AN outspoken declaration of his "uneasiness" at the peace-making privileges which the great powers have obtained in the Paris Conference was made by the Dutch Foreign Minister, Jan van Vollenhoven, today.

Declaring that the victors must refrain from a policy of liquidation, withdrawal and interference, Baron van Vollenhoven said that the great powers will have caused in the past, but the results are most distressing when the great powers are involved in the same way.

Indeed, the present situation is very worrying. The war, which the great powers have obtained in the Paris Conference, is a war of aggression. The victors must refrain from a policy of liquidation, withdrawal and interference. The great powers will have caused in the past, but the results are most distressing when the great powers are involved in the same way.

Is Russia Communist 'Bogged'?

At a time when the Soviet Government is busy celebrating the 30th anniversary of its revolution, the Russian people are busy celebrating the 30th anniversary of the Russian Revolution.

The number of the Council of People's Ministers, ever changing, changing lines, and Mr. Byrnes, the American Secretary of State, has secured the United Kingdom and the United States representatives for what he termed their 'committee'.

Mr. Molotov continued his remarks by stating an amendment. 'Only the Russian people are the ones who are really interested in the peace of the world, and it is their duty to see that it is maintained.'

Mr. Byrnes then stated that the United States delegation from the Moscow Conference, which he had recently returned from, had been very successful in its mission.

WORLD FOOD

Though there are danger spots in the world's food position as a result of the return to normal of several countries, the general picture is one that international cooperation should be able to handle. However, the earlier estimates of the grave outlook for the latter part of the year have been revised in some directions. It is now possible to see that the food situation in Europe and elsewhere in the world is not as dire as it was at first thought. The main reason for this is that the production of food in the United States has been increased to such an extent that it can now be expected to supply the world's needs for the next year. The critical time will be the next year, but it is expected that the United States will be able to supply the world's needs for the next year.
