CONCERN OVER PRE-ELECTION MEASURES IN SOMALIA

Attempts to silence opposition alleged

KENYA DISCUSSIONS

There is no firm news of the whereabouts of a number of the leaders of the main opposition parties, the Independent Constitutional Party and the Greater Somalia League, but the Somali Government is accused of having had them "posted" to remote parts of the territory—away from the centre of political intrigue in the capital, Mogadishu.

The Somali Legislative Assembly, in which the Somali Youth League holds the majority of seats, has approved new measures which opposition groups claim are designed to "rig" the all-important elections in March.

End of Italian control

The elections in March will decide the pattern and composition of the all-Somali Constituent Assembly, which will take over the complete control of the territory when the United Nations trusteeship, with Italy as the administering authority, comes to an end in December next year.

THIRD TEST DRAWN

Cowdrey century

The British Commonwealth Test against Australia at Johannesburg is a draw which means that England still has a slim chance of retaining the Ashes. It is so on 11 runs in the second test and so far the visitors 110 not out and 691 took their fourth century in the 149th match. England led by 40 runs with eight wickets remaining.

WEEK END BOOKS IN BOXES TAKE KNOWLEDGE TO CORNERS OF AFRICA

Story: John Batten

TO remote areas of East Africa where bookshops are unknown, "book-boxes"—ready-made libraries which can go by rail, by air, by African population and taking their knowledge and entertainment to the Literature Bureau, the book-boxes fan out over Kenya, Tanganyika, and a multitude of subjects, and are so popular that there is a waiting list in every territory.

A year ago, when the scheme was seven years old, there were 100 book-box libraries serving the three territories and Zanzibar, and about 40,000 books were available from Literature Bureau branches in Nairobi, Dar es Salaam and Zanzibar to nearly 100,000 members. Recorded loans totalled more than 120,000.

Readers include Mau Mau prisoners, intermediate and secondary school children in Africa, and Africans living in scattered locations. The Bureau's branches where the book-boxes are working at top speed to supply the demands of their readers. Africans applying for be changed as more frequent intervals if necessary. In practice, a group soon sorts out the books it does not want and sends them back to the Bureau, with requests for substitute volumes, generally leaving the choice to the librarians. Shareholders who are unable to get all their books call in themselves and make their choices from the well-stocked shelves.

QUARTER FICTION

Almost the whole field of knowledge is covered by the books—three-quarters of the books are of an instructional nature and the others are fiction. Subjects range from general knowledge, religious, social studies, English grammar, pure and applied arts, fine art, literature, history, geography and biography. In almost every book there is an encyclopaedia, as there are in general demand. PERFORMANCE BEYOND COMPARE!

B-250 LEADS-work-test it on YOUR farm

At your next test on the B-250 you'll be the master of two plus-performance features.

At your heel is the pedal of the HYDRA-TRAC axle which positively stops time-wasting tire-scrubbing, ball-wearing wheel spins. It enables the B-250 to keep going in soft and slippery conditions — to outwork more powerful tractors.

And at your toe are the pedals of the SELF-NORMALIZING RIG which not only offer longer life in terms of lining wear, but have a really positive action. They give you greater driving confidence when you're tackling heavy work loads on steep gradients. The B-250 is the only popular-sized British tractor with these two advanced features plus truly live hydraulics, reversible three-point linkage, built-in weight transfer — the up-to-date minute features you want.

LAST LETTER BRINGS SURPRISE FOR HANID

By MAX TRELL

THE Postman blew his whistle. Hand, the Shadow Girl with the Turned-About Name, went out to see if he had a letter for her. The Postman had a letter, he was holding it in his hand. "Good morning, my dear," the Postman said. "Good morning, Mr. Postman," replied Hand. "Is that letter for me?" "I don't think so," the Postman answered, adding, "Is your name Miss Eagle?" "No," said Hand. "It isn't, but she lives on top of a house."

The Postman reached into his sack and took out another letter. He looked at it. "Is that letter for me?" Hand asked. "I don't think so," said the Postman. "Is your name Miss Pink?"

More names
 "Miss Pink lives at the bottom of the pond," said Hand. "That letter is not for me."
 The Postman put the letter back in the sack and pulled out a whole handful of letters. "Perhaps," he said, "one of these letters is for you?"

"Is that a letter for me?" Hand asked. "Yes," replied Hand. "She lives in the tree."
 "Miss Sparrow?" "No," replied Hand. "She lives in the barnyard."
 "Miss Mole?" "No," said Hand. "She lives under the tree."

Bottom of sack
 The Postman sighed and put all the letters back in his sack. Finally he reached way up in his bottom and pulled out another letter. "Here's one for Hand," he said. "That's for me!" shouted Hand in delight. She looked at it quickly. "It's a letter from a friend of mine who lives on the other side of the bridge. She's going to give a party. My name is Miss Tree."

Lots coming
 "That's a lovely name," said the Postman. "And look what she says at the end of her message!" exclaimed Hand. "What does she say?" asked the Postman. "She says that a lot of other folks are coming," Hand replied. "It's exciting," Hand added. "Who are they?" Postman asked. Hand read the names:

KENYA MAN TOLD OF COMING VISIT BY U.S. CABDRIVER
UNFORTUNATELY, I have not the space to record many of the highly amusing reminiscences of my visit to the U.S. as related to me this week by Mr. J. Martin, Director of the East Africa Statistical Department. He travelled on a Carnegie grant and, with his wife, Ellen, left Kenya on June 23, spending two months in Britain and China September 13 until December 20 was journeying throughout America.
 Mr. Martin was studying the economic growth and development of the United States in connection with the important work of the East African Statistical Department. He was accompanied by his wife, Ellen, and his two children, a son and a daughter. They were accompanied by a driver, Mr. J. Martin, who was a member of the East African Statistical Department. Another book
 To gather material for another book, East Africa, Mrs. Elizabeth Martin arrived in Kenya last week and plans to stay for two months.
 Investigations will take her to the Nyamira, Central, Southern and East Valley provinces, and in each she will study recent changes in African farming methods, land reclamation and other developments.

THEATRE ROYAL
As one might expect, Strom is a pretty deep sight of heavy, but well-acted, resourceful direction and outstanding camerawork and a slick job. The stage actors are terrifically good, while the movie-magical jargon will foul out the spectators.

SHAN
Fine comedy touches emphasize the silver-rod qualities of The Vanishing Frontier, a British thriller written by the creator of Paul Temple, Francis Dreyfus.

The story concerns a young woman, Shan, who is a British thriller written by the creator of Paul Temple, Francis Dreyfus.

Playwright with Midas touch
Lashley spent only four months writing Keyhole in the Wall.

Keyhole in the Wall is a comedy about a maid with an American who recently staged in Nairobi. It was her first attempt at comedy and she did not expect it to be a great success.

Miss Storm, a slim, icy woman in her mid-thirties, is a playwright with the Midnight touch.

She received £40,000 a few years ago for the American film rights of Black Christ.

She has no intention of leaving the employ, writing plays and screenplays.

MAKING FRIENDS WITH SUNSHINE
through Pilkington's Heat-Absorbing Glass

We cannot all spend our time basking in the sun, swimming and sunbathing. Unfortunately for many of us there is no alternative to being indoors, coping with daily worries, and carrying the heat and glare of the sun for making life unbearable. So we close shades and draw blinds... but not all the natural light and inspiration ourselves in a world that is blacker and more oppressive than ever. How much better is it to Pilkington's heat-absorbing glass - "ANTIRAY" and "GLAZEX". Both have their specific applications, but the greatest effect is the same - to filter the heat and glare.

For further information on "ANTIRAY", "ANTIRAY" or other Pilkington products, please write to the Glass Division, Pilkington & Co. (UK) Ltd., 270, West Hill, London, W.14.

The changing shape of Mrs. Average

If you have been buying a size 16 dressmaking pattern for years you may have noticed that these days a size 14 is right for you — although you have lost no weight at all.

Most of the major pattern companies recently altered their sizes — so that a 14 inch bust becomes a size 14 instead of 16, and 16 inch pattern size 18 instead of 16 and so on.

The change, which originated in the U.S., was intended to bring into line with those used in the American garment industry.

It was not only the size which was altered — the scale of measurements in each size was revised.

Time was when 34-35½ was considered a "standard" set of measurements, and most of the women who have patterned had those days have been gain for 20 years. Today every woman wears for an average of the ideal 34-35½.

The Hollywood influence decides that the bustline is higher, the waist and hips proportionately smaller.

STRANGE SURVIVAL

At that time Sheffield had a team of about 1500 men, many of whom were from the surrounding districts. The club was one of the largest in the world at that time. It was a great success story, and the club was a source of pride for the city.

JACKIE BOWELL

Jackie Bowell was a prominent cricketer who played for the Sheffield club. He was a right-handed batsman and a fast bowler. He was a member of the England national team and played in several international matches.

POSTWAR TROUBLES

The club had a long history of success, but it was not immune to the problems of the post-war period. The club's finances were in a state of disrepair, and the club was facing a crisis of confidence. The club's management was struggling to keep the club afloat, and the club's future was uncertain.

JIMMY BIRD

Jimmy Bird was a cricketer who played for the Sheffield club. He was a right-handed batsman and a fast bowler. He was a member of the England national team and played in several international matches.

LEG AMPUTATED

There was a tragic incident involving a cricketer who lost his leg during a match. The incident was a result of a collision between two players, and the cricketer was seriously injured. The incident was a major setback for the club, and it highlighted the dangers of the sport.

HOLE IN ONE LOST MATCH

Through being out of it, one Robert Clark lost a golf match in an unusual way. He was playing a hole-in-one match, and he was leading by one stroke. However, he lost the match because he was unable to find his ball. The ball had rolled into a hole in the ground, and he was unable to retrieve it. This was a major setback for Clark, and it was a source of great disappointment for him.

QUOTAS SET PRODUCTION IN SIX MONTHS' TIME

IN my previous letter, I pointed out that what is actually being done under the Board's system of No. 1 of Dec. 18, 1958, was to make it in order to pay State. There are, however, some moves.

The Board's state that people who failed to send in their October P4 returns will have their entire production paid for at pool prices. It is their belief that this is a fair and businesslike way to deal with the producers as a whole. Of course, the producers are not to be paid for their production until they are ready to sell their produce, and if they were children, I believe in one that my October P4 return was sent in.

On March 25, 1958, the P.B. sent notice to all producers that they were to be paid for their production on the basis of the rate of 20 per cent of the price paid down for all the produce that was sold. This created a furore at the time and my legal adviser informed me that the P.B. had no powers under the P4 Ordinance to enforce this.

In order to get round this, it has been decided to amend the Ordinance for the purpose of introducing a new P4 Ordinance to be known as the P4 (Ordinance) (Amendment) Act, 1958. This information is correct, but I think we should not stand for such amendments. It is hard to believe that the Minister would allow such a provision. In any case, if it was thought necessary to amend the Ordinance, it should be done by a Bill introduced in the House of Commons and not by a mere amendment to the Ordinance.

As I have already pointed out in the Board's my letter of Dec. 4, there is no valid national representation at Accra or Mwanza.

K.P.L. was a representative body for the people of Kenya and was called the Kenya People's Liberation Committee (K.P.L.C.). It was a representative body for the people of Kenya and was called the Kenya People's Liberation Committee (K.P.L.C.).

Both these conferences have made some decisions and formulated policies. What is interesting is that Kenya Africans have not been invited to attend either of these conferences. The K.P.L.C. (K.P.L.C.) is a representative body for the people of Kenya and was called the Kenya People's Liberation Committee (K.P.L.C.).

DOORS FOR MAIZE UNDER NEW BILL

THROUGH the passage of the Bill, the doors for maize will be opened to the British people. It is the belief of the Board that this is a fair and businesslike way to deal with the producers as a whole.

Archbishop on new church province

HOPE that a new church province may be formed in East Africa was expressed in a message from the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, to the East African Diocesan Conference at Dodoma, Tanganyika.

The Archbishop said that the formation of a new province would be a step towards the development of the church in East Africa. He said that the church should be able to meet the needs of the people in the region.

PATTERN HOUSE

WHILE it is conceded that the Government has a long way to go to learn from the experience of other countries in dealing with the problem of housing, it is a fact that tremendous efforts have been made in recent years to meet the growing demand for housing in urban areas, especially in Nairobi.

The Government and local authorities have experimented with different designs and materials for the purpose of providing a wide variety of the schemes. It has been found that the most economical and practical solution is to build with technical advice. It has been found that the most economical and practical solution is to build with technical advice. It has been found that the most economical and practical solution is to build with technical advice.

The Ministry of Housing, African village at Changanara, Nairobi, is an example of the type of housing which is being constructed in urban areas where a large demand for housing exists.

The double-storeyed houses at the Changanara and Nairobi City Council housing schemes of 1948-1951 have made a major contribution towards meeting the demand for housing.

Open space in midst of estate

The pattern of housing in Nairobi has changed radically in the last five years. The old isolated building has given way to grouping around grassed areas or squares, of which Ziwani estate (above) is an example.

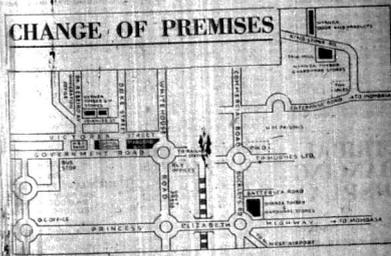

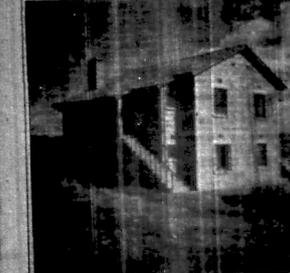

The Ministry of Housing, employing a cast concrete roadways.

Town and country

The building of the Kenya Government House at Dagobad Road (above) was the "pilot scheme", utilizing scientific construction, which was later adopted for the United Nations Office at Nairobi.

In rural areas, housing demand is more limited, so local crafts or locally produced materials are employed. Double-storeyed buildings at Mbari (above) are an example.

The pix who took one coffee too many

BY MERRILL LEVINE
PICKE LONGONE was always looking to show off his very peculiar ways. One day he was walking down the main street of Poudonville Town on his way to a Fancy Dinner at the Old Oak.

He was always dressed in a fancy suit and a fancy hat. He was always carrying a cane. He was always looking to show off his very peculiar ways.

"I must try this," said the pix to himself, then he took the coffee in his hand. He had the parcel under his coat and went along to where he had the parcel very carefully for the big parcel.

"It shall be the best of all," thought Longone, but no one seemed to notice him. In fact people bumped into him. In fact people bumped into him. In fact people bumped into him. In fact people bumped into him.

"I'm here," said the Pix. "I don't suppose you can see me," he said. "I've been out of the woods."

"That was silly," remarked the Town Clerk. "Are you in fancy dress?" Longone said he was Old King Cole.

"Well, the parade is just going to be in five minutes," he said. "You had better go along. The magic might be off in five for you to be seen."

EXCITEMENT AT THE SQUIRE'S BOARDING HOUSE

By MAX TRELL

THERE was lots of excitement in my boarding house this morning. Squire Squirrel was saying as Knarf, the Shadow Boy with the Turned-about Name, came down the path with Teddy, the Stuffed Bear, and Hawatha, the Small-sized Wooden Indian.

Squire was sitting on a roof at the back of the Maple Tree, smoking a speech pipe. Just over his head hung a sign reading: Maple Tree Hotel.

"I've been having summer boarders for the past five or six years," Squire went on. "And it happens every year."

"What happens?" asked Teddy, scratching his head and sounding very puzzled. "I don't see anything but heat and sound and very puzzled."

"What happens?" asked Hawatha, the Small-sized Wooden Indian, putting his feet far apart, put his hands on his hips, tilted his head back and stared up into the high branches of the tree.

KNARF ANGRY

"I see lots of things happening," he finally said.

"You do?" Robin asked.

"I see a Robin standing on a branch and two other Robins trying to push him off."

Squire Squirrel nodded.

"That's the excitement!"

"Looks here," Knarf said, raising his voice again. "I'm not going to stand here and let my bird be pushed another Bird off a branch."

"Cheer up, Knarf!" exclaimed Teddy. "Let's help that poor Knarf."

Teddy actually started to run around the tree trying to find some way of climbing up. He was climbing the tree very well once they got started.

"But Squire Squirrel had burst out laughing."

"What's so funny?" asked Teddy.

"I don't see anything funny about it, either," added Knarf. "Then Hawatha burst out laughing, too, so that now both he and Squire Squirrel seemed to be enjoying a wonderful joke which only they understood."

NO HARM DONE

There's nothing so scary about Squire and Knarf and Teddy when he had stopped laughing somewhat. "That's not it, Hawatha, old boy."

"But I'm sure," replied Knarf. "I don't want to be pushed off. He, ha, ha!"

DANCE FOR JOY

"It's my pal, He's string!" shouted Knarf and Teddy, bringing their other and dancing for joy.

"Don't I tell you?" said Hawatha.

"Don't I tell you?" said Squire Squirrel. "It's a lot of excitement! It happens in my boarding house every year as just about this time. By and by, you're going to get used to it."

And he pulled away to his comical job.

PEOPLE in the Artist paints arm for roya cars

WHEN the Queen Mother was due to open Nairobi Airport last year, Mrs. Elizabeth Haddon-Cave of Nairobi, was asked to make a car plaque of Her Majesty's Coat of Arms. She has since visited has been reinstated, she has again been approached to do this work.

On this occasion, however, Mrs. Haddon-Cave will create plaques for all five cars to be used during the first flight making a cartoon or drawing of the Royal Coat of Arms and the Arms of Rhodes-Lyona, and then paint it on to sheet metal with enamel paint.

She is also preparing a menu card with the Royal Arms, which will be superimposed on a restaurant's menu. Yet another Coat of Arms, measuring 24 inches by 14, will be mounted on the front of the royal train.

Mrs. Haddon-Cave, who is an Australian, married in Melbourne six years ago and with her husband now an official of the Treasury in Kenya, she went to Cambridge where she lived for 20 years. She attended the art school, she studied at King's, in Bath, then returned to Kenya. While in Australia, Mr. Haddon-Cave had a manuscript painting and executed a Book of Hours for the Rev. St. John's Church, Randwick, New South Wales. She has also done other commissions for various churches.

It will be remembered that the late Lord and Lady Glanville, who has details of the Queen Mother's tour in Kenya.

Mrs. Haddon-Cave is a limner — which she describes as an "art of a calligrapher" — and has always been extremely interested in heraldry and lettering.

Army king-pin
THE Vice Quartermaster General of the War Office, General T. L. Chesnut, is in Kenya on a visit to the colony. After a trip to Mombasa, he will return to Nairobi and stay with Mr. Bond and Lady Sinclair until February 15.

He hopes that during that period any former pupils of the Royal Military School, Bulawayo, which he had been headmaster for 25 years, will contact him. Mr. Chesnut, who was born at Auckland, New Zealand, had been in the bank, where for 36 years, was his brother, General Chesnut, who was born at Auckland and later Cambridge.

General Chesnut and Lady Sinclair will visit a party of 23 young people from 12 universities and training colleges in the U.K., who spent last year in the New Guinea together at Wandsworth, near London. It came from their families back in Africa.

Two actresses with three things shared

PHYLLIS CALVERT and Sonia Dresdel have three things in common. They are both mothers of two children. They are both widows...

Killed in crash

Phyllis Calvert's husband, Peter Murray Hill, died suddenly last year - the day before his wife was due to start filming "Ingrid" with Cary Grant and Ingrid Bergman.

Lecture tour

Phyllis Calvert went to star-land during the war with James Mason and Gregory Peck. She has returned to her television work...

POLISHED ACTING BY OLD FAVOURITES IN ROMANTIC COMEDY

HIGHLY polished, yet disarmingly inconsequential, is the romantic comedy, "Ingrid", which comes to the Capitol, Nairobi, is based on Norman Krasna's play...

There is nothing particularly new about this bit-for-bit tale but delightful acting by Ingrid Bergman and Cary Grant, who make newer stars seem anemic in comparison...

Ingrid Bergman, compellingly feminine and superbly poised, and Cary Grant, sophisticated, good humoured and immaculate in the romance, prove so effective...

That star of yesterday, Phyllis Calvert, makes a welcome return to the screen, and Cecil Parker, Meg Jenkins and David Krassoff are excellent in supporting roles.

A great comedy service given by the film is that it retires, who were regarded as just bits of stock, into the main picture...

An army major finished his tour of duty in the Middle East and his peculiar platoon, recruited from the desert, is being sent to a tropical island...

William Hartnell makes a splendid start as the sergeant, and the film is a well-acted and entertaining thing from "require-husbands"...

VICTORIOUS CONFOUNDED THE EXPERTS

The news last week that Mr. Tony Vandervell, who has written on the motor-racing map, is to give us his racing interests, seems as a severe blow to British motor-racing. More STIRLING MOG, being driven by the victorious Vandervell himself, written about the automobilist's beauty in developing his world-beating car.

THEY said it was impossible, and the headline of a fuel company advertisement appearing in newspapers in the United Kingdom. The advertisement features the world's top racing car, Vandervell, and the caption quoted sums up pretty accurately the feeling of Europe's motor racing fraternity a couple of years ago. They reckoned Britain's champion of producing a world-beating Grand Prix car were just about hopeless. Drivers, you see, had plenty of top-lovers. But cars—well, manufacturers in Britain had tried hard enough, but they just didn't have the "know-how".

Under-estimated one thing—the drive, tenacity, energy, and determination of the man who followed by the big-fibre machine, Mr. G. A. Vandervell.

After four years of unceasing work in developing his Grand Prix car, he had finally achieved a triumph.

The car was driven by a man whose name is now a household name, among them Philip Farnham, Peter Collins, Mike Hawthorn, and Charles Farjot, and had just achieved a victory in the Grand Prix at the Thessalonica Grand Prix, which was the first time that a British car had won a Grand Prix race in a variety of ways.

RACING CAR

The news last week that Mr. Tony Vandervell, who has written on the motor-racing map, is to give us his racing interests, seems as a severe blow to British motor-racing. More STIRLING MOG, being driven by the victorious Vandervell himself, written about the automobilist's beauty in developing his world-beating car.

Six Grand Prix successes out of ten

Vandervell, credited almost every time they appeared, generally won the races, but they were not without their ups and downs.

The car's first appearance, with Alan Brown at the wheel, was by no means spectacular. It was retired with a broken axle.

They looked even more confident at the end of the 1929 season after two or three more races, when it was quite apparent to everyone, and to the co-sponsors, that the car was capable of winning.

The end of 1929 was the year when Vandervell's car was to be put to the test in the Grand Prix at the Thessalonica Grand Prix, which was the first time that a British car had won a Grand Prix race in a variety of ways.

More power was obtained from the engine and at Silverstone in May the Vandervell was in the front of the field, but he was lucky enough to be the man at the wheel.

Bear stole the camp's supply of syrup

Local pride

These claims seemed to have no basis in fact. The bear had been seen in the area for some time and it was known that it was a very fierce animal. It was reported that the bear had stolen a large amount of syrup from the camp.

Pans beaten

It was followed by a tremendous display of strength. The bear was seen to be very powerful and it was reported that it had beaten a large number of men.

ROYAL TITLES FOR GURKHAS

The Queen has approved that the 4th Gurkha Rifles should be granted the title of 'The Buffs'.

Lepard calls

We have seen many wild animals in the area. The leopard is one of the most dangerous and it is reported that it has been seen to call out to its prey.

TOURISTS GIVEN TOUGH FIGHT

Return Rugby game on Nakuru ground

DESPITE being beaten by 31 points (five goals, a penalty goal and a try) in their return match with the University of Cape Town, the tourists A.C. XV, slightly outplayed, gave these formidable opponents a tough fight. Nakuru's forwards held their own throughout and the backs, particularly Brown (Imperial) and C. Rutherford (Hartley), played well.

The University didn't attempt to get their backs on the feet, but their first forward's match was not so good. Rutherford was in the line to look after the backs and was not so good as the last game of the tour.

The home side played a steady defence and their customary scrum. It is to be congratulated on its general play and on its personnel part in the match.

A goal for Nakuru

A try by Abney had taken the score to 10-0. The visitors then scored a penalty and a goal from a converted try.

Abney continued the Cape's attack with a try and a goal. The defence was in a tight, light and quick. The visitors played a steady defence. The Cape's attack was in a tight, light and quick.

Abney scored a try and a goal. The defence was in a tight, light and quick. The Cape's attack was in a tight, light and quick.

WEST INDIES ALL OUT FOR 500

THE WEST INDIES, who were 200 for five wickets overnight, were all out for 500 six minutes after the second day of the match. They were defeated by 144 runs.

Both Butler and Brown were out for 50. Butler was out for 50 in 144 minutes, hitting 14 fours and 13 sixes. Brown was out for 50 in 144 minutes, hitting 14 fours and 13 sixes.

The match was a hard fought affair. The West Indies were all out for 500 six minutes after the second day of the match.

BETTY CUTHBERT EQUALS RECORD

Betty Cuthbert, Australian Olympic champion, has equalled her own record of 149 runs in 50 minutes for the West Indies in the first Test.

Cuthbert was out for 149 in 50 minutes, hitting 14 fours and 13 sixes. This was the highest score for a woman in a Test match.

KATHAFAH DRAU

Kathaifah Drau, 22nd year, has been declared a four-wicket wicket-maker in the first Test.

Help of witchcraft sought by candidates

OF U.N. sought in Somalia ELECTION FEARS

Standard Correspondent, Nairobi.
ELECTION candidates for election to Kenya Legislative Council in 1962 went to witchdoctors to ensure the success of their campaigns.

Mr. J. K. Lavery, member of the British Council, who has been told that he will be a candidate, was seen by a witchdoctor to ensure the success of his campaign.

Mr. Lavery said witchcraft was not a religion but a superstition which he had to use to ensure the success of his campaign in East Africa.

Worst places
Within two miles of where we stand, the worst places for the practice of witchcraft in the world are to be found in the hills of East Africa.

The witchdoctor is a man who is believed to be able to cure the sick and to bring about the success of his clients.

Detour's attempt
Mr. Lavery continued: "The witchdoctor is also believed to be able to bring about the success of his clients in the field of witchcraft, and I know of a number of people who have used their witchdoctor to bring about the success of their campaigns."

Door to negotiation 'completely closed'
MR. G. NGALIA, secretary of the African Elected Council in Nairobi, said that at yesterday's meeting in Nairobi Mr. Dingle Foot was told that the Colonial Secretary's statement had completely closed the door to African proposals for constitutional changes in the Colony. The Governor's amendment was considered by Members to be negative and to add nothing to the blunt refusal to have further talks.

Invitation to talks
African Elected Members still appear to have formal offers with the Governor and to be waiting for the Colonial Secretary to set up a preparatory committee to discuss the subject with the Government. It was understood that the Government was willing to meet on the basis for the reasonable expectation of a settlement.

Different views
The Members' organization yesterday decided by a majority vote to uphold the suggestion that the Government should convene a meeting on January 14 to discuss the subject with the African Elected Members and to send a letter to the Colonial Secretary to urge him to do so.

Party attack on Soviet 'rebels'
Mr. Ian Spivack, Communist Party member, attacked the Government's proposal to convene a meeting on January 14. He said that the Government was trying to divide the African Elected Members and to bring about a settlement on terms which would be favourable to the Government.

Both the Governors of Tanganyika and Uganda, who arrived back in East Africa yesterday, spoke of the great value gained at the conference in London between the East African Governors and the Colonial Secretary.

Sir Richard Turnbull said at Nairobi Airport that the joint meetings had helped to "sharpen brains" and encourage representatives to match the efforts of others. More valuable work could be done round a table than in six months of correspondence.

Sir Evelyn due tomorrow
Before leaving London for Kampala, Sir Frederick Crawford said African nationalism was one of the most important subjects discussed at the conference. "This is a pressing problem for these territories. In Uganda, however, I think that the people are convinced that positive attempts are being made to provide them with self-government."

Expulsions by Ghana defended
Nkrumah answers Nigeria critics
MR. NKRUMAH has defended his expulsion of actions by the Ghana Government against the criticism of African freedom.

Speaking on the third day of his State visit to Nigeria, the Ghana Premier said: "We are determined that the sovereignty of the State which is the basis for all political action should be maintained."

Door to negotiation 'completely closed'
MR. G. NGALIA, secretary of the African Elected Council in Nairobi, said that at yesterday's meeting in Nairobi Mr. Dingle Foot was told that the Colonial Secretary's statement had completely closed the door to African proposals for constitutional changes in the Colony. The Governor's amendment was considered by Members to be negative and to add nothing to the blunt refusal to have further talks.

Temporary move
Every case was thoroughly examined before the action was taken to deport the two persons. Mr. Mbuya said that the Government was determined to maintain the stability of the State and to ensure that the law was upheld.

Stay-away members cannot lose seats
No Council ruling available
CONSTITUENCY members of the Kenya Legislative Council who fail to attend Council meetings run no risk of losing their seats, whatever the length of their absence, it was decided yesterday. He pointed out that there was no provision in legislation affecting the Council which made it possible for elected seats to be forfeited.

Party attack on Soviet 'rebels'
Mr. Ian Spivack, Communist Party member, attacked the Government's proposal to convene a meeting on January 14. He said that the Government was trying to divide the African Elected Members and to bring about a settlement on terms which would be favourable to the Government.

Intervention of U.N. sought in Somalia ELECTION FEARS
BARRIERS of the four constituent parties in Somalia are planning to try to force United Nations intervention in the next few days, but what is virtually an election-hour appeal to end alleged electoral violence in election campaigns and to ensure that the voting in March will be absolutely free.

'A gateway for Red influence'

NEW METHODS FOR IMPROVING PIG PRODUCTION

1. My programme for the 1954-55 season is to produce 100 pigs of 150 lb. live weight per acre on 100 acres of land. This will require an increase of 10% in the number of pigs per acre and a 10% increase in the weight of the pigs at the time of slaughter.

The number of pigs per acre can be increased by a number of methods. One of the most effective is to improve the quality of the feed. This can be done by increasing the amount of protein in the feed and by increasing the amount of energy in the feed. Another method is to improve the quality of the stock. This can be done by selecting the best sows and boars and by breeding them to produce the best offspring. A third method is to improve the management of the pigs. This can be done by providing them with a clean and comfortable environment and by providing them with the best possible care.

Another method of increasing pig production is to use artificial insemination. This involves the collection of sperm from a boar and the introduction of this sperm into the uterus of a sow. This method allows the farmer to use the best sows and boars and to produce the best offspring. It also allows the farmer to increase the number of pigs per acre by increasing the number of sows per acre. Another method is to use hormone treatments. These treatments can increase the number of pigs per litter and can increase the weight of the pigs at the time of slaughter.

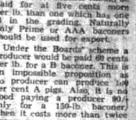

There are many other methods for increasing pig production. It is important to choose the method that is best suited to your farm and to your budget. It is also important to consult with a specialist in pig production for advice on the best methods to use. By using the right methods, you can increase your pig production and improve your profits.

Uganda antiquities on show in modern hall

ONCE again, the African Members are invited to the public display of antiquities which can only be seen by people and those of moderate means among the British. In November they were invited to see the Government's collection of antiquities which is housed in the Uganda Museum, Kampala. The collection is the result of the work of the Uganda Museum, Kampala, which has been a very successful one since its inception in 1925. CLIFF DWELLERS WILL WELCOME THE QUEEN MOTHER

Senior Chief Chawwero, who is to welcome the Queen Mother to the Elgeyo-Marakwet district in his robes of peacock monkey skin and ostrich feather head-dress.

ALFRED MATHESON writes about two communities to be visited by the Queen Mother during her tour of Kenya: the tribes of the Elgeyo-Marakwet district and the South African settlers around Eldoret. The photos are by EDWIN MULLIS.

TRIBESMEN living in the Elgeyo-Marakwet district of Western Kenya can more or less choose their own climate in which to live, for within their territory, averaging little more than 12 miles wide and less than 100 miles long, the land plunges from more than 11,000 feet above sea level to below 4,000 feet.

Within this 7,000-foot range of countryside consisting of the western half of the Rift Valley, temperatures vary from the high anomalies in the sun scorched desert country on the valley floor to the cold, wind-swept, grasslands of the Cherangani Mountains where fires burn almost continuously in the wooded hills of the African farmers.

While this odd-shaped region of Kenya has some of the most impressive land for cultivation, badly eroded and steep, rocky slopes, it has also some of the most fertile land, yielding higher returns per acre than some of the adjoining farms owned by Europeans.

This land in the hills of the Rift Valley was where the first Africans and today there are several successful wheat farms. The less fortunate members of the Elgeyo and Marakwet tribes who do not have land to bring plough into the hills, dry it much harder to make a liveable soil with a few inches of rain on them by the need to grow enough food for their own.

Difficulties of terrain are ingeniously overcome and in some places gullies are bridged by basketwork supported by pillars. The Marakwet, and to a lesser extent their Elgeyo neighbours, have a pace of life based on the Rift environment. In most cases, lodges of stone have been painstakingly constructed as platforms for the huts. In the territory, this part of Kenya has not administered for nearly years after the completion of the district. It was a British rule, although it was a post at Eldama Ravine at its southern end, and came primarily over most of the area. In earlier years, most of the caravans on their way to Harar and the Coast would

Afrikaners' trek to Plateau recalled

PAUK detectors of the Cynhad Ymddolau later returned an Afrikaner folk dance outside the new Eldoret Town Hall. Eldoret is one of the few places to be visited by the Queen Mother during her tour of Western Kenya.

THE Uasin Gishu plateau and the farming country around Eldoret which the Queen Mother is to visit next month was at one time the grazing ground for cattle owned by the powerful Uasin Gishu Maasi, known to their neighbours as "the striped cattle people". But a change in their fortunes began about 1850. After a series of devastating raids by rival Maasi clans from Laikipia and Nandi, the Uasin Gishu Maasi were scattered, the survivors being forced to seek refuge among neighbouring tribes. When the first party of railway surveyors passed through the country they found the land empty, supporting only a few cattle belonging to itinerant herdsmen. It was not until after the railway had been built to the edge of Lake Victoria, sending south of the Uasin Gishu plateau that attention was turned to this wonderfully fertile area and a handful of British pioneers began to carve farms out of bare ground. By 1905 several settlers had established themselves there, including Mr. A. C. Hoey and

NEW NURSING SERVICE

THE district nurse, a familiar figure in every village of Britain, has made an appearance in East Africa. Next Friday's "Week-End Standard" will include an illustrated feature on the start of this service. PEOPLE in the NEWS

Official hosts at Republic Day reception

THE annual reception for the anniversary of the Republic of India was the first official function held in Nairobi by the new Commissioner for India and Mrs. Bahadur Singh.

The Commissioner comes from Rajasthan, but his wife's home State is Bombay. They met in Delhi where Mrs. Bahadur Singh was working as a research officer in the D.N. section of the Foreign Office. Mrs. Bahadur Singh studied in the U.S., earning her B.A. degree in sociology and a political science degree from Columbia University.

Since her marriage, she has accompanied her husband to visits in three different continents—the U.S., China and now East Africa. The Bahadur Singhs have a child, a four-year-old daughter called Indira, who is being brought to India, where she is being brought for her education in the Indian Commission. Mrs. S. M. Das was making one of his last public appearances in Nairobi at the reception. Her departure, which has been postponed for several months, has been fixed for early February, and his next post is to Brazil.

Phasant pie

CONSIDERABLE interest has been provoked with the announcement that Mr. C. C. Ede of Kilimbo was planning to give a phasant pie to the Government of Kenya. U.S. HIKER IN FOURTH YEAR ON THE ROAD

HITCH-HIKING for four years and still going strong—that is the achievement of Mr. Harry A. Parton, of Millington, Illinois, who is now in Nairobi. He described to me some of the highlights of his travels since he sold his house in September, 1930, and started walking.

His first stop was in Toronto, where he was met by a Canadian woman who took him to Auckland in New Zealand and then to London, through that country for seven months. After that he went to Thailand, where he reached Melbourne in time for the 20th Olympic Games. He spent two months in Australia, and then went to the U.S. for a few days.

He has since then been working on the road and has been in Nairobi for the last two years. He is now in Nairobi, where he is working on the road and has been in Nairobi for the last two years. He is now in Nairobi, where he is working on the road and has been in Nairobi for the last two years.

29 years' colonial service

THE announcement that Mr. J. W. Casuar, Minister for Industrial Security and Defence, is to go on leave pending retirement at the end of July, points the loss to Kenya of two colonial personalities whom I first met shortly before Mr. Casuar became Secretary for Law and Order in 1939.

AIR LINE CHIEF'S WIFE CONTENT TO BE PASSENGER

AFTER she has visited Sir Gerard Erlanger's wattle interests in Southern Rhodesia, his wife will make her first trip to the West Coast of Africa. They were spending a few days in Nairobi when I talked to them on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Wilson, Sir Gerard's chairman of B.O.A.C., met many representatives of the aviation world in Kenya. Lady Erlanger, who is a strikingly handsome, tall young woman, is only interested in her own welfare. Her son, aged 15, shows great interest in following in his father's footsteps in the aviation world.

Lady Erlanger is a great animal lover and when she is confined to her marital duties, she will be most interested in the welfare of the animals who are under her care.

Show the Introduces A FILM THAT STANDS THE TEST OF TIME

One of the great achievements of the cinema has been the re-introduction of pictures to the screen. The film 'The Life of Henry VIII' was made some 20 years ago and is now being shown in London as an international star.

The film starts on the day of the public execution of Anne Boleyn and ends with Henry VIII in his old age by Katherine Parr. Baines Barrow plays Katherine Parr and Marie O'Brien as Anne Boleyn. Seymour Langlois is the King, and the film is a masterpiece of historical accuracy.

DAVID TOMBLINSON

Up The Creek, starring David Tomblinson, is a comedy about a man who is sent to a mental hospital. It is a hilarious and touching story that will appeal to all.

PETER SELLERS

The Social World War is a comedy about a man who is sent to a mental hospital. It is a hilarious and touching story that will appeal to all.

What the film does is to show the life of Henry VIII in a way that is both entertaining and educational. It is a masterpiece of historical accuracy.

New Nairobi drama group plans its first two ventures

THE ANONS, the recently formed amateur dramatic group in Nairobi, are entering a play in the Kenya Drama Festival, to be held in March, and are planning a series of short plays to be recorded and transmitted over the internal broadcasting system of Nairobi hospitals.

Any proceeds from the players' productions are to be given to charities.

Producer who put 'stardust on the stars'

Cecil B. De Mille, the film producer who died in Hollywood last week at the age of 77, was once called by Gary Cooper 'the man who puts the stardust on the stars'.

De Mille was known especially for his lavish productions based on Biblical themes, in which he employed casts of thousands.

He had a gift for detecting who he called the 'divine spark' in players. Among his discoveries were Wallace Reid, Gloria Swanson, Jack Holt, Agnes Ayres and Richard Dix.

He was also the first man to introduce colour into a Hollywood film when in 1917 he had some scenes in 'Don't Change Your Love' hand-painted.

Burton to play barrow boy

Richard Burton, the young Welsh actor who did 'Othello' in London, has accepted a small part for his next film. He is to play a barrow boy in the screen version of 'Back to Back'.

His contract should be coming before the filming started by about more than a week in London's street markets studying the scenes.

London's new theatre, the Puddle Dock, is now well on the way to being built. It is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Paris decides to bring waistline back to normal

By PEGGY MARSH

THE first news from the Paris spring and summer fashion shows suggests that the nation's waist line is being ignored for the moment, and that the focal point of 1959 fashion is the high, under-the-bust sensitive line, which so recently brought back attention to the waistline. The fashion is already joining the skirts and chemises in history. The conclusion is reaching that the waist, which looked back to the era of tight lacing, is now being treated as a faded page in the fashion book.

FULL CIRCLE

This is a trend which was forecast by observers in Paris. The trend is to take a look at fashion of the 1800's in a light, playful way. The element of extravagance is being drawn away from it. The fashion shows have in fact been convinced that waistline definitions have changed over lower hemlines and fuller skirts.

Today the odds are on New SLIM-FITTING PARTY-GOER.

An exchange of ideas in a different direction is a trend in the fashion education of the French fashion designers. Many are obliged to work in a short time for the benefit of the New York market. To gain this advantage, they are usually obliged to make a design in a few days. This is being done with Paris by making a dress any longer.

Individuals, most of the post-war designers have literally been living in a palace during the railway quiet intervals when they presented their winter collections and July 15. Laurent made two trips to the United States. Princess Margaret at Balmoral Palace in November. Dior's collection was shown there in November. Dior has just returned from his family home in Normandy. Spring 1959 was the 25th Christian Dior collection, and the third designed entirely by M. Yves St. Laurent.

STARS CHOICE

Castillo of Lanvin turned his talents to face designing and created the 1949 period collection for the New York production of Goldkorn. Will Castillo likewise retain his waitlines in his forthcoming "Spring 1959" collection. The house of Lanvin has recently acquired the rights to the name of the first time that the popular "Catherine" dress. Formerly, it was a simple and inexpensive ready-made separates dress for formal evening occasions. It features the "Catherine" dress for very young women for very young women.

TWO-WAY WEDDING DRESS

A CONVERTIBLE GOWN FOR THE 1959 BRIDE

By MAZEL MEYERICK

THE days when the bride weighed and packed her wedding gown away in a trunk in the attic have been gone for many years. The girl who gets married in 1959 can even get her wedding dress to give her more than one day's wear, if she buys it with an eye to the future use as an evening gown.

So the "convertible" bride gown has come to stay. It is a dress that looks demure enough to go to the altar, yet can be converted into a sophisticated evening gown afterwards.

There are two ways of making a dress convertible — by making it reversible, or by making it convertible. Our designer showed one dress that does the latter method: the unbuttoned overskirt or gilet separates to reveal a simpler dress underneath.

WORN LATER

But any gown for the best convertible dress of the season goes in a classic full-length, fitted, white or white-tinged fabric, trimmed with Chantilly lace.

Taking care of your jewellery

By ANGELA HILL

WHAT a beautiful thing excites your eyes! Your jewelry is an elegant gown and grace at the occasion. The jewels which you wear are the best method of displaying your jewelry. It deserves to be given the best of care.

DRY WELL

The stones to be cleaned should be lowered gently into a cup of this powerful jewelry cleaner, left to sit for some 20 minutes. Then rub with a soft cloth.

FLORAL KNOPKOT HIDES THE HAIR

There is a welcome new way to make the bride look more elegant. Let's face it, white does not suit every bride, and some brides may prefer a dash of color in their gowns.

HOME TREATMENT

The treatment here is dry skin. Lay the pearls on a soft towel and gently shake over some talcum powder. Then rub the pearls in the folds of the towel, using your fingers.

PALE COMPLEXION

In America the pale complexion is a fashion. The fashionable wedding gown is white. The American wedding dress designers have, in one way or another, also seen the light.

SILENT SPORT DUSTMEN AND DUKES

By RALPH MIDDLETON

PRINCE PHILIP proved that gliding can be fun when a glider after his first solo flight, appeared in newspapers all over the world.

Since then, there has been something of a craze for gliding in Britain as more and more people from all parts of the whole family see enjoy, and the nervous thing to the flight of a bird that man has yet devised.

Sometimes all over the British Isles are dozens of gliding clubs and some members are starting from distances of 1000 miles. Many of these hold regular courses during the summer months, and occasionally B. gliders are families who wish to spend their holidays with their father, and sometimes even together, and all agree that it is a wonderful time, no matter what the weather.

Students have to learn to be quiet, alert and sure. They must, after a long, they

FEATURING SPORT

17-year-old Maureen Burg, a Londoner, has on 12 flights the club and on her second day won a first class award. She was second at the club and was also a member of the club.

She is a gliding fan, she says she has been gliding for some time. "There is no risk with the wind, and other people have been flying for years. You can be very safe. If you are nervous, you can always have someone with you."

"I'm glad to see you are getting into gliding," she says, "but don't forget that you must be prepared to work the which which is the most difficult part. You have to be very precise about flying the club to the ground."

Practically all their study of gliding is done in the theory of gliding in the air — the first way to learn. The first way to learn is to get a glider. A glider is taken up for a short flight to get used to the controls of their next glider.

Get 'ASPRO' - IT ACTS QUICKLY!

ONCE he starts it spreads rapidly. But flu need not be serious if you act quickly - at first signs - with 'ASPRO'. 'ASPRO' reduces the fever, soothes away the aches and pains, stops the discomfort and prevents the flu from developing.

What to do at first signs of flu:

- Take 2 or 3 'ASPRO' tablets immediately
- Follow this up by taking another 2 or 3 'ASPRO' tablets with a hot drink when you get home.
- If the flu persists go to bed and send for the doctor.

'ASPRO' ACTS 5 WAYS AT ONCE!

what makes a specialised service cheaper
KETTLES-ROY & TYSONS LTD
An electrical service sounds an expensive operator. But, it needn't be. If you're particularly in luck and C.A.V. equipment is the fitter, as you probably know, the electrical equipment which is fitted to the car is a 'kit' or 'the latter is its commercial name for the counter-part.

Premiers to meet for Cyprus talks

THE Prime Ministers of Greece and Turkey, Mr. Karamanlis and Mr. Menemides, are to meet today in Zurich for talks on the future of Cyprus.

These two pictures are typical of the joyous street scenes and the pagantry in Nairobi. So that the people could get a better view, the Queen Mother chose to sit in the back seat of an open car.

On the right, she is walking across the lower part of Parliament Buildings, escorted by the Speaker and followed by the Governor and the Chief Secretary.

THE Queen Mother is expected to spend this morning and afternoon quietly at Government House.

UNUSUAL CONDITIONS ON MARKETS

Bank rate reduction hopes CAREFUL conditions were apparent when the London Stock Exchange opened yesterday. The Government's move to stimulate private investment by removing borrowing restrictions led to increased hopes of an early reduction in the Bank rate.

Banking houses especially were very firm. A rally in the City followed after a quiet session yesterday. The London Stock Exchange closed at 100.00. The Bank of England's rate of 4 per cent was maintained.

London, 3 February (Reuters) - The London Stock Exchange closed at 100.00 today. The Bank of England's rate of 4 per cent was maintained.

Control on borrowing lifted BRITISH MOVE

ALMOST all of Britain's remaining restrictions on borrowing money and on the issue of Government securities have been lifted. Some of the restrictions have been lifted since the beginning of the year. From October the Treasury has been able to issue Government securities in any amount or on any terms and conditions it sees fit. The lifting of these restrictions is a sign of confidence in the Government's financial position and its ability to manage the economy.

Confidence revived They have been made possible by the fact that the Government has been able to raise money in the market at a rate of interest lower than that of the Treasury. This has enabled the Government to finance its operations at a lower cost than in the past.

Good prices for Kenya coffee Prices for Kenya coffee have risen sharply since the beginning of the year. This is due to a combination of factors, including a shortage of coffee in the market and a strong demand for the product.

Oil output up The Middle East has produced a record amount of oil in the last year compared with 270 million tons in 1953. This increase is due to a combination of factors, including a rise in production in the region and a decline in production elsewhere.
