COAL SHORTAGE CRAMPS ALL INDUSTRIES IN BRITAIN

From PHILIP VERNON

The most troublesome feature of life in Britain today is not, perhaps, the fact that there are shortages but even the simplest arrangements of life are complicated.

This morning my wife telephoned her coal merchant to order some coke. The girl who answered the phone said that she would first have to check the coal merchant's books to see if we had not already had all our allocation for the year.

If I found that we had, she would then get in touch with the Fuel Overseer who would issue a form on which to apply for extra allocations for the year. This we could do in a few days. It was only a few days ago that we had received our allocation for the year.

This little incident is typical of the situation in which the country is placed. The coal shortage is not only a problem for the individual but for the whole country.

The shortage of coal is a problem for the whole country. It is a problem for the individual, for the business, for the industry, for the government, for the whole country.

Of Colonial Investment

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Oliver Lyttelton, believes that a flow of investment into the Colonies will be the result of the new financial position, and the result of the new financial position, and the result of the new financial position.

He said that the new financial position, and the result of the new financial position, and the result of the new financial position.

He said that the new financial position, and the result of the new financial position, and the result of the new financial position.

For a TROUBLE-FREE DIRECTION

There's no need to hurry about instruction. The new direction is simple and easy to follow. It is the result of the new financial position, and the result of the new financial position.

Finance and Commerce ECONOMIC ARGUMENTS FOR CENTRAL AFRICAN FEDERATION

MINISTERS arriving in London for his talks with British Ministers on the close association of Central African territories. Sir Geoffrey Huggins, Premier of Northern Rhodesia, will be accompanied by a delegation of the "Central African Federation," headed by Sir Robert Gordon-Lindsay, Premier of Southern Rhodesia. The delegation is bound to follow on to the Congo.

These times give promise to an article by the author, published in the "Financial Times" in Central Africa, in which he has set out the economic arguments for federation. The author's main argument is that the present necessity of federation is due to the fact that the bulk of government expenditure is met by the property and wealth of the white population. This is a situation which he believes cannot be sustained in the long run, and that the only way to meet the needs of the black population is to have a common pool of resources.

HOES EXPORTED BY AIR
THE first-ever air-shipment of hoes to Africa is expected to be made by the Cape Air Line, which is to fly from London to Cape Town via Johannesburg and Durban. The hoes are being shipped to meet the needs of the farmers in the Transvaal and Orange Free State.

LONDON DOMESTIC
THE December export of hoes to Africa is expected to be the largest ever. The hoes are being shipped to meet the needs of the farmers in the Transvaal and Orange Free State. The shipment is being made by the Cape Air Line, which is to fly from London to Cape Town via Johannesburg and Durban.

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT
THE United States Government has announced that it will provide technical assistance to the Central African Federation. This assistance will be in the form of grants and technical advice to help the Federation to develop its economy and improve the living standards of its people.

STOCK EXCHANGE PRICES
The stock exchange prices of the Central African Federation companies have risen sharply since the announcement of the formation of the Federation. This is due to the confidence of investors in the future of the Federation and its ability to attract foreign investment.

AND HODGKISS LIMITED
The directors of the company have announced that they have received offers for the purchase of the company's shares. The offers are being made by a group of investors who are interested in the company's future development.

SHARE CAPITAL

A VITAL LEAGUE GAME AT MANCHESTER

Scots begin their Cup battles today

OF this afternoon's English football matches, that between Manchester United and Tottenham Hotspur is an important one in that it is likely to have a bearing on the eventual league championship. It is thought that ground advantage should decide this year in United's favour. Portsmouth, who are always reliable at home, should be Sunderland at Fratton Park. Arsenal, Manchester City and Ipswich will be in the running for the League Cup. The good form of recent weeks has put Tottenham and Chelsea at the top of the list, but both points from the Lancashire triumph at Highbury.

Other notable teams playing at home are Newcastle and Bolton, and they should beat Chastion and Burnley respectively. In a relegation struggle, the team most likely to be in Division 4, Middlewich and Huddersfield, should be in the running. Chester and Grimsby should not be taken for granted. Preston can win at Stoke in the new league. In Division 1, the team most likely to be in the running is Tottenham. Travellers are Brentford and Sheffield Wednesday, and they should be in the running. The team most likely to be in the running is Tottenham.
