UNIVERSITY EDUCATION FOR AFRICANS

The largest university in Africa is taking shape in the still town of Ibadan, Nigeria. Modelled on British universities, it will give all university education to Africans.

It has always been a matter of reproach by vast numbers of Africans as well as by many Europeans that the Colonial Powers in Africa have neglected education and so hindered the development of African self-government.

The United Nations has set up a special fund to help African countries in their educational development.

Not guilty of manslaughter

GREAT public interest was centred on the decision of the Supreme Court at Nyere when Desmond Nyerere was found not guilty of the manslaughter of one of the African women who had been found hanged from a tree on June 22.

The K.A.R. in training for the Malayan campaign

(1) Training in ambush practice; (2) a lecture in the field; (3) a group of the K.A.R.; (4) Lt. Col. H. P. Williams talks to some of his trainees; (5) Question and answer; and (6) the ambulance is ambushed.

The 1st K.A.R. are down in Ilassaka training hard for Malaya. They have all been on embarkation leave and have returned "quite refreshed" to serious work.

There is considerable talk among the companies as to which can outstrip the others in preparation and training. Each Rifle Company has taken a definite animal as its symbol. They are lions, buffalo, leopard and elephant. If the lions managed to beat the elephants in some phase of training they are happy all day and of course the converse is the case. The training is only the beginning and when they reach Malaya they will undergo an even more rigorous course.

At present, they are learning how to combat a jungle ambush and how to hit hard and fast against a cunning and elusive enemy. In the jungle quick vision and quick shooting are at a premium. One who looms first is a second chance. The 1st K.A.R. soldiers are good trackers and businessmen and should prove successful.

British NCOs of the 1st K.A.R. are an experienced body of men. Between them they have visited every Colony and Dominion in the Empire except Australia. Some have fought with the 8th Army, several have fought in Burma and one of them has served with the Malay Regiment. R.S. Oton has a good track under him.

The African NCOs have R.S.M. Jacob Mwakwasa over them with 16 years' service in Ethiopia, Somalia, Madagascar and Burma and many of the team have considerable war service. They should know how to lead the young entry.

Lt. Col. H. P. Williams, who commands the Battalion has served many years with the K.A.R. and so have most of his officers. They know and like the soldier and the soldier has every confidence in them.

The men of the Battalion are young (in age only), are trained in hard training, and tough. They should do well in their own words: "Sokole" to them.

When a speck of dirt gets into the printing process it causes a something new called a "Pimp" on the President's nose or something else equally shattering - or even worse - to appear when the ink powers of over-200 million people are being printed.

It is also a fact that an ink blot on a person's eye, or a speck of dirt on a stamp, is a thing of the past. In the days of the printing press, the ink was so thick that it would not flow and the ink would not be able to fill the hole. It was only when the printing press was invented that the ink was able to flow and fill the hole.

It's not a bit like Buckingham Palace" was the rather naive comment of one visitor to the Lodge where Princess Elizabeth and her husband will stay during their brief visit to Kenya. And indeed, it is not.

No luxury hotel this, but a wood and stone built house, untroubled country around Mount Kenya, possessing every modern convenience and facility, yet a far cry from the luxury often usually associated with Royal residences.

Kenya's wedding gift to Their Royal Highnesses Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, was the Sagan a Lodge. The SOCIAL EDITOR describes the Lodge, now ready to receive its owners.

Looking across the grounds, past the guest suite entrance, there is a glimpse of the trees, through which the peak of Mount Kenya can be seen. Below is a general view of the Royal Lodge. Sagan a Lodge is the main building.

Probably comfort and quiet seclusion are its virtues, with emphasis not, usually, on the seclusion. The site is of a little country, and the incomparable view from the living-room alone makes it worth the journey on the rough road from Nairobi. Sand for the kitchen for a moment or two, look at you, immediately below the walled garden, from across the Sagan River, which flows down from the peak of Mount Kenya and tapers to a stream of the same name through the grounds of the lodge.

board where rods and gullies may be seen, and another one, built as a coal room.

A feature of interest in the small dining-room is a room of the type type wire mesh, made of the dining chairs have leather seats and backs made of cushioned material, and the chairs being on casters and the same, except that the patterned material as the living room. The adjoining service has big cupboards, a sink and shelves and a built-in oven.

More cupboards

Through the kitchen, painted blue and cream with aluminium sink and a "fridge" and "kettle" burning stove, are more large cupboards. Next door is a large refrigerator.

Down a flight of four stairs, the water is the main bedroom, the walls are cream, and the floor is laid with dark wood. The room is lighted by a large window, and the bed is a large bed. The room is lighted by a large window, and the bed is a large bed.

Memories

At dusk it is a truly lovely sight to see the memory of it is alive to all the Princess and the Duke for many a long day.

From the other side of the tall gates have been closed the clouds will be seen in the sky spreading round the lodge.

Next to it is the Duke's private study, a room of the type type wire mesh, made of the dining chairs have leather seats and backs made of cushioned material, and the chairs being on casters and the same, except that the patterned material as the living room. The adjoining service has big cupboards, a sink and shelves and a built-in oven.

Guardians

All the work of the house and everything is done by the general manager, Mr. Richardson and his wife, Mrs. Richardson, who have been in the lodge since 1948. They are both of the same name as the Duke and the Duchess, and they are both of the same name as the Duke and the Duchess.

THE K.N.F.U.

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard".

"My May" I will be allowed, through the medium of your columns, to draw attention to the fact that the resolution which was passed at the annual meeting of the K.N.F.U. in November, without a quorum, was not a resolution of the Union's organization and secretary, which the whole question of the Union's organization and secretary, with a view to increasing its effectiveness, as the Central and representative organ in the service of all who direct a commercial and industrial enterprise, and to make their living as a profession. It is the duty of the K.N.F.U. to support the Government's support, whether the Union's members support it or not. It is as shown by its paper membership list, which is a reflection of its past membership strength. The resolution was passed with a majority of 100, but it is a pity that the Government, by not taking up the draft, has not put to rest the question of the K.N.F.U.'s membership. The result of the meeting of the K.N.F.U. and the Secretary of the K.N.F.U. are as follows:

David Temple Roberts's UNITED NATIONS NOTEBOOK

THE great feature of the United Nations meeting in Paris is what it can only call the "runways". This slightly aeronautical metaphor is the key to the mind for the 100-day-long wide floor that gives access to the principal conference rooms in the new building the French have run up to house this multi-national Assembly.

It is not one human being with several miles of us, and we intermingle by a free interchange with the other nations. It is not one human being with several miles of us, and we intermingle by a free interchange with the other nations. There's A Nursery Routine For Charles And Anne

BY CATHERINE BIRT

The Royal Family always makes "news"—whether it be the lamented illness of the King or an outing in the park by its youngest members. It is with the latter—the series of articles, of which this is the first, will mainly deal—three or four old Prince Charles and his 15-month-old sister, Princess Anne.

As of November 14, 1948, to the sound of guth, church bells, and cheering throughout the British Commonwealth and to rejoicing in most parts of the world, was born the baby boy, as the King said, was "within a week of his birth the friend of half the world."

Yet, apart from the fact that a few days' doctoring by the late Princess Elizabeth's private physician, Dr. Robert Keith, Duke of Edinburgh's special doctor, and to rejoicing in most parts of the world, was born the baby boy, as the King said, was "within a week of his birth the friend of half the world."

ONCE AND FOR ALL

The wiring installation in the modern building is a new design, and deterioration takes place without making itself evident; the constant risks and attendant expense of using inferior cable is however obvious.

If you are building, know that your savings expenses are finished once and for all—specifically and definitely.

The 'star'

THE 'star' of the week is the young Prince Charles, who is the youngest member of the British Royal Family. He was born on November 14, 1948, and is the first child of the Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh.
