RUSSIANS CHANGE NILE'S COURSE

Way clear for Aswan Dam construction

MR. KRUSHCHEV and President Nasser yesterday touched a hammer on the Aswan High Dam site — and blasted away the last barrier to the diversion of the River Nile.

A thin strip of sand and rocks disappeared and the water started to flow into a diversion channel. The next stage in the dam project will be the construction of two coffer dams before work starts on the Soviet-aided dam itself.

President Abdel Salam Arafat, of Iraq, and Abdallah al-Sallal, of the Yemen, joined in yesterday's ceremony. They heard him announce that President Nasser and Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, U.A.R. First Vice-President, had been awarded the title of Hero of the Soviet Union.

When the Nile changed course, applause and shouts of "Long Live Nasser" greeted the explosion. Mr. Krushchev wanted to strengthen yet further its friendship with the United Arab Republic.

"The imperialist method"

In the Western world there always talk about foreign aid but, he said: "If we analyze this we find that it is the imperialist method" Foreign money has been "transferred enormous sums by tobbing Africa."

President Nasser, who addressed the crowd, hailed the "stand of the Soviet Union in support of Egypt at Sallal, of the Yemen, joined in yesterday's ceremony. They heard him announce that President Nasser and Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, U.A.R. First Vice-President, had been awarded the title of Hero of the Soviet Union.

A MISSIONARY ANSWERS SUDAN ALLEGATIONS

The Fifth page of letters to the Editor

A man who worked as a Protestant missionary in the Sudan for a number of years, I would like to comment on the astonishing statement by the Sudanese in your issue of last Saturday, defending the gross violation of missionaries.

If the Sudan Government justified its action on the grounds that the missionaries were only guests in their country with no inherent right to stay in their country, they are doing, however, it is to place the blame for the rebellion now raging throughout the South on several hundred "politically-minded" missionaries.

To my knowledge, missionaries in the Sudan have been working for many years in the Sudan and have been recognized and respected. Many of these missionaries have been killed in the Sudan because of their work. It is not the Sudan Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan. It is the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan. It is the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan. It is the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan.

There has been considerable discussion in the Sudan about the missionaries. It is not the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan. It is the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan. It is the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan.

The statement serves to re-ignite the Sudanese Government's policy of repression and to place the blame for the rebellion on the missionaries. It is not the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan. It is the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan.

The Embassy statement is a clear attempt to place the blame for the rebellion on the missionaries. It is not the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan. It is the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan.

It is not the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan. It is the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan. It is the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan.

It is not the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan. It is the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan. It is the Sudanese Government that is responsible for the deaths of missionaries in the Sudan.

MEASURES TO AVOID AN OUTBREAK OF PLAGUE

YOU report that the Nairobi City Council has announced its intention to give priority to the cleaning of the drainage system in order to avoid an outbreak of plague. This is a laudable intention, but it will be of little value if similar plague spots are to be allowed to develop all over the town.

On the Nairobi Road, the second largest hospital in the city, the drainage system is in a state of complete disrepair. It is not the Nairobi City Council that is responsible for the deaths of plague victims in the Nairobi. It is the Nairobi City Council that is responsible for the deaths of plague victims in the Nairobi.

FERRY DRIVER—AND COLLECTOR OF SNAKES

A LIKONKI ferry driver, Mr. Victor Koenig, delightfully took up a small number of microfilm and said to one of his colleagues: "Why do I collect snakes?" For the same reason, I suppose, that others collect stamps or coins.

With that Mr. Koenig turned his attention to his collection of snakes. He has a small collection of snakes which he has kept in a box in his room. He has a small collection of snakes which he has kept in a box in his room. He has a small collection of snakes which he has kept in a box in his room.

POT PLANTS FOR THE HOME

by JS ADAMS

TO the layman a pot plant is just a pot. But a beginner soon learns that a pot plant is a living creature. It has its own life and its own way of thinking.

No hard rule

I suppose the question "How often should I water?" is one that is asked most often. The answer is that there is no hard rule. It depends on the plant and the weather.

Many positions

An old maxim is that a pot plant should be watered from the top. This is not always true. Some plants prefer to be watered from the bottom. It depends on the plant and the weather.

New grain storage methods can save Kenya farmers nearly £¼m. a year

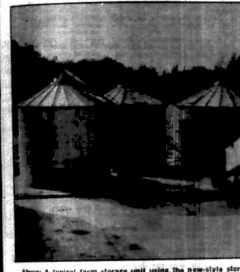

By ALAN ROBERTS
MODERN methods of bulk grain storage, save Kenya's wheat farmers nearly £250,000 every year. During the last ten years in Kenya, could eventually Recent developments in the handling and storage of grain in Britain and America have not only led to improved quality, wheat, which forms the basic ingredient of bread, has long been obtained in greater quantity in East Africa, requires more to be taken by producers than the area can harvest. Great quantities of grain are now stored in bulk stores, but these have not met the needs of the wheat farmer in the last ten years when wheat exports have risen to a level of a decade or so ago.

HAZARDOUS
But until now sacks of grain have been taken into farm storage in wall built haystacks. These haystacks are not only a fire hazard, but they are also a source of grain loss. The grain is often damaged by insects and rodents, and the loss of grain is often considerable. The new grain storage methods, which are now being introduced in Kenya, are designed to overcome these problems.

PREFERRED
Any farmer or co-operative society who wishes to store grain in bulk should consider the advantages of the new grain storage methods. These methods are designed to provide a safe and secure method of storing grain, and to prevent the loss of grain to insects and rodents.

It is interesting to note that in America, where the bulk storage of grain has been in use for many years, the loss of grain to insects and rodents is very small. This is because the grain is stored in a safe and secure method, and the loss of grain is prevented. The new grain storage methods, which are now being introduced in Kenya, are designed to provide a safe and secure method of storing grain, and to prevent the loss of grain to insects and rodents.

LARGEST
Bulk storage of grain involves the use of the same principle as that used in the new grain storage methods. The grain is stored in a safe and secure method, and the loss of grain is prevented. The new grain storage methods, which are now being introduced in Kenya, are designed to provide a safe and secure method of storing grain, and to prevent the loss of grain to insects and rodents.

Above: A typical farm storage unit using the new-style storage bins. The bulked grain has been tipped into a receiving unit and is being elevated into a bin by means of a conveyor. The bulk grain stores, containing a floor mill. Each of these bins holds 1,500 tons of grain.

CHANGE IN BANKS' CLEARING TIMES

Banks in Kisumu announce that, due to rearrangement in the clearing times, as from the 18th May, 1966, the fate of all cheques drawn on these Banks will now be down on the afternoon of the day following payment to a customer's account.

Customers who wish to draw cash against these items may now do so on the business day after lodgement, and it is emphasized that the Banks reserve the right at their discretion to refuse payment of cheques drawn against uncollected funds, and that those customers who are authorised to draw cash against such items are in no way affected.

Customers tendering cheques drawn on other banks in Kisumu in payment of due bills must present such cheques to the Bank before 10.30 a.m. on the day the Bill falls due. Subject to the usual charge of five shillings per Bank in the Kisumu area, cheques may be specifically presented and an answer obtained before the close of business provided they are lodged before 11.30 a.m. on weekdays and 10.30 a.m. on Saturdays.

Opposition to irrigation condemned

IMPLEMENTATION of the proposed irrigation scheme in the Kano area of Central Nyassa is the answer to the flood situation there.

This was said by the Minister for Home Affairs, Mr. Odling, when he addressed flood victims in transit camps in the Nyakach and Kano localities yesterday.

The Government would not sit back and see people suffer because of a few agitators who were opposed to the scheme. The flood situation was a national problem, and the Government was doing all it could to help the refugees.

He warned the Government was doing all it could to help the refugees.

Trade hopes 'great' says Minister

Uganda's Minister of State at the Board of Trade, Mr. Edward du Cann, yesterday spoke about increasing trade between Britain and Uganda and Tanganyika.

It was Uganda's responsibility, Mr. du Cann said in Kampala, to project itself and industry towards the investment potential which existed in the country. But he would not rule out the possibility of a boom in Uganda for themselves.

U.N. force for Vietnam urged

The United Nations Security Council was told yesterday that the "long crisis" in South-East Asia had taken a turn for the worse, and that the United States took a "very grave view" of recent events.

The U.S. delegate, Mr. Stevenson, said his Government was prepared to contribute to a U.N. force to restore stability along the South Vietnam-China frontier.

He indicated proposals that the United Nations send a fact-finding mission to South Vietnam, and that what was proposed was not a U.N. force, but a U.N. mission to investigate the situation.

WE'RE STANDARD

Garissa — newest regional capital

It was when the East African Protectorate (later Kenya) was formed, the present North-Eastern Region and Jaland were an integral part of it. For many years the area was part of what was variously known as the Northwest Province, Northern Frontier Province and Northern Frontier District.

During the latter half of the 19th century the British territories of the Horn of Africa began a southward expansion down the Coast into what was to become British Somaliland and Jaland (later parts of the British Somaliland).

For some 20 years there was no civil administration in the eastern parts of the N.E.P.F. In 1895, early days of the "British sphere of influence" before the advent of the N.E.P.F., was proclaimed there. In 1900, the British Government announced the British East Africa Protectorate covering the area of the Tana River stretching from the Indian Ocean to the Victoria Nile.

Then in the 1920s, civil administration was extended over the whole country. The headquarters for the Northern Region was sometimes at Meroy, sometimes at Marakali and sometimes at Isaka. Isaka was transferred to British Somaliland while Marakali remained in the east of the N.E.P.F.

Among the places where administrative centres were set up were Meroy and Wajir. What was to become Garissa District was then named "Northern District" with its headquarters at Marakali, except a name on the map. The site is some miles west of Isaka. In 1927 the Talamashir headquarters was moved to Isaka, which became a trading centre. In 1930, the district headquarters were moved to Garissa.

One of the first traders to follow the administration to Garissa was Mr. "Tommy" Thompson, who all parties on the national front has believed that the centre was moved after a 1930s game was held there.

During the Second World War many Commonwealth troops were stationed at Garissa and it was subjected to a number of bombing raids by the Italians. An important building was hit and a bridge across the Tana River was destroyed.

The implementation of the Federal self-government Constitution at the end of the old, east N.E.P.F. Three parts of the Mandera, Wajir and Garissa districts lying to the east of Garissa, which were being transferred to the Northern Region, at which the headquarters is Garissa.

It was chosen because it had the best communications with the rest of the country and because it had the best water supply of the three districts. It also remains the headquarters of Garissa district, its sudden elevation to a regional headquarters has naturally created something of an accommodation problem. This is aggravated by the delta activities which necessitate the presence of security forces.

The senior regional staff have moved into housing which formerly belonged to district officials while the latter have moved into accommodation which was occupied by junior staff. As a result some district officers are living in temporary accommodation with concrete walls and tiled roofs. A large housing building programme is in operation, to meet the situation, which affects both officers and living accommodation. The best houses of this nature are so far completed and will be occupied each week. Over the coming months more will be completed each week, as the programme is maintained. The presence of the river not only means a plentiful water supply but also means Garissa the greatest of the region's centres. It is the only port on the region in which it is possible to store a large amount of goods. It is also the only port in which it is possible to store a large amount of goods. It is also the only port in which it is possible to store a large amount of goods.

This is one of the other houses erected for accommodative government officials at Garissa. Note the mosquito-proof "bags" on this flat roof where the mosquito does.

Now Garissa was elevated in status to a regional headquarters the town has been faced with a housing shortage. This picture shows some of the tented accommodation in which senior district staff are having to live.

Above, the building, together are just to a building erected and/or the large house-building scheme, which is under way at Garissa. Top, the new bridge which links the Coast and the East African Region across the Tana River at Garissa.

the low-priced car with the East African know-how!

Here's a car with first-hand experience of East African conditions even before it arrived—thanks to lessons learned here, the hard way!

Here are just some of the results, brought about by extensive research and exhaustive tests, now incorporated into the Hillman Minx '1600' Mark V:

- * Completely re-designed suspension system—excellent all-round comfort, even on macadam
- * Hypoid rear axle 4.22:1, allowing higher cruising speeds without engine stress
- * Fuel tank capacity 10 gallons—10% longer range
- * Disc brakes fitted to front—for greater safety
- * Ample ground clearance for any kind of safety—7" plus
- * 15" wheels—for good performance on macadam, mud-puddling ability, ample ground clearance, extra comfort
- * New low price for a 1600cc car—only £799 (N.A.I.R.O.B.)

Hillman Husky £760
 Super Minx Saloon £899
 Estate £960

But don't just take our word for it. Come and try it—come and see for yourself—no obligation, of course!

KENYA TO RECEIVE SINO-SOVIET AID

Standard Staff Reporter, Nairobi.
AID and trade have occupied the largest share of the news this week and undoubtedly the main point has been the aid offering to Kenya by the new major Communist countries, Russia and China, as the result of the recent visit of a ministerial delegation to Moscow and Peking.

First to be announced was China which promised both financial and technical aid for a number of scientific projects.

Next to be contrast, as it were, was Russia, a new initiative and offer for 1968, which will be carried out by experts from the USSR.

Russia has promised both financial and technical aid for a number of scientific projects.

THE WEEK IN EAST AFRICA

Standard Staff Reporter, Nairobi.
The week ended with the news that the United States had announced that it would provide assistance to the construction of certain agricultural projects in Kenya. This country's food production is a very and major factor in its economic development. The aid will be in the form of a grant of $10 million for the construction of a dam on the Athi River. The dam will be 100 metres long and will generate 100,000 kilowatts of electricity. The dam will be built on the Athi River, which is one of the major rivers in Kenya. World Endurance Record!

Day and night for 117 days, through rain, heat wave and the dread 'Mistral', a standard Taunus 12M has set up an incredible record for performance on the road. Driving the equivalent of 15 years' driving, with its standard V4 engine, 4-speed gearbox and front-wheel drive, it shattered no more than 100 records by cars of every class. Oil and fuel costs were minimal. And the Taunus 12M did the whole 300,000 kms (approx 186,000 mls) in better than 106 kms per hour (65 mph)!

THE B.O.A.C. VC10

TRIUMPHANTLY SWIFT, SILENT, SERENE

The VC10 is a plane of majestic power. It is triumphantly fast. Yet the VC10 is the quietest, smoothest plane you can fly in. For the power is in the tail. The four Rolls-Royce Conway jets are rear-mounted and you fly in the comfort and silence ahead of the power. This magnificent plane comes into regular scheduled service between Nairobi and London in June. And so BOAC moves a clear six years ahead of any other airline.

PROVED ROLLS-ROYCE POWER FROM 4 CONWAY JETS.
BOAC was first with jets. Now they bring you the VC10 built by the British Aircraft Corporation. Its advanced Rolls-Royce Conway engines are developed from the experience gained in 26 million hours of jet service in the air. With a thrust of 21,000 lbs. each, the new Conway R. Co. 4216 are the most powerful civil jet engines in the world.

'Tom Jones' hairstyle brought success

WHAT does a pop singer have to do to make it big in the charts? This is a question which every aspiring Elvis Presley or Beatle fan must ask himself. It is just a question of knowing how far to go with a gimmick (assuming he does have talent).

Well, just under two months ago a Smith was a little-known recording artist. But then there were American television agents interested in including him in their American tour. This was because of his hairstyle. It was a question of knowing how far to go with a gimmick (assuming he does have talent).

His first show was recorded in a village of publicity. He had the man to take the picture. This was the immediate reaction of the people after having listened to the disc. They were all in a commotion, with Miss M. in the front row.

Earnings and traffic again increase

UPGAGES of traffic and earnings of East African Railways and Harbours, which began late in 1962 and continued in 1963, were underlined by the East African Commission on Development and Planning, reported to the chairman of the East African Commonwealth Commission.

Although the continued results of 1963, which are expected to be a deficit of £250,000, are expected to be a deficit of £250,000, it was pointed out that the background of exceptional costs was related to a vigorous programme of Africanisation and training and the resultant costs of retiring expatriate staff.

The committee comments on the fears of the general staff of the railways. It states: "The East African Railways and Harbours in terms of capital investment and service efficiency effects are not only the best in the region but also in the world. It is our intention to keep the position and to continue to improve it."

The three East African Governments have embarked upon development programmes of a scale which are inevitably well beyond their own resources and have placed upon this administration a great burden of expenditure which is being met by the East African Commonwealth Commission.

OVERSEAS RECRUITING POSSIBLE

"Recognising this, as well as the fact that so rapid serious consequences, if it is our intention to keep the position and to continue to improve it."

This is in line with the policy pursued by the three Governments, particularly in the field of planning and development. It is clear that the three Governments are aware of the possibility of employing overseas staff to supplement the recruitment of expatriate personnel from outside East Africa.

GOVERNMENT KEEPS CASH CONTROL

Transition to regions extended six months

MR. KENYATTA announced yesterday that the Kenya Government is to continue to control the financing of regional services for a further six months, until the end of this year.

Announcing the extension after a Cabinet meeting, the Prime Minister said the move was necessitated by changing circumstances and the fact that a review of the Constitution was being made.

Calling for the decision to be loyal accepted, Mr. Kenyatta went on to warn that there was no question of Regional Assemblies proceeding on local government revenues in this year.

He also said that there was no need for Regional advised banks and other lending bodies and that Government approval before extending overdraft or central bank facilities to the Assemblies for the present.

Most complicated Constitution

"The text of the Prime Minister's statement was as follows:—

"Apart from the fact that the first month after independence was a period of transition, the Kenya Government has responsibilities to regions and in the financial arrangements governing the Regional and Central Government revenues and budgets.

"It was also concluded at the time of independence that Kenya had acquired one of the most complicated Constitutions ever given to a newly independent State.

"My Government has therefore had to proceed on the basis of the working of the Constitution as it was at the time of independence, and to make such adjustments as were necessary to enable the general working of the Constitution to continue.

"Under the present Constitution, we are experiencing difficulties in the way of the Government's work, and the Government will have to be obliged to do so.

"The Government is therefore extending the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

"I am sure that the Government will be able to do so in a way which will be to the benefit of the people of Kenya."

Time to budget

"This financial year of government is a transitional year. It will be followed by a year in which the Government will be able to do so in a way which will be to the benefit of the people of Kenya."

"The Government is therefore extending the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year."

More typhoid

More than 200 cases of typhoid fever have been reported in Kenya since the beginning of the year.

The Government is therefore extending the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

Banks warned

"Banks and other lending institutions are being warned by the Government that they must not exceed the limits of their overdraft facilities."

The Government is therefore extending the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

Day of mourning

Yesterday was observed as a day of mourning by the Government in memory of the late Mr. Kenyatta.

The Government is therefore extending the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

MR. NGALA IS 'SHOCKED'

The president of Kulu, Mr. M. Ngala, said he was shocked by the Government's decision to extend the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

The Government is therefore extending the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

MR. ODINGA ACCUSED BY MEMBERS

Members of the Kenya Legislative Council have accused Mr. Odinga of being a member of the Government.

The Government is therefore extending the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

Indians pay final homage to leader

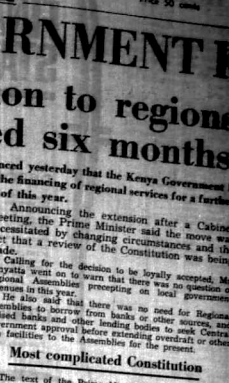

The body of Mr. Nehru, covered with flowers, sandalwood and silk, was cremated on a funeral pyre in New Delhi yesterday in the presence of the biggest crowd of mourners seen in India since Gandhi's death.

The dead Premier's 18-year-old grandson, Shriyaji, while priests announced the body to righteous chanting youth thrush a torch into the pyre and flowers engulfed it.

Some mourners are remaining in the pyre for 48 hours, after which the ash will be taken to the family, and after that will be carried to the family shrine at Allahabad.

Mr. Nehru's body was taken to the pyre by a train from New Delhi.

Mr. Nehru's body was taken to the pyre by a train from New Delhi.

The Kenia Cabinet yesterday planned to travel to New Delhi to pay final homage to the late Mr. Nehru, and to attend the funeral of the late Premier. The Prime Minister, Mr. Kenyatta, is seen in the foreground, surrounded by other members of the cabinet.

The body of Mr. Nehru, covered with flowers, sandalwood and silk, was cremated near the same pyre in New Delhi yesterday in the presence of the biggest crowd of mourners seen in India since Gandhi's death.

KATANGA CAPITAL OVERRUN

SUPPORTERS of the Lufu wing Congo rebel Prince Nkomo have overrun the Katanga capital Albertville, the Belgian Viceroy, Sir Clarendon D'Almeida, said yesterday.

Prince Nkomo's forces, which are led by the late President's son, have overrun the city and are now moving towards the town of Lubumbashi.

The Belgian Viceroy said that the rebels had overrun the city and were now moving towards the town of Lubumbashi.

The weather

The weather in Kenya is expected to be clear and sunny with a high of 75 degrees and a low of 55 degrees.

The Government is therefore extending the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

ONLY TWO IN DISCREEMENT

Only two members of the Kenya Legislative Council are in disagreement with the Government's decision to extend the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

The Government is therefore extending the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

Earth tremor

A strong noise and an earth tremor were felt in the town of Nairobi yesterday.

The Government is therefore extending the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

Every cloud has a silver lining

Every cloud has a silver lining, and the Government's decision to extend the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year, is no exception.

The Government is therefore extending the period for which it will be obliged to do so for a further six months, until the end of this year.

TRADE ENQUIRES: Reckitt, Colman 'O' Ltd., University Way, Nairobi.

THE success of a year ago forecast the doom of Kenya's dairy industry and it was held that African farmers were playing a hand in the success of the Government, said yesterday. The pessimists were confounded by the success of the African farmers who were able to outdo Government co-operatives.

LUCK OF THE DRAW CAN BEING YOUR A BRAND-NEW HOUSE

FOR those who cannot afford to build a house, the Kenya Homes Exhibition will be a most, fully furnished wooden prefabricated house. Whoever wins it is a raffle can have it even choosing.

During the few days of the exhibition, the houses will be on view in the gardens of the City Hall. It is complete right down to the last detail. Even the furniture on the walls will be contributed—by donations at the Royal Palace.

The house is ideal for a bachelor or young couple, or it would grace any garden as a guesthouse. It has one bedroom, bathroom, kitchen, living-dining room and a porch.

Executives of Timbers have evolved the idea of this "do-it-yourself" style house designed by the Kenya-born architect, Mr. Richard Hughes.

In design and construction, the house is simple to erect. It is so simple to erect that instructions can even be in a matter of days—erected only with a few tools. The construction of the house would be completed in 10 to 15 days—rather than the usual 30 days.

Every item of furniture, equipment and appliances in the house are included in the price. They are:

- Timber Ltd.
- Shanti and Colonial Ltd.
- Vans East Africa Ltd.
- Moses Perpetua Ltd.
- Reyal Art
- Mathew and Paul Collins Ltd.
- R. S. Campbell and Co. Ltd.
- Harriet and Sons Ltd.
- W. T. H. and Sons Ltd.
- Esplanade Transport Co. Ltd.
- Grayson and Co. Ltd.

Red cedar framing is used for doors and windows. There is no ready standard pattern—for the whole point of a Timbers prefabricated house is that it can be made in many sizes to suit owner's taste. Additional rooms can be added to the house—simply by erecting a few more walls and windows in another year.

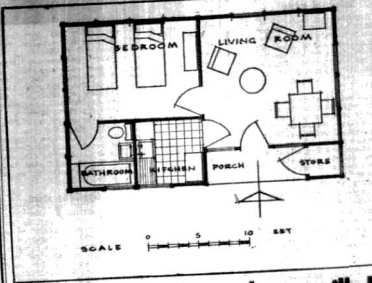

Flow control mechanism with 1000 lb. capacity. The house will be a most, fully furnished wooden prefabricated house. Whoever wins it is a raffle can have it even choosing.

Australian food products will be a feature

WHEN the organizers of the Kenya Homes Exhibition decided to include foods, Australian companies expecting an excellent co-operation from their agents in Kenya. I have been able to organize in two stands a combined display of some of the leading Australian foods and wines which you can buy off this market.

By the Australian Government Trade Commissioner, Mr. J. M. Keadle.

To those who are not acquainted with the past that Australia is playing today in the world with food, it may interest you to know that Australia is one of the largest exporters of food and there are very few countries which are not consumers. Huge quantities of wheat, flour, sugar, fresh fruit, dairy products and meat of all kinds are exported, the main customers being the United Kingdom, Eastern countries, although East Africa is a buyer of Australian wheat and meat.

In Kenya, Australia is better known for its canned and packaged foods, with a variety of canned fruits—peaches, apricots, pears, apples—which are generally not grown locally. The same applies to canned vegetables such as tomatoes and to canned soups, macaroni, pickles and many other items. Then there are the dry foods—breakfast cereals, rice, tinned fruits, cocoa and confectionery. Finally, but by no means the least, there are world-famous Australian wines and Australian spirits.

In Kenya, the demand for Australian foods and wines is continually increasing and you will have had them stocked by most leading stores. This is not surprising in view of the rich quality which goes into all Australian products. The natural advantages of good soil, scientific methods of cultivation and food processing which preserve the vitamins, resulting in rich food and energy building foods.

I suggest you inspect the foods on display at the Australian stands and then try them for yourself.

Australia sends and exports a wide range of food delicacies for world markets, including East Africa, and products will be displayed at the exhibition. Above, oranges, unsprayed from the delivery crates, in put on the production line in the first stage of operations at an Australian cannery.

Four workers armed with hammers and simple tools were shown to erect the Timbers prefabricated house on the grounds of the City Hall gardens this week. All that remains to be done is the house's components and a team of men can erect one in a day or two. Timbers executive James A. Fergusson said the "do-it-yourself" houses which could well replace the traditional ones.

Away from the old idea

"Kango Homes" remarked a well-known author, "are furnished with a mixture of English traditional and African."

We all know houses filled with solid mahogany brought from England by the early settlers, with the Welsh dresser holding pride of place, and last not least or failing to give our draped melancholically over the chairs or dropped on the polished floor. Now there is a trend for more modern furniture, mixed with genuine or reproduction antique.

Above: The interior of Lovers' Cottage, in a superb mixture of the new trend, with a touch of the old, in the dining room furniture and in the dining room chairs.

Below right: The Lindsay dining room, in which they have placed over the millstone of the great wing.

Below left: The ultra-modern kitchen set, with modern steel and chrome, Korean tile and modern in spirit, could not be approved of this.

East African Standard Supplement on the VC10

THE B·O·A·C VC10

TRIUMPHANTLY SWIFT, SILENT, SERENE

The VC10 is a plane of majestic power. It is triumphantly fast. Yet the VC10 is the quietest, smoothest plane you can fly in. For the power is in the tail. The four Rolls-Royce Conway jets are rear-mounted and you fly in the comfort and silence ahead of the power. This magnificent plane comes into regular scheduled service between Nairobi and London in June. And so BOAC moves a clear six years ahead of any other airline.

PROVED ROLLS-ROYCE POWER FROM 4 CONWAY JETS.
BOAC was first with jets. Now they bring you the VC10 built by the British Aircraft Corporation. Its advanced Rolls-Royce Conway engines are developed from the experience gained in 26 million hours of jet service in the air. With a thrust of 21,000 lbs. each, the new Conway R. Co. 421s are the most powerful civil jet engines in the world.

BRITISH OVERSEAS AIRWAYS CORPORATION AND ASSOCIATE AIRLINES

Background to the VC10

EVERY airliner has its origin in a requirement. In the case of the VC10 the requirement was written by B.O.A.C. In March, 1957, the corporation was looking seven years ahead to the need for an aircraft which could replace the Britannia and the Comet on its far-eastern and African routes. It foresees that the aircraft chosen would have to be competitive in every respect with the American big jets which were then seen to be likely to set the standards for international air travel. It would also have to be capable of operating without economic penalty from the difficult 'hot and high' airfields found on the eastern and African routes.

New layout considered

The Vickers aircraft company at Weybridge, Surrey, now part of the British Aircraft Corporation, had been looking at the jet transport market for several years. After the cancellation of the V100 at the end of 1955 we turned to the medium-haul markets as an outlet for our civil jet designs. Whereas the V1000 was aerodynamically comparable with the Valiant bomber, the Conway engines being buried in the wings, we now began to consider the possibilities of a rear-engined layout so boldly pioneered by the French with their Canards.

Essential design

Our interest then turned to the B.O.A.C. requirement. The critical sector was from Singapore to Karachi, a distance of some 3,000 miles, rather than for a specialised freighter service at a lower frequency. I can ascertain that the VC10 will prove immensely popular with passengers because, in my view, it offers a smooth and comfortable travel in such pleasant surroundings as I have in this new jetliner. With its spacious rear seats it will also play a valuable part in the expanding international movement of air freight. B.O.A.C. is proud to be the first to initiate the era of the second generation jetliners which with very few changes

By Sir George Edwards
managing director
of the British Aircraft Corporation

The VC10 design proposed to B.O.A.C. for the African and eastern routes could be "stretched" to make the aircraft suitable for the North Atlantic route also. Our studies showed that this could be achieved without seriously impairing the performance required from secondary routes. Two factors made this possible, the size of the wing had been dictated by 100 seats, therefore extra load could be accommodated without difficulty, and British Airways had provided considerable help in the power installation of future Conway engines. A contract for 38 VC10s, with an option on a further 20, was signed by B.O.A.C. in January 1958. The contract was subsequently been renegotiated to cover a total of 42 aircraft, to be of an extra large Super VC10.

Main differences

The main differences between the Super VC10 and the standard aircraft are an increase of 10% in the length of the fuselage, which gives the Super four additional rows of seats, increased engine power, and provision for extra fuel capacity. Another variation has been the development of a large sub-fuselage door in the fuselage forward of the wing, enabling the aircraft to operate as a freighter or as a conventional passenger/freighter aircraft incorporating this door will be delivered to B.O.A.C. by the Royal Air Force, British United Airways and Ghana Airways.

Keeping ahead

We have looked forward, in partnership with B.O.A.C., to the introduction of the VC10 to public service. We are confident that this aircraft, which is only at the beginning of its useful life, has a considerable development potential which will keep it ahead well into the 1970s. As one involved in the super-transport programme I still believe that there will be a continuing demand for some equipment over the advent of the Comet. Coupled with a better programme of engine maintenance the VC10 could well equal or surpass the Comet in the 1970s.

SIR GILES GUTHRIE TALKS ABOUT THE FIRST 'SECOND GENERATION' JETLINER

THE advent of the VC10 jetliner is of significance not only to B.O.A.C. and Britain. It is a notable event in the wider context of world-wide civil aviation. The first long-range inter-continental jetliner to have four jet-mounted engines, the VC10 is also the largest aircraft ever to enter production in Europe, the world's most powerful long-range airliner and the first to be designed to use auto-rotate and automatic landing gear as soon as they are ready for regular commercial airline operation.

Sir Giles Guthrie has been chairman of B.O.A.C. since January 1, 1964.

Later, larger Super VC10s, the new airliner came into service in April, starting on routes from Britain to West Africa making its debut on scheduled flights early in 1964. To cater for an anticipated increase in cargo traffic we set eastern routes of some 20 to 30 per cent a year over the next five years. Many of our Super VC10s are to be delivered as cargo passenger/freight aircraft. They will accommodate cargo on pallets in the forward part of the fuselage and economy class passenger seating at the rear. A movable bulkhead will permit a variety of configurations, varying between four cargo pallets and 150 seats and seven pallets and 60 seats. In the latter version the cargo capacity, including the normal freight bulkhead, will be about 20 tons. The right "overstow" will be suitable for use as air-cargo.

The decision to order three Super VC10s to handle the growing volume of freight on the eastern routes was prompted by the fact that the need on this portion of our network for moderate capacity at high frequency through a large number of routes—rather than for a specialised freighter service at a lower frequency.

I can ascertain that the VC10 will prove immensely popular with passengers because, in my view, it offers a smooth and comfortable travel in such pleasant surroundings as I have in this new jetliner. With its spacious rear seats it will also play a valuable part in the expanding international movement of air freight. B.O.A.C. is proud to be the first to initiate the era of the second generation jetliners which with very few changes

A triumph for Britain...an honour for Dunlop

On June 3 the VC10 will soar with witness and silence on its inaugural flight westward from Nairobi. This, the world's most advanced long-distance jet plane and its longest-ranging companion the Super VC10 represent a tremendous achievement by the British Aircraft Corporation. It is a triumph for Britain which gives the world a new type of jetliner. It is an honour for Dunlop which gives the world a new type of aircraft tyre. All of these new planes being supplied to B.O.A.C. are equipped with Dunlop tyres.

which, breaks, Maxtor control units and other parts. The Rolls-Royce Conway jet engines, the world's most advanced long-distance jet engine, has been furthered for many years by Dunlop. Dunlop's manufacturing resources have been, and are being directed towards the design and production of aircraft offering greater efficiency, safety and economy.

AT YOUR SERVICE

BOAC believes that the key to good service in the air is careful training of the pilots. This team of stewards and stewardesses who provide the all-time pleasant cabin service aboard BOAC airliners, and the men who work on the flight deck guiding the jetliner swiftly and surely to their destinations, are all highly trained experts in their own fields.

By
CAPT. A. S. M. RENDALL
Flight commander,
BOAC VC10 flight

Good cabin service involves many aspects of passenger comfort in addition to the provision of carefully prepared meals and the serving of the very best of drinks. In addition, a special VC10 cocktail Menu is specially prepared for the use of passengers. From select trimmings in the main meals to banks of pastries—the table also specially prepared for the VC10.

All BOAC stewards and stewardesses spend eight weeks at the training school at Luton, near Airport, where, in addition to the theoretical and service aspects of their work, they study many subjects, including:

- Under-structure of the runway
- How to take off
- How to land
- How to fly
- How to handle the aircraft
- How to take off
- How to land
- How to fly
- How to handle the aircraft

Although many respects the VC10 is a revolutionary aircraft, the amazing impression of it is a combination of long felt wants and well established practice. Nothing could be anticipated to afford the pilot more gratification unless it is the knowledge that the passengers are enjoying a flight of unopposed control.

Correct with the religious and moralists, and the most forward thinking and passenger psychology. Practical training of the pilot is carried out in a "mock-up" which simulates, with accuracy, procedures on the ground. The knowledge that the cabin staff will carry out with any confidence.

Three-dimensional dimensional which enables the pilot to see the runway and to make his landing visually. Likewise, the simulator flying has been designed to simulate the flight instruments with the flight instruments.

Keeping her country in Kenya's eye

By ANITA HENDERSON

EVERY foreign embassy or consulate craves a representative on Nairobi—a young African woman of quiet charm, Miss Jacqueline Simat, who has been the link between the French overseas country since 1921.

Miss Simat was a seventeen-year-old girl when she was sent to Kenya where she was born, when the French Mandate first broke out. During the time the Germans occupied her country she was sent to go to school in the capital and was fortunate in that she was able to study in a family in common with the usual wartime advantage, they suffered no particular hardship.

By the time she was 20, Miss Simat had completed her schooling and armed with a diploma received from the higher commercial school, she went to France to study for her university diploma in commerce and industrial studies. She took her first year in 1925.

She was sent in charge of the export department of a firm dealing in wines and cognac acquired a good technical knowledge of wine in the process. Particularly, she does not drink wine of ordinary kind and every foreigner's wine is a trial to her taste. She was, for two years, the only French woman in Nairobi in the Philippines and an ideal of Adolphe Franconi, an organization promoting French culture. The "Filles de France" who had been given independence, had been the hunger for something and bringing France to the attention of the natives.

THREE APPLES

ONE WONDER why a designer would give such a name as "Three Apples" to a dress collection, though it is true that the original French name, Trois Pommes, sounds better to the ears. Nothing could be further removed from first a round ray than the elegant designs of Genevieve Corne of Paris, three of which are reproduced here.

Above left: "Week-end"—a dress of white linen slashed with a vivid design of fruit (a pleated). Simply cut, but the material and the general effect are charming.

Above: "Autumn"—lines open, in dark blue with a pink crepe—also a colour combination which is becoming increasingly popular.

Left: "Dresses"—a high-waisted white linen dress with black "drenches". The designer of the material is obviously of the French "impressionist" school.

Aden send-off

Aden, 10th July (AP)—The British contingent of the United Nations Truce Supervision Commission (UNTSO) left Aden today for their headquarters in Beirut. The contingent, led by British Major-General Sir John Wood, had spent several weeks in Aden supervising the truce between the British and the Yemen Arab Republic.

The contingent consisted of about 100 personnel, including British, American, and French troops. They were accompanied by their families and a large amount of equipment.

The departure was marked by a large gathering of British and Yemeni officials. Major-General Wood addressed the gathering, expressing his appreciation for the cooperation and assistance he had received in Aden.

The contingent will arrive in Beirut tomorrow and will remain there until they are redeployed to other parts of the Middle East.

FIVE ARRESTS AFTER BOMB ATTACK

Police have arrested five persons in connection with a bomb attack on a bus in the city of Aden. The attack occurred on the morning of the 10th, when a bus carrying passengers from the city center to the airport was stopped by a group of men who threw a bomb at it.

The bus was damaged and several passengers were injured. The police are currently investigating the attack and have identified the five suspects. They are being held in custody and are expected to be charged with the crime of terrorism.

The police are also conducting a search for other individuals who may be involved in the attack. The city of Aden is currently under a state of emergency, and there are reports of increased security measures.

CALIFORNIA FALLS TO SENATOR

SOLD WATER

California, 10th July (AP)—The California State Assembly today rejected a bill that would have allowed the state to purchase water from the Colorado River. The bill, which was introduced by Senator John S. Gair, would have authorized the state to purchase up to 1 million acre-feet of water from the Colorado River for use in California.

The bill was defeated by a vote of 45 to 55. The opposition to the bill was led by the California Water Resources Board, which argued that the purchase of water from the Colorado River would be too expensive and would not be in the best interests of the state.

The bill would have allowed the state to purchase water from the Colorado River at a price of $100 per acre-foot. This price was significantly higher than the price that the state would have paid if it had purchased water from the Colorado River through the Colorado River Water Conservation District.

The bill's defeat means that the state will not be able to purchase water from the Colorado River at the proposed price. This could have significant implications for water supply in California, particularly in the Central Valley.

Conscription in Malaysia

The Malaysian Government today announced that it would conscript 15,000 young men for military service. The conscription would be carried out in the up-country areas of the country, where there is a high concentration of young men.

The government announced that the conscription would be carried out in two waves. The first wave would consist of 7,500 young men, and the second wave would consist of 7,500 young men. The conscription would be carried out over a period of six months.

The government announced that the conscription would be carried out in the up-country areas of the country, where there is a high concentration of young men. The government also announced that it would provide training and equipment for the conscripts.

IN SEARCH OF ELEPHANTS

To get photographs like these you need more than a camera, the right aperture and an elephant. You need an elephant.

Or so it seems after talking to a Nairobi photographer, Max Coppes, who got these Uganda, recently USING A STANDARD

Max does not believe in special telephoto attachments on his camera. "That is too easy," he told me. "It is much more fun to try to stalk the animal and get close up to it before using the camera."

"Using a long lens from a car is like shooting an animal in a zoo."

But sometimes, in his eagerness to get the elephants relaxes in focus. Max's enthusiasm gets him into trouble. Like the picture (below right).

"He was standing there, docile, and explained."

"It was a wonderful opportunity so I went nearer — and nearer."

But as he made his "kill" the elephant charged angrily, forcing the photographer to flail himself to the ground just in time. Max had no hard feelings for, as the Dutchman pointed out: "As you can see from the picture the poor beast had been shot in the ear or some time or other and he obviously thought my camera was another gun."

"After all, elephants do not forget, you know."

And, as if this was not enough for one day, Max drove farther into elephant country in search of more "traps."

"Again, he landed in trouble. This time it was a whole herd which threatened him with death."

Let him tell the story.

"I slept the night in the car and when I awoke I saw the windshield was filled with the massive legs of what I knew was a very large elephant."

"A whole herd had gathered around me but they just blinked disinterestedly as I started the motor."

"I must admit I was worried — for any one of them could have squashed the car through them — and when I got clear I saw it was a lucky escape."

But still, he mentioned Max had five more days in search of more pictures and more danger from the massive animals.

"It's fun," he said. "Why don't you come with me some time?"

I declined.

June the month for marrying...

... BUT NOT, IT SEEMS, IN EAST AFRICA AS THIS SURVEY OF WEDDING CUSTOMS BY ANITA MacGIBBON SHOWS.

In many countries of the Western world, June, when spring has just passed, is held in high esteem and "lucky" days in safety pass, is generally accepted as the best marrying month.

Wives' imaginations will drive a woman to marry in the month of June, but in East Africa, however, June has no particular significance. It would appear that there are fewer weddings at this time perhaps because in this country June and July are two of the coldest months of the year. In Kenya a girl is much more likely to go to the altar around Christmas or the New Year.

The preparations for a wedding in the West are very much more elaborate than in East Africa. In Kenya, the bride and groom are usually accompanied by a large party of relatives and friends. The wedding is held in a church or a hall, and is followed by a reception at the bride's home.

The bride's parents invite the guests and pay for the reception. In East Africa, however, the bride and groom are usually accompanied by a large party of relatives and friends. The wedding is held in a church or a hall, and is followed by a reception at the bride's home.

The wedding reception may be held at a hotel or a club. In East Africa, however, the bride and groom are usually accompanied by a large party of relatives and friends. The wedding is held in a church or a hall, and is followed by a reception at the bride's home.

I was feeling on "Fashion Day"

I am a regular Tampax user

On certain days of the month, I feel I am a regular Tampax user. I use Tampax tampons because they are so comfortable and convenient. They are so soft and so absorbent that I never have to change them often. I use Tampax tampons because they are so comfortable and convenient. Uncertain Farming progress

THE Kenya Government had gone a long way towards reducing uncertainty in the country's economy, the president said at the Farmers' Union, Mr. J. B. Polhill, said at the union's monthly conference yesterday.

2,000 AFRICAN MEMBERS

Mr. Polhill said that the Government had done a great deal to reduce uncertainty in the country's economy, but that there was still a long way to go. He said that the Government had introduced a long-term plan for farm purchases, but that this was still being developed by uncertainty — and uncertainty was the worst enemy of progressive farming.

A HOME ON THE ADRIATIC

Consider the Royal Italian Batare, near Brindisi on the Italian Adriatic coast, for a permanent home, for retirement for holidays, as a splendid investment. Year-round sunny climate, charming living costs, chiefly English-speaking community, an exciting investment in rising Italian real estate values, and in Roma Marina development. Work has started to make a complete new sea-side resort with made-up roads, all main services, hotels, shops. The development is to be owned and operated by a Canadian public company. Plots are still available at 1/4th per sq. ft. 10,000 per acre. (A generally sized plot about 2700' x 250' permits investment, balance of 1000' x 100' for a 2000' x 100' plot. The development is to be owned and operated by a Canadian public company. Plots are still available at 1/4th per sq. ft. 10,000 per acre.)

- The three stars of low-voltage projection
- The screen brilliance of the projector with low-voltage 12-watt 110-volt lamp approximately equals the light output of a 30-watt mains lamp.
- A low-voltage lamp is cheaper to buy and to run than a mains lamp.
- The filament is far more concentrated and therefore produces a greater light intensity. Because of the higher colour temperature the screen image is whiter, and the very low heat generation keeps the slide projection temperature considerably lower.

Race snapp for photographers after big game shots is testimony the Ngongoro Centre Lodges, perched high up on the rim. Before descending to see the birds of game on the water's edge, the lodge itself makes a fascinating photographic subject.

Taking pictures of big game

By ROGER Mc-KAY

AT Mombasa we walked down to the water-hole. There's an "ack-ack" bull bellow that the trees," I whispered to my client. As I turned to repeat the information to his wife her stooped and hurried a stone into the thorn tree. With horror I watched it land, but our luck was in, the elephant took the slightest notice of the missile, and we were able to retire to a safe distance.

That is simply an instance of the 1970s. It is necessary to be aware of the presence of dangerous game. As you are about to enter the Nairobi National Park and its vicinity, you are advised to get a better picture of the area than you get from one day's drive of it. It is necessary to get some exclusive photographic coverage. It is necessary to get a better picture of the area than you get from one day's drive of it. Camera shake Camera shake is probably one of the greatest causes of blurred photographs. It is caused by the camera moving during the exposure. This can be caused by the camera being held in an unsteady position, or by the camera being moved during the exposure. To avoid camera shake, it is necessary to use a tripod, or to use a camera with a built-in image stabilizer. It is also necessary to use a fast shutter speed, and to use a lens with a wide aperture.

Impossible to lay down fast rules into believing that the exposure had been made. When the camera was held in a steady position, the exposure was made. It is impossible to lay down fast rules for taking photographs of big game. It is necessary to be patient, and to wait for the right moment. It is also necessary to be prepared for anything that might happen.

Top price range
As in the case of the Hasselblad and the Bronica, the price of the camera is a major factor in the decision to buy. The Hasselblad is a high-end camera, and the Bronica is a more affordable camera. Both cameras are excellent, and both are worth the money. It is necessary to choose a camera that fits your budget, and that meets your needs.

YOU ARE NOT SATISFIED?

Why are you usually disappointed after trying other brands of film? Because you are not getting the most out of your camera. You are not getting the most out of your camera because you are not using the right film. You are not getting the most out of your camera because you are not using the right film.

WHEN IT COMES TO GOOD PHOTOGRAPHY!

Horrible, isn't it? But a good picture nevertheless

Good game photography requires:

- a high-class long telephoto lens, which is not heavy and has a good definition that full-plate enlargements come out like nothing else
- a rapid-focusing device and automatic diaphragm for fast, accurate, reliable single-lens reflex camera of high technical standard in short, a ZEISS IKON CONTAREX with Olympus Sonnar 150 mm

... and don't forget! the DONTAREX is fitted with INTERCHANGEABLE MAGAZINE for alternative shooting of colour and B/W. Good photography starts with a good picture and good equipment. STARTS WITH A VISIT TO

THE B·O·A·C VC10

Yesterday, a triumphant debut
NOW IN SERVICE TO LONDON AND EUROPE

TRIUMPHANTLY SWIFT, SILENT, SERENE

Yesterday, passengers arrived at Nairobi on the BOAC VC10 Maiden Flight. They enjoyed the quietest, smoothest flight of their lives. For the power of the VC10 is in the tail. Its four Rolls-Royce engines are rear-mounted and you fly in the comfort and silence ahead of the power. With the VC10, BOAC moves a clear six years ahead of any other airline. The BOAC VC10 offers you the better way to fly.

PROVED ROLLS-ROYCE POWER FROM 4 CONQUEST JETS.
BOAC was first with jets. Now they bring you the VC10 built by the British Aircraft Corporation. Its advanced Rolls-Royce Conquest engines are developed from the experience gained in 20 million hours of jet service in the air. With a thrust of 31,000 lbs. each, the new Conquest R. Co. 421s are the most powerful civil jet engines in the world.
