GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATE BANK PROPOSAL

Bank rate cut to 4 p.c.

Kenya's bank rate was cut yesterday to 4 per cent from 5 per cent. It has been the lowest it has been since March, 1957.

The reduction was the result of the fact that the rate was raised to 7 per cent to meet the starting crisis. The last cut, also of 1 per cent, was made on August 14.

Yesterday's change was on a cumulative basis to the stock market. It had a seriously considered such a step this week. Stock Exchange.

EXPANSION URGED FOR PROVIDING CAPITAL NEEDS OF PROGRESS

INVESTIGATIONS are to be carried out in Kenya Government into the possibility of expanding the resources of the Land and Agricultural Bank or establishing another land bank by means of deposit accounts.

This was decided in Legislative Council yesterday, when the Government accepted a motion put forward by Mr. E. S. Silde (Specialist Elect Member) asking for Land Bank expansion because of the urgent need for more capital for agricultural development, particularly in the wake of land consolidation.

Millions tucked away?

Mr. E. L. Howard-Williams (Nairobi North) said he had been advised that a sum of something like £100,000 was "tucked away" somewhere in the reserve.

The Director of Agriculture, Mr. Symington, said that, with about 900,000 African farmers in the Colony, money which became available per farm would be stretched very thin. It might be possible, probably in between five and ten years, so that it could be used again in the form of funds for agricultural development. The motion was adopted and the Council adjourned.

Mr. Silde said farmers of the Land and Agricultural Bank were being contacted with a view to raising more money for the first time in their history.

He said that the Government had decided to set up a Land and Agricultural Bank to provide capital for development. ## THE KENYA ECONOMY ON A SOUNDER

Both Mr. Huxley and Dr. Leakey have argued that the present state of the Kenya economy is a sounder one than it is generally supposed to be. The Government's policy of maintaining the exchange rate at a level which would allow the country to import the goods and services which it needs for its development is a sound one, and it is to be hoped that the Government will continue to follow this policy.

It is a pity that the Government has not done more to improve the infrastructure of the country, particularly in the area of transport and communication. The Government should consider the possibility of increasing the number of roads and bridges, and of improving the postal and telegraph services.

The Government should also consider the possibility of increasing the number of schools and colleges, and of improving the quality of the education which is provided. This would help to create a more skilled and productive workforce.

Finally, the Government should consider the possibility of increasing the number of public enterprises, and of improving the efficiency of the existing ones. This would help to create more jobs and to increase the productivity of the economy.

It is clear that the Kenya economy is on a sounder footing than it is generally supposed to be. However, there is still much to be done to improve the infrastructure and to create more jobs and to increase the productivity of the economy.

WEEK-END STANDARD AMATEUR OPERATORS PUT A RAIL CIRCUIT ROUND THE WORLD

In olden days the great emperors collected ambassadors and more recently other countries have set about it with disastrous results. For the whole world, radio amateurs have a much better way—they collect each other's countries amicably.

Hunting with a transmitter, a receiver and an aerial is really fascinating. You never know what is going to call you back when you give a C.Q. CQ.—an invitation to exchange signals and the latest "ham" gossip.

What do these people talk about? Lots of things—their own, the other side of the globe and the latest news items. Some amateurs operate in collecting countries. Each "station" has an individual card, a call sign and a VQHRZ report, have about 200 countries covered and I have managed to reach third place on a transmitter, double-boosted, and a sliding directional antenna.

It is not so simple as it sounds. In fact I might have made 200 contacts and not had the kind of permission of the management.

Very few amateurs had transmitted from Zanzibar previously.

The volunteer of Zanzibar province, of course, was not in "charge" of a new venture but he helped to get it started. We two amateurs in a field party, worked for 12 1/2 hours a day for a fraction of Zanzibar's population.

MARE CALLING

Mr. Jimmy Chapman, VQHRZ, went to the Seychelles in July and on his return there he was in Ascension during the day and transmitted for 24 hours every day. This September he was in Zanzibar for 12 1/2 hours a day. He was in Zanzibar for 12 1/2 hours a day. He was in Zanzibar for 12 1/2 hours a day.

'Hams' talk to Russia—but forget politics

story is that of the Nairobi station who tried in a fit of the spirit of a fall-out, to make the news to the U.S. & soon both on the tin and on the radio. The police were called in but he was not "cracked" the secret code or message. Eventually the amateur was released and he was not "cracked" the secret code or message.

Early days in life of a future king

NO ONE TOLD HIM HE WAS A PRINCE

BEFORE he reached the age of five, Prince Charles was one of the few people in England who did not know he was born to the king.

He was not to know that a Queen and a Prince loved him dearly. It was not to know that when he was taken for walks, a personal bodyguard of walrus inconspicuously behind.

He accepted photographers and posing models because he had never known anything else. He also accepted the fact that he belonged to "Glorious" and "Gracious" because they were something special. But that must have been passed on the years past.

BOY JOURNALS contribute little to the life of a young prince. Prince Charles was born in 1952 when his family were preparing for a baby shower. He was named Charles because of his grandfather, the Duke of Edinburgh.

'A BIG PARTY' Prince Charles played at the glittering coronation. It must be a big party, he said gravely. "But of course it is," the maid told him. "Only your majesty becomes the Queen."

PLAIN CHARLES Charles played at the Queen Mother and whispered: "There was nothing particularly special about the opening of the young Prince of Wales during his earlier formative years."

ALWAYS PUNCTUAL When the Prince was making a public appearance with his mother, she would be waiting at the door to greet him.

By NABIL DEANIN

Industrial development, scientific progress and modern living standards made possible by the generation and distribution of electricity, are the subjects of the exhibition to be held in Nairobi City Hall on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. This three-day exhibition will be something of the organization of the past year's work in playing in a number of interesting standards.

SERVANT OF THE WORLD

By JOHN E. HUDSON, Secretary, East African Society of the Association of Exporting Electrical Engineers.

Scientists and engineers first made possible the use of electricity in the service of mankind. Now, for the development by manufacturers and appliances, increasing rates in bringing to the world the highest standard of life which electricity follows the availability of ample electrical power.

Indeed, the application of electricity has played a major part in the development of civilization. The great advances of the 20th century would not have been possible without electrical power, and many of the remarkable strides made in the science of electricity during the past 40 years.

MR. JOHN E. HUDSON

NEW STANDARDS

In almost all modern industrial and commercial development, electricity is a prominent feature. The introduction of electricity into the home has made possible the most remarkable strides made in the science of electricity during the past 40 years.

Indeed, the application of electricity has played a major part in the development of civilization. The great advances of the 20th century would not have been possible without electrical power, and many of the remarkable strides made in the science of electricity during the past 40 years.

BATTERY

The battery is the central element in the use of electricity in the home, and its development in the past few years has been one of the most important in the history of electrical engineering. It is the only source of electrical energy which can be stored and used at will, and its use is becoming increasingly widespread in the home, the office, and the factory.

PLUG POINTS
What about future uses of electricity? It is not only the use of electricity in the home, but also the use of electricity in the office and the factory, which is becoming increasingly widespread. The use of electricity in the office and the factory is becoming increasingly widespread, and it is expected that the use of electricity in the home will also become increasingly widespread in the future.

WIDE RANGE
Almost as essential as a refrigerator, which may not be electrically operated, although most of these are, and which is probably one of the most important pieces of domestic equipment in a country with the high summer temperatures of Kenya.

PARTICULAR HELP
Water supply is becoming an increasing problem for electricity supply in Kenya. The use of electricity in the home is becoming increasingly widespread, and it is expected that the use of electricity in the office and the factory will also become increasingly widespread in the future.

USED IN KENYA
The use of electricity in the home is becoming increasingly widespread, and it is expected that the use of electricity in the office and the factory will also become increasingly widespread in the future.

SMOOTH FINISH
The use of electricity in the home is becoming increasingly widespread, and it is expected that the use of electricity in the office and the factory will also become increasingly widespread in the future.

Learning a planning lesson from Romans - even in atomic age

IT is general knowledge that the Romans paid great attention to the ancillary services for their towns and buildings. Aqueducts for water supplies and the structure—made as an afterthought of an something just "tacked on".

ECONOMY POINT
Bathings have been provided in Roman without any electrical installation or provision for a communications system. The development of modern plumbing, electrical engineering, and other services, which were more modern products of the last few years, have been based on the electrical installation.

IMPORTS ON UPGRADE
IMPORTS of all types of electrical equipment in East Africa have risen steadily over the past few years. The figures for 1958 and 1959 are given below as an indication of this welcome trend.

Year	Imports	Exports	Total
1958	£2,342,324	£1,123,232	£3,465,556
1959	£2,582,329	£1,254,744	£3,837,073

Safety measures not be left to chance

DO NOT want to worry you, as a well-known Australian comedian once said, "I don't get killed on the way out, I get killed on the way in." I can understand the comedian's point of view but I am convinced that the vast majority of accidents are preventable.

How often have intelligent people said to me: "This is a good idea, but it's too expensive, or it's too complicated, or it's too difficult, or it's too risky." I can understand all these objections but I am convinced that the vast majority of accidents are preventable.

It is not enough that a device that kills — and we must remember that it is the responsibility of the manufacturer for the safety of the product — is not dangerous and that it is not likely to be used in a dangerous way. It is not enough that it is not dangerous and that it is not likely to be used in a dangerous way.

It is not enough that a device that kills — and we must remember that it is the responsibility of the manufacturer for the safety of the product — is not dangerous and that it is not likely to be used in a dangerous way. It is not enough that it is not dangerous and that it is not likely to be used in a dangerous way.

VARIED EFFECTS
The best test conditions are the most dangerous. It is not enough that a device that kills — and we must remember that it is the responsibility of the manufacturer for the safety of the product — is not dangerous and that it is not likely to be used in a dangerous way.

RESISTANCE DROPS
Resistance drops are a serious problem in any electrical system. It is not enough that a device that kills — and we must remember that it is the responsibility of the manufacturer for the safety of the product — is not dangerous and that it is not likely to be used in a dangerous way.

SUPERSPEED PLATE CUTS BOILING TIME
A new superspeed plate has been developed for boiling water. It is not enough that a device that kills — and we must remember that it is the responsibility of the manufacturer for the safety of the product — is not dangerous and that it is not likely to be used in a dangerous way.

NEW ERA OF MOTIVE POWER

Electricity's role in railways and harbours system

By J. G. GRANT
It might be thought that electricity has very little to offer in the way of motive power. This is not so. In fact, it is now being used in a wide variety of ways, including the propulsion of trains and the operation of cranes and hoists in harbours.

QUICKER HANDLING
There are few factories of a modern railway and harbours system where electricity does not play an important part. It is used for lighting, heating, and for the operation of cranes and hoists.

DEMAND RISES
As an example of the growth of the electrical load on a railway system, it is noted that the demand for electricity has increased steadily over the past few years. This is due to the increasing use of electric traction and the operation of cranes and hoists.

SYSTEM RECAST
Turning to the Harbours, it is noted that the electrical load on a harbour system is also increasing steadily. This is due to the increasing use of electric cranes and hoists and the operation of other machinery.

NEW ZEALANDERS TROUBLED BY POOR STATE OF CRICKET

THE New Zealand Cricket Council meets this month to discuss how the poor standard of cricket in the Dominion can be raised.

It will have before it a report of a sub-committee which investigated the playing and financing of the game. New Zealand cricket has been going rapidly downhill since the arrival last year of England's 1946 team. New Zealand lost only one match.

In the nine-year period from 1947 to 1955, only 14 Test matches have been played. There has been a number of one-day matches, but these have shown a striking fall in quality.

approach and spectators have been disappointed.

The Board's Test series in England this year suffered financially and the financial losses became very acute.

It is felt that the Board should be asked to consider the possibility of the Council bringing new teams into the competition for the Plunket Shield in the winter of 1956-57. The New Zealand arrangement more than made up for the loss in both sides and income.

But it is felt that the decision is premature. Over the past year it has been suggested that the Board should consider a radical change in the setup of the Plunket Shield and that some recommendations be made on the question of the future of the game in the winter sports time coinciding in the school.

How many teams should contact the Plunket Shield?

Tuition of many promising players neglected

Previously content to rely upon the club in training, many promising players have been neglected.

It is pointed out that the loss of the national team for the 1956-57 season is a serious blow to the game. The previous year the national team was a second division.

After a year in this position, the game would be in a state of stagnation. The previous year the national team was a second division.

'UNIAFRIC HOUSE'

It has been a long and eventful journey since 1904—over 40 years ago—when the United Africa Company (U.A.C.) first set up its headquarters in East Africa.

We are proud to announce the completion of our new Head Office Building, which will enable us to house more departments in our new premises, including Sales, Accounts and Finance. This will result in efficiency of service to customers, who are invited to visit and inspect our new showrooms.

NEW PREMISES FOR GAILEY & ROBERTS LIMITED

Opening for business Monday 1st December, 1958

MANY newcomers to East Africa may not remember up-country from Nairobi to the main railway line roughly followed the alignment of the Prince of Wales Highway and Salford Street. Parallel to the main line, a railway siding serving the produce flats along the south side of Salford Street.

In the early twenties Gailey & Roberts purchased one of these produce flats, which was built on an open area well 100 ft and 120 ft between the main line and the railway siding. The building was built on this plot one of the buildings in the country.

During the ten years prior to the War, this building was used for a bulk store for iron and other general hardware service work. The company were also in the building. After the war, however, the rapid growth of the Company necessitated the building being extended. Although the main store had not moved into a central store, the main store had not moved into a central store, the main store had not moved into a central store, the main store had not moved into a central store.

strations, accounts, technical, and forwarding offices, which were put in hand accordingly in 1950 for the completion of the extension. The extension was built on the site of the old building, which was demolished and replaced by the new building. The extension was built on the site of the old building, which was demolished and replaced by the new building. The extension was built on the site of the old building, which was demolished and replaced by the new building.

By late 1954, however, the building had been taken by the line and removed the railway siding facilities from the building. The building was then extended to the main line and removed the railway siding facilities from the building. The building was then extended to the main line and removed the railway siding facilities from the building.

The plot was covered by the new building 142 ft by 124 ft wide, giving a total area of 17,608 sq. ft. of which 1,200 sq. ft. had been previously occupied by the old building. The new building was designed by Messrs. Jackson and 1958 four upper floors. It is, however, designed so that it may be extended eventually to eight upper floors.

The United Africa Co. (Kenya) Ltd.

The United Africa Company, London, first acquired an interest in East Africa in 1923 when the African & Eastern Trade Corporation merged with the Nigero Company Limited (then controlled by Lever Brothers) to form The United Africa Company Limited.

In 1941 the U. A. C., as it was then called, acquired control of a small business and trading house operating in East Africa under the name of Bulmers & Coy Ltd., and through the merger, The United Africa Company Limited became the owners of Bulmers & Coy Ltd.

The United Africa Company's interests in East Africa are now being developed through the formation of a new department of marketing and export activities, such as hides and skins, coffee, tea and cotton. By 1948, the produce business had assumed such proportions as to warrant the creation of three separate trading companies.

(a) The United Africa Company (Kenya) Limited, which operates from Nairobi and Mombasa; (b) The United Africa Company (Uganda) Limited, which operates from Kampala and Malindi; (c) The United Africa Company (Tanganyika) Limited, which operates from Mwanza and Lindi.

The United Africa Company (Kenya) Limited, which has its head office in Nairobi, maintains advisory and other services which are available to the companies operating in Uganda and Tanganyika. Altogether, these three companies now have between 29 and 40 different kinds of produce, which can be obtained under the main headings of Coffee, Cocoa, Cotton and Hides and Skins. Amongst the other more numerous minor varieties are: Beans, Chickpeas, Cashewnuts, Kachos, and various types of Vegetable Oils and Seeds.

To ensure the most efficient use of produce purchased by the United Africa Company in East Africa was just over 50,000 tons, and its value at first cost was £2,100,000. Naturally, the marketing of so many different kinds of produce entails the recruitment of the services of a large staff of men with an intimate knowledge of the various markets.

The London marketing department deals mainly with sales in the United Kingdom, the Empire, 20 other parts of the world, including the U.S.A., Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Ceylon, and Japan. The African Companies deal direct with the exportation of Hides and Skins, and their sales of goods are made through London.

In addition to the produce marketing and export activities, the United Africa Companies are now engaged in the marketing and distribution of General Merchandise (Groceries, Stationery, Provisions, etc.), directing their attention mainly to the African market, and departments for this purpose have been opened at Nairobi and Mombasa in Kenya, and Malindi in Tanganyika. Apart from the main branches already mentioned in Kenya, Malindi and Mombasa, there has been opened at Kisumu in Kenya, and in Uganda, and it is expected that a considerable number of these main branches will be opening in the near future. The Company hopes to be able to bring its whole organization as close to the African trader as possible, it will send such traders to view the facilities in the smaller branches.

The parent Company's management is wholly British, and throughout the whole of the British, French and Belgian West African Territories, now in East Africa. All buying is centralized in London, and the advantages of this centralized operation are very real. There have been 29 persons directly engaged in the business of buying — men and women who specialize in different types of manufactured articles, and who, such in his own field, have authority to make orders in the Company's name. This work of this staff body is subdivided into five sections:

Provisions, including drinks and tobacco; Drugs and perfumery; Hardware; Textiles; and Miscellaneous Goods.

Each of these five sections is administered by a Departmental Manager who is in direct contact with the highest management, and who is responsible for all merchandise purchased in the scope of the London Office.

The buyers are supported by a staff of clerical and administrative staff in the Merchandise Department, comprising over 170 men, and active work of the staff of the United Africa Company, London, is to ensure that the East African trader is able to obtain the best possible prices for his goods, and that the United Africa Company is able to provide the best possible service to the East African trader.

One of the most important Departmental Managers is the Manager of the Provisions Department, who is responsible for the marketing of all provisions, including coffee, cocoa, cotton, and hides and skins. The Manager of the Provisions Department is a man of high ability and experience, and he is able to provide the best possible service to the East African trader.

In addition to the marketing of provisions, the United Africa Company is also engaged in the marketing of other goods, such as stationery, provisions, and hardware. The United Africa Company is a leading company in the East African market, and it is able to provide the best possible service to the East African trader.

What can you expect of the machinery?

If you select the right machinery, you can expect it to perform the most difficult job which will be assigned to it. And what is even more important, you can expect efficiency in cost per unit of work accomplished. This is the main measure of your investment: the cost of owning and operating the machine versus its production.

What can you expect of the dealer?

G. & R. know their machinery and the working conditions in East Africa. They maintain a proper inventory of spare parts and employ trained servicemen. They can help you in selecting your equipment and in maintaining it in good operating condition.

Prince goes to school — and makes history

GUY JONES examines the kind of car designed for the first decade in the life of Prince Charles. He chats with the Prince's party entourage.

THE small black saloon car drove through the gates of Buckingham Palace, circled the Queen Victoria Memorial, and set off on a Freccia at 3.50 a.m. It pulled up outside the doors of a six-story, red brick building a mile from the palace. A detective opened the door and from the back seat stepped a sturdy little boy wearing a cap, a cinnamon blazer, corduroy trousers, and carrying a book.

At 5.25, a Roebuck and excited crowd of children burst through the gates of No. 100 at an exclusive London "preparatory" school — the first time in Britain's history that the future monarch was at a school with other boys his own age.

First to welcome him was the headmaster, Mr. Henry Townsend, aged 47, and his wife.

A bold step

The eight-year-old Prince was chosen to be here by his father, who had a vision of the boy as a modern-day monarch. The Prince is a member of the House of Windsor, a branch of the British royal family.

It is all right, thank you very much. I'm glad to see you. I hope you had a good trip. I'll be with you in a few days.

His friends shook their heads doubtfully.

It's all right, thank you very much. I'm glad to see you. I hope you had a good trip. I'll be with you in a few days.

He said that he had done it with the Queen.

The Duke's school is no ordinary one. For one thing, it is a boarding school and the Prince Charles never did it. The Duke's school was a boarding school when he was a boy.

Different approach

For the school is run in the French system with a method of teaching in which children develop naturally, without the usual constraints of lessons and without corporal punishment.

Running tracks at Col. Townsend's school have at least 20 no-fencing lines. Boys are not allowed to fence.

KILLED THREE

Following up close behind him he could hear the rhythmic patter of his own rifle. Daxter was looking so fresh as they went on that he was almost surprised when his started off. He thought he had killed the old Chief, the game warden, but he was wrong. Something that he could not see could not quite catch him. The first shot had been fired, and he had been wounded. The second shot, then, had been fired, and he had been wounded. The third shot, then, had been fired, and he had been wounded.

DEEPER PRINT

Daxter turned to the young hunter. They're traveling with small game, they've probably stopped to get them a breakfast. "If you were heading straight for the water, you'd be a full minute before you found what he was looking for. You're a long way from the water, and you're a long way from the water."
