issue of the Kenyan Times to a Government report which dealing with the results of progeny testing of cattle.

This is in no way unexpected, for the results of progeny testing of cattle are of such importance that they should be known to all those who are concerned with the breeding of cattle.

The object of progeny testing is to determine the value of a bull as a sire, and to select the best bulls for breeding.

It is a privilege to be permitted to describe the progress of the college, and to see the results of the foresight of the pioneers who have made it possible.

BOUND BASIS

In 1960 there were some 20 students in 1957 this increased and the present entry of 75 is a considerable increase.

This shows well for the future, and will be a great help to the well-qualified candidates of the college.

The maximum intake of students is limited each year, for only by this means can the quality be really improved.

By so doing the reputation of the college is maintained.

BUY LOCAL
and be proud of it!

There are good local products in the shops—products you as an East African housewife can be proud of.

In the last fifty years we've learnt to make and grow a lot of things in this country—more, perhaps, than you realise. Local products now cover a very large range indeed of foodstuffs and manufactured goods. When you buy them you're investing money in your own country and your own future.

Next time you go shopping—"buy local"; and when you go to the Royal Show make a point of looking for the special "local" exhibits.

This is the symbol of the Council for the Promotion of Industries in East Africa, whose aim is to help both you and local manufacturers.

PROSPERITY—Through Partnership!

THE MAGADI SODA CO. LTD. is a considerable asset to Kenya Colony, not only because of its commercial activities but also for the enlightened way in which the Company looks after its employees.

Indeed, these two aspects of Magadi form together the main theme of the Company's exhibition at this year's Kenya Royal Show.

At Lake Magadi, in the Rift Valley, Kenya Colony, The Magadi Soda Company operates one of the largest industrial undertakings in East Africa. The Lake consists almost entirely of trona (sodium sesquicarbonate) and this is processed into Soda Ash. In addition, Magadi produces about 20,000 tons of salt a year, which is supplied entirely to the East African market.

Nearly 40,000 tons of Magadi Soda Ash are produced each year, and most of it is exported to countries as far apart as the Belgian Congo, New Zealand and Siam. South Africa and India are the main markets. Soda Ash is an essential raw material for the manufacture of glass, and indeed Magadi's exports represent approximately 5% of Kenya Colony's total export trade.

About 1,000 Africans, 130 Asians and 30 Europeans are employed at Magadi. All these employees and their families, a total of some 3,000 people, are housed rent free in accommodation provided and owned by the Company. The Magadi Soda Company Ltd. has always had to face the problems that arise from the fact that Lake Magadi is some seventy miles from Nairobi, the nearest large town.

Thus, the Company has had to provide not only housing for all its employees, but also the full facilities and amenities of a community.

In 1954 a rehousing scheme for all races began. Now nearing completion, the main features of the plan consist of blocks of flats for African families, houses for Asian families and houses for European families, together with a club for Africans, a club for Asians, a school for African children, a church and an African shop. The plan also includes a cricket ground and a hockey pitch. In 1954 a new water supply was engineered, and the result will be that all housing at Magadi will soon have running water, showers, and waterborne sanitation.

THREE-FOLD BENEFIT DERIVED FROM PIGS

By Dr. J. H. SHERWOOD, Field Officer, Pig Industry Division.

AGRICULTURAL SHOWS in the pig world are the most important of their kind in the country. They provide an opportunity for exhibitors to show their stock to the general public and to other exhibitors. They also provide a chance for exhibitors to see the stock of other exhibitors. They are also a very important source of information for exhibitors.

GROWING PAINS

All at present time, pigs in connection of the farming industry are suffering from growing pains. This is due to the fact that the pig industry is suffering from a shortage of piglets. This is due to the fact that the pig industry is suffering from a shortage of piglets. This is due to the fact that the pig industry is suffering from a shortage of piglets.

Building (shown) in the pig ring has got the right headline. Actually, the Champion Landrace in any other breed class at 6 1/2 year's history shows.

The property of these cream color Landrace pigs which carry the world's record of any breed across oceans.

This is a practice which has always been very popular in England. It is now being done in the United States and in other countries. It is a practice which has always been very popular in England. It is now being done in the United States and in other countries.

Poultry—a welcome revival

By ALICE WARD

Exhibiting Poultry, K.S.F.A.L.

Small classes for poultry have been revived this year. The last time that these were poultry in the Royal Show was in 1910. It is interesting to note that in 1910 the number of exhibitors was 100. In 1930 the number of exhibitors was 100. In 1930 the number of exhibitors was 100.

EXCELLENT BACON

Of the few breeds very little can be said about the Large White which has not been mentioned here. It is sufficient to say that when it comes to the matter of bacon, this breed is the best of all other breeds. The bacon from this breed is the best of all other breeds. The bacon from this breed is the best of all other breeds.

IMPROVE QUALITY

The excellent quality of these pigs was seen at the recent National County Show when they were first seen in the pig ring of that show. It is sufficient to say that when it comes to the matter of bacon, this breed is the best of all other breeds. The bacon from this breed is the best of all other breeds.

Sheep provide solution for farming problems

By J. G. GRIMWOOD

These days, agricultural chemists, biologists and botanists are turning their eyes to a possible solution of the world's food problem. One of the most promising is sheep. From a number of points of view, the sheep's position is unique. It has been stated that when wool is selling well, small wool will be found latered in a much greater amount to produce a smaller amount of wool than will be produced in order to obtain a sale of 100.

CREATIVE WORK FROM TOWN AND COUNTRY ON DISPLAY

Many years ago, in fact before the Second World War, the Rural Agricultural Society of Kenya asked the East Africa Women's League to take over from them the organization of the Home Industries Section of the Royal Show.

MRS. E. L. THORSON writes on the Home Industries Section of which she is Chairperson. She reports: "The scheme is simple, it is a widening range of exhibits and an increase in public interest."

30 JUDGES

The 30 judges who are drawn from all sections of life in the Colony include farmers, housewives, school teachers, and many others. They will be given a special lunch on the day of the show.

THE Fifteen Hundred is traditionally Wolseley in quality and truly modern in performance, with that much extra which is needed for motoring in East Africa.

This car has been here for sufficient time to have a thorough testing over really rough roads and has not been found wanting in any respect. The Wolseley Fifteen Hundred handles remarkably well on bad surfaces and hugs the road on the sharpest of corners. The centrally situated floor gear change is a joy to operate. At an average speed of 46 m.p.h. the petrol consumption is between 34 and 35 m.p.g.—of great importance in these days of economy.

Here you have a car which is worth every penny of its Nairobi price at £729.

Agricultural education vital for the future

...the future of the African continent... agricultural education... vital for the future... The African continent is a vast and fertile land, and its future depends on the education of its people. Agricultural education is the key to the continent's development, as it provides the skills and knowledge necessary for the production of food and other goods. This education must be practical and relevant to the needs of the African people, and it must be accessible to all, regardless of their social or economic status. Only through such education can the continent's resources be fully utilized, and its people can achieve a better standard of living. Agricultural education is not just a means to an end, but a way of life that can transform the African continent into a land of opportunity and progress.

ONE THING LACKING
...the African continent... agricultural education... vital for the future... One of the major challenges facing the African continent is the lack of agricultural education. This lack of education is a significant barrier to the continent's development, as it prevents the people from acquiring the skills and knowledge necessary for the production of food and other goods. This lack of education is also a result of the continent's economic and social conditions, which make it difficult for people to afford education. However, it is essential that the African continent invest in agricultural education, as it is the only way to ensure a sustainable and prosperous future for the continent's people.

A WARNING
...the African continent... agricultural education... vital for the future... The African continent is facing a serious warning. The continent's resources are being depleted, and its people are suffering from poverty and hunger. This is a direct result of the lack of agricultural education and the resulting decline in the continent's agricultural production. If the African continent does not take immediate action to address these issues, the future of the continent is bleak. The continent's people must be educated in agriculture, so that they can produce their own food and other goods, and improve their standard of living. This is the only way to ensure a bright and prosperous future for the African continent.

WHOLE QUESTION
...the African continent... agricultural education... vital for the future... The whole question of agricultural education in the African continent is a complex one. It involves not only the provision of education, but also the development of the continent's agricultural infrastructure. This infrastructure includes roads, irrigation systems, and other facilities that are necessary for the production of agricultural goods. Without this infrastructure, the continent's agricultural production will be severely limited, and the people will be unable to achieve a better standard of living. Therefore, the African continent must invest in both agricultural education and infrastructure, as they are both essential for the continent's development.

Young Farmers in Action

FINER POINTS OF JUDGING VITAL

By ALEC WARD, Chairman, F.A.S.K. Young Farmers' Committee

MEMBERS of the European Young Farmers' Clubs in Nairobi will be at the Royal Show in a few days. Some of these Young Farmers will be acting as stewards for the various sections of the Show. Others will be on duty at the Young Farmers' stand, opposite the main entrance to the Members' Enclosure and stand.

The big event for Young Farmers at the Royal Show is the Saturday morning, when teams of four will show more closely in the Young Farmers' District Judging competition.

ORDER OF MERIT

At 9 a.m. on Saturday the judging of home-grown and foreign-bred cows will take place, and 11 competitors will be judging home-bred and British Red Cattle.

These livestock judging competitions have been a feature of the Young Farmers' movement in all countries in the world. It is vitally important that all farmers should be able to judge the best animal, and so Young Farmers are taught the finer points of judging livestock which, it is hoped, will stand them in good stead if they have no farms of a considerable size in life. Competitors are asked to show in order of merit four animals, and when they get to the end of the paddock they have to tell him the order in which they have placed the animals and also give to him a few minutes' rest for their reason for this order.

Although each club has a team of four entering for these competitions, each competitor is judged as an individual and is permitted to compete with any other club in the team - although the order for the competitors are awarded on a club basis. The club will be competing for the best competition, and the club that does the best in the four competitions will be awarded the F.A.S.K. District Challenge Cup. This Challenge Cup was won last year by the force of Young School Young Farmers' Club.

OPINIONS ON THE SUDDEN GROWTH OF UNIVERSITIES

RECENTLY has reported the growth which the P. U. has taken in the last few years. The Government for a recent period has been the target of the attacks of the press and the public. The Government has been accused of being inefficient, of being corrupt, and of being unable to deal with the problems of the country. BARONS, BUTTERFLIES AND BEACHCOMBERS IN A TROPICAL EDEN.

Continuing the account of a recent visit to the Seychelles where a search is going on for pirates, buried treasure, rumoured to be worth £250,000,000, IAN FLEMING describes some remarkable finds-of-treasures and personalities.

THE island of Denisoch, where treasure was found in 1938, is a dot in the Indian Ocean just east of the Amirante group and about 120 miles from Mahe, the chief island of the Seychelles.

It was a good rendezvous of the Blackbirders and long after the abolition of slavery the remnants of the "Savage Trade" continued to flourish with the outlying islands, using Denisoch as an entrepôt.

Every day you can see the ruins of a great underground cellar into which a 19th-century owner of the island used to herd his slaves whenever a gale was sighted.

One day at the end of April I stood on the bridge of the good ship De Quincey and watched Denisoch rise from a small group of trees to a Robinson Crusoe paradise of brilliant green palm trees and dancing sand which the captain held in the story.

Captain Mousnier had seen a young sailor in one of the houses at the time and the owner of Denisoch, which was named by one of the "great blasters" of Mahe, had then been remembered since.

One day in 1938 the schooner had visited Denisoch to take off a pilot who had suddenly and inexplicably thrown up his job.

FOLLOWED GAIN

The reason he had done so, as was subsequently discovered, was that he had found a rich treasure trove of gold and silver. The Denisoch sailors were later sent off and the schooner with them to France. The discovery had come about the time that a labourer working on the island of which I was about to land had come upon the first trace of a highly coveted metal.

Some weeks afterwards the island was visited by a British ship but some of the gold had got out into the open and the crew who had been reported 300 days in jail. The crewmen were made small when they were taken to the island.

It was a good thing that the crew had been small when they were taken to the island. One day 300 men - when 200 of them had been there - followed the chain and towards the reef in a line. At the end of the chain he found an iron box in which he had some treasure of his own. When he got the box and forced off the seal he found a small fortune in gold coins.

There was a spot, capsize and he spent the next few weeks building three great wooden tanks with false bottoms. Then he packed his possessions in the island by a landing stage built for the purpose in the absence of which Henouaze was one of the crew.

'A SLY ONE'

"I helped carry those tanks into the Customs shed, and Captain Mousnier, naturally, was very suspicious of the tanks. The Customs men were aware of the fact that the tanks they could do nothing about. I remember

and be proud of it!

These are good local products in the shops—products you as an East African housewife can be proud of.

In the last fifty years we've learnt to make and grow a lot of things in this country—more, perhaps, than you realise. Local products now cover a very large range indeed of foodstuffs and manufactured goods. When you buy them you're investing money in your own country and your own future.

Next time you go shopping—"buy local"; and when you go to the Royal Show make a point of looking for the special "local" exhibits.

This is the symbol of the Council for the Promotion of Industries in East Africa, whose aim is to help both you and local manufacturers.

Newest collections to be shown in East Africa before London

FROM the moment the four leading fashion models — Sheelagh Lynch, Valerie Walsh, Helen Bunny and Tina Edge — step down from the D.A.C. catwalks plans that bring them from London to East Africa, they will enter into a whirl of activity which will last for the duration of the three-week visit.

In London the models arrive at Heath Airport, until Sunday, October 29 when they return to London. The four glamorous young women will be engaged in the task of showing the newest fashions from the designers of East Africa, and also accompanying the fashion-designer representatives of East Africa to the British Fashion Week.

Their activities include a parade at the Norfolk Hotel in Nairobi, the Victoria Hotel at Mombasa, the Morningside Hotel at Dar es Salaam, and the Victoria Hotel at Zanzibar. They will also be shown at the Victoria Hotel at Zanzibar, the Victoria Hotel at Mombasa, and the Victoria Hotel at Dar es Salaam.

At each point, the models will be accompanied by a representative of the fashion designer who has designed the clothes which they will be wearing. These representatives will be responsible for the sale of the clothes in the territories.

Fashion models of past

By ELIZABETH HANNEY

IT seems almost incredible that the late thought of using live models to display their creations said the early 1800s. For before, it or just, the model, or mannequin, is as recent a development as the camera.

But within the space of those 180 years, the art of dress and social standing of her own and her country, she has had to suffer as the fabled Gaiety of the streets.

But the story of how she first came into being is interesting because she was an immediate success from the very start. It was obvious that she was the perfect complement to the designer's creation, and she had the advantage of being able to show a dress as it would be worn.

THE FAMOUS

It all began in Milan, Italy, in 1816 when a young man, Giacomo Piacini had invented a machine which could make dresses in a few minutes. He had gathered outside to witness the machine.

In all, 100 women of Milan would stand with their necks to Madame Devere that day for a preview of the garment created that Madame Lurie had in mind for their spring and summer wear.

In a society elegant setting, the celebrated model, who had previously been used to see a mannequin, was now a woman exhibiting the latest creation. She was not, indeed, a woman of fragile-looking girl, but a woman of a different platform.

When the great cities of the world at the end of the 19th century they revealed a group of six lovely girls, each a type of her own, elegant and smart.

WELL COVERED

Madame Lurie had designed gowns for each of their individual personalities, but these first mannequins, though their own individual, female, but they were not, indeed, a woman of delicate models girl.

Each was made of fat and not one weighed less than 124 lbs. The total weight of these days had generous curves. The boys, indeed, then, spent absolute tragedy.

After the girls had shown more than 100 gowns, Madame Lurie knew that her reputation in London's leading dressmaker was finally secured. She had beaten even the smart Paris dress houses with her idea for at that time they still displayed their creations in sawdust-stuffed figures.

It was, indeed, a woman of the kind in Madame Lurie's success. It was the only woman who had returned to her own, womanhood after the long reign of stuffy, Victorian fashions which had, rather than revealed, the beauty of the woman's shape.

IMPORTANCE OF ACCESSORIES

HOWEVER up-to-the-minute the dress, however beautiful the fabric and the workmanship, the whole effect is lost without due emphasis on the importance of accessories.

Four famous 'cover' girls on parade

HERE are some details about the four leading fashion models who are arriving in East Africa on Monday Helen Blinn, who is the most sought-after photographic model in London today, started her career three years ago when she moved to the city from her Leicester home.

Her first job was as an artistic model, but when the need for which she posed was indicated in a society magazine the same magazine printed three top fashion photographs of her.

Three months ago she married William Wilton, a London fashion photographer whose studio she now shares with her sister Marie. Wilton, the talent of the four fashion models is probably one of the world's most travelled.

AMERICAN GIRL

She was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, 23 years ago, but after modeling in New York for 18 months went to Europe and has since worked for leading haute couturiers and photographers in London, Paris, Berlin, Rome and Florence.

Unlike most models, Sheehan Lynch divides her time equally between shows and photography.

She is acknowledged to be one of the most outstanding show models in London, but recently she has achieved great popularity with the study magazine.

BORN IN KENYA

The fourth member of the group, Tania Bellander-Ribe, was born in Kenya, and has reached the top flight of fashion models after only three years' experience.

Her father, Lt. Slater Carl Bellander, of the East African Service Corps, was well known as one of the best secretaries in the colony, and was tragically killed while riding to a shooting party at Nakuru in 1940.

Her mother, George Maye, is married to Col. George Maye, a member of Legislative Council and Chairman of the Board of Agriculture, a post which he resigned in 1942.

Firestone Plus-Mileage Plan CUTS TYRE COSTS 40% ON MILK RUN

"I estimate that as a result of Firestone's exclusive service we are getting a 40% saving in tyre cost," says Mr. J. A. Anderson, Manager of Midway Transport (Pty) Limited, Transvaal.

Between 5,500 and 9,000 gallons of milk are transported daily by Midway Transport (Pty) Limited. Working day and night seven days a week, 1 of the firm's trucks clock a total of 4,000 miles every 24 hours. Another two trucks head into the country. Drivers must adhere strictly to the maintenance, but light schedules here in a light day and on day without a break.

"We must have a dependable fleet," Mr. Anderson points out. "You can't take chances in the milk business. We set ourselves for the milk run trucks, carry, and a tyre failure can mean the loss of the whole load."

A Firestone representative was contacted by Midway Transport in 1954, and the Firestone Plus-Mileage Plan was put into effect. Trucks were weighed and fuel-records studied. Among the recommendations made were a reduction in the tyre run on some of the vehicles. Correct alignment was established and tires were carried out with a variety of makes and types of tyres. Under the particular conditions obtaining, the Firestone B-247 Transport Tyre gave best results.

"We find that, in addition to getting high original mileage, we are able to extend each of these Firestone tires an average of three times more, so that they give us the longest service possible," Mr. Anderson claims. "That is why I estimate our Firestone's Plus-Mileage Plan is a Firestone SERVICE and money saving nothing more than the price of a phone call to read over to your nearest Firestone Depot. Ring through now, or drop in to a local Firestone man. You'll get a first class heavy duty truck or a 4-wheel drive Firestone car. MAKE YOUR MONEY."

Trucks of Midway Transport (Pty) Limited's Plus Plan in regular maintenance from Firestone's Plus-Mileage Plan.

Don't let an untrained mechanic tamper. Put a Firestone man in a Firestone tyre. It's the perfect partnership for YOU.

Quicker turn-round?

Yes, with the VANGUARD

Special design features of the Vickers VANGUARD cut time on the ground—also therefore operating costs—to a minimum. Cabin doors fore and aft, with built-in folding stairs, require rapid passenger handling. With their wide doors, the spacious freight holds permit simultaneous loading and unloading, and the large door area allows spacing out of individual packages for rapid unloading at successive stops. All services are readily accessible, and the overall pressure-reducing for a 1,500-mile flight takes only 10 minutes. With its low tyre pressure, the VANGUARD does not have to sit on a particular part of the apron. All this gives the VANGUARD more time where it should be—in the air. It's the airline's partner.

For your notebook . . .

Minimal running circle, and excellent visibility, making the pilot to see both the outer engine and wing tips, means that the VANGUARD can be taken on and out of the most crowded airports safely and quickly.

Rowdiness at the Stadium

We have read much of your newspaper concerning the impertinence of the African sportsmen at the African Stadium, and it is displeasing that this has to happen so often.

It is quite unsafe for our football spectators to be in the stadium at all, especially at night. A number of persons were injured during the game between the African and the Swiss. The police were called in to break up the crowd. An amateur was injured and sent to hospital. The police were called in to break up the crowd. An amateur was injured and sent to hospital.
