CHANGES IN POWER COMPANY LIKELY

TALKS on the future of the Tanganyika Electricity Supply Company are being held at ministerial level in London. They are likely to lead to a radical reorganisation which would give the Tanganyika Government a far greater stake in the company.

Bright future for truck, bus makers

BRITAIN'S commercial vehicle industry is set to reap the benefit for the next few years, according to a report by the British Motor Corporation.

The report says that the demand for commercial vehicles is expected to increase steadily over the next five years, driven by the need for more trucks and buses to transport goods and passengers.

The British Motor Corporation is a leading manufacturer of commercial vehicles in Britain, and its report is widely regarded as a reliable indicator of the industry's future prospects.

The report also notes that the government is expected to introduce new measures to encourage the use of commercial vehicles, particularly in the areas of road transport and logistics.

These measures are expected to include the introduction of new tax incentives and the relaxation of certain regulatory requirements, which are expected to stimulate the growth of the commercial vehicle industry.

EFFECT OF G.P.T. ON COUNTY SERVICES

I AM completely opposed to any Governmental proposal to divert the proceeds of a Generalised Personal Tax to the counties, which results in the transfer of some important and expensive services to the counties.

It is an absolute fact, however, that some of the services which are being transferred to the counties are of a very high standard, and it is essential that the Government should ensure that these services are maintained at that standard.

Secondly, it is essential that the Government should ensure that the counties are able to meet the additional costs of these services, and that they are not placed under any undue financial burden.

Finally, it is essential that the Government should ensure that the counties are able to provide the services in a cost-effective manner, and that they are not overburdened with additional responsibilities.

It is therefore essential that the Government should take all necessary steps to ensure that the transfer of these services to the counties is carried out in a fair and equitable manner, and that the counties are able to provide the services in a cost-effective manner.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE EDITOR: I am writing to you to express my concerns regarding the proposed transfer of certain services to the counties. I am particularly concerned about the impact of this transfer on the quality of these services and the financial burden it will place on the counties.

I believe that the Government should ensure that the counties are able to meet the additional costs of these services, and that they are not placed under any undue financial burden. I also believe that the Government should ensure that the counties are able to provide the services in a cost-effective manner, and that they are not overburdened with additional responsibilities.

I am sure that you will take all necessary steps to ensure that the transfer of these services to the counties is carried out in a fair and equitable manner, and that the counties are able to provide the services in a cost-effective manner.

Yours faithfully,

BRITAIN'S TRADE GAP WIDENS

BRITAIN'S trade gap has widened to a record level, according to the latest figures. The trade gap is the difference between the value of exports and the value of imports, and it has been widening steadily over the past few years.

The latest figures show that the trade gap has reached a record level of £1,000 million. This is a significant increase from the £800 million recorded in the previous year. The trade gap has been widening steadily over the past few years, and this is a cause for concern.

The widening trade gap is a result of a number of factors, including the decline in the value of exports and the increase in the value of imports. This is a significant problem for the United Kingdom, and it is essential that the government take steps to address it.

The government has announced a number of measures to reduce the trade gap, including the introduction of new export incentives and the relaxation of certain regulatory requirements. These measures are expected to stimulate the growth of the export industry and to reduce the trade gap.

THE KEY AND THE LOCK and the business of advertising

HOW TO EVOLVE AN ADVERTISING AGENT

Correctly set up a motivational side role, or for that matter by making the key, the agent's reputation should be set on the first, not the second, occasion. The creative ability, experience and initiative should all add up to producing a client with a professional attitude. The agent is in fact, the key which unlocks the door to increased sales and greater returns.

HOW DOES AN ADVERTISING AGENCY OPERATE AS A CLIENT

An agency's basic remuneration is derived from media commission. Therefore, to survive as agency must have billing and the ability to obtain new orders. It is not enough to have a good client-agency relationship in essential. The client quite rightly expects an excellent service and the client we have come first. They provide the agency with the information and the fullest cooperation which, of course, pays dividends.

How a key fits a particular lock is the final analysis makes possible the development of an advertising agency. The key and the lock must be in tune, as we are interested in you.

U.S. RUPEE HOLD EQUAL TO HALF INDIA'S CIRCULATION

RUPEES equivalent to more than half the money in circulation in India and more than two-thirds of the Indian money supply are or will be earned by the United States and subject to Congressional appropriation.

That the money is spent except in India because of currency restrictions.

The local representatives of U.S. diplomatic and economic officials and the Peace Corps, and local expenditures of official U.S. personnel in India do not consume even the interest earned on the rupee — by these holdings.

The problem is how to dispose of the vast quantities of rupees — by these holdings.

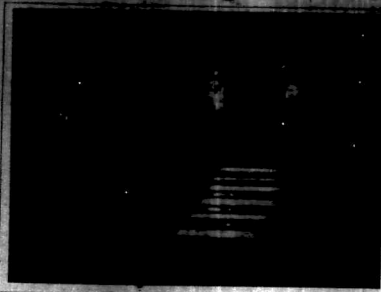

The solution is to use the rupees for the purchase of goods and services in India, and to use the rupees for the purchase of goods and services in India.

FORD CORTINA sets new hill and track records in six events

FORD-POWERED LOTUS WINS HILL CLIMB TITLE

No. 101 wins every scratch event entered!

On twisting, tortuous hillclimb tracks or on the exciting circuit of Hathers, there was nothing to touch the Ford Cortina in its class during the 1963 East African motor racing season. The Hughes Ltd. Cortina No. 101 — with Peter Hughes at the wheel — sped to 100 per cent success with a six out of six record.

In British racing events alone the Cortina was dominating with two wins in class at Silverstone and other excellent showings at Oulton Park, Goodwood and Croft. The Cortina came 1-2-3 at Goodwood last year and finished fourth overall.

In the East African hillclimb and Circuit events the Cortina was dominant. It won the hillclimb at Hathers and the circuit race at Hathers. It also won the hillclimb at Hathers and the circuit race at Hathers.

Lotus No. 2 drives home to championship title in the most exciting of the hillclimb events in East Africa during the season. The Lotus was driven by Peter Hughes and won the hillclimb at Hathers and the circuit race at Hathers.

At the Mountain Activities in October the Cortina whizzed the steep climbing circuit in 10 minutes 45 seconds. This was a new record for the Cortina and the race was won by Peter Hughes.

The Ford-powered Lotus was dominant in the hillclimb events. It won the hillclimb at Hathers and the circuit race at Hathers. It also won the hillclimb at Hathers and the circuit race at Hathers.

POLEY BEAR AND THE SPOTTED HORSE

Do you remember that Poley's family brought home a spotted horse from France a year? He was such a silly horse that the circus people were quite happy to see him go.

Little Marie called him "Mocha," which means spotted. Mocha was so named because he had a white body with brown spots rather like a leopard.

He would not have anything to do with Mocha if he could avoid it. "I never met such a stupid animal," he groaned when Marie brought him to the farm. "Why has it ever gotten here?"

The father of the family called the horse "Poley."

Because Mocha had worked a circus ring for most of his life, he would only go if I walk in a circle like he was commanded.

This was disappointing for the children, who had loved to ride Mocha in a wheelbarrow. But it took her two long weeks to get her animal ridden in circles.

Mocha was very tame and in ten days he had learned to walk straight. Then Marie saw a sign in a window for a horse to be painted.

Marie was so excited that she showed Poley to the painter. The painter said, "I'll paint you in a week. You'll be as good as new." Marie was so excited that she showed Poley to the painter. The painter said, "I'll paint you in a week. You'll be as good as new."

FORD ANGLIA breaks class record at Nakuru meeting

Three major E.A. titles captured by Hughes' Fords

With recent respect for speed, it was no surprise that the 1200 cc. Ford Anglia led De Pined and Marshall Buhde behind the wheel, but the record-breaking time and again during the track racing season at Nakuru Park Circuit.

In the last meeting, Peter Hughes' Anglia was so far out in front of its own class — the leader of 1000 cc. touring cars — that it set up a new class lap record of just over 13 seconds!

And against the bigger machinery in the same event, only Peter Hughes' record-breaking Anglia took the chequered flag before it.

Tenacity ...

It was this tenacious Anglia spirit that led the Hughes' crewed. De Pined and Marshall Buhde certainly were something to shout about.

The little Anglia sped over the brow of the hairpin bend, but hesitated for a whole gaggle of cars before their wheels touched the tarmac and braking, the Anglia took the lead — a lead which was maintained by a few yards on the bank straight. The performance was repeated next lap around.

Anglia engine powers FORD-LOTUS to 1963 Track Championship

Lotus No. 3 drives home its championship title

A home and made Anglia engine is the power unit that makes Peter Hughes' Ford Lotus the most potent machine in the East African motor sport. It holds the record in the top lap record at Nakuru (12:00.5) and the 1000 cc. lap record at Nakuru (13:00.5).

Shelling could mean within range of a 2000 cc. Lotus 23, both East African Hill Climb and Track championships.

Mr. Hughes' East African motor sports of the year in 1963 was a triumph for the Anglia engine.

Armstrong & Bates amass 1963 awards for ZODIAC

All in a year's sporting work for Mike Armstrong and Chris Bates: the 1963 East African Rally Championship winners and the 1963 East African Rally Championship winners.

The Zodiac was triumphed over of four of the six big events in the East African motor sport calendar — and was justly proud to have been the most successful rally car of the year.

It was the Jaramba, Tanga, Uasin Gishu, Uasin Gishu and Rift Valley rallies and finished first in the Elgon Rally.

Armstrong and Bates crowned their winning season by setting a unique record in the Rift Valley Rally. They completed the course without a single pit stop, the first time it had happened in the rally's entire history.

TRACK TWINS

Thoroughbred both, the Cortina and the Lotus that were virtually unbeatable in track and hillclimb events in 1963.

Peter Hughes' No. 181 Cortina was all four hillclimbs and both track scratch events in 1963.

The Ford-Lotus's record was simple during the season. In three hillclimb meetings at Brackenhurst and three outings at Nakuru it stretched over with the job and reported the fastest time of any day time. Only his luck prevented Hughes from making the closest sweep in East African motor sport history. He was well in front in the last race of the season (and had already grabbed the 1000 cc. hillclimb trophy) but trouble forced him to drop out.

Flighting with Ford's championship winning team are the Hughes Ltd. workshop team, C. Leitch, M. Wright, C. Case and V. P. Patel, who keep the cars racing.

The aim of 'wealth through beauty' has been fully realised

WALKERS through Kenya to the north, the City Parks Department consulted with the public on the design of the parks and gardens of Nairobi. That it has now reached the stage of approval from the public is shown by the fact that the development of the parks is now well advanced and it is only a matter of time before the most attractive cities in Africa.

Mr. Peter GreenSmith, who, as City Parks Superintendent, has been the architect of Nairobi's horticultural growth, discusses the work of his department with Times MacGibbon.

The architect of the horticultural growth in Nairobi.

had decided Mr. Peter GreenSmith, the City Parks Superintendent, had been the architect of Nairobi's horticultural growth, discusses the work of his department with Times MacGibbon.

What everyone knows has been done about it. It began just after the war and the development of the parks is now well advanced and it is only a matter of time before the most attractive cities in Africa.

It is one of the many things that I am proud to have been able to do for Nairobi. It was a matter of time before the most attractive cities in Africa.

What everyone knows has been done about it. It began just after the war and the development of the parks is now well advanced and it is only a matter of time before the most attractive cities in Africa.

The preparatory work is important - designing the site for the park and making a plan for it. It is one of the many things that I am proud to have been able to do for Nairobi.

Perhaps it is not realised just how big is the staff of the City Parks Department. Mr. GreenSmith has a staff of 400 men, mostly African, who look after the parks.

immediately that because of the extent of the three-dimensional investigations he had a unique opportunity to see the work of his department from the inside. He has now been able to see the work of his department from the inside.

"I am not sure I had any idea of what I was getting myself into when I joined the department," said Mr. GreenSmith. "I was just a young man with a lot of energy and a lot of ideas. I was just a young man with a lot of energy and a lot of ideas."

What about if you were to plant investigations in "other parts" of the city? According to the expert, it is a question of the right place. If you have a survey of your city, you should know where to plant them.

The City Parks Department is not only a department of the City Council, but it is also a department of the City Council. It is one of the many things that I am proud to have been able to do for Nairobi.

The Parks Department's work is never-ending and there is always something to be done somewhere in the city. Here, gardeners are busy replanting in City Park, under the supervision of Mr. G. S. Huggan.

One of the latest creative efforts of the Nairobi City Parks Department has been to transform the corner near Athelwood drive into this delightful little garden.

PILKINGTONS

Float glass is a Pilkingtons' invention—the biggest advance in glass-making for more than a quarter of a century. This answer to the glassmaker's dream of making a glass with the distortion-free parallel faces of Plate Glass, without the need for grinding and polishing, was invented by a Pilkingtons' research team, and has been developed to a full production programme by Pilkingtons' technicians. Now Float, the glass that sets new standards in colour and mirror brilliance is being produced in one of the largest glass furnaces in the world. Until Pilkingtons' produced Float Glass, Plate Glass was recognized as the top quality glass. (Most plate, incidentally, is still made by plant developed by Pilkingtons' engineers.) Now float has made Plate out of date.

U.K. FATHER FLIES SO TO SEE HIS BROTHER IN KENYA

JOHN ELGON'S Friday Diary

A SINGLE-ENGINED Aviator aircraft took off from an English airfield this morning with a look of some 40 years.

It was piloted by John Elgon, who is also an enthusiastic amateur pilot, at the controls. He was on his way to Kenya.

The low-hang, two-seater plane took off on January 14, according to Mr. Elgon's diary. He was flying to see his brother who is now in Kenya. A friend of the family tells me that Mr. Elgon has been chairman of the East African Flying Club since the late 1920s. He can speak fluently in several languages, including French, German, Italian, Spanish and Swedish.

From Cairo he will follow the course of the Nile to Lake Victoria and thence to Kampala and Nairobi. He is expected to arrive in Nairobi on the night of the 20th.

Mr. Elgon is a member of the Royal Aero Club of Great Britain and is also a member of the Kenya Aero Club. He has been a pilot since 1920 and has accumulated over 2,000 hours of flying time.

He is also a member of the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds. He has been a member of the Society since 1925 and has been active in the Society's work for the protection of birds and their habitats.

Happy returns
The birthday of the late Mr. J. Elgon was celebrated on the previous evening at Nairobi.

Safari returns

Mr. Elgon's safari to the interior of Kenya, which he completed on the previous evening, was a very successful one.

He has now returned to Nairobi and is now a member of the Kenya Aero Club. He has been a member of the Club since 1925 and has been active in the Club's work for the promotion of aviation in Kenya.

Guiding pledge

Mr. E. H. Woodhouse, the President of the Kenya Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts, has issued the following pledge to the members of the Association:

I, the undersigned, do hereby pledge myself to the following: To be true to my faith, to my family, to my friends, to my country, to my God, and to the Girl Guide and Girl Scout movement.

Farex is the balanced weaning food.

Farex is the best possible weaning food. It has just the things your baby needs for strong and healthy development—protein, vitamins, minerals—the elements vital to a baby's balanced diet. Farex is a wonderful way to introduce your baby to new foods. It mixes so well with milk and sugar so that you can feed, breast or wean. And it's wonderful for you, too, because it is so easy to prepare. Simply mix Farex with boiled milk or prepared milk food for the smooth creamy taste all babies love. It needs no cooking.

Break the vicious circle of SORE THROATS

Nine out of ten sore throats are caused by germs - and you can't beat the soreness until you beat the germs themselves. But that's not all - the soreness can be unrelieved hours, the more the inflamed tissues are laid open to more germs, more infections, more soreness. Break this vicious circle with DEQUADIN LOZENGES. Scientific tests prove that Dequinin attacks at the germ that cause sore throats - and that's even more than penicillin can do! Better still, Dequinin is not washed away, so many lozenges are, but stay up to 12 hours in the tissues of the throat and mouth, fighting a constant marginal action against spreading germs.

GROWTH

"Two Leaves and a Bud"

Kenya's rapidly expanding and efficient tea industry is a prime example of a successful attempt to broaden the basis of the nation's economy. The patience, far-sightedness and faith in Kenya's future that the pioneer tea-planters have displayed could well be taken as a model for all who have this country's future at heart. Barclays is proud of its association with many of these planters. Barclays shares their faith in the future.

EXTRACTS FROM CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT

During the year we have provided in various forms of taxation some £200,000.
 In May of this year at an Extraordinary General Meeting of the Company Members were informed of an association which had been made with the world-famous brewing direction go ahead but by the very nature of the company of Whitbread's. Our plans in that respect will take time to materialise.
 As we go forward in the first year of Kenya independence we expect to make good progress for the mutual benefit of our valued customers, our shareholders and our staff, many of whom are accepting greater responsibility and have to face more complex problems than in the past and on your behalf, therefore, I ask them all to accept our thanks and our assurance that to the best of our ability we will continue to look after their interests.

May I also say how much I welcome the appointment to the Board of our Directors of Mr. Arthur Mwangi whom I have known for some years and who served this Company faithfully and ably as a salesman before he took up farming.

(Sgd.) JOHN FENTON, Chairman.

Hard work, ingenuity and patience—that's the film-making world

HAROLD Sanderston, a burly Yorkshireman who was once a politician, gazed down at the film camera from a high angle as we talked of his job as we talked of his life at Lake Naivasha. He was sitting on a large elephant at the time.

DEREK WATERSON spends a day on location with the "Mr. Messes" film unit at Lake Naivasha.

The curious conversation was an introduction to the unusual world of film and the people normally associated with it. The film which features Mr. Sanderston and Mr. Watson is "Mr. Messes" and is being made by the British unit of the American film company, United Artists.

Tribed home

There, where two months ago stood nothing but tall acacia and wandering dunes scrub, was an African village that looked as if it had been there for years.

Smoke curled from cooking fires in some of the thatched huts. Children were playing, men were smoking pipes, women and goats, rambling all over the place and dozens of Maasai were and were lounging in the shade.

A lofty mahogany building, built out of the stone of a large, detached brick house. There was a school, a hospital and a weather-beaten European-style house.

To all intents and purposes, it had been a village home for six weeks and it is the product of the ingenuity and hard work of the film-making construction crew.

They had each given an important part in Mr. Messes for the village and the people in it.

Widely, the story is about the building of a Karim-type dam which will inundate the tribe's ancestral grazing grounds. Despite efforts of the Government and the wrath of the local D.C., the tribe blindly refused to budge.

Party tricks

Then Mr. Mitchell turns up. A "quack" doctor and "new" man, he and his brightly painted wagon had been checked into the river by the British.

He eventually found the village clinging to his wagon, and it is expected.

Mr. "Messes" Mitchell has a vast repertoire of party tricks that fascinate the local D.C.—and the D.C. sees his chance. Either Mr. Mitchell talks the tribe into leaving (and he does the way of his gun) or he will kill his best attraction.

And the rest of the tale concerns their trek to the new, government land.

A simple enough story—but one that is going to cost some three million American dollars to film.

In one way or another, a complete story of the way will stay in Kenya. Every inch of the film is being shot on location and every frame is a high percentage which retains views of the Wit and the Green Park Dam in Uganda.

It was reason enough to visit Naivasha to see what was going on—and to meet all the interesting people who go with a multi-million-dollar film production.

First I talked to Mr. Sanderston (who was disappointed from his job). There was something familiar about him—a "massive" build, slightly hooded eyes, a hint of a double chin.

The answer came when he explained: "To the Mitchell's"

...the District Commissioner in "Mr. Messes" (the Scottish actor Ian Hunter) talking the tribes about in one of the scenes. He is the District Commissioner in the film. He is the District Commissioner in the film. He is the District Commissioner in the film.

Maasai children and squawking chickens sometimes make life difficult for director and technicians during the filming. "Happens some manna..." applies to both!

Under a hot noontday sun at Lake Naivasha cameras crew and soundmen bring into operation as Harold Sanderston, director of "Mr. Messes", cries "Action." Through his view-finder the cameraman sees (above right)...

TV PROGRAMS SEEM TO BE SHOWING A SADISTIC TENDENCY

THERE have been some two letters from the correspondents in the past week pointing out the sadistic tendency of some of the programs on K.B.C. television.

The first letter, which was sent to me to put a note in the "Whistle" program, pointed out that the program "The City and the Stars" was a sadistic program.

Short answer

I have no reply to give as a defender of the K.B.C. program. I have no doubt that the program is a sadistic program. I have no doubt that the program is a sadistic program.

At the same time, I think that the program is a sadistic program. I have no doubt that the program is a sadistic program. I have no doubt that the program is a sadistic program.

The examples

Can you name this car?

Yes? No? (It is a Volkswagen. To be more exact, a Volkswagen 1500. To be still more exact, a Volkswagen 1500 (Soda). At a first sight, you don't see that it is a Volkswagen. Because what makes a Volkswagen a Volkswagen is the inside, not the outside. And what makes the inside? The V.W. concept. What's that? A number of things. For example, (No drive shaft—more efficient power transmission. Engine weight on drive wheels—better traction. Air cooling. No radiator, no water hose, no water—what isn't there can't cause any trouble.) Independent suspension. (No rigid axle—each wheel runs independently on road shocks, no more bump—bump—rump.) The smooth seat bottom. (No winking parts exposed—everything protected from corrosion and flying stones.) All this has a common denominator: you don't see it in a

There are other things, too, that you don't see at first sight. The car's economy. Its reliability. Its low maintenance. How much more it offers. (Even more than the famous VW 1200.) More room. More comfort. More power. More equipment. More... You see all this at first sight. Think it over. Maybe you should take a closer look. There is such a thing as a first sight. (Mind you: there's also such a thing as love at first sight.)

SCIENCE A Lack of information 'aggravated doubts'

PRESIDENT Nyerece admitted yesterday that his Government's failure to keep the people informed during the Tanganyika Rifles' mutiny was a mistake which had aggravated rumours and doubts about the stability of the country and the Government.

Tanganyika recognises Zanzibar

TANGANYIKA yesterday recognised the new Zanzibar Government and in a separate interview with a reporter President Nyerece said that he expected Zanzibar would soon follow suit.

A message from President Nyerece to the Zanzibar Government was received at Dar es Salaam on Monday. It was signed by the President and the Prime Minister of Tanganyika, Mr. J. Nyerere.

The message said that the Government of Tanganyika recognised the new Zanzibar Government and in a separate interview with a reporter President Nyerece said that he expected Zanzibar would soon follow suit.

Dr. Nyerece admitted yesterday that his Government's failure to keep the people informed during the Tanganyika Rifles' mutiny was a mistake which had aggravated rumours and doubts about the stability of the country and the Government.

Correspondents all searched

More than 90 correspondents, mostly from overseas, attended the conference, and all were searched on entering the hall.

The President, who according to observers did not appear as relaxed as usual when meeting the Press was flanked by Vice-President Kawawa, the Minister for External Affairs, Mr. Karimasa, and other Ministers.

A perfectly reasonable objective can be marred by the attitude used to achieve it. We learned in particular that people whose responsibility it is to look after lives should not themselves engage in activities which might endanger lives.

It was to be noted that the incidents had not been mentioned in the report of the conference. This was done to ensure that the public would not be misled by their reputation as a peaceful and democratic country.

This was especially urgent because the Government had announced that the mutiny was over and that the Rifles would be disbanded.

President Nyerece would be dismissed at the end of the year. He would be replaced by a new President.

Perkeo AUTOMATIC Automatic 2 x 2" low-voltage projector

The three stars of low-voltage projector

- The screen brilliance of the projector with low-voltage 120-watt lamps approximately equals the light output of a 300-watt main lamp.
- A low-voltage lamp is cheaper to buy and to run than a main lamp.
- The amount is far more concentrated and therefore produces a greater light intensity, because of the higher colour temperature the screen image is whiter and the very low beam spread keeps the slide projection concentration considerably lower.

See the PERKEO AUTOMATIC in your nearest dealer or call it.

Radio helps out in the crowded classrooms

FOURTY years ago, one of Kenya's who had traveled some disciplinary practices in the country, remained a party and spoke to many parents, urging them to unite behind him in order to change the system.

But he attracted very little support from the new people to groups of people and those receiving much sympathy and more of a hearing than he had received in his native Kenya. On his return to Kenya he reported to his few supporters and among other things he said: "I now realize that with our language does not stand a chance." Education became the motto of the young men who is now Kenya's Prime Minister, Mr. Kenyatta.

Thousands of schools have been built by the Government, religious bodies and private enterprise. Out of Kenya's 5,000,000 people, nearly 1,500,000 children go to school. At both primary and secondary school levels there is a serious shortage of trained teachers. Classes are continually being overflowed and it is necessary to open new schools. The solution is made even more difficult by the rapid growth of the rate of birth, part of a crop, and by countrywide demands for more and more schools to cope with every level. The new solution is to use the radio.

The hope that school broadcasting can give in this situation became clearer with each passing year. It was felt that a radio station for the school broadcasting should be established for school broadcasts, and they began in May, 1958.

Ministry saw the start of the new term in school broadcasts. The introduction was made from Colonial Broadcasting and Services Unit to the Kenya Government. This grant was to cover initial capital and costs up to March, 1964, and after that the recurrent expenditure was to be borne by the Kenya Ministry of Education. The adult education programme and television College programmes for some time, but this entirely new service was quite different from them.

It is now a broadcasting of primary and secondary schools given in morning periods from 8.00 to 9.00. The programme includes talks by teachers, training colleges. Plans are being made to expand broadcasting up to sixth form level in 1965.

The basic pattern of school broadcasting is as follows: The Chief Inspector of Schools in the Ministry of Education and detailed programming has been carried out by R.B.C. School Broadcasting staff. Lessons supplemented in this way include English, history, geography, civics, music and art, and weekly news documentary, all in English. Dramatic versions of the Cambridge Overseas School Certificate examination are presented for secondary schools, while listening exercises are able to hear a weekly talk for teachers. Of the 15 weekly broadcasts, 10 are for primary schools, 5 for secondary schools and training colleges and one for training colleges only.

The head of R.B.C. School Broadcasting in an advertisement showed how the programme is being received by the children of Mombasa. The children were seen to be very interested in the lessons broadcast. They listen to the lessons in their own homes, in their schools, in their clubs and in their villages. They are very interested in the lessons and they are very interested in the lessons. They are very interested in the lessons and they are very interested in the lessons.

That it goes on the air in a form of eight weeks or more than 120 lessons have been given. The members of the Ministry of Education, R.B.C. Broadcasting Unit, have seen to the English language, except for an occasional Swahili programme. Help with the teaching of English is given in primary classes through direct and indirect, such lessons help to create a better background experience of the language. All in some time they introduce standards of English pronunciation and writing patterns of music which have had English spoken by a native speaker.

Programme planners work with the Ministry of Education. African primary school children in developing areas of lessons in geography, history and civics, and in each term a school week-end programme. Background enrichment is used through the programme into elementary education and music. Each week's broadcasts end with a current-affairs magazine, bringing a round-up of East African news, people in the news, and items of special school interest featured by every broadcast. It is likely that in one development to give it an East African view.

For the use of 20 per cent of primary pupils who receive places in secondary schools, a new journey begins. Intellectual experience and cultural enrichment are made from different backgrounds. More

Behind the scenes in Schools Broadcasting, Top, Robert Bennett and Mrs. D. Collins, top of the programme, record one of the programmes. Below, after the scenes have been recorded, young adults must be added and finally, above, the broadcast programme tape is sent down the wire line.

From now on, we sell the Volkswagen 1500 too!

Just arrived. There it is, all unpacked. But it is actually a Volkswagen? It doesn't look much like the familiar, world-famous Volkswagen 1200. It is larger on the outside, roomier on the inside. More luxuriously equipped. It has two luggage compartments, one in front and one in rear—both accessible from outside. Yet, it's still a Volkswagen even though it doesn't seem so at first glance. For what makes a Volkswagen a Volkswagen is not its shape. It's the Volkswagen principles that count in the final analysis. The principle of the air cooled rear mounted engine, whose weight is on the drive wheels gives better traction. No radiator to boil over or freeze up. The principle of the smooth underside—protects important wires and cables as well as the car itself from all kinds of harm. The principle of independent four-wheel suspension—enables each wheel to follow the contours of the road individually. The principle of the maintenance-free torsion bars, which save weight and space—no sagged that they fear no roads, however bad. Last but not least, the principle of an economic, durable, undemanding car that never looks its age. COME IN AND BE ONE OF THE FIRST TO DRIVE A VOLKSWAGEN 1500, no obligation whatsoever. You might even become one of the first to own one. 5873 AT THE DEALER

If you want bushes to grow well, plant well

REMEMBER that the trees they need little care once established, are sensitive to competition and do not do well in poor soil or near hedges and trees. They react more than most plants to such conditions. If you have room, choose a sunny spot, but not too close to a wall or fence. Keep them well away from any which will not long grow. Do not grow borders of flowers around the bushes. By all means plant and propagate by cutting down bushes and roots to act as barriers if you must have a hedge, or around any poor soil areas. All bushes should be allowed to grow well, plant well, in a sunny place, a wind-break is of value if you have a spot which is usually quite waterlogged or if you have a spot which is usually quite waterlogged or if you have a spot which is usually quite waterlogged.

GROWING ROSES

These feet high shrubs will grow the new trees and not reach until the following rains arrive. The trees should be well watered and pruned until the next rains.

Break the vicious circle of SORE THROATS

Most out of you sore throats are caused by germs and you can't beat the common cold and the germs themselves. But there's more to it—the more sore an untreated disease, the more the inflamed tissues are laid open to more germs, more infections, more complications.

Break this vicious circle with DEQUADIN LOZENGES. Scientific tests prove that Dequadin attacks all the germs that cause sore throats and that's even more than penicillin can do. Better still, Dequadin is not washed away, so many remedies are, but stays up to 12 hours in the tissues of the throat to smother, fighting a constant resistant strain against invading germs.

Death then...?

In a hundred years you will be dead. It is inevitable. So what? What happens next? It all depends on you. Are you like the millions in your part that will not be laid out when life is over? Do you wish to be laid out? Do you believe that you will have the best? The vast majority of people believe that you will live after death. Do you?

But most people have only vague ideas about the afterlife. They hope that they will live on in paradise. They hope that they will live on in bliss. They don't want to live in the afterlife. They want to live in the world. They want to live in the world. They want to live in the world. They want to live in the world.

The Middle Distance
 In 1963, the middle distance was a most interesting one. It was a year of many firsts and many records. The most notable was the victory of the Kenyan colt, Chalchak, who won the 1,000 yards race at Nairobi on February 14th. This was a great achievement for the young colt, who was only three years old at the time.

Chalchak got the race with an impressive time of 1:10.0. He was ridden by Mr. C. E. C. Clouston, who was a very successful jockey in his own right. Chalchak's victory was a great boost for the Kenyan middle distance racing scene.

THESEY 30s
 In 1963, the THESEY 30s was a very competitive race. It was a 30-second race, which was a new format for the time. The race was held at Nairobi on February 21st. The winner was the Kenyan colt, Chalchak, who won with a time of 30.0 seconds.
