Back to work in E. Africa, while Britain plays A STAY-AT-HOME CHRISTMAS

TOLL OF LIVES IN STORMS AND AN ON ROAD

GALES swept over Britain during the weekend, bringing a night of destruction and loss of life.

At Bournemouth a father and son were drowned when a wave swept over the landing stage at the end of the pier.

At St. Ives, Cornwall, a 70-year-old soldier was washed into the sea and drowned by a wave which struck him from the rocks.

Several accidents took heavy toll of lives. At Portsmouth, two motorists died and a third was injured. At Weymouth, a fisherman was killed and another injured in a motorboat collision in the sea.

Drunken brawls

Nottingham had the worst Christmas ever for road deaths. Four people were killed and 24 injured.

In Birmingham at least 50 people had died and 100 had been injured in accidents in the United States, according to a report from the U.S. Coast Guard.

At Portsmouth, a heavy rainstorm was followed by a hail storm which did not abate until 11 a.m.

In Cyprus, as British troops returned to their barracks for Christmas in five years, a young soldier was killed and another injured in a car accident.

Lights failed

At the Riviera district town of France, the electric power supply failed as it was during the recent flood disaster.

At Kitzbühel, in Austria, a heavy snowfall was followed by a hail storm which did not abate until 11 a.m.

Four killed in border clash

The Federal evening newspaper reports that four troops were killed in a clash between border police and 100-150 Fedayeen guerrillas who were trying to flee the West Bank to Syria.

Jordan Air Force jet fighters have been moved to the border to reinforce tanks and artillery moved there earlier.

Great scope at London talks

The Colonial Secretary, Mr. Macleod, on arriving in London after the East African visit, said the next two months would be of great importance to the East African territories.

The constitutional conference on Kenya which will take place next month was a main reason for visiting London.

At the conference, Mr. Macleod said that what will emerge will depend on the views of those sitting around the table.

Plane delayed

The Minister arrived at London on Christmas Eve, but had been away from Britain for 24 hours in Malia on his way to Kenya, Tanzania and Tanganyika.

Giving his path impressions of East Africa, he said that the most striking thing that struck him was that it was important to remember to the basic

Peace theme of Queen's message

PEOPLE in East Africa return to work this morning while Queen Elizabeth II returns to Britain to celebrate her additional day of the Christmas holidays. Saturday was observed as Boxing Day in East Africa, but in Britain, with the five-day working week, today is Boxing Day, with a nationwide programme of football matches.

For the majority in the East African territories it was a quiet, stay-at-home holiday, with emphasis on small family gatherings.

Churches were filled for Christmas services. Weather generally was fine and in Kenya rain was confined to limited showers in the Southern Coastal Provinces.

Peace and good will

East Africa heard several broadcasts of the Queen's recorded Christmas Day speech, in which she assured the people of the Commonwealth of her "constant interest and affection". It was her shortest Christmas Day message.

The Queen, who is expected her third child early in the New Year, spoke only 126 words in the traditional broadcast heard all over the world. The message was recorded some days previously at Buckingham Palace. She and other members of the Royal family attended morning services at Westminster Abbey.

U.N. CHIEF IN TALKS WITH DR. NKURUMAH

THE United Nations Secretary-General, Mr. Hammarskjöld, has arrived in Accra from Conakry for a weekend visit in the course of his African tour.

He was met at the airport by Mr. K. A. Ofori-Atta, Foreign Minister, and other Cabinet Ministers and members of the Diplomatic Corps.

Mr. Hammarskjöld later lunched with Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe, President of Nigeria, and other African leaders at Accra from a week's holiday for the year.

Mr. Hammarskjöld spent the afternoon with the late President Nnamdi Azikiwe and other ministers, and was accompanied by the late President's widow, Mrs. Azikiwe, and other members of her family.

No diplomats

The New York Times said that the African visit of the Secretary-General "lives in the memory of Africans" and is "one of the most important events in the world of late years".

The newspaper said that in Conakry, Guinea, the late President Nnamdi Azikiwe, who was the first African to visit the United States, was the only African to be present at the time of the Secretary-General's visit.

There were no serious objections to the Secretary-General's visit to the West Indies, but the Secretary-General's visit to the West Indies was reported yesterday.

HIGH winds and heavy rain failed to help the crowd at the British League Day soccer matches. It was a day of shocks with several lowly placed teams giving their supporters a tonic for the holiday season. Two matches—Colchester United v. West Ham and Luton v. Ipswich—were the only Division I matches between West Ham and Ipswich were abandoned in the 10th and 15th minutes respectively.

In the Division III Bournemouth-Dorset Town match the referee allowed the players to leave the field for three minutes to shelter during a heavy down-pour. In the Division II Plymouth Argyle-Colchester City match the referee had to hold the ball while free kicks were taken because of the heavy gusts.

Luton Town, bottom-placed team in Division I, sprang the biggest surprise, giving one-mighty Arsenal a 2-0 hiding on the Gunners' own ground. Their manager, Tony Gregory, scored twice and inside-forward Bob Tomlin, recalled to the first team after a spell on the bench, scored the other goal.

Opened two-point gap. Luton leaders Tottenham Hotspur opened up a two-point gap at the top of the table with a 4-2 away win over Leeds.

SCOTLAND FIND PLACE KICKER

SCOTLAND appears to have solved the problem of finding a reliable goal-kicker for the season's Rugby Union international on the wing. Their left-wing choice, C. Elliott, kicked three conversions, as well as seven tries for Scotland against the Rest in the final trial at Murrayfield on Saturday.

Scotland looked much better under Elliott's boot than they have in previous international games. The weekend R.U. and R.L. results were:

Rest 14, Scotland 14. Goals by Elliott (3), and tries by Elliott (7).

Rest 14, Scotland 14. Goals by Elliott (3), and tries by Elliott (7).

LATEST CRIMES COMMITTED IN BEAUTY'S NAME

THE young women of Japan are flocking to beauty salons for turning slow-eyed black-haired daughters into blue-eyed beauties. More and more are taking the full treatment—bleaching or being their hair red and undergoing surgery to widen their eyes. Their skins and even noses are being changed.

WHEN I see a photograph of extreme fashion, my concern retreats, unless I believe it is a display of the worst sort of taste. I have seen more than one woman who has had her nose widened and her eyes enlarged.

PROMOTING E.A. INDUSTRIES

ONCE again the executive committee of the Association for the Promotion of Industries in East Africa has drawn attention to the variety of markets that are open to the manufacturer...

There is perhaps a tendency to imagine that the rest of the continent is a barren and empty land... It is not so.

It is a misconception, for instance, to think that Mr. M'Carthy, an ex-Kenya trade representative, who was appointed as Kenya trade representative to the Central African States...

Avoiding duplication of effort

It is time to stop the duplication of effort and to get into the stream which is the only one worth swimming in. To do this the Commission will plan to coordinate a study of the Commission's work...

The Commission hopes that the study will be a useful and constructive one, and that it will be possible to make in some areas a saving of effort...

It is not surprising that the study will be a useful and constructive one, and that it will be possible to make in some areas a saving of effort...

There is another point to which the committee rightly drew attention, and which is equally important. It concerns the question of standards and quality of goods manufactured in East Africa...

It is not surprising that the study will be a useful and constructive one, and that it will be possible to make in some areas a saving of effort...

NURSES MARK

THE HISTORY OF NURSING

THE history of nursing is a story of the evolution of a profession. It is a story of the women who have dedicated their lives to the care of the sick and the suffering. From the early days of the ancient world to the modern era, nurses have played a vital role in the development of medicine and the improvement of human health.

In the past, nursing was often seen as a menial task, but over time it has become a respected and essential profession. Today, nurses are highly trained professionals who work in a variety of settings, from hospitals to long-term care facilities. They provide a wide range of services, from basic patient care to complex medical interventions.

McINLYN FOR WOMEN

people give their grateful thanks for the services of the National Medical Society. This was started some years ago by the late Queen Victoria, whose faithful nursing was commended by awarding her the Order of the British Empire.

Since Queen Victoria's death the service has been carried on by the three women who operate privately their own business, most of whom are now in their 80s.

A district nurse attends a mother who has just returned home with her recently born baby.

A nurse from Kenyan also who completed her training, gives an injection to an elderly patient.

Work increasing in value yearly

Her views are shared by the general public. In an opinion poll, 75 per cent of those asked for nurses, and 80 per cent for doctors, to be paid more than they are now. The poll was conducted by the National Health Service Commissioning Committee.

The poll was conducted by the National Health Service Commissioning Committee. It was one of the most comprehensive surveys of public opinion on the subject of health care in the country.

QUEEN'S GIFT

He presented Mr. Robinson to her in 1908 when she was 100 years old. The gift was a diamond necklace, which she wore until her death in 1917. The necklace was made of diamonds and pearls, and was valued at £10,000.

The Queen's Gift was a symbol of the monarch's affection for the nurse. It was a recognition of her long and dedicated service to the country.

FIRST POST

Practical and theoretical work are closely integrated. The student spends a month in a district nursing school, where they learn the practical aspects of the profession. They then spend another month in a hospital, where they learn the theoretical aspects of the profession.

The first post is a period of training for new nurses. It is a time when they learn the basics of the profession and gain experience in a variety of settings.

GREATER NEED

In Britain, meanwhile, the value of the district nurse is being recognized. The government has announced a plan to increase the number of district nurses and to improve their pay and conditions of work.

The greater need for district nurses is due to the increasing number of elderly people in the population. Many of these people have chronic conditions that require ongoing care, which is often provided by district nurses.

THE BEAUTIFULLY BUILT TAUNUS

In Germany they call a 'Vorfröndliche'... the lover of motorists! Throughout the Continent, the Taunus is known for its workhorse 'fröh'... the way it sits foursquare and solid on the road under the eager, surging power of that short-stroke German-built engine.

The Taunus has already shown the world what it's made of. For months now, the experts have been testing the Taunus in East Africa — jealously trying to break its spirit. Their verdict is that, in its class and at its price, the Taunus is the finest

Minister hopeful after visit to Kenya

The Colonial Secretary's visit to Kenya has made him more hopeful of a settlement of the Colony's constitutional problems.

Speaking in a BBC interview in London, Mr. Macleod said he had gone to Kenya thinking the situation would be hard.

In the event, he said, he was more hopeful than he was in London. He said he had had a long talk with the various political parties.

He said the difference in Kenya was a measure of agreement. Mr. Macleod said.

Problems urgent

Kenya could not proceed because of the non-African members there were more urgent than in any other territory for which it was responsible.

The Colonial Secretary, Mr. Colin Legum, of the Overseas Office, said.

Asked about the constitutional crisis, Mr. Legum said he had had a long talk with the various political parties.

The report (compiled by Mr. Legum) was published in the Overseas Office.

Overall picture

"One of the great difficulties is to find a way of settling the constitutional crisis. Mr. Macleod said. He thought it was a matter of time to tackle the overall picture.

He did not want to connect the failure of the British Government to do this with the fact that the British Government had been in power for so long.

The constitutional changes recently announced for Kenya had been based on the views of the British Government. Mr. Macleod said he had made it clear that he was in favour of their views — so far as instances of their views on the franchise.

Wine buys by China concern market

CHINA has thrown the C. C. C. market into confusion by placing orders for 100,000 punnet cases worth £250,000, according to reports from the Indochina Chamber of Commerce. This was the first time since the war that such a large order had been placed in the market.

Although the order has been placed on the wine market, it is believed that China would not be able to pay for the wine in the near future in view of the unstable relations with India, and that it is likely to be a maximum 'chance-capital' at present remaining in India.

Bonfires and parties to greet 1960

E. AFRICA READY TO CELEBRATE START OF DECADE

EAST AFRICA will greet the New Year — and the dawn of another decade — with village bonfires and champagne parties in clubs and hotels.

Many farmers have arranged meat suppers for their employees — with sheep roasts over open fires — but for most people 1960 will be welcomed more joyfully than the dance floor. Several hotels yesterday said the New Year's Eve dinner-dances were already fully booked and that a surplus of shoppers looking and traders were on Saturday.

'SKELETON' STAFFS AT WORK

Although many firms will be operating on only skeleton staff on Saturday morning, the banks and shops will be open to allow waiters and buskers and their weekend supplies. In Nairobi, the City Council Market in Stewart Street will be open from 8 a.m. to get ready for New Year's Day and from 7.30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Producers of meat to get second payment

BECAUSE of continued satisfactory trading in the Meat Commission during the second half of 1959, the Government has authorized the Agriculture Minister to make deferred payments to producers.

PRISON ARGOT AND COCKNEY SLANG

BY MICHAEL ROE

Once there was a puny peer who was allowed out of his tower by the walls (or so he thought) and he should have been feeling better than he had been at a load of snoot from a barn, and even his bird stepped coming the old lady's back.

WHAT Lewis Brad set out to establish in "Argot and Cockney Slang" is that the period he covers was the golden age of Cockney slang.

First-hand testimony to this is given by Frank Norman in his book "Norman in the Argot".

Norman is a potentially dangerous man.

The author obviously and naturally writes in a very readable style.

PRISON ARGOT AND COCKNEY SLANG

BY MICHAEL ROE

Once there was a puny peer who was allowed out of his tower by the walls (or so he thought) and he should have been feeling better than he had been at a load of snoot from a barn, and even his bird stepped coming the old lady's back.

WHAT Lewis Brad set out to establish in "Argot and Cockney Slang" is that the period he covers was the golden age of Cockney slang.

First-hand testimony to this is given by Frank Norman in his book "Norman in the Argot".

Norman is a potentially dangerous man.

The author obviously and naturally writes in a very readable style.

Polished air

Several of the stories are well known. There was, for example, the case of the boy who claimed his arm was made of tin.

Mr. Reed writes with an ease and manner that makes his book a pleasure to read.

World migration

It is a symptom of the times that the world is becoming more and more of a village.

WEEK-END STANDARD DISCOVERING KENYA'S MUSICAL HERITAGE AND FUTURE PLANS

SOME of the richest treasures of Africa are its musical ones and this heritage includes the musical instruments of which there are many to be found in the various parts of Kenya. Little is known of these instruments, however, outside the immediate area where they are in use, and a step was taken this year to remedy this state of affairs.

Recently, as Colony Music and Drama Officer I sent out an invitation to every part of the country asking the traditional instrumentalists to come to James School, Lower Kabete, so that a careful study might be made of their instruments.

It has often been claimed that the most musical part of the country is Nyanza Province and this was borne out as the response to the invitation. All the resident members of the course came from Nyanza.

In Ngoni Nyanza particularly there was great enthusiasm, and when news was heard that this course was to be held, the secretary of the African District Council immediately organised a local festival of traditional instruments and the occasion proved a great success, no less than 50 instrumentalists taking part.

RESCUE CRAFT

The traditional professional status of these musicians gave rise to certain practices. Normally, they earn their living by their art but it was not possible to pay less than five shillings to those who were in James School and this was made clear in the original invitation.

Those who attended the course however, fully understood that the whole purpose of the work to be done was to rescue their craft from the danger of being lost without trace, and they co-operated fully everything that was done.

Comprehensive notes were made on the construction of the instruments and were taken and a sheet music form in colour was made.

The Kenya Broadcasting Service made recordings and the instrumentalists were given the opportunity to make their own records. This type of stringing naturally would be inadequate for the high tension required to produce a high note. There were three or four different types of stringing used for tuning the instrument.

These are of two kinds. On some instruments the end of the string is wound round the frame to form a little knob and it is this which holds the string in the desired position.

GRAHAM HYSLOP

Kenya's Music and Drama Officer, invited African instrumentalists to James School to discover more facts about the musical traditions of the Colony. In this article he reports on his findings.

BETWEEN TOES

The string is 16 or 17 inches across and the overall length of the string is just over 2 feet 4 inches. The tuning of this instrument is in the same manner as that of a conventional musical instrument.

On it is written the letters do not follow the proper alphabetical order, but they are placed in it in the most convenient position to form words.

The strings of this string are also tuned, but the notes are in the most suitable position to make melodies.

The right strings seem to be divided rather into two parts. (See example "A" Page 18.) It will be seen that the octave comes in the middle.

A traditional instrument is known with this string. This is the stick which is part of the group of percussion instruments of which it will be mentioned later.

When played the string is struck along the side, the right-hand part of the frame lying along the ground. However, the left hand is held in the air and the stick is used to strike the string on the frame of the drum, producing the main sound of the music.

The sound and square drum on the right come from the country area in Nyanza Province.

LIKE TYPEWRITER

Another method used is a peg similar to that found on a modern violin.

All the instruments make fascinating study. That shown on the left in the striped group is the stringing from Kisumu, South Nyanza.

The remaining drum is in fact made from a horn covered with raw hide and decorated to suit the fancy of the man who made it. In this case "James" Bonyea, the poverty-warrior.

Traditionally the bowl of the drum is made of wood, but the metal actually does not in the case of this instrument.

Better sounds come from traditional drums

Africa is no exception in this respect. In Kenya it would appear that drums are not however simply as drums but very often they have particular names.

SHARE DRUM

In the percussion group shown here the tall drum from Buganda country in Nyanza Province is known as a share drum, for example, and the two smaller drums with which it is played are known as share drums.

The sound and square drum on the right come from the country area in Nyanza Province.

When played the share drum, one of them playing with his hands on the larger drum, the other being drumsticks on the other.

The two drums are of the same construction. The larger drum is made from a drum with the top and bottom removed and covered with hide. The round drum was made from a basket, with the bottom knocked out.

Originally, these were made of clay, but in the time of the modern version cannot be as hollow as the original.

The temptation to use a modern-made drum was obviously too strong. It did away with the letters of carving and a wooden one, but naturally it would be much better to follow the traditional way.

Thousands saved on new Custom House

SPECIALLY DESIGNED

Mombasa, to ensure the most is made of land and sea breezes, has saved thousands of pounds in considerable savings. The architects have so planned the four-story building that there will always be a breeze, through breeze in the grille windows to protect the building from the sun. The general machine-room will be lined with acoustic tiles and machinery will be enclosed in sound-proofed enclosures. Suspended ceilings of sound absorbent tiles will be used in corridors, pierced with ventilating louvres. The system of conversation between officials will be public.

Ahead of schedule

It has been said that the building is not only through in advance of the schedule, but because it is being built in a time when building is being falling. The cost of the building in 1957 was £200,000 but in 1958 it was £150,000. The new building will be adequate to meet the needs of the next ten years. Completed this year, the building will be the most advanced of its kind in the world. It is being built in a time when building is being falling. The cost of the building in 1957 was £200,000 but in 1958 it was £150,000.

MAY HITS CENTURY FOR ENGLAND

Australian reply with 96 for one wicket

By JOHNNY WARDLE

ENGLAND'S batsmen were faced with an uphill battle to make up for the batting failures of the first day. The wicket looks well perfect, and even Donald with his impressive record has been steadily on the fast bowlers.

What was a day that began with a rain delay, turned into a night when May hit his century. The English batsmen were 96 for one wicket at the close of play.

May's century was a magnificent feat, especially as he was the only batsman to score 100 in a Test match at the M.C.C. Ground, Sydney. He scored 100 in 115 minutes, with 12 fours and 2 sixes.

Donald, who was the only other batsman to reach 50, scored 54 in 110 minutes, with 6 fours and 1 six. The Australian bowlers were led by Trueman, who took 4 wickets for 64 runs.

THIS and I suspect that it is proposed to refer to the same in the proposals for reducing the number of days when the Editor of the paper is to be present in the office on January 2. When read in Malindi's column above, it is clear that the Editor's presence was not needed to know whether or not the proposals were to be accepted and how the Editor will be able to digest the amazing news that the proposals are to be accepted. It is not surprising that if the stock had been received, it would have been a great success.

PROPOSAL TO GOVERN AN FOR KENYA

THE year 1961 this plan of mine will be published three months after the first time the writer has developed. It was written as a result of the Commission on racial segregation and mixed marriages. I was surprised at the number of people of all races who have taken an interest in political matters. The Commission of Legislative Council has been set up to study the proposals and to report to the Government. I am glad to know that you do not want to see a multi-racial school system in Kenya.

GREENDALE PARK

located only 15 miles from Pietermaritzburg and elegant hotels. Here, you will find practically every year-round leisure facility you can think of... golf, fishing, rough shooting, polo, tennis, cricket and bowls, to mention only a few.

GREENDALE PARK is on gently sloping country, fronting onto Highway on one side, and the National Johannesburg-Durban striking and varied scenery, and on some 3,500 feet above sea level, the climate is pleasantly warm in summer and refreshingly brisk in winter. The soil is really excellent, apples and all types citrus trees flourish, and this, together with the climate, makes Greendale Park a most favourable parallel as the spot in which to indulge yourself in model miniature farming or landscape gardening.

GREENDALE PARK is already fully developed, wide hard, electrically both laid and there are no rates to pay. The sizes of the estates vary from about 5 to 25 acres, priced from £420,000. The terms of payment are from £42,000 and £4,400 a month. There is no obligation to build within a given time.

Greendale Park is a proclaimed Estate, you can take transfer and commence building immediately.

We have only about 10 of these delightful Country Estates available... Ault's representative in East Africa will be pleased to supply you with all details of this or any other Estate in South Africa.

WHEN Sir Kenneth Barron died a year ago, it was a fitting epitaph and one that would have pleased him for though he did not write the history of the theatre that the young man did not want to accept, training for the young actor and actress.

REVIEW
entirely the advertisement, Bookman Tree, founded a school of acting at his own theatre in London.

In his biography was mentioned and when, at the age of 12, Kenneth Barron was asked to take over his management and to run the school of acting, which was then in his hands.

Hand in pocket
The other time he had to go out before his always long nose was his hand in pocket or the Louis Straker who was to put his hand in his pocket.

But even the excellent Shaw was downcast when he stood with his knees among the theatre ruins in 1941. All that was left standing his shoulders and walking away.

Four clients
As a youth he went to Paris where he saw the Eiffel Tower when he saw the Eiffel Tower where he saw the Eiffel Tower when he saw the Eiffel Tower.

In 1914, he was in Paris, where he saw the Eiffel Tower when he saw the Eiffel Tower where he saw the Eiffel Tower.

NOT TO BE TAKEN AT MEAL TIME
Rumour must indeed be contradicted if Professor Stone by the author gives an accurate picture of a girl's previous through talking from profane to start nurse, it is a cut to understand why anyone ever takes up this genre of profession.

Miss Tregor does not spare her readers and only the strongest stomach can swallow such tough meat she offers. I found it very accurate, enlightening and satisfying where one has before searched to learn about it.

Varying voices
He writes: "There is no such thing as a free lunch and a school which is not a very good one." The varying voices of many of the authors are today, even the account of imposing units, led in that, the school does not exist, though it does fall in general, there are many, rather than because the poems are dramatically.

One supports the general view in relation to the 'nationalist' idea of a place at the moment, the annual medals of the school's was the first, 1957 serves to show how little validity there is to it.

ADVENTURE IN THE TROPICAL KITCHEN
By JEAN VAUGHAN
If you regard cooking as a hobby rather than a tiresome chore, Rosamund Gough's rookery book, 'Adventure in the Tropical Kitchen', is an excellent addition to your collection. Mrs. Gough's 'A Month in a Mango' is remembered the care it took to the precision.

Experiments urged
That she is still afraid to experiment cooking when she came out to a tangy-haiku form, and she is to take charge of the kitchen. Her book is the result of about 15 years' experience of cooking in East Africa — on an electric cooker, charcoal stove and open hearth.

Rock artists
It gives an amazing amount of information on the subject of rock art, which is a hand-come history and the Old Stone Age. The book is written by a geologist and a rock artist of the world.

Visitors to East Africa's prehistoric sites, particularly Olduvai, cannot wonder at the advance of Man. Few realize, however, that our present-day Man's existence has been of negligible duration.

Historical detail
Miss Meyer is still accurate in her facts with a special regard to the historical and historical detail, and the historical detail, and the historical detail.

WEEK-END STANDARD COPPER ORE MINED AT KILEMBE NEARING MILLION-TON MARK

NEARLY a million tons of ore have been mined at Kilembe—the copper mining project in Toro District—since production started about two years ago. This has yielded about 18,000 tons of copper, which, despite the present unfavourable world prices, has found for Uganda a much-needed new source of revenue.

Kilembe is an £8,000,000 concern in which the Uganda Development Corporation is vitally interested. The corporation's charter requires that wherever possible it should work in partnership with private enterprise. Kilembe is one of the best examples to be found in Uganda today of that partnership. The main partner is a world-famous Canadian mining organisation, The Colonial Development Corporation has also participated in the venture materially.

But Kilembe is more than a business partnership to the world's buried in the mountains. It constitutes a racial partnership where Australians and Dutchmen, New Zealanders and Canadians rub shoulders with the Ugandans and the Kilembese. Jointly, they are mining and processing the copper which has been known for years to exist in the Ruwenzori but which had not been brought into production until 1954 because of its isolated location.

The building of a railway to Kanese, eight miles from Government, changed the whole picture. Now, on any "train day", the trucks roll eastwards to Kampala and Jinja bearing the fruits of a busy, busy industry.

Kilembe has its problems. The building of the railway to Kanese, eight miles from Government, changed the whole picture. Now, on any "train day", the trucks roll eastwards to Kampala and Jinja bearing the fruits of a busy, busy industry.

This, on the average, represents five tons a man for each eight-hour shift. It is an output recorded on a very good by mining standards elsewhere in Africa.

Kilembe has its problems. The building of the railway to Kanese, eight miles from Government, changed the whole picture. Now, on any "train day", the trucks roll eastwards to Kampala and Jinja bearing the fruits of a busy, busy industry.

GOOD PROSPECTS
The mine's African personnel officer, Mr. J. E. Vernon, considers that the average period of service was spent on training men. It was mostly of African origin but before they could even become members of the staff.

The community is in the early stages and about 200 of the entire valley from the mine's headquarters in an effort to establish the labour colony.

HIGH OUTPUT
In the mine-venture themselves, the men work a two-shift day, six days a week. Working in 23 shifts of "trucks" which have been cut and blasted from the solid rock in the mountains of the Ruwenzori, in jagged gashes cut by the millstones of copper ore, soil and sandstone rock, an "array" of 720 men, 1,500 tons at one rich day.

HOPE FOR BALD MEN

O.C. asks about direction of jury ODD BIRD APPEAL HEARING

A SMALL gray and black bird, common in East Africa, is the subject of a study by a group of scientists in the hope of finding a cure for baldness in men.

One of the grounds on which Oreste Sarnat Hawkins, a company secretary and director, is appealing against a conviction of 18 months' imprisonment for the jury by the judge, Mr. Justice Eady, is that the jury was not a "lawfully constituted" jury.

TRAINING FOR BOYS IN ARMY

Aims of new unit outlined by G.O.C.

East Africa is playing its part in containing the "Red" menace. The British Army has a long standing in the British Empire and has been successful in many of its operations. The new unit is being trained to carry out the duties of a soldier and a citizen.

Good for nation

Outfitting the various military units in East Africa is a task which is being carried out by the Government. The results were achieved in a very short time and are a credit to the nation.

GAT DIESEL TRACTORS

STAY ON THE JOB LONGER

The reason is the action of the oil clutch. In larger crawler tractors, the best lubrication resulting from frequent use of the finished clutch can result in long life for the engine and drive mechanisms. To use the clutch in these delays and adjustments, the oil clutch is provided as standard equipment on D8, D7, D6 and D5 tractors.

The oil clutch is attached to the engine flywheel and is contained in an oil-tight, dust-proof housing. A gear-type pump draws the oil through a strainer and impeller through the clutch mechanism. The clutch discs are coated and protected by a constant stream of lubricant. So effective is the lubrication that few clutches adjustments and disc replacements are needed.

You can expect that clutch repairs will not be required before the engine overhauls. And, the Caterpillar Diesel Engine is famous for its ability to operate for a long time before requiring an overhaul.

Visit our show room and see the many features, from engine to tracks, that keep Caterpillar Diesel Tractors on the job longer!
