NATIONAL RESULT HIT BOOKS BADLY

First favourite to win race since 1927

THE Royal family took a holiday from State affairs on Saturday to watch the Grand National, in which Mrs. R. Brotherton's horse, chestnut gelding Frodoobee (Bred, Point-to-Point Fury) scored a very easy victory after starting joint favourite with last year's runner-up, Lord Brotherton's Rosinold.

Mosses, lately owned by the late Mrs. J. C. Edwards, finished sixth after leading for a great part of the race. The going was perfect and the race was a real test of stamina. Frodoobee was the first favourite to win the 'Swing' and finished steps ahead since 1927, when Spring was the victor.

Roimond down

Here Rosinold, battling Frodoobee and Cavendish time down. On they went, leaping much as earlier until they were well into the straight. Frodoobee was the first favourite to win the 'Swing' and finished steps ahead since 1927, when Spring was the victor.

Result in brief

Result of the Grand National:
1. Frodoobee (16-1)
2. Cavendish (10-1)
3. Spring (10-1)
4. Rosinold (10-1)
5. Mosses (10-1)
6. Lord Brotherton (10-1)

A record crowd

Went to the National and saw the best of the best. The crowd was estimated at 250,000. The race was a real test of stamina.

What they said

Master of Africa's Roads

Austin of England

Such a performance as was put up by a standard A75 "Ranger" in the recent Britain to Cape Town run proves Austin's stupendous success in conquering the difficulties of Africa's roads. This car cut over a week from the previous record of 20 days, and 24 days from the Algeria to Cape Town record. It was checked completely by us in Nairobi, and by doing so, we were able to contribute to its final success. Austin A75s are available from Nairobi.

46 years ago...

YESTER I remember perfectly. I think I must have been one of Mr. Gailley's and Mr. Roberts' first customers.

"Much water has flowed under the bridges since then, and we old fellows have seen many changes."

"Nairobi a city... well, I'm glad I have seen it happen."

"My sons don't always realize what we old men were up against in the early days. In our time, however, they have followed the old man's advice. They deal at Gailley & Roberts as if it were only a few years ago."

...and still do, for that matter."

MANCHESTER WORRIED ABOUT JAPANESE

BRITAIN'S Economic Coteson Spans American calls in Britain on the problem of Japanese competition in the Far East.
Failure to reach a satisfactory compromise, says the Manchester Guardian, may bring the trouble of the inter-war years when the world was struggling for their existence.
It also has been pointed out that a development of a new type of industrialism, well as in the case of the Japanese, will be an expansion of cheap labour, which is the cause of the present depression.

MEMBERS of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce last week discussed the problem of Japanese competition in the Far East.
The president (Mr. A. W. Henry) said the matter had been considered in the light of a letter received from the Japanese Consul in London, which had been forwarded to him by the British Chamber of Commerce.
The letter had recommended that the British Government should consider the possibility of a new type of industrialism, well as in the case of the Japanese, will be an expansion of cheap labour, which is the cause of the present depression.

The letter had recommended that the British Government should consider the possibility of a new type of industrialism, well as in the case of the Japanese, will be an expansion of cheap labour, which is the cause of the present depression.

THE South African Minister for Economic Affairs, Mr. Eric Louw, said in Cape Town that Japan would sell South Africa more than what it could pay for there and what would be left to export to other countries.
He said that the Japanese would be able to obtain more than what they could pay for there and what would be left to export to other countries.

DOLLAR-SHORT SHIPPERS DO REPAIRS IN DURBAN

A result of shipping companies who generally had their vessels refitted and overhauled in American ports, now some are likely to increase their yearly turnover by at least 250,000.
The dollar shortage is now making owners look to the South African dockyards for repair and maintenance work.

Turning to oil
British, Dutch and Norwegian vessels will pass through the basin of Durban for refueling, and the latter is expected to be incorporated in the next 12 months.
The British India Steam Navigation Co. has announced that it will be sending a ship to Durban with oil work available.

WHY YOU WILL HAVE TO PAY TO SEE THE GAME

by MERVYN H. COWIE Director of Kenya's National Parks

THE Kenya Official Gazette contains a number of new regulations...

It is a pity that in any gathering of human beings there are always a few—and these are the few who are the selfish, stupidly or thoughtlessly, or who are the spoils of the moment...

These places will allow up to 100 persons to see the game...

Landed Tonnage
Capt. Hambley gave the following figures: Landed in January, 11,623 tons; in February, 18,279 tons; in March to date, 11,922 tons. In the last two months, 20,145 tons.

This meant that half the amount of despatched tonnage to the port consisted of cement. In addition, there were 4,600 tons of cement in ships waiting to discharge and 12,500 tons of cement was expected before the end of the month. Thus the total quantity of cement in the port and expected in March was 36,648 tons.

After further discussion, Mr. Hambley said the question of whether the time had come to remove the district of Mombasa from the jurisdiction of the Union of South Africa was a matter for the Government to decide. He would like to know the Government's policy on this matter.

RECORD OF THE 'THIRD' by LT.-COL. HENDRICKS

Lieut.-Colonel Nigel Hendricks commanding the 3rd (Kenya) Battalion, The King's African Rifles commended the 22nd East African Brigade in Madagaskar and after service in Burma, French Indo-China and Malaya, returned to his present command in December 1947.

In the autumn of 1901 the troops in British Central Africa were formed into one Regiment with the title of 'The King's African Rifles'.

During this campaign the 3rd Battalion distinguished itself by its loss of space previous to the outbreak of the war.

Ten companies

By 1904, it consisted of no less than ten companies of a total strength of about 1,200 men.

WEST INDIES ARE STRONG SIDE

Former captain analyzes the talent
By G. G. GRANT

The West Indies cricket team to tour England this summer will have left home by the time this is in print, so the magazine will be considered appropriate for some comments upon what is generally regarded as the best side the West Indies has ever sent to England.

This judgment is based largely on my own experience, and the West Indies in the winter of 1913-14 and during the winter 1915-16. I have also compared the Indian formations in the winter of 1915-16 with those of the West Indies.

Personally I share this judgment. I have seen the West Indies defeated their Test opponents in 1915-16 and 1916-17. It is to be hoped that they will do even better this year, as indicated by the Australian tour in South Africa.

High hopes

While sharing the high hopes of most West Indian critics, I cannot lose sight of the fact that the reputation of the West Indies players is based on their record in their own country, their own island, and their own island.

Ages of the team

Probably when I look at the ages of the West Indies team, I shall be struck by the fact that the team is so young.

Stiff Davis Cup Test for Britain

It is a good thing that Dr. Colin Grier is going to Britain to represent the West Indies in the Davis Cup Test for Britain.

Arsenal's home attendances now top one million

LARGELY as a result of the lack of the F.A. Cup draw—four times at Highbury—Arsenal's home attendances have now topped one million.

The bowling

The bowling in the West Indies is generally of a high standard, and the team is well equipped to deal with any opposition.

Old opponents

Matron and Paul, who were once another of the Warwickshire players, are now in the hands of the West Indies.

Farmer's capital

Nairobi is also the Kenya
Nairobi's rapid growth, from almost town to the town, has led to a shortage of capital for the country and the result is a high rate of interest. In every other country, the rate of interest is lower than in Kenya. In fact, the rate of interest in Kenya is the highest in the world. This is because the country is a developing country and the government has to borrow money from abroad to finance its development. The high rate of interest is a result of the high risk involved in investing in Kenya. The government has to guarantee the loans, and this increases the risk for the lender. The high rate of interest is also a result of the high inflation rate in Kenya. The government has to print money to finance its development, and this leads to inflation. The high inflation rate increases the risk for the lender, and this leads to a high rate of interest.

This is a result of the rapid growth of the agricultural sector in Kenya. The government has been investing heavily in agriculture, and this has led to a large increase in the number of farmers. The farmers need capital to finance their operations, and the bank is the main source of capital for them. The bank has also reported a sharp increase in the demand for its deposit services. The bank has a large stock of drums, and it is working to increase its production. The drums are used for a variety of purposes, including storing water and pesticides. The high demand for drums is a result of the rapid growth of the agricultural sector in Kenya. The farmers need drums to store their produce, and the bank is the main source of drums for them. The bank has also reported that it has a large number of empty drums. This is because the farmers have a large amount of surplus produce, and they need drums to store it. The bank has a large number of branches throughout the country, and this makes it easy for the farmers to access its services.

Protecting timber by a new process

The Kenya Forest Department has developed a new process for protecting timber. This process is called "timber preservation" and it is designed to protect timber from decay and insect damage. The process involves treating the timber with a special preservative. This preservative kills the insects and prevents them from eating the timber. The process also helps to prevent the timber from decaying. The new process is a major step towards protecting the timber resources in Kenya. The forest department has been working on this project for some time, and it is now ready to start using the new process. The process will be used on all the timber that is harvested in Kenya, and this will help to ensure that the timber resources are protected for future generations.

Research

The Kenya Agricultural Bank has conducted a research project on the use of empty drums. The project was designed to determine the best way to use empty drums in the agricultural sector. The researchers found that empty drums can be used in a variety of ways, including storing water and pesticides. The researchers also found that empty drums can be used to improve the efficiency of agricultural operations. The research project was a major step towards improving the use of empty drums in the agricultural sector. The bank has a large number of empty drums, and it is working to increase their use. The bank has a large number of branches throughout the country, and this makes it easy for the farmers to access its services.

THE CITY OF NAIROBI

1900—1950

Turning point in the history of East Africa

WHEN it was first announced that His Majesty was to be petitioned to raise Nairobi to city status there was considerable excitement among the European and the African in the town—and not a few claimants for the title.

Dr. E. Boedeker, well-known medical pioneer of Kenya, in a survey of the early days of the township, written at Nairobi in the possession of the special manuscript in the possession of Mr. Bartomeus, Librarian of the Legislative Council, has written an unpublished report for the first British High Commissioner, in which he stated that the first European to live in Nairobi.

How is the relevant passage? "The Nairobi streets just beyond Alnborough Bridge were livable and considered in a sense a separate township for several miles towards the Athi plains."

The swamp afforded an ideal retreat for many an old lion with his mate and family to lie up in during the daytime after a successful night kill.

"The old caravan road crossed the stream on the north side about two miles below the bridge and led towards the camping ground of the forest belt. Curiously enough in the old days at Fort Smith the Nairobi camp was never popular as it had always been regarded as an unhealthy locality, swarming with mosquitoes."

Towards the end of 1896 the Uganda Government had established a transport depot near the safari camp. This depot was built by Sergeant Elliot, who had been put up an excellent lot of stores, buildings for accommodating stores, post-houses, a stock pen and strong bonds for the cattle and other animals.

Towards the end of 1896 the Uganda Government had established a transport depot near the safari camp. This depot was built by Sergeant Elliot, who had been put up an excellent lot of stores, buildings for accommodating stores, post-houses, a stock pen and strong bonds for the cattle and other animals.

Nairobi's growth, Dr. Boedeker claimed, must be indissolubly linked to the building of the Uganda Railway. The birth of the town towards the end of the last century was exclusively occupied by the Masai who lived in the kraal on the high ground—now known as the Hill district on the north side of Nairobi.

"These people grazed their herds of cattle over the open tract of flat land adjoining the Nairobi forest. The site of the township was a favourite spot—and during the game wars large herds of game were attracted by the fertile land and grazed alongside the cattle."

Great slaughter
A notice that shooting was very common in that locality on the morning of a very hot day. Dr. Boedeker's records of memories of the great slaughter in Nairobi, which was a military operation on his part, was a very busy pattern of shooting, and in the vicinity of Nairobi some 20,000 animals were shot during the day.

On his arrival at Fort Smith he was so impressed by the station on the river that he felt that the station was the best place to build a station, and he was completely wrong.

Control of land
He had been fully advised by the Nairobi Municipal Council, which was the authority necessary for the land, and he had included a middle note on each copy to the terminus of the railway.

There was an extraordinary amount of land, which had been immediately after the completion of the railway. It was not until the completion of the railway that the Government had been told that the station was the best place to build a station.

Most of the urban sites were still unoccupied by civilization and their owners were not interested in the development of the township. The Government, however, was determined to develop the township and to make it a city. The Government, however, was determined to develop the township and to make it a city.

No Co-operation

In fact, in a general sense, was no co-operation. The Government, however, was determined to develop the township and to make it a city. The Government, however, was determined to develop the township and to make it a city.

On the Hill, being the town, the Government, however, was determined to develop the township and to make it a city. The Government, however, was determined to develop the township and to make it a city.

Choosing a site
About the middle of 1896 Colonel Alnborough had proposed the present headquarters from Mchombo to Nairobi for the purpose of setting up an administrative centre.

Having a large area of land, the Government, however, was determined to develop the township and to make it a city. The Government, however, was determined to develop the township and to make it a city.

Railway profits
It turned out to be a profitable investment for the railway. The Government, however, was determined to develop the township and to make it a city. The Government, however, was determined to develop the township and to make it a city.

Control of land
He had been fully advised by the Nairobi Municipal Council, which was the authority necessary for the land, and he had included a middle note on each copy to the terminus of the railway.

A MESSAGE FROM THE CHARTER MAYOR

"The credit for so much which we take pride in today belongs to men and women who are no longer with us, and the honour which is being conferred on Nairobi is one which reaches to the far corners of Kenya and to the furthest outposts of East Africa. For without the courage, initiative and effort of countless men and women, many of whom are and will for ever remain unknown, there would have been no Kenya and no Nairobi."

The 1890 view of Delamere Avenue (above) contrasts almost unrecognizably with the Sixth Avenue, as it then then had, at forty years ago... On left Robinson's Hotel, the building which was the first one of the finest streets in East Africa.

COUNCIL OF FIVE BEGIN TO PLAN

Almost with the birth of Nairobi foundations were laid to prevent the town growing haphazardly, so these minutes of the 'inaugural' meeting of the town's councillors show.

The birth of local government in Nairobi dates back to April 18, 1900, when regulations, made by Her Majesty's Commissioner and Council, were published. The regulations provided for the formation of a Council of Five, which was to be known as the Nairobi Municipal Council.

Inaugural meeting
On the first two pages of a stiff-backed folder are the minutes of the inaugural meeting of the Council, held on May 28, 1900.

Pulled down
Mr. Gillman then proposed that three months be granted, not that the building should be pulled down, but that the building should be pulled down at once.

There were no building records at that time and consequently Nairobi could not trace its history back to the source to which it was due.

It was proposed by Mr. Henderson that a certain date should be set for the building to be pulled down, and that the building should be pulled down at once.

The Duke and Duchess paid their first visits to East Africa within a year of each other; she was to return many times and stay for long periods.

East Africa has many legends. The Duke accompanied the Prince of Wales to the latter part of his visit to this country in 1924, and afterwards, showed in his part of Kenya and especially in the mountain life on safari.

Kenya people always feel that the Duke and Duchess belong to the land and the Colony. They have made several visits and on all occasions fully accompanied with the life of the country. # THE BEGINNINGS OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Early reverses through bad sitting and plague were overcome by the early Council's insistence on some form of planning for the future.

NAIROBI made a bad start in its race to become the first city of the Colonial Kenya. Its recovery and the attainment of the distinction just conferred upon it reflect an unflinching struggle against odds—odds which were heavy and which have not been overcome until the city has become a modern metropolis. The early reverses and their reversal demonstrate the far-reaching influence of the early Council's insistence on some form of planning for the future.

Town planning
The laying-out of the township was a matter of some importance, and it was decided to have the plan drawn up by the late Mr. J. H. Sturges, a well-known architect and town planner.

T. A. WARD, one of Nairobi's early councillors
The first major review of the plan was made in 1912 when the late Mr. J. H. Sturges was asked to revise the plan in view of the fact that the population had increased to 11,000.

Sanitary work
The Commission worked an expenditure of £20,000 on various sanitary works in the early years of the town. It was found that the drainage system was in a state of disrepair and it was decided to have it replaced.

Representation
It was recommended that the Council should consist of 12 members—six elected by the ratepayers and six appointed by the Government. This was done in 1912.

Own Locations
In 1912 the town council decided to provide for the town's own locations. This was done by the late Mr. J. H. Sturges, who was asked to draw up a plan for the town's own locations.

THIS Regiment had its birth in Nairobi on the 5th August, 1914, after a call for mounted volunteers had resulted in the rush to ground of anyone who could handle a rifle or ride a horse, and, we would add, a mule.

One of the early difficulties when these recruits were being trained was the lack of suitable uniforms. The British Army had no uniform for the East African Mounted Rifles. When first established the Regiment consisted of six squadrons with a Machine gun section and a transport section. The first recruits were mostly to take the field with about a hundred rounds of ammunition, a few horses, and a few mules. During the campaign they were

Two many officers

The Regiment was fortunate and perhaps over-enthusiastic in its personnel for the first few months. It was so full of men that it was necessary to send many of them to other units. There were a number of officers who had been sent to other units who had been sent to other units. It was a very difficult situation for the Regiment. The Regiment was very fortunate in its personnel for the first few months. It was so full of men that it was necessary to send many of them to other units. There were a number of officers who had been sent to other units who had been sent to other units.

The individual value of the Regiment was recognized by the High Command in the fact that it was the only unit in the East African Campaign. The Regiment was very fortunate in its personnel for the first few months. It was so full of men that it was necessary to send many of them to other units. There were a number of officers who had been sent to other units who had been sent to other units.

Game hazards

In the past country of the British East African Mounted Rifles, the very varied activities the Regiment was called upon to perform. The difficulties encountered by the Regiment were of a nature that could not be described in a few words. The Regiment was very fortunate in its personnel for the first few months. It was so full of men that it was necessary to send many of them to other units. There were a number of officers who had been sent to other units who had been sent to other units.

'Fifth column'

Partners in crime was the title of a play which was written by a man who was a member of the East African Mounted Rifles. The play was a very good one and it was very popular with the audience. The Regiment was very fortunate in its personnel for the first few months. It was so full of men that it was necessary to send many of them to other units. There were a number of officers who had been sent to other units who had been sent to other units.

Poor animals

It is a pity that the animals of the East African Mounted Rifles were not better treated. The animals were very important to the Regiment and they were very well cared for. The Regiment was very fortunate in its personnel for the first few months. It was so full of men that it was necessary to send many of them to other units.
