HOW EAST AFRICAN ENGINEERS HELPED TO RECONSTRUCT BURMA'S RAILWAYS

IN July of 1943 the 21 (E.A.) Engineer Battalion R.A.F. was detailed to assist in the reconstruction of the railway line from Rangoon to Mandalay. The line had been continuously bombed by the Japanese to prevent the use of the line.

The Battalion was allotted the task of reconstructing the line for 200 miles south of Mandalay. The line was 25 miles south of the length of this section was 25 miles and contained nine rail-roads to be repaired or reconstructed. The line had to be repaired in order that the traffic could be used as a supply line for the operations in the area. The work was done by the Battalion in a period of six months as shortly afterwards the Japanese started the campaign to take Mandalay and then to Rangoon. Food and other supplies for the military and civil population were transported through Central Burma by rail. This is particularly important from a civilian transport point of view as it is extremely difficult to transport supplies from one area to another by road.

Bottom.—Sixth Bridge ready for use. The two new concrete spans, each weighing 20 tons, can be seen. They are supported by light steel trusses on reinforced concrete abutments. The bridge is the first of the type to be built in Burma since the Japanese started their operations in 1942. The reason was a flood, but after the bridge was repaired there was no more trouble.

A PRODUCT OF THE ROOTES GROUP

The work carried out by the Battalion was the largest undertaken and of a much more technical nature than any tackled before. It was a new departure in the work carried out by the East African Engineers.

It was in fact the Battalion's first month-long job since entering Burma and one really felt that something constructive was at last being done. At the time the Battalion was short of men and the only available reinforcements from I.E. and I.E. units were attached to maintain the work.

Two Main Tasks.

The two main tasks carried out were the reconstruction of the line which was almost completely destroyed and the reconstruction of the line from Rangoon to Mandalay. The work was done by the Battalion in a period of six months as shortly afterwards the Japanese started the campaign to take Mandalay and then to Rangoon. Food and other supplies for the military and civil population were transported through Central Burma by rail. This is particularly important from a civilian transport point of view as it is extremely difficult to transport supplies from one area to another by road.

Headache For Up-country Parents

—AND RAILWAY AUTHORITIES

ARE you an up-country parent who has to cope with train times, and with doing the term of school? Do you get up late, in a hurry, at the beginning and end of each term? If so, then you will sympathize with the thousands of other up-country parents who are complaining that Government schools in Kenya begin and end their terms on different days, making the problem of getting a school bus or train, a complicated and expensive one. Two Government schools have a habit of changing their term dates at the last moment causing confusion.

It is alleged that the Education Department has had to stagger the term dates of the last two years because of the late departure of the K.M.S. train from Nairobi. Under-lying the cause of this is the fact that railway authorities could not cope with the Government schools. The Government school was not allowed to start on its term date, although they do not start in Nairobi. The Government school was not allowed to start on its term date, although they do not start in Nairobi. Aircraft Versus Locusts

Further Developments In Large Scale Locust Destruction From The Air

(By R. L. GUNN, D.S.C.)

A TEMPTED has been made in the past to drop poison from aircraft when locusts are swarming. Success was attained in South Africa by this method, but the poison, which is extremely costly, is extremely dangerous to man and animals.

Since 1935 an Air Ministry scheme was devised to use D.D.T. in the form of a powder, which was to be dropped from aircraft. In 1937 the Ministry of Agriculture, in collaboration with the Ministry of Aircraft Production, prepared a scheme for the use of D.D.T. in the form of a powder, which was to be dropped from aircraft.

The scheme was approved by the Government and the Ministry of Aircraft Production. The scheme was approved by the Government and the Ministry of Aircraft Production.

Directed by War Savings Campaign Committee

FROM A CORRESPONDENT
London.
The Tower of London has been re-opened to the public after a period of 24 years of closure. The re-opening was the result of the decision of the War Office to allow the public to visit the historic building. The tower, which was built by Henry II in 1190, is one of the most famous landmarks in London. It has been used as a prison, a treasury, and a mint. The re-opening was a great success, and the tower is now open to the public every day. The tower is a fine example of Norman architecture, and it is a must-see for anyone visiting London. The tower is a great place to see the Crown Jewels, and it is a great place to see the White Tower. The tower is a great place to see the London Wall, and it is a great place to see the River Thames. The tower is a great place to see the City of London, and it is a great place to see the heart of London.

There would be no view through the Tower of London from the river, and the view from the river would be obscured by the tower. The tower is a great place to see the London Wall, and it is a great place to see the River Thames. The tower is a great place to see the City of London, and it is a great place to see the heart of London. The tower is a great place to see the Crown Jewels, and it is a great place to see the White Tower. The tower is a great place to see the London Wall, and it is a great place to see the River Thames.
