'SPIES' AMONG FREEDOM FIGHTERS

Government careful in giving help

SOME so-called freedom fighters who came from other African States in their liberation struggles were not spies for colonial powers, the Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, Sir Kenneth Robinson, said yesterday.

£207,000 GRANTED TO HELP MASAI

MASAIALL has been allocated £207,000 under development plans, as well as other money under the national water development programme, the Parliamentary Secretary for Agriculture, Mr. J. H. Duggan, told the House of Representatives.

He said the Masai depended on the Masai land for the next five years. The Minister for Natural Resources, Mr. Squire, said speaking on a motion by Mr. J. C. T. Kile, it was not true to say Masai had been ignored as far as water development was concerned.

Overhead had been sunk as early as 1957 and the work had continued. Pipelines had been laid but had been cut out by the water of the Little Nzoia during and at Masai.

A pipeline costing £730,000 had been put in Masai, but it was not used as originally laid out by the Masai. It was guaranteed a 500 supply to Kileleshwa. Other water supplies had been provided in the Nzoia area.

Between 1947 and 1951 the Government, through African Ministers, had spent £2,284,234 on water works in Masai. Masai had been covered under the development plan. Money was also being provided under the Freedom from Hunger Campaign for water supplies.

Mr. Duggan said the Government would be asked to give £200 million to help the Masai. The Government was not to be asked to give £200 million to help the Masai. The Government was not to be asked to give £200 million to help the Masai.

Mr. Robinson was answering a question from Sir Charles Bana (Kisumu, Nyandarua) who asked why the Government was not taking steps to help Masai. He said that the Government was not taking steps to help Masai.

Senate focus on police badge

A POLICE committee found itself the reluctant focus of attention in the Senate yesterday during a debate on military orders.

The House moved from the point of the question by Sir R. R. Spang (Kisumu, Embu) - "When will the military orders which were introduced as British subjects be dropped?" - until Sir J. K. Kabane (Kisumu, Kiambu) introduced the issue of emblems on the uniforms of the Kenya Rifles and Kenya Police.

He stated that on a view of the uniforms the emblems was a white British Royal Coat of Arms. They were denied by the Leader of the Opposition, Sir A. P. Mbatia, who stated that the emblems had been used by the British before the independence of Kenya.

The House insisted that the Government should make a decision to change the emblem to that of Kenya. Sir A. P. Mbatia said that the Government should make a decision to change the emblem to that of Kenya.

MR. TSHOMBE BUSY BACKSTAGE AS NEW LEADER IS SOUGHT

OBSERVERS in Leopoldville were yesterday speculating as to whether the former Katanga secessionist leader, Mr. Moïse Tshombe, would offer himself to President Joseph Kasavubu as the Congo's future Prime Minister.

The mandate of the present Congo Cabinet expired on June 30 — fourth anniversary of the Prime Minister's death — but President Kasavubu asked the Prime Minister to resign to stay in office with the Cabinet until the transitional Government was formed.

The President gave Mr. Tshombe the task of searching for a replacement which involves the delicate situation of securing out of state national leaders as to who should succeed the late Joseph Kasavubu. The search was entrusted to the Mr. Tshombe after a year-long period during which the late Prime Minister had been in the Congo.

Mr. Tshombe is expected to return to Leopoldville in the next few days to meet with the President and other leaders to discuss the future of the government.

Food stocks

The Ministry of Agriculture has announced that the Government has decided to open a new market for the sale of foodstuffs.

Kenya has five-year radio expansion plan

THE Kenya Ministry of Information, Broadcasting and Tourism is planning a £150,000 expansion to provide excellent medium wave radio coverage for all the more densely populated parts of Kenya within the next five years. This will give medium-wave reception as far as Kisumu in the east and Kitale in the west — an area which, along with Mombasa, effectively covers more than 85 per cent of the country's population.

By
N. J. RUSSELL

80 metres generally takes place about 5 pm but, in fact, it has been found that the best regular broadcast reception until about 9 pm.

Next, though near Nairobi, the area under Mount Kenya, an area which attracts a large number of tourists, was again an area of high vertical short-wave reflection, do not produce a really strong signal until after 9 pm.

Poor reception

So in both places, there was a varying "dead space" of poor reception during a peak listening period. However, a survey carried out from a V.H.F. transmitter at Lamu, proved that both coast receiver V.H.F. signals from Nairobi at a good working strength, and V.H.F. signals from Nairobi at a good working strength, and V.H.F. signals from Nairobi at a good working strength, and V.H.F. signals from Nairobi at a good working strength.

But before these plans could be formulated it was necessary to find out the exact range of the existing medium wave programme, and to determine the exact range of the existing medium wave programme, and to determine the exact range of the existing medium wave programme.

One of the main engineers, Mr. John Adamson, underlined that the survey was carried out by the Ministry of Information, Broadcasting and Tourism, and that the survey was carried out by the Ministry of Information, Broadcasting and Tourism.

The two maps on this page show how the Ministry of Information, Broadcasting and Tourism's five-year plan for improved radio reception will cover the most densely populated areas of Kenya in comparison with how radio coverage is carried out today. The smallest number circles in the larger map show the medium-frequency coverage areas from the repeater stations to be built by the longer continuous and ceiling lines show present coverage from the existing Nairobi, Kisumu and Mombasa stations. On the smaller map the thick areas have population figures of over 100 in the square mile and the shaded areas 100-500.

Barbecued pork chops

GRILLED pork chops are a popular dish with the whole family and they are especially nice if cooked with an easily-made sauce of chopped pineapple and tomato juice. Pork should always be well cooked, whether roasted in the oven, fried or grilled, and the addition of this sauce, in which the chops are cooked, requires very little extra cooking time.

For barbecued pork chops you will require the following ingredients:

- 4 pork chops.
- 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce.
- 1 tsp. salt.
- 2 cups chopped pineapple, fresh or tinned.
- 1 tsp. vinegar.
- 1 tsp. mustard.
- 1 gill tomato juice.

Brush the chops over with a little mustard and put under the preheated grill or broiler for 10 to 15 minutes on each side.

Meanwhile, melt the butter in a small pan and add the rest of the ingredients.

Turn the grill to low and baste the chops with the sauce. Continue to baste the chops during cooking with sauce, basting the chops two or three times. Cooking time is about 30 minutes.

A tasty recipe from

ELIZABETH GILES

When serving the pork chops, pour any remaining sauce over them.

And here is a mouth-watering marinade to follow:

Fruit Marinade
For the marinade —
8 oz. can sugar.
8 oz. can tomato.
3 egg whites.
Approx. 1/2 cup of sliced fruit.

MAINLY FOR WOMEN

The whole family is benefited by a substitute for Mr. and Mrs. Atwood here. Strong French ties with France. Mrs. Atwood was born in America of French parents and her husband was born in France. In America, she is known as Elizabeth Giles.

Beat the egg whites until foamy. Add half the sugar and the vanilla and beat well until stiff. Add the rest of the sugar and vanilla, folding in until blended.

Using a large piping nozzle, pipe a fan, circle or a lozenge shape covered with wadded paper. Fill in the bottom of the circle and light bulb the sides to form a basket.

Bake in the oven for approximately 10 to 15 minutes. Turn the oven off and let the cakes cool and then just before serving fill and decorate with the mixed fruit and whipped cream.

HIS EXCELLENCY'S LADY

The Atwoods of their Muthusa home.

THE family of Mr. William Atwood, the American Ambassador to Kenya, joined him in Nairobi just two months ago. Youth is the predominant factor in the Ambassador's household. For 5 to 8 a.m. the prominent members of the household are busy with their school work.

Setting into their new home in Muthusa is the Ambassador's attractive wife, Mrs. Simone Atwood, nee Giles, and their three children, 12 1/2 (a devoted French fan), baby Susan, and the 10-year-old French boy, Jean.

Strong French ties
The whole family is benefited by a substitute for Mr. and Mrs. Atwood here. Strong French ties with France. Mrs. Atwood was born in America of French parents and her husband was born in France. In America, she is known as Elizabeth Giles.

Even their two children follow the international trend. The 10-year-old boy, Jean, is known as "Jack" in America and "Jack" has United States citizenship.

While Mrs. Atwood was growing up in America, her husband, the late Mr. Atwood, spent eight years of his life in France where he worked in business. It is in Paris that the couple were married although they met for the first time in the United States.

It is nothing new in the Atwood household to see a child from a country other than his own and she is able to feel at home in both. The children are bilingual and speak both English and French. The children are also bilingual and speak both English and French.

Bi-lingual family — right down to the poodles!

This was followed by his present appointment and as Mrs. Atwood explained: "We were given the choice of South Africa or Kenya but we both the Africa so much that we jumped at the chance to come back."

Social work plans
Back in New England, Mrs. Atwood was an active political and social worker and at the time organized a collection in her home for the "Polio March of Dimes." The drawing of the sign, which it would have for her own.

In Guinea she worked as a nurse and in a maternity hospital for three days a week. She also worked with the wives of the American community in Kenya. In her group of social workers.

Although still busy, Mrs. Atwood is able to find time for her hobbies, one of which is cooking. With their French background, the family enjoys a "dash" of French in their cooking. Mrs. Atwood has more than 100 recipes from French and American sources.

Trip to Timbuktu
The Ambassador remained in Kenya until June 1963 and then he went to Timbuktu. The trip was a very interesting one and he was able to see many of the sights and sounds of the country. He was also able to see many of the sights and sounds of the country.

EYE-CATCHING FEATURES IN TOTAL OIL HEADQUARTERS

A new beacon for Nairobi

ON Nairobi's skyline there has appeared a new silhouette, the slim, 'red flame' symbol of France's Total Oil Co. It needed a helicopter to fix this luminous, 25ft-high beacon on the summit of the city's latest skyscraper, the eight-storey Total House in Koinange Street.

The beacon not only marks the firm's establishment in East Africa, but also a new height in Kenya's architectural achievement.

Parisian architects have designed the Nairobi development. The firm of architectes whose major projects in recent years include Calles, Hanes and the Roman Catholic Cathedral, Nairobi, was responsible for the basic design which features many modern innovations on the East African architectural scene.

Because the main block is a modern construction of a building supported by a central vertical shaft, the latter raised a number of interesting architectural features.

'RED FLAME' HAS SPREAD TO MANY PARTS OF WORLD

WHILE Europe was recovering from the effects of the First World War the Compagnie Francaise des Petroles was formed to implement the national energy policy for France. During the past 60 years the company has become the controller of one of the world's largest oil groups.

Since 1924 the group has carried out in 11 countries a series of major developments. Some of the products of these are petrol or kerosene in many languages and one which has become a household name in many parts of the world.

The Total Group's crude oil supplies come as a result of agreements in 1924, 1928 and 1930 with the governments of the United States, Mexico and Venezuela. These agreements have resulted in the group having a total of 25,000,000 tons of crude oil a year from which it produces a complete range of oil products.

These products include petrol, kerosene, diesel oil, aviation kerosene, lubricating oils, and a wide range of petrochemicals. The group also produces a complete range of oil products for the power stations of the world.

MORE REFINERIES

Five more refineries are at present being built which will serve the group. In 1963 the group's refining capacity was 1,000,000 tons a year. This capacity will be increased to 1,500,000 tons a year by the end of 1964.

ESTABLISHED IN E. AFRICA IN 1955

was an exploration for new sources of oil in collaboration with the Turkish Petroleum Co. which had title to a concession in the former Turkish province of Mosul in Iraq.

In 1954 the company became the Iraq Petroleum Co. and the first successful drilling was made at Kirkuk and the Company's share in the Turkish province of Mosul in Iraq.

In 1959 the company began developing its existing installations and in 1961 the first export of oil from Iraq was sent to the refinery at La Havre. Two years later a second refinery near Marouane was opened.

When they were opened these refineries had a total capacity of just over 1,000,000 tons.

Today they are able with nearly 15,000,000 tons and in the near future the refinery will be three times as large with a capacity of 45,000,000 tons.

The first tanker went into service in 1957 and in 1959 the company began its operations of selling petrol to motorists of every possible kind. It was not until after the end of the war that the group could carry out the expansion that had been long planned and from 1959 onwards progress was spectacular.

In the Persian Gulf, Iraq, Canada, the Sahara, Libya, West Africa and Australia projects involving exploration, drilling and recovery were rapidly developed and hand-in-hand with the increased production.

Transport facilities were developed.

In 1958 the same Total was created and from then on the Total flag began to appear on the roads in Germany, Morocco, South Africa and Australia. It is followed by North Africa, Belgium, Switzerland, the Near East, Holland and Britain.

Until recently the Compagnie Française des Pétroles distributed its products in Europe and Africa under different names. In 1952 following intensive research into marketing possibilities in East Africa, the group decided to establish itself in Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika and the name Olo was chosen because this name was already well known in other parts of Africa. On January 1, 1961 the name was changed and Total replaced Olo.

Until the beginning of 1961 the market in East Africa had been shared by a few of the world's oil companies. The Total Group was the first of major oil companies, hitherto unknown to the East African motorist public, to begin operating in Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika.

Now Total have its bulk depots in East Africa, one of which is the largest terminal of its kind in the world. It is situated at Mombasa where Total were the first oil company to set up a refinery.

Africans want more Commonwealth time

Because of pressure of Commonwealth conference business, African Prime Ministers now in London are understood to have requested that next week's Organisation for African Unity meeting in Cairo should be postponed for three days. The Cairo talks were scheduled to begin on July 17.

KENYA ASKS RUSSIA FOR AID WITH HOUSING

MR. KENYATTA has asked Mr. Krushch for aid to help Kenya to build apartments for the 100,000 people who are expected to be displaced by the new dam project. The request was contained in a letter from Mr. Kenyatta to Mr. Krushch on the 25th of June.

One reason for the postponement request is that a Foreign Ministers' meeting had been arranged in Cairo for July 15, although the London Commonwealth conference is not due to end until two days later.

An additional complication is that Kenya-Somalia talks are also scheduled for July 15 in the U.A.R. capital, Menya, in London, the general theme of the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference being Africa's problems.

President Nkrumah appealed to the conference to keep the politics of the Cold War out of Commonwealth affairs.

He suggested that the basic guide for Commonwealth countries should be majority rule and minority protection, and urged that principle should be entered into the Southern Rhodesia, South Africa, and African continent.

Dr. Banda criticised in Peking

THE Prime Minister of Malawi, Dr. Kamuzu Banda, came under renewed attack in Peking yesterday for supporting the existence of two Chinas.

A communique in the main Communist press, the second on the subject, said that the Chinese government had been very much surprised to find that in July 1964, after 10 years, they still have not seen any sign of the withdrawal of the British from Malawi.

Mr. Banda said that the British had not only not withdrawn from Malawi but had also interfered in the internal affairs of the African States.

Democracy then uhuru call on S. Rhodesia

THE Leader of the Britain's Opposites Labour Party, Mr Harold Wilson, has said that there should be no question of independence for Southern Rhodesia "until democracy is there or it is very sharply on the way so that the Africans can see they will be controlling their own country."

Speaking in a radio interview in London he recalled that at the last Labour Conference at Scarborough he had said the old and the new South African Rhodesians could be led to a peaceful solution, and had called this the "Commonwealth's Prize" which it must share with all other States.

"If that call had been heeded then I think we might have been able to take action before things have got so far out of hand."

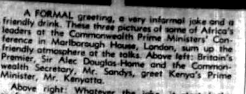

"Now, I think there can be no question of independence for Southern Rhodesia, until democracy is there on a basis which is not a sham, but which is controlling their own country."

Mr Wilson said that if the Labour Party came to power, it would give 100 per cent support to Malaysia in its negotiations with Indonesia in this it was in complete agreement with the Government.

Mr Wilson said he did not accept the view that Commonwealth must continue to subsidize South Africa, but that Britain must look elsewhere.

He equally, I think, it has a very important future politically. The Government have to be very clear that this is the greatest practical advantage in the world where democracy is becoming more and more important.

Mr Wilson said he was a unionist, but with one voice in some of the 14 nations, for example in the United Nations.

A FORMAL greeting, a very informal joke and a friendly drink. These three pictures of some of Africa's leaders at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference in Marlborough House, London, sum up the friendly atmosphere of the talks. Above left: Britain's Premier, Sir Alec Douglas-Home and the Commonwealth Secretary, Mr. Sandy, great Kenya's Prime Minister, Mr. Kenyatta.

S. AFRICA MAY FACE ANOTHER EXPULSION

THE South African Postmaster-General, Mr. Anthonis Johannes Botse, has arrived in Vienna from Johannesburg for the critical closing days of the Universal Postal Union Congress. The congress had only yesterday left in which to clarify South Africa's position and future in the union before its new constitution and convention is signed today.

Delegates continued of aggressive the technical aspects of the convention, leaving the controversial membership questions until the final meeting.

South African delegates have not attended the meeting since 1956. But so far no one agrees whether they were expelled from the convention or not.

Mr. Botse, who is understood to have been in London in Johannesburg with the general secretary, Mr. W. H. M. (Leslie) is said to be a member of the union.

The official congress view is that South Africa is still in the state of suspension of membership of the union. The official view is that South Africa is still in the state of suspension of membership of the union.

BRITAIN HITS BACK AT U.S. SHIP LAW

THE British Government is to take power to order British ships not to comply with American and other foreign laws which it considers infringe British jurisdiction.

It published the text of a Bill introduced earlier in the House of Commons, aimed at combating the measures by the United States which require British ships to comply with American and other foreign laws which it considers infringe British jurisdiction.

Under the Bill, which is to be passed by Parliament by the end of the month, any individual who offends will be liable to a fine of up to £1,000. The Bill also provides for the seizure of ships and the suspension of licences.

I.L.O. talks condemn apartheid

THE International Labour Conference in Geneva yesterday unanimously adopted a declaration condemning South Africa's "degrading, criminal and inhuman" policy of apartheid.

The declaration, adopted by acclamation, calls on the South African Government "to respect without delay" its policy of apartheid and to respect the fundamental principles of the equality and dignity of the human spirit.

Mr. J. G. D. (John) Brittain, who is the director of the I.L.O., said that the United States would fully support the condemnation of the "apartheid policy" of South Africa.

At least 50 speakers from all continents, including the United States, Africa to demand an apartheid legislation.

A composite federal capital in three countries

AMONG the many proposals advanced for the re-organization of the Government, one of the most important is what may be termed the "composite capital" scheme.

The plan is to divide the country into three zones, each of which will have its own capital. The zones are to be the Eastern, the Western and the Central. The Eastern zone will have its capital at Calcutta, the Western at Bombay and the Central at Madras.

The plan is to be implemented in three stages. In the first stage, the three zones will be created and their respective capitals will be established. In the second stage, the Government will be re-organized so that it can function from all three capitals. In the third stage, the three zones will be fully integrated and the country will be a single unit.

Twin goals are research and aid to local farmers

In other parts of the world, like Shambani, which is the staple of the station's first years.

The first experimental phase of the station's work was set up in 1959 as an experimental station for growing maize, wheat, sorghum, and to investigate the station's main crop, banana, south of Mombasa.

The present station was originally started as a station of studies but was later changed to a development to become the main station.

The land was bought by the Government in 1957. Its early development was financed from the Colonial Development and Welfare Funds and later a grant from the capital development and building was carried out with a grant from the Government.

It covers the whole of the Coast Region but the majority of the results obtained are applicable only to the Coastal Strip.

A sub-station at Mbatia, near Malindi, carries out special research work in crop-rotation, irrigation, etc.

Mr. Nicholson defined the objectives of their work as increasing the productivity and development of new crops, investigation into soil fertility, fertilizer requirements and the control of pests and diseases.

By now we had passed through the farm buildings, the office-in-charge at Mtwapa, Mr. David Nicholson, suggests the root of a cassava tree, which has become part of the staple diet of the local people. It goes under several names, one of which is tapioca.

conducted by a high water table, which is a serious problem.

We had to plant several times to get and show the plants for the first time, although they were experimental, they kept a small amount of every crop.

They were looking in the way of finding out the best methods for growing crops. They also had to put up a special cover under the eucalyptus and trees.

All we have seen so far is new seed crops," said Mr. Nicholson. "But we carry out special research in crop-rotation, irrigation, etc. The main varieties of crops are maize, sorghum and cowpea."

"Sorghum has just failed in the past 30 years but it is extremely high yielding and reliable in dry seasons and is part of our job to try to make it produce more and an important staple item," Mr. Nicholson said.

The success of the station is not even though it is higher yielding than most of the Coast - it still is most difficult to grow.

"We have succeeded in developing the high-yielding varieties of the staple crops we are conducting research into how to make it more productive."

Cassava seems to have had completely different results in the Mtwapa valley. It is a pure starch food, completely delicious in protein, and was used mainly as a famine food. Now it has become part of the staple diet of the Indian population.

We look we search back at the station's history. Mr. Nicholson pointed out the old buildings and the laboratory for the entomologists.

"Insect pests are very important at the Coast and the station has been set up to study them and to control them."

The example pests are the main limiting factor for increased cotton yields and last year they investigated a large pest of the rubber and crop.

Most of the station's research work was sponsored by the Government and commercial firms. It is difficult to place a value on the work carried out at Mtwapa since the station work and research that would produce results only in the distant future were carried out.

But research is only a part of the work needed to build up agriculture in the Coast. It is not enough to have knowledge, it must be put into practice by the individual farmer.

A new scheme is to be put into operation to help farmers by the Regional Agricultural Department in an effort to educate the farmers.

Chauhan and co-operative are being set up on the station where farmers will attend courses of field days are also held every year so that farmers can see for themselves the way to grow their crops better.

Below: Attempts are being made to grow sweet potatoes in the Coast Region - so far without much success. These plants, being attended to by one of the field staff, Alford Ndoro, are in the research station's nursery.

The 'gimmick' of the station is the Bixa plant, which produces red dye used in cosmetics and lipsticks.

President's wife leads an emancipation fight

YOUNG Ivory Coast women are jumping out of airplanes—with parachutes on, of course—and operating their own taxis in order to give new leads in the unparallel struggle for female emancipation in their country.

The young West African women boats two women parachutes and women in addition, since an Italian defect company captured the big women to work the period during at the beginning of this year the idea had caught on like wildfire. To all it seem service-station attendant in colored overalls and a white apron.

Madame Ida Comandante Tilda, said 24, the country's first woman professor for whose daytime job is television says that she has seen many progress in the emancipation of women, but she says that she has seen many women were still very timid and traditional before.

"When I went to Paris many years ago to study law, I saw women were still very timid and traditional before."

"But when I came back after two and a half years, I found women in job everywhere. Many of them were driving taxis and their husbands were making their own money."

Ms. Houphouët-Boigny, who is an active social worker, also enjoys a world-wide reputation as one of Africa's great beauty. She was married to the late president of Ivory Coast, Félix Houphouët-Boigny, who died in 1959.

Safari starts in Nairobi despite requests

TWO SHOT BY G.S.U. DIED IN MISTAKE

ALTHOUGH the Prime Minister of Uganda, Mr. Obote, had made a personal request that the East African Safari should be held in Nairobi, the 1966 rally would again start in Nairobi, the President of the East Africa, Mr. O. G. Lushiko, said today at an annual meeting in Nairobi last night.

Uganda and Tanganyika had asked for the start of the Safari in Nairobi, but that if the organisation was suddenly passed over to one or the other country, the Safari might fail.

The Association intended to hold a meeting in Nairobi between representatives of Uganda and Tanganyika so that they could agree to the start of the organisation of next year's event. Uganda or Tanganyika might then be able to handle the Safari by 1968.

EAST AFRICAN EVENT

The question was raised at the meeting when Mr. Lockhart-Munro suggested that the East African Safari should be held in Nairobi, the President of the East Africa, Mr. O. G. Lushiko, said today at an annual meeting in Nairobi last night.

Uganda and Tanganyika had asked for the start of the Safari in Nairobi, but that if the organisation was suddenly passed over to one or the other country, the Safari might fail.

PRESS NOTICE

Change in Eldoret Banks' clearing times

The Eldoret Branches of the National and Grindlays Bank Limited, The Standard Bank Limited and Barclays Bank D.C.O. announce that, due to a reorganisation in their clearing times as from July 23, 1966, the clearing times at these banks will now be known on the afternoon of the day following lodgement to a customer's account.

Those customers who wish to draw cash against these items may now do so on the second business day after lodgement and it is emphasised that the banks reserve the right at their discretion to refuse payment of cheques drawn against uncollected funds.

Customers tendering cheques drawn on other banks in Eldoret in payment of bills must present such cheques to the bank before 10.30 a.m. on the day the bill falls due.

Subject to the usual charge of 5/-, cheques may be specifically presented and an answer obtained on the same day provided such cheques are lodged at least 30 minutes before the close of business on that particular day.

Commonwealth 'new shape' outlined by Sir Alec

The British Prime Minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, in a Press conference after the end of the Prime Ministers' meeting, emphasised that meeting in its new shape has been

The Prime Ministers had decided deliberately that "such situations as differences we might have, we would talk them out. There was no question of anything of walking-out. You will find the results of talking to the press."

The Commonwealth had a "new shape" and Sir Alec said that the meeting was the first time since the war that the Prime Ministers of the Commonwealth had met in person. He said that the meeting was a success and that the Prime Ministers had agreed to meet again in London in the future.

Long discussion

The meeting of the Prime Ministers of the Commonwealth had been "a long and fruitful one," Sir Alec said. He said that the Prime Ministers had discussed a wide range of issues, including the situation in the Middle East, the situation in Africa, and the situation in the Caribbean.

Sir Alec went on to say that the meeting had been a success and that the Prime Ministers had agreed to meet again in London in the future. He said that the meeting was a success and that the Prime Ministers had agreed to meet again in London in the future.

ISSUES FOR DISCUSSION AT THE O.A.U. SUMMIT

THE O.A.U. conference starting in Cairo on Friday has special significance in the past African history. It coincides with an important and critical year in African politics in 1964 — a year which will bring political events and decisions of great moment. It is a year of a political and military alliance between Africa and the West, and the question of liberation of Africa from colonialism, from apartheid and from the domination of the underdeveloped countries and the states of Algeria, Morocco, Tunisia, Libya, Mauritania, Mali, Senegal, Guinea, Sierra Leone and the Republic of the Congo. It is a year of the formation of a new African Union, and the formation of a new African Union, and the formation of a new African Union.

Without wishing to play down the importance of the O.A.U. summit, it is clear that the O.A.U. summit is a year of a political and military alliance between Africa and the West, and the question of liberation of Africa from colonialism, from apartheid and from the domination of the underdeveloped countries and the states of Algeria, Morocco, Tunisia, Libya, Mauritania, Mali, Senegal, Guinea, Sierra Leone and the Republic of the Congo. It is a year of the formation of a new African Union, and the formation of a new African Union, and the formation of a new African Union.

Science Shrinks Piles. New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

London, (Special)—For the first time science has found a new leading substance with the astonishing ability to relieve hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently and gradually relieving pain, actual reduction or discharge of hemorrhoidal piles.

Most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' operations were performed over a period of many months.

All this, without the use of narcotics, opium or any other of the usual substances "like Druggs" which require a doctor's prescription for a world-known strength medicine. Already, "Bio-Dip" is in wide use for healing internal piles on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called "Oxygenated IP". And you can buy "Bio-Dip" in any of our leading chemists or druggists. It is guaranteed to cure every case of hemorrhoids. "Prophylaxis" (wholesale) with prophylactics.

For Japan looks to close ties of friendship with Kenya

WANT I put before you an appreciation to the editor of the "East African Standard" for this opportunity to extend my warmest greetings to the people of Kenya, through the pages of this special supplement on Japan.

The achievement of your cherished goal of independence was received with great satisfaction by the people of Japan, who heartily welcomed your new country into the community of free and democratic nations of the world.

As Kenya enters a new era in its national history, I believe both of our nations can look forward to a greater development of our already existing ties of friendship and understanding, particularly in the field of trade, Kenya and Japan have enjoyed a mutually beneficial partnership since pre-war days. This relationship will undoubtedly expand even further in the years ahead. Already concrete evidence of our close ties can be pointed out. A great Kenyan-Japanese textile factory, now in operation, is an example of our activities in the field of economic co-operation. Further efforts are being made by our Government to establish a technical training centre in Kenya to assist the development of small industries in your country.

These efforts, combined with our longstanding friendship clearly point the way towards a deepening sense of mutual interest and understanding.

We, in Japan, are confident that your great country faces a future filled with great success and accomplishments and so this end we offer our best wishes.

A NATION OF ANCIENT TRADITIONS, WITH AN UP-TO-DATE OUTLOOK ON THE WORLD

ON a map of the world, Japan is a chain of islands lying off the eastern coast of the Asia.

It is an ancient country with traditions reach back into the mists of history. Yet, for centuries being so active in the modern world. Though history Japan has vitality of youth and she is seeking to improve the old and discover the new.

Strength and stability derived from these features of the national life helped Japan survive the last 100 years, save in the mid-20th century, without breaking its roots with the past or tearing apart its social structure.

It is with this same sense of purpose that Japan has made industrial revolutions in the last 100 years, saving the standards of living at home.

SNOW AND CHERRY BLOSSOMS

THE Japanese tea ceremony, referred to as Chawan, is the aesthetic pastime peculiar to Japan, that features the serving and drinking of matcha, a powdered green tea.

According to history, tea was introduced into Japan around A.D. 562 from China where tea had been known from an early age in the T'ang Han Dynasty period (A.D. 618-907). It was not until towards the end of the 12th century, however, that tea became known in the form of matcha brought into Japan from China. This was still considered very precious and was used mostly as a medicine rather than as a beverage. Tea drinking was practiced almost exclusively among Zen Buddhist monks who used it to prevent drowsiness during their long hours of meditation.

The popularization of tea came only in the late 16th century, when a Dutch sailor, Willem de Witt, visited China. It was at this time that the tea drinking ceremony served several cups of tea in different sequences.

As the game came into vogue, tea plantations began to flourish, especially in the tea districts near Kyoto and Uji, the quality of the best production.

The tea was gradually converted into a more individual gathering, at which guests were no longer restricted to formal tea sets but to the tastes of the Japanese people. The tea now became an accompaniment of a prolonged dinner for the occasion of a party under the influence of formal tea drinking, the ceremony of the Samurai, or warriors, who were then the dominant class of the country, there came to be certain rules and customs in a tea party were restricted to them.

The purpose and essence of the tea-drinking ceremony was difficult to express in words. The ceremony was developed by Sen no Rikyu, a Buddhist monk, who was a great master in poetry and calligraphy as well as with

These are many ways of performing the tea ceremony according to the school to which the ceremony is being performed. There are many schools, but the essential elements, however, are in a basic similarity. From the material and equipment prepared.

It is a time established custom to have a small house, or a building, especially constructed for the ceremony. This is a simple room, with a tatami floor, a sliding door, and a view of the tea garden. The house is usually located in a specially created wooded setting of the garden proper.

The principal elements are the tea bowl, the tea caddy, the tea scoop, the tea whisk, the tea container, the tea tray, and the tea brush. The tea bowl is a small, shallow, wide-mouthed bowl, usually made of ceramic or wood.

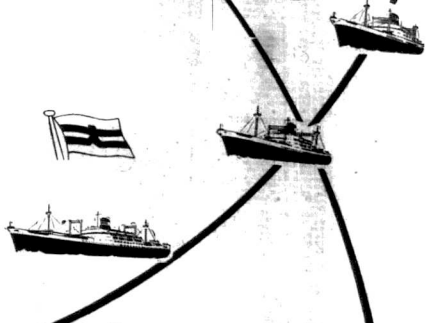

The tea caddy is a small, round container for the tea powder. The tea scoop is a small, wooden spoon used for scooping the tea powder into the tea bowl. The tea whisk is a small, wooden whisk used for whisking the tea powder into a frothy consistency. The tea container is a small, round container for the tea powder. ### Every day of the year there is always one, perhaps two Japanese vessels at an East African port

Two Japanese shipping companies operate services between East Africa and the Far East: The Mitsui O.S.K. Line and the Nippon Yusen Kaisha Line. In this article TREVOR WOOD describes the part these companies are playing in expanding East African trade with the Far East.

INCREASED SAILINGS ARE FEATURE OF TRADE WITH FAR EAST

SHIPS flying the Japanese flag are familiar sights in East African ports. Every day of the year there is one if not two Japanese ships loading or discharging, maintaining a service which is rapidly gaining the admiration of the business communities of this part of Africa.

The increased arrivals and departures of far-eastward oriented vessels at the beginning of the year by the two Japanese shipping companies which operate with East Africa has led to a revival in the expansion of the East African economy and increasing income to trade.

COASTAL SERVICE

The larger of the two companies trading between Japan and the Far East is Mitsui O.S.K. Line, which, up to April 1967, was known as the O.S.K. Line, or the Osaka Steamship Co.

Founded in 1884 as a general cargo company operating in coastal waters of West Japan, the activities of the O.S.K. Line were gradually extended to Korea and the Chinese mainland until, in 1926, it routes connected the Far East with the U.S.A., New India, in 1931, Australia and South America in 1932; Korea in 1938 and to Africa in 1954.

WAR LOSSES

The O.S.K. Line suffered severe losses during the Second World War and the fleet of 199 vessels in 1941 was reduced to 21 vessels by the end of the war. At the time of the merger with the Nippon Yusen Kaisha the O.S.K. fleet consisted of some 42 owned vessels and 28 on charter.

The other half of the new company, the Mitsui Steamship Co., was founded in 1887. O.S.K. was absorbed under the name of Mitsui O.S.K. Line in 1967. The new shipping company, was founded in 1939 - eight years earlier than the N.Y.K. line.

Indonesia, Bangkok, Saigon and Yokohama. Future plans are being considered. They will carry cargo only.

FLOATING FAIR

As well as passenger vessels, cargo boats and ferries, the fleet consists of tankers, ore carriers, mail carriers and heavy lift ships. It also includes the Mitsui O.S.K. Line's Floating Fair ship, which is the largest of its kind in the world with an exhibition of latest Japanese goods and technology.

LINES MERGED

The merging of the Mitsui and O.S.K. Line, forming one of six new groups, was completed about three months ago at the beginning of the Japanese Government in the interest of the country's trade expansion and less severe competition.

It also benefited the port of Mombasa and the hinterland of Kenya and East Africa. Following the amalgamation, the new group introduced a schedule of twice-monthly runs both to and from East Africa and Japan.

SHIPMENT AGENTS

As well as seeking closely preventive agents, the Mitsui O.S.K. Line has a resident representative in East Africa stationed in Mombasa. This office is in the charge of Mitsui O.S.K. Line's shipping agent in Mombasa.

SECOND LARGEST

The second largest Japanese shipping company, the N.Y.K. Line, has recently been merged with one of the latest additions to the fleet in the Mitsui O.S.K. Line's Floating Fair ship, which is the largest of its kind in the world with an exhibition of latest Japanese goods and technology.

BODA ASH EXPORTS

The N.Y.K. Line has recently been merged with one of the latest additions to the fleet in the Mitsui O.S.K. Line's Floating Fair ship, which is the largest of its kind in the world with an exhibition of latest Japanese goods and technology.

Show-jumping year is reaching its climax

WHEN Kenya's best-known show-jumper, the veteran Proud Command, retired last year, his owner, Mr. and Mrs. John Hart, bought it fittingly to inaugurate a new competition, and so was born the "Proud Command Championships". Qualifying competitions are held throughout the show-jumping year, and those horses which qualify are eligible to complete in the championship, which will be held at the Annual Show organized by the Show-Jumping Association of Kenya at Mitchell Park from August 23-27.

The competition is open to horses in Class B and to those in Class C who have been placed in qualifying competitions by other show-jumpers on the way up to Class B. The first qualifying competition was held at the Langridge Horse Show in February and since others have been staged in various parts of the country. In these five years there has been no special competition arranged to qualify horses, but to date only 12 horses have qualified the judges as to their ability to compete in the championship level, of these, Mrs. Pery and Mr. Pery, have qualified in both classes.

With more than 200 horses entered to compete competition is keen, and only very small numbers are being made before the Championships. All riders are sure to do their best to win the special "Proud Command" trophy.

The show-jumping season will be at the Langridge Horse Show, at Langridge on September 15-17, at the Kenya Show at Mitchell Park from July 24-26, and the Show of the Year at Langridge on August 16.

High quality

Although the climax of the show-jumping year will be the Annual Show, riders from all parts of Kenya will, it is hoped, reveal their best horses at the special "Proud Command" competition. The show-jumping season will be at the Langridge Horse Show, at Langridge on September 15-17, at the Kenya Show at Mitchell Park from July 24-26, and the Show of the Year at Langridge on August 16.

In the recent competitions, Kenyan riders are well represented, but the most successful has been Mr. Pery, who has won the championship with his grey Djinesta. Other riders who have done well are Mrs. J. Maddison with Djinesta, Mrs. March Piper and Miss Vicky Harris with Country Girl and D. M. Pery, Miss Rosemary and D. M. Pery, Miss Rosemary and D. M. Pery, Miss Rosemary and D. M. Pery. Kenyan riders are well represented in their own country, and it is hoped that they will be able to bring home the championship with their best horses.

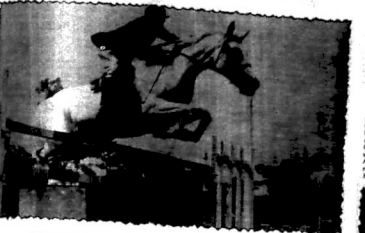

Expected to be competing in the show-jumping season are Mrs. J. Maddison with Djinesta, Mrs. March Piper and Miss Vicky Harris with Country Girl and D. M. Pery, Miss Rosemary and D. M. Pery, Miss Rosemary and D. M. Pery, Miss Rosemary and D. M. Pery.

TWO-SEASON LOOK ALLOWS FOR CHANGES

THE Two-Season Look is in the news this month following the Scandinavian Look, which, although to that of a prison cell, did tend to reduce door almost to the Arctic. The Two-Season Look, which means lots of clashing colours and patterns.

The idea here is to cover your furniture in new basic colour which blends well with almost anything, such as dark woods or blue, and then to brighten curtains and cushions to create colour. But you buy winter days and one for the summer.

This idea can be adapted for our Kenya climate and need not necessarily be expensive. Bright colours such as zebra, giraffe, which washes so well and is so strong and cheap, are ideal.

Our two-season colour scheme which is very popular is based on dark woods and neutral covering of sofas and settees. You need colours which coordinate with the rest of your room. For example, if you have a red sofa, your curtains and cushions are picked up in vivid blue and light grey. Open seasonal fabrics have circular floral patterns that cover the legs like flies.

The whole effect is of a cool, well-contrasted colour scheme that is ideal for hot weather.

For our prolonged hot spell, the blue and green accessories are stored for next year, and curtains in bright orange red, scattering of red and orange cushions to go on the sofa.

During most of the year, the fabric which goes with almost anything and the white curtains for the hot weather.

An expensive method of decoration. No, because all you have to do is add bright stripes to the pattern and you have the look and perhaps the extra to go to the dry cleaner's.

ALMOST every day, from dawn to dusk, a young woman member of a group of student anthropologists from Harvard University goes out into the Nairobi Game Park armed with her notebooks and a pair of binoculars, to study baboon life.

She comes from a scientific family — her parents teach and do research work — and covers baboons and all animals apart from her interest in studying them.

The group have been in Nairobi for the past 12 weeks and intend visiting Arisones where it is hoped they may see more baboons and fewer tourists — before they return to the United States. "They are also making a scientific film."

Miss Knott says her ultimate aim is to obtain more understanding of the biological nature of human and primate life and the relationship between plants and animals and their environment in various parts of the world.

She is also a student of archaeology and would like to study this subject in the Arctic region.

Emphasis is on the cool-weather clothes

SHIVERING among the summer crowd at Nairobi's City Hall yesterday, July 16, was not due to the weather. The fashion show, which was held in a room with a red flannel skirt and striped shirt with black and white boots and a red peak cap might have stopped straight out of Annie Get Your Gun.

Attractive two-piece clothes and underclothes were also on view, and some ladies' models made a rather hairy mistake and fell to their knees and touch and bow wear. On the more firm and whiter, one cocktail dress in patterned fabric were also shown.

French designer, meanwhile, are busy preparing for the European winter weather as the sun shines. The model (center left) wears a light-colored suit with a loose blazer and (below left) in a handkerchief and a black and white over-the-shoulder of red material.

The flowing coats are fancy and colorful, and the two girls wearing coats in a combination of red and black wool over a jersey dress.

Kenya's women to demand places in Parliament

Mr. ODINGA ADDRESSES BARAZAS IN N.F.D.
KENYA women are to hold meetings throughout the country to demand more seats for "kitchen work". This was stated yesterday by the president of the Mwambao ya Wanawake, Mrs. Jaci Mbojo.

Mrs. Mbojo, who is one of the few women leaders, was addressing a women's rally at Kamukuni, Nairobi, held to protest at women's lack of representation in the National Assembly.

She told the cheering women, with whom there were a good number of men in the audience, that women do not intend to fight against men politically, but they wanted their voices to be heard in the Government.

SPECIAL SEATS COMPLAINT

Recently there were nominations for three Special Seats in the House of Representatives, but no women were given the necessary support by the leading party in Opposition.

Women, if elected Members of Parliament, could assist the Government in better ways than men. Mrs. Mbojo pointed out that in the United Republic of Tanzania and Zanzibar and in Uganda there were women M.P.s, but in Kenya there were none.

Appeal on damage to scraper

A BUILDING firm yesterday filed an appeal with the High Court against a decision of the District Court in Mombasa, which had ordered the firm to pay damages to a contractor for damage to a scraper during a trial.

In March last year a suit was filed in the District Court of Mombasa against E.A. Builders, and the contractor, for damages to a scraper during a trial.

The trial judge found in favour of the contractor, and ordered the firm to pay damages of KSh 10,000.

The firm appealed against the decision, and the High Court allowed the appeal, and ordered the firm to pay damages of KSh 5,000.

The East African Court of Appeal has reserved its decision on the appeal until next week.

The appeal was heard by the Chief Justice, Mr. J. M. O'Connell, and the two Justices, Mr. J. M. O'Connell and Mr. J. M. O'Connell.

The appeal was heard in Nairobi, and the High Court judge, Mr. J. M. O'Connell, said that the appeal was a very important one, and that the High Court had to consider the merits of the case.

Strike threat

The Trade Union Congress of Kenya has threatened to call a general strike in support of the demands of the National Union of Teachers.

The NUT has demanded a 10 per cent increase in salaries, and the TUC has agreed to support the demand.

The TUC has also threatened to call a general strike in support of the demands of the NUT.

Minister's tour

The Minister of Home Affairs, Mr. J. M. O'Connell, is on a tour of the provinces of Kenya.

He will visit Nairobi, Mombasa, Kisumu, and Malindi.

He will also meet with the members of the National Union of Teachers.

MOVEMENTS NEEDED IN KISH TOWNSHIP

Kenya church services

RECENTLY, while holidaying in Nairobi, we went for a drive to the Ngong Hills, an area which has had a very particularly beautiful and, therefore, very desirable reputation.

While driving through the hills, we were struck by the fact that the roads were in a state of disrepair. The potholes were deep and numerous, and the overall condition of the roads was deplorable. It was a nightmare trip, indeed.

Market Nursery

WE have been a student of the Market Nursery for some time now. We have been very impressed by the quality of the plants and the service provided by the staff.

The nursery is well-stocked with a wide variety of plants, and the staff are knowledgeable and helpful. We highly recommend the Market Nursery to anyone looking for quality plants.

School

The building service provided by the school is excellent. The staff are professional and efficient, and the facilities are well-maintained.

We are very satisfied with the service provided by the school, and we highly recommend it to anyone looking for a quality building service.

Biggest and best

I was interested to read that John Edgar's review of the book 'The Biggest and Best' by Charles M. Gifford. The book is a well-written and informative account of the life of a pioneer in the field of education.

Campaign urged against witchcraft

In view of the fact that many of our citizens believe in witchcraft, it is important to launch a campaign to educate them about the dangers of this practice. Witchcraft is a harmful and superstitious belief that can lead to serious consequences.

It is important to launch a campaign to educate them about the dangers of this practice. Witchcraft is a harmful and superstitious belief that can lead to serious consequences. We need to encourage people to rely on science and reason instead of superstition.

Prison officers

It is not my intention to comment on the actions of the prison officers in Kenya. However, it is clear that there are some issues that need to be addressed in order to improve the conditions in our prisons.

Socotra — the slumbering island

SOCOTRA, island of the Dragon's Blood tree, still slumbers in its 20th century. Politics and strife are unknown in one of the world's last few remaining havens of peace.

Alie Forbes-Watson took more than 500 photographs of Socotra's majestic, unspoiled landscape during his four months on the island, and some are reproduced on this page.

But, he says, black-and-white can never recapture Socotra's true beauty. Only the island's isolation in the Indian Ocean prevents it from becoming one of the East's great tourist megalans.

In his search for Socotra's rare birds, Alie Forbes-Watson used camels (above) to transport his equipment around the island. He preferred to walk. Below is a primitive dwelling on the black island of Abud-ak-Curt, a dot in the ocean halfway between Socotra and Somalia, which Mr. Forbes-Watson describes as "the most picturesque spot in the Indian Ocean..." He spent several days on the island — and was thankful when a dhow arrived to take him off.

Not a calf, but a fully grown Socotran cow is pictured below. Like many things on the island, the origins of these miniature beasts — no higher than a man's waist — are unknown. Socotrans claim that milk from their cattle makes the world's finest cheese. Above is a waterfront view of Hadib, Socotra's tiny capital. Although a collection of humble dwellings, Hadib has an exquisite setting. Flanked by green pastures, the Haqshar Mountains loom behind it.

Drawing water from the sea with a Socotran pemma unchanged since Old Testament times, an island woman (above) performs her daily chore, with the type of goatskin baskets used for centuries.

A thriving trading centre in the days of the Pharaohs, Socotra has faded into obscurity in recent centuries. But a little export trade still goes on. One village industry is the weaving of shambale — goat-hair rags — which still find their way to the Arabian markets via passing dhows. A Socotran woman works on a shambale with a rudimentary loom (right).
