LIES IN THE SHRINE OF CHIVALRY

St. George's Chapel, Windsor, shrine of the Ancient Order of the Garter. Britain's greatest Order of Chivalry, where King George VI was buried yesterday. (Below) Royal Windsor from the air.

Windsor in the air. The castle and town of Windsor, where King George VI was buried yesterday.

Tribute to King George
The all nations of the world, discharging for a day their ideological differences and their suspicions, paid solemn tribute yesterday to the worth and character of the late King George the Sixth and his Commonwealth, Democratic and Communist, walked together in procession through the ancient streets of London at the funeral of the beloved head of the British Commonwealth and Empire. Some of these foreign dignitaries represented countries with which the Commonwealth was at war during the years when the personal example of King George made so valuable a contribution to the ultimate victory.

But yesterday when death had come to King it comes to every man and woman, they too mourned for his subject and his neighbor, a man of upright character and high principles of public and private conduct, a man whose short life and brief period of kingship were spent in doing good. King George carried a burden which would have bowed down one who enjoyed perfect health and strength. His courage, his sacrifice, his great spirit are left with us as another example of the superiority of the mind over the body and the triumph of the spirit. He was a man of God, a man of Christ, a man of the future. He was a man of the past, a man of the present, a man of the future. He was a man of the world, a man of the world, a man of the world.

For a century the Garter remained unbroken. Then, in 1380, the Garter was broken by King Henry V (1381-1413), the founder of the Garter. The Garter was broken by King Henry V (1381-1413), the founder of the Garter. The Garter was broken by King Henry V (1381-1413), the founder of the Garter.

It has been borne in upon the great family of Commonwealth and Empire nations during this week of grief that the world has a new respect for the Monarch and the Crown and all for which the Crown bears held in such esteem and with such understanding respect among the world's peoples; never before has it been so deeply cherished by those who have inherited it. Now they enjoy its tradition and its leadership. Not at any time—and these are testing times for kings and democratic institutions—has the world owed so much to a single man and to his steadily through the darkness.

King George's life and thought and his personal characteristics, his example to all his peoples, his Christian faith and outlook, the serenity of his home life, his wisdom and common sense and understanding, stand among the treasures which have so much enriched the Commonwealth and Empire nations today. So much kindly thought, so remarkable a delegation of responsibility from all the world to pay their last respects to a man who can and will give thanks for him.

The Chapel
The story of St. George's Garter is intertwined with British history. The Knights of the Garter have their banners on the Choir and the dark oak stalls show the names of their former occupants. The roof of the choir is the nave and was built by King Henry VIII in the 16th century. The choir of the Royal Family are beneath the Organ Gallery. Plans for new steel industry in S. Africa

ONE of the most arid and unproductive areas in the whole of Southern Africa, the Karoo-veld country in South-West Africa may within a few years be the centre of a great new steel industry.

The South African Government recently granted a licence to the Steel Corporation of South Africa to build a steel plant in the Karoo-veld.

Good results are expected from the preliminary work on the deposits of iron ore in the area.

It has long been believed that the deposits of iron ore in the area are of a high grade.

The steel plant will be a large African enterprise, and is expected to be one of the largest in the world.

Mineral deposits have been discovered in the area in all its provinces. Such an enterprise could be carried out only by a large organization with extensive financial resources.

The railway system of South Africa is to be expanded to carry heavy iron ore traffic. It is expected that the railway will be extended to the steel plant.

A wide-gauge railway line would have to be built to the steel plant. It is expected that the railway will be extended to the steel plant.

Finance and Commerce SOUTHERN RHODESIAN LOAN AND COLONIAL DEVELOPMENT PROJECTS

"The African Standard" Special Staff Service
LONDON, Saturday
WHETHER the time has not come to admit publicly of British re-examination of colonial development projects.

A correspondent from Kenya writes in a letter to The Standard that "some of the projects are so costly that we are to avoid serious studies in the colonies."

The argument is based on the assumption of a limited supply of materials and a limited supply of labour and capital.

The correspondent further writes: "The Rhodesian Government is to avoid serious studies in the colonies."

It is not clear that the Rhodesian Government is to avoid serious studies in the colonies.

LONDON, Saturday
WHETHER the time has not come to admit publicly of British re-examination of colonial development projects.

A correspondent from Kenya writes in a letter to The Standard that "some of the projects are so costly that we are to avoid serious studies in the colonies."

The argument is based on the assumption of a limited supply of materials and a limited supply of labour and capital.

The correspondent further writes: "The Rhodesian Government is to avoid serious studies in the colonies."

It is not clear that the Rhodesian Government is to avoid serious studies in the colonies.

TYRE INFLATION IN MOTION

The MOPAL tyre inflator consists of a small compressor, 14 feet of air hose and a universal joint which fits on the hub of a car wheel. The compressor, easily fixed to the universal joint, forces the air from the rubber tube carries the generated air from the compressor to the puncture.

The inflator is simple to use. It is clamped on to the hub, permits inflation while the car is in motion. Quick-release clips fasten the air from the running board and insure to prevent flailing and trailing in the event of a puncture. The MOPAL universal joint is fixed to the hub of the affected wheel and the air tube is connected to the tyre valve. The air hose is fastened to the pump or running board and attached to the universal joint. As soon as the pump is started, the air is forced into the tyre. The inflator is so simple to use that it can be driven away. MOPAL will maintain the air pressure in the puncture can be repaired.

NEW FORMULA NEEDED FOR SUDAN PROBLEM

It is becoming increasingly clear that the question of the Sudan is proving to be one that often in the past has been the subject of the settlement of the Anglo-Egyptian dispute.

Western diplomats continue to insist on a settlement of the Sudan problem that is based on the principle of self-determination in an international context.

The problem is now being approached from a new angle. It is being treated as a problem of international law rather than as a problem of international politics.

The British Government has been particularly active in this regard. It has been making a study of the Sudan problem from the point of view of international law.

INDIAN VOTING PROVIDES MR. NEHRU WITH NEW TERM PROBLEMS

Increased Communist opposition

By Edna P. New
 ONLY general elections have provided a triumph, and only for Congress, but for the Administration. The successful candidate, alleging tampering with ballot boxes, are increasingly loud in complaints that the two main groups for too closely resembled, the more boxes of them will admit that, considering the inexperience of the presiding officers, the elections were fairer than could ever have been imagined.

Nowhere had candidates to fear intimidation. It was left to Muzoonji's friend to be an unscrupulous tribune by trying to get Congress to retract its support for the Government. Congress received fewer than half the total vote, despite having the whole electoral machinery in its hands.

The world was surprised for the extent of the Communist gains in Southern India, but so indeed was Congress, which is a northern party, and secondly, the C.P. is not in India, south or the Congress Party, a southern party, and even the C.P.I. Communist Party of India, was surprised at its success there.

Voting by caste
 Did Prime Minister Mr. Jawaharlal Nehru in his weekly address that extraordinary election tour, in which he spoke to some 20,000,000 souls, and was seen by as many more again? He attacked religion discrimination in other parties, but not caste within Congress, which even according to Congressmen was one of the most unsatisfactory features of the election.

Frightened Hindus
 The Hindu community in the States of Madhya Pradesh and Bihar, which are now Communist States, are now Communist over and over again. Hinduism is a religion of fear, and the Hindu community in the States of Madhya Pradesh and Bihar, which are now Communist States, are now Communist over and over again.

GOVERNMENT MAY POSTPONE TO DENATIONALISE STEEL

The foreign affairs debate

By Philip Wilson
 House of Commons returns to its business today during the next few days. It has demonstrated, with improved vigour, that there are certain reasons for the political difficulties of the hour; and the underlying unity of the nation, as expressed in a common desire for the preservation of these.

But Parliament would have political difficulties. From the screw, which is shared by all Members of Parliament, as by the whole nation, cannot avoid the discussion of political issues means a clash of opinions. Controversy is inevitable, and it is not possible to avoid controversy for a week or two, in the event of a break-down of the tree negotiations.

Urgent policy
 The second is that the value of a business for death-duty purposes ought to be the price which the business would fetch in the open market. The third is that where an estate is made up of free and business assets it is possible to pay duty on the business assets in instalments.

Not evident
 William Hedden Walker, a Conservative, said that he was surprised that the exhibit had been shown from the Post Office, but that he was not sure of the facts.

HIGH-QUALITY JAPANESE EXPORTS
CHALLENGE BRITISH TRADE

By G. H. SIMON

THE shadow of Japanese competition being to impinge not only on British exports, but in many other directions, such as sewing-machines, cameras, plywood, ball-point pens, pearl buttons, plastic products, pocket knives, toys, vacuum flasks and canners.

It is reported that the Japanese goods are of high quality and are being sold at prices which are lower than those of the equivalent British article.

BOXING CHAMPIONSHIPS

E.A. finals on Friday at Eastleigh

There is every prospect of an excellent meeting when the finals of the E.A. Command boxing championships are held at the E.A. Station, Eastleigh, on the evening of Friday, February 22.

There have been good and the preliminary bouts will be fought on tomorrow, Thursday, evening. Bookings for the main event of the evening should be good and those who have not already done so should make a point of securing seats for the evening. Messrs. May and Co. in good time.

The slight confusion regarding testing which has sometimes occurred in previous years will be avoided at the present time by the attendance of an adequate number of medical men.

There will be provided by the British Boxing Board of Control a doctor and a nurse and another kind-by the London County Council. The medical services will be arranged for the representatives in the light-weight division. The men who fought so gallantly at the present time will be in the light-weight division.

A lively clash

The Osborne (Pye Corps) last year's featherweight runner-up, who is a boxer and a new recruit to the ranks of the E.A. Command, will be the main attraction in the light-weight division in 1938.

There is likely to be a lively contest between the two men, but it is probable that the Osborne will be the victor in both the featherweight and light-weight divisions.

Some opponents have been found for the middle-weight division. The main attraction will be the clash between the Osborne and the Middleweight runner-up, who is a boxer and a new recruit to the ranks of the E.A. Command.
