Dynamic growth in Australian industry . .

Australia today is a dynamically-expanding industrial nation. Her production capacity is geared to meet the needs of other developing nations-on highly competitive terms.

Across the country, smoke pours into her sun-filled skies as factories turn out their multitude of products-from jet engines to cathode ray tubes, from electrical equipment to earth-moving equipment, from tractors to trains, paper to power cables. Thriving heavy industries and chemical industries supply the basic materials in abundance. When you buy from Australia, you buy goods that rank alongside the world's best—for Australia has achieved a very advanced level of technical ability. Direct shipping routes across the Indian Ocean
