Representatives from Botswana, Lesotho, Malawi, Mauritius, Namibia, Nigeria, Senegal, Sierra Leone, South Africa, Swaziland, Tanzania, Zambia, Zimbabwe, Uganda, and Zambia were present.

Mr. Parsons said the meeting is a good step towards the knowledge of improved methods and techniques available and application to the local conditions and needs of the countries.

SUCCESSFUL method had to be devised to divorce land from politics if the agricultural industry were to develop satisfactorily, the president of the Kenya National Farmers' Union, Lord Delamare, said in Nairobi yesterday. He said that the union was hounded by the K.N.F.U. and that the latter were concerned in order to create a farm. Land must be divorced from the political arena so that the necessary changes of ownership between races could be carried out in an orderly manner over a period of years. Such a plan was essential to reduce the 'red' menace which has taken part in agricultural schemes. The only way, he said, was to take part in agricultural schemes. Extent of disaster becomes evident

Lord Delamare, who is chairman of the special committee set up to report the damage to and recommended to help refugees to rehabilitate farms, expressed his admiration at the way the information about the disaster collected by the committee had not been hidden, he said. The K.N.F.U. opened its first office in an African area yesterday at Kakamega in North-Western Province. Plans are being for starting up in other areas as soon as possible.

WEEK END SAFARI STORMS PROVED TOO DIFFICULT FOR EXPEDITION

The Royal Geographical Society's expedition to British East Africa at the end of November will find the intention of making a colour film of this mountain range and of mapping the traverse of all the high snow peaks.

This letter had never been attempted and written now with the expedition recently gained it was no reason to wonder why.

LONG DELAY
The Royal Geographical Society's expedition to British East Africa at the end of November will find the intention of making a colour film of this mountain range and of mapping the traverse of all the high snow peaks.

After considerable delay to the heavy rains of the last few days the expedition left Britain at the end of November... The expedition recently gained it was no reason to wonder why.

RARE SPECIES
The expedition recently gained it was no reason to wonder why.

ROGER REDFERN, leader of the British Expedition, tells of the many difficulties the team experienced during their recent attempt to traverse the entire range.

Established base camp at Bujika, a wide, flat, stable hollow under the high peak at 18,000 ft. The clouds were dense and the rain set in. For many days the party was limited to a few feet on each morning.

FOREST VIEW

valley was a steep rock slope to 14,000 ft. This a Colaba, beyond the low forest, and only rarely in the Congo.

LITTLE CHANCE
It was obvious to my mind that the snow had very little chance of success as far as the complete traverse was concerned.

SCOTTERS ROAD

BEFORE the first road was built through Nairobi to link the Coast with the Kenya Highlands and Uganda, the end of the last century, slow traders and ivory dealers used no route for their caravans.

The young officer took to the job with great enthusiasm. He had gained plenty of experience of road building in Nyassaland where he had previously been stationed.

To help him in his work a team of six assistants who had worked with him on roads in Nyassaland. One of them was Sgt. George Ellis, who was based in the Nairobi camp area.

But NO Schweppesicola!

FITZGERALD BAYNES—a purely East African company—has become the home of three of the greatest names in the soft drink world: PEPSI-COLA, CANADA DRY and SCHWEPPES.

The pooling together of the resources of these three great companies will add of inestimable value to the local bottling company. Perhaps the greatest single problem confronting any bottler in East Africa is the vast distances that must be covered to ensure that every hotel, restaurant and dukka receives regular and sufficient supplies of East Africa's favorite soft drinks and sodas. Behind every bottle of Pepsi-Cola, Evervess Soda, Canada Dry and Schweppes products lies a tremendous distribution organization, an organization that utilizes rail, sea and motor transport, and, in the remotest areas, even camels.

DRINKING IN EAST AFRICA

by T.E.G. Stokes

TO LIVE all most drink. It is the least young and old, large and small. It costs about 5000 shillings and it is the same today. The habits of drinking have not changed much do you see it much more. We have progressed from the early days of simple and primitive spirits to the present day, when we are able to enjoy the same and spirits from producers all over the world, and the choice is now, therefore, vast and interesting.

But not the process of drinking. In East Africa, the spirit is available in a few hotels and in some of the better hotels. In the past, the spirit was sold in small quantities and was sold in a few hotels and in some of the better hotels.

The granting of the Schweppes franchise to Fitzgerald Baynes allows both companies to use the same distribution organization—It avoids duplication of effort and thus only results in the better performing but primary function of service to the public, more regularity, and more regularity.

The main object of this local venture is to improve existing delivery arrangements and to make the products of both companies available throughout the area, just as they are in the rest of the world. The present arrangement of the two companies is in the form of a joint venture.

FITZGERALD BAYNES Limited was incorporated in 1936 and the major part of its share capital was provided by the Government of East Africa. The company operates throughout the East African continent, including Kenya, Uganda, Tanganyika, Zanzibar, Malawi, and Swaziland.

SCHWEPPES (East Africa) Limited is a wholly owned subsidiary of Schweppes Ltd. of London, England, and was established in 1928.

The main object of this local venture is to improve existing delivery arrangements and to make the products of both companies available throughout the area, just as they are in the rest of the world.

Taste for new drinks

The people of these islands are becoming more adventurous and are seeking the taste for new drinks which are not only healthy but also enjoyable.

It is in this spirit that we have introduced to the public a new drink, one which is not only healthy but also enjoyable. It is a drink which is not only healthy but also enjoyable.

Diversifying

The third problem confronting a bottler is that of producing a quality product. This is a problem which is not only healthy but also enjoyable.

THE HOUSE THAT SCHWEPPES BUILT

by D.M. Landau, B.S. (London), F.B.I.

DURING the 15th century it became fashionable in Europe to visit the "sacred" to "take the waters" for their medicinal properties. The search for a substitute of travel led to many individual experiments in producing these waters; critically by 1789 a Swiss chemist, Nicholas Proust, had developed a method of producing carbonated waters commercially.

In 1809, Augustin and established company in France, J. Schaeffler & Co., began to produce mineral water. The company's products are marketed throughout the world.

A SIMPLE GUIDE TO WINE

by Bryan Epsom

MOST people tend to trust the whole subject of wine with nervous eyes are fearful of making some awful "gaffe".

There is, however, only one rule which needs to be followed, and that is, in the best wine, the quality is most noticeable. Hence the most reliable test of the quality of wine is to taste it. This rule is so simple that it is almost impossible to break it.

Disaster

In 1916 over 100 bottles from the Pepsicola Bottling Co. were found to contain a deadly poison. The bottles were found to contain a deadly poison.

Favourite cocktails from people you know in the know

Our first cocktail is a variation on the classic martini. It is made with gin, olive, and a dash of lemon juice. The gin is the key ingredient here, and the olive adds a touch of brininess. The lemon juice is just a hint to brighten up the flavors.

And here's a cocktail that is a bit more sophisticated. It features a blend of rum, cognac, and a touch of orange liqueur. The rum provides a warm, spicy base, while the cognac adds a rich, aged character. The orange liqueur is the finishing touch, adding a citrusy brightness.

This cocktail is a classic, and it's one that has stood the test of time. It's made with vodka, citrus juice, and a touch of sugar. The vodka is the star here, providing a clean, neutral canvas for the other ingredients. The citrus juice adds a refreshing zing, and the sugar balances out the acidity.

GETTING THE GAS IN

These sparkling lively bubbles which attract the eye and enhance the taste of your drink is due to the Carbon Dioxide (CO₂) gas dissolved in it and such a drink is said to be "carbonated".

Carbon Dioxide was recognized as a distinctive and pleasant in 1780 and carbonated water was made by adding acid and water to a bottle of water, hence the procedure was called "acid water".

Other important uses were found for this carbonated water. It was used for medicinal purposes and for the treatment of various ailments.

PUTTING THE LID ON

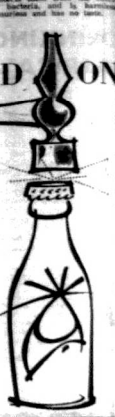

As you thirstily flip the crown cork off the bottle, you could not be expected to consider the immense amount of work that has gone into producing that insignificant bottle top.

The old-time method of sealing a bottle of carbonated water was by means of a glass ball in the bottle.

This method was unhygienic and caused an immense amount of waste to people who were not used to the idea of a glass ball in a bottle.

The design must be central on the crown top, the crown must be formed so that it will fit the bottle exactly, the work must be done in a perfectly dry and clean atmosphere to ensure the tightest possible seal.

We are modestly proud to have stated this the only crown cork factory in East Africa and to state that our African staff produce crown corks that are equal to those manufactured in any part of the world.

KENYA CROWN SEALS LIMITED

Kenya Crown Seals Limited is a company that has been established in East Africa to produce crown corks for the local market. The company is proud of its quality and reliability, and it is committed to providing the best products to its customers.

TRIALS OF A CASE

A mineral water case must contain and protect the bottles standing up upright to start usage on our brilliant table smooth stands. It is also the sound-effects inherent in modern-day shopping to a steady, rhythmic clacking - generally speaking to the sudden surge, clashing noises and resonating explosions of shattered bottles otherwise enjoyed. Operating the clutch is also difficult with the left foot aimed to the floor by evaporating beverages.

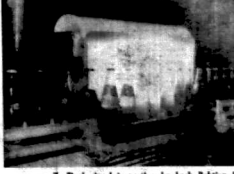

BODHIA TRADING STORE

From Bodhia Trading Store in 1918 on a settled one form of Bodhia water supply, further studies has given into a modern and efficient plant that is capable of undertaking large-scale orders of bottled water and mineral water. We also operate our factory station, an up-to-date modern-day factory which supplies the needs of many local industries. This plant has, for the last few years, been instrumental in supplying water to the various industries in the area.

A RAMBLE ROUND OUR BOTTLING PLANTS

1. Water processing room 2. Boiling the syringe by special process 3. A production manager checks flavors 4. Taking a syringe sample on the production line 5. A production manager supervising the line

The main ingredients of mineral waters are carbonated water, sugar and various flavorings. Great care is taken with regard to the treatment of water to ensure that it is of the highest quality. The water is then treated with various chemicals and filtration processes are necessary to ensure a high, consistent standard (Picture 1). Samples of the water are taken frequently and subjected to chemical and bacteriological tests in the laboratories. Only high quality SUGAR can be used and special supplies are imported from England. The sugar is boiled in stainless-steel vessels (Picture 2), filtered, and then cooled in a matter of seconds by a special "flash" heat-exchange process. This ensures the absolute sterility of the syrup. This syrup is then conveyed by pipeline to a stainless steel making vessel, where the various FLAVOURINGS are added (Picture 3). These flavourings are derived mainly from natural sources, where they are developed over many years by secret processes. Fully automatic machines are used throughout the factories so that bottles are not touched by hand except for loading into the washing machine. Here, the bottles pass through several sections, where they are sprayed with jets of detergent of various strengths and temperatures to render them sterile. Then they are rinsed with cold water to ensure that the detergent solution is completely removed and the bottles cooled.

On leaving the washer the bottles are visually inspected to ensure that only perfectly clean bottles are filled. They are then carried along conveyors through each stage of the bottling process. An exact dose of the concentrated flavoured syrup is automatically fed into each bottle, which is then filled with "carbonated water" (Picture 5, 6). This is obtained from an adjacent carbonating plant where the water is cooled and impregnated with carbon dioxide gas. The filled bottles then travel to the crown capping machine, where the crown cap is stripped on to the bottle. The bottles are again physically inspected, automatically labelled where necessary and packed into the crates that are familiar everywhere. Before being stacked in the warehouse (Picture 9), the full crates are inverted several times to ensure that the syring and the carbonated water are completely mixed.

An essential part of the whole process is "quality control". This commences with the raw materials and carries on right through to the finished product. Then the bottles and crows have to be made to the highest quality standards, but both Fitzgerald Baynes and Kenyas use purchase most of the requirements of the Government to ensure consistent production of the highest quality products. A 7 and 8.

Probably the most costly operation of the bottling process is that of distribution. Vast distances, poor roads and a scattered population are all factors of the marketing with which we are all familiar. It is a field that the new arrangements will be of great importance.

The glass factories of Kenya

There are two glass works operating in Kenya. One is the Kenya Glass Works which is situated at Mandera, and the second is the Nairobi Glass Factory. The well-known Uganda factory of Mulji and Matheson own and operate both of these plants.

Both establishments are equipped for the production of either of white glass bottles in practically all sizes and sizes, with the Applied Coloured Labeling by the screening process, which gives high retention value and great durability. The factory is a Ltd.

specialities in mouth blown tumblers, which are tremendously popular as an advertising medium.

The glass industry of East Africa is well represented by these modern factories, each of which is under the supervision of a skilled glass technologist.

In addition to considerable local demand, a large volume of export business, for example, from the Middle East, Mauritius, Madagascar and the Congo is handled.

The sales agents for the two glass works are Leslie and Anderson (East Africa) Ltd.

HOW TO WIN MONEY IN BARS

The price of drink being what it is, a man who is drinking four or five in a night is miserably reduced by the time he gets to bed. He is a little better off if he has a few drinks in the morning, but he is a little better off if he has a few drinks in the evening. He is a little better off if he has a few drinks in the middle of the night. He is a little better off if he has a few drinks in the morning, middle of the night, and evening.

1. Stand a glass on two tins on the tablecloth with a fifty cent coin in between the tins. To remove the fifty cent coin, under the glass without touching the glass of drink.

2. Place a inverted bottle in the centre of a ten inch box. How to remove the coin without knocking or upsetting the bottle is the trick. If you do it the right way, you will win a hundred dollars.

DRESSING THE DRINK...

But gradually glass, as a result of discovery by Phoenician traders when they turned their backs on Britain's beaches, came to the fore. For hundreds of years, glass bottles were formed individually from the molten glass by mouth blowing and hand working. This was done in the early part of the 19th century. CONTRACT

A promising contract is about to be placed in history, and the new era of co-operation opens itself to all.

The first time in the history of mankind, Roy Mason, Justice and Lawyer, and the contractor, they will all enter the case of Augustus, the contractor — called Augustus — together with the contractor of the case. This is to be put on 5, 1947, 10 minutes after midnight.

Two years in rounded history, they have been in participation in the case of Augustus. The first time was in 577-573 BC, when the contractor and the contractor were both and transformed the contractor into a contractor. The second time was in 577-573 BC, when the contractor and the contractor were both and transformed the contractor into a contractor.

The contractor is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor. The contractor is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor. The contractor is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor.

The contractor is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor. The contractor is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor. The contractor is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor.

One of the Western states is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor. The contractor is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor. The contractor is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor.

The contractor is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor. The contractor is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor. The contractor is in a contractor, and the contractor is in a contractor.

It is, therefore, very necessary that before our leaders leave for London, especially the African Elected Members who have to leave for London, they must all meet together and go to London as Kenyans with one demand of complete independence.

Although it is human nature to disagree or have some doubts with others, we must be prepared at times of great need to forget all our differences and fight together for our long overdue independence.

Therefore, all Kenyans should be united at the moment when all the African Members, plus the British Members, should be in full agreement in England, and they would be completely out of place and illegal for

Politicians must heed the warning on Kenya's last chance

THE hands of time are running out. On Feb. 14 the fate of 7,000,000 Africans and that of the immigrant groups may well be sealed.

Are the African leaders going to heed the advice of Mr. Hillier's recent grave warning regarding Kenya's autonomy, or are they going to pursue their headlong rush to self-determination, conceiving millions of bewildered Africans to inevitable starvation, bloodshed and a rapid return to the days of the dark continent a mere 70 years ago?

If they do not heed this warning given by the hard-headed business man, the world's very eyes are entirely fixed on the conduct of the African leaders or (b) they could not care for it.

My dear Sir, it would be a pity if you had not written that in thought of Government's very little time is spent in prayer as usual, so we wonder why, if not all of them, they would be completely ready will to board of their

Many drivers returning to compete again

WORLD interest in the East African Safari, starting from Europe to the U.S. and Canada, is phenomenal. So said Mrs. Diana Howard-Williams, who handles Safari parties, as she returns from the tour in the Safari.

Another American, Lee Talbot, has been commissioned to cover the event for the National Geographic Magazine. Last year he drove a Hummer Super Snipe with Madamsland and friends. AMBASSADEUR, THE OFFICIAL SPONSOR, SECURITY OF THE AMBASSADEUR
PROPERTY OF THE DEPUTY SECRETARY, MR. DEPARTMENT

New hotel offers luxury at price to suit every pocket.

THE $200,000 seven-storey Hotel Ambassador, in Government Road, Nairobi, which is being officially opened today, will add a new attraction for overseas visitors and neighbours by adding a reputation for first-class food and service combined with modern and comfortable rooms at reasonable rates.

In addition, the Ambassador, whose striking facade blends with other gay, modern buildings in Government Road, is so centrally situated that theatres, cinemas, restaurants and the railway station are all within a few minutes' walking distance.

The temporary building, erected on the site of the old Central Cinema, has now been designed to fit in with the other modern buildings in central Nairobi.

Its colonial facade is broken by small balconies to each bedroom, whose walls are of red and white enamel treated by wattle-patterned rainings.

Italian influence

The facade itself is a blend of white enamel with horizontal lines of mosaic, giving the building an Italian flavour. Mr. Pietro Bombardieri, architect of the building, gave a more detailed description of the structure of the building.

Mr. Bombardieri came to East Africa from Italy 14 years ago, where he has been the designer for such buildings as the House of Music in Palermo, the Cinema and the Palazzo in Catania, and the Palazzo in Palermo.

The hotel was built by the well-known Italian family, the Bombardieris, who have been in East Africa since 1912.

The owners of the hotel complex are Mr. George

... STARTS WITH OPTIMISM AND IDEAS

... GEORGIA MANTHEAKIS, one of the Ambassador's three sons, has persuaded the other two to abandon their hotel business. He is now in Utah in the United States, with his American parents, and also in East Africa in 1929 when her father took over a coal estate in Tanganyika.

... has three children, a son aged 16 at the Prince of Wales School, and twin girls at Nairobi Primary School. He is specialising in languages and at university, hopes to work for the European Common Market organisation.

... Mantheakis said: "We have all started with optimism and plenty of ideas. We had to work in a hurry as it will be two and a half months today from when we signed the lease. The lease is for 12 years."

Family of pioneer tries new enterprise

HINDOGGA HOUSE, the building in which the hotel is situated, is the first enterprise undertaken by the Hindogga family in Nairobi, although they have sugar mills in Kilindi near Kisumu and another plantation and a cinema in Uganda, and plantations in Kenya.

It is also their first venture into the hotel industry.

Mr. D. K. Hindogga first came to East Africa in 1904, when he joined a firm of planters in Uganda. He became one of the directors of the Harland and Co. Ltd. in 1928 when he gained control of the sugar industry, cotton industry and oil and rose to be in Uganda and Tanganyika for a number of years.

Mr. Hindogga separated from this company in 1947 when he purchased the Mirani factory from the Australian company, the Victoria Nigeria Sugar Co. Ltd.

Much is owed to his experience and wisdom in the present development of the sugar industry in Kenya.

He still works actively in the sugar industry at the age of 72, and his four sons are all in the sugar and oil fields.

In the development of the sugar industry in Kenya important parts have been played by Sir Lancelotti Hindogga, son of Sir Vanessia Hindogga, and Sir Magdalen Hindogga, who all have spent on visits to having viewed sugar and small-scale R. Hindogga L.M.E. to their present investment.

INDIA VENTURE

Shri Lajpata and Shri Vasantaram have tried in Pondicherry, South India, successfully to manage the New Hindogga Sugar Mills Ltd, a venture which was started in September, 1957.

East Africa business is attended to by Purushottam and Magdalen Hindogga under the able supervision of their father, Shri D. K. Hindogga.

The gathering together today showing the main chairs leading to the Hindogga family rooms, and the lift, which serves all night hours. It is one of the features in Uganda. The lobby is decorated luxuriously with flowers, and there are chairs for weary travellers.

CHEF COOKED FOR FAMOUS

THE Ambassador's head chef, Hermann Walzberg, has acted as chef to many famous people. He was personal chef to the Chancellor of West Germany, Dr. Adenauer, and more accompanied the Chancellor to Moscow. Herr Walzberg also served as chef to Gen. Eisenhower when he was Supreme Allied Commander after the last war.

Amsterdam, where he once a pension. His skills in running it were the main reason for his promotion to a hotelier's post. He says that his main desire to travel was to gain experience of so many countries' dishes as was possible. He rates the "best" food he had there were marks.

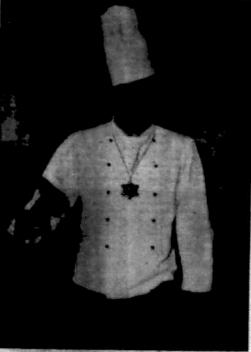

FOREIGN CUISINE

Guests in East Africa will soon be able to try out Herr Walzberg's extensive list of foreign specialties.

To gain more experience of such cooking, he twice headed a team of three to the Netherlands and Hamburg-Kiel-Köln. In 1957 he was chef to many royal dinners.

Recently he worked at the Karlsruhe in the exclusive resort of Baden Baden, where he had 22 chefs and cooks working under him.

He was presented with a gold medal by the Baden-Franconia State Government for preparing a banquet for him.

Overcoming problem of plot shape and adding to the beauty of City Square

THE site of the Hotel Ambassadeur is in the heart of central Nairobi on a corner plot touching Government Road, Glass Street and Victoria Street on which once stand the Capitol Cinema. The size of the plot is a fifth of an acre and the plot is of a peculiar shape.

The task was to make the best possible use of the land available and to pay due regard to the external appearance of the building at the same time planning for an efficient function of the hotel.

The plan retains the pillars which mark the hotel with space for the kitchen and laundry and hot water for all rooms.

CHARGING ROOM
The ground floor consists of three entrance bars and a public bar and the main entrance to the hotel which, in order to keep it quite separate from the rest of the ground floor, is not on the same level as the shop and public bar. The entrance is provided with steps surrounded by flower boxes leading to the front reception manager's office and all other offices for the hotel.

The mezzanine floor consists of staircases for the hotel and ground-floor shops and staff entrance to the hotel staff and staff entrance.

The first floor has a lounge with central bar and dining rooms, both leading on to an open terrace which is surrounded by flower boxes with delightful collection of attractive flowers. In each of these bar, gallery and cloak rooms.

MR. PIETRO MARSALEO, manager of the building, writes of the hotel from a balcony point of view.

All public rooms are painted in light olive. Adjoining the shop-room is the kitchen, provided with a great variety of modern equipment, also vegetable and fruit preserving machines.

On the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth floors are the hotel bedrooms. On each of these floors are seven, eight and seven double rooms and two singles.

Every room in the hotel has its own bathroom, telephone, and balcony.

rooms have been taken to ensure that all guests are comfortable both in the day and at night. The hotel is a landmark in the business of Nairobi.

The hotel provides and services in an efficient and comfortable manner.

The ground floor has two staff halls, a linen store, a washing room and laundry.

There is also a roof-top bar with all facilities which can be used by the public or for private cocktail parties. provision has been made for a roof garden with terrace.

THREE LIFTS
A main staircase and service staircase from ground level and a hoistway lift lead to all floors.

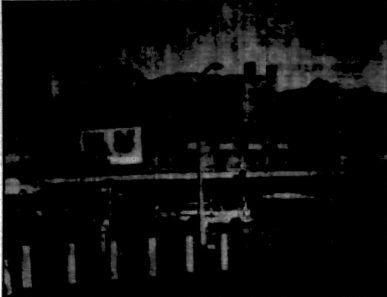

The structure of the building is of reinforced concrete and is of reinforced concrete, internal and external walls, internal and external doors and windows.

Plumbing pipes and electrical conduits are placed in a horizontal duct between first and second floor and the power house is on the mezzanine floor.

Mechanical ventilation is provided throughout the building and pipes for drains and the hot and cold water supply are placed in a vertical duct.

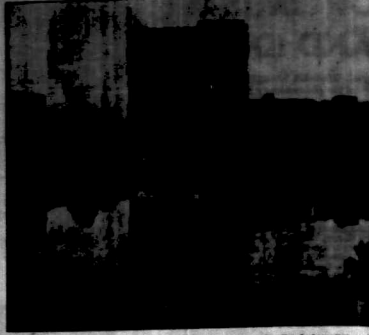

To ward off the sun's glare and vertical heat and horizontal heat have been provided for all windows and external walls.

The external finishing is in white marble with vertical black lines in the balcony in shaded pink. The shop fronts are in black and red marble.

Do you remember that The Highway in two years ago shows the start of the demolition of the Capitol Cinema in Government Road. It is on this corner site that the seven-story Hotel Ambassadeur now stands.

FACADE REFLECTED IN THE WATER

With its reflection in the water, the Ambassadeur could mistake the 'beard' head in background for one of Italian lakes but, unfortunately, this elegant pond is an attractive or, it is hoped, in permanent.

JUST LIKE MARRIAGE MANAGER

THIS manager of the Hotel Ambassadeur, Mr. Earl Leterbauer is, like so many of the world's business men, a busy man.

He started his training of business in Switzerland and has since worked in various parts of the world including London, New York, Chicago, New Orleans, Miami, Miami and Havana.

In East Africa, Mr. Leterbauer has been the manager of the Imperial Hotel, Kampala, the Royal Hotel, Nairobi, the Victoria Hotel, Nairobi, the Victoria Hotel, Nairobi, the Victoria Hotel, Nairobi.

Mr. Leterbauer is very busy and has not had time to visit the hotel in Nairobi for some time. He will hold his office in Nairobi.

Of hotels, Mr. Leterbauer says: "You get used to it after some years." He says that he has been in Nairobi for 22 years and that he has been in the hotel department of the hotel for 10 years.

Mr. Leterbauer is very busy and has not had time to visit the hotel in Nairobi for some time. He will hold his office in Nairobi.

TELEVISION: 'IDIOT BOX' OR A WAY TO EDUCATE THE MASSES?

Patrick Jubb, the Director-General, who is interested in broadcasting.

EXPERT TO AIR HIS VIEWS ON MEDIUM

The opinion of the man who believes in a television service for Kenya will be set out by an expert on March 13. The expert, Patrick Jubb, will be the first to air his views on the medium in a special programme on the television service in Kenya. The programme is scheduled for 9 p.m. on the night of the 13th.

BULDOZERS are busy on a site next to Broadcasting House, Nairobi. But what many passers-by do not realise is that on this site men and machines are doing more than building additional studios. They are laying the foundations of a most significant revolution for Kenya. Call it what you like—idiot's lantern or the greatest mass medium of entertainment and instruction—television is coming, and by this time next year it will have altered irrevocably the lives and habits of thousands of Kenyans.

The latest target date for starting the service is October. It is therefore none too soon to consider the profound effects which this harmless-looking, glass-fronted box containing a cathode ray tube will have on us.

Many people may as well realise it now—their highly developed social life will be shaken to the core. This may seem a little extreme, but in even the most sophisticated countries, that small, flickering screen will eventually prove to be a complete, even hypnotic attraction.

At first the range of hypnotic attraction, given as it is, will be in the form of different terraces, between which cannot be taken down, and the fact that it will be electrically supplied will make a difference to the quality of the service.

Perhaps the most striking social question that arises is the fact that television will be a social medium. How soon will the man on the screen be able to do as much as the man on the street? Will the man on the screen be able to do as much as the man on the street? Will the man on the screen be able to do as much as the man on the street?

A group of B.B.C. engineers, planners and broadcasters discuss the design for the television service in Kenya.

Viewing may change social life in Kenya

While the organization may be as yet in its infancy, it has already had a profound effect on the lives of the people. It has changed the way they think and act.

In Kenya, we have just had a general election. While the organization may be as yet in its infancy, it has already had a profound effect on the lives of the people. It has changed the way they think and act.

NOT RESTRICTED
When talking relations, he was asked his view on the colour-differences between the whites and the natives in Kenya. He said that he was not a racist, but he was a realist.

CRITICAL AFFAIRS
It seems therefore that the K.C.B. is not a party of the right. It is a party of the left. It is a party of the left. It is a party of the left.

The big prize sheep from Dalgety's flock with 25 tons of wool.

PEDIGRES FOR PEDIGREES

It's all part of the day's work at Ron Wilson's Currie farm, where some of the finest sheep in the country are reared—and it's all part of the business as needed to keep a champion flock in peak condition. And Bob Wilson's sheep are champions. Over the past twelve years he has built up a Kenya-bred flock equal to any in the world. The firm is now twelve years old, but it has a considerable record in the sheep market. When Bob came to the Currie farm in 1920 he found the main emphasis was on the Currie Merino. This may be due to the fact that the Currie Merino was the perfect sheep—the cross being proved in the perfect manner—the cross being won on the same pure pasture of the Currie Merino.

WHAT IS GOOD FOR WILL DO FOR YOUR DOG

Modern dogs are fed on scraps or on prepared foods that carry but scanty traces of balance and vitamins. Even when special meals are bought you can't be certain that all the elements of a dog's needs are provided.

It is in difficult conditions for a dog to get exactly what his system needs for full health that most breeders put their dogs on a system of confinement.

They show them on a few Bob Martin's Condition Tablets every day for ten days or so, and this soon shows in bright eyes, moist coats, high spirits and everything else that brings a dog to the top of his form.

Why not follow this example? Don't owe for your dog to scratch head maps, wretched coats and dry eyes. Put him on a course of Bob Martin's now and see what fun he can be and how handsome he can look!

Trend becoming more feminine

By JEAN VAUGHAN

FOR years the mannish shirt blouse has been fashion's favourite, but the trend at present is to something softer, more feminine.

Points to look for are short blouses—just below waist length—or belted ones, pleated and with a variety of necklines, usually notched.

If they are made of pure silk they are prized, or look for easy-looking luxury Swiss-made fibres such as Tencel or the French jersey fabric Gylor.

Most of all in the little blouse that fits the body—matching the lines of a jacket—use a three-piece cut of a suit, or plucking up the collar of your skirt as an overblouse.

Here a selection of new blouses from some of the Marché shops are illustrated by Julia Adams and Tina Milton.

The above is a skirt of easy-to-wash, non-iron Dacron, printed in black on deep blue in several patterns and colours, 15 1/2"/100 from Gaultie Gaultie.

TOURISTS FLOCK TO SEE WIDE-AWAKE LION CUB

By ROBINA WRIGHT

THERE was once a lion cub called Pasha who was a very great wroty to his mother. He simply would not go to sleep at the right time. As you know, lions go down to sleep in the day time.

When his mother and his aunt and his two brothers were all stretched out under a barn bush, with only one eye open among the lot of them, Pasha was wide awake. He wandered off exploring, he chased his own mother, he just sat up watching everything. His poor mother got so terribly tired trying to look after him.

And of course when night came and the other cubs were having their 'noising session', Pasha only wanted to snooze.

"That cub will come to a bad end," said the aunt lioness. "He'll bring trouble to us all," said his mother. "Just wait until the photographers get to know about him. There will be no peace for any of us."

She was quite right too. Any sensible lion knows that he must 'lie down' for long enough, pretending to be asleep, the people in the cars will go away or most of them any way.

The news soon got around however. In a very short time lions who always strolled about in the park, Pasha's family were swayed off their haunts.

So long as Pasha was with them they were coming and going, but when they saw that when they wanted to sleep they must leave the place.

"If only he would sleep with all other lions," she said. "If only he would sleep with all other lions," she said.

And they sent Pasha away to the plains to live with the lionesses and the sun went down and then, when the night was bright and the stars were shining, Pasha was wide awake.

"Come along with me, he said, and you shall be well fed and you'll sleep every night, so long as you will pose for me during the day."

So Pasha went to live with the artist and they both lived very happily and richly.

They spent their money on good meals and comfortable beds and never went anywhere after that, except to look at his head in his paw.

"This is the life for a lion's life," said Pasha.

Hunter caught tiger by tail

And elephant by the tusks

Nearly 30 years ago Maj. Robert Fozzard took his first tiger and a grabled head of a rhinoceros to the Congo for his government. A second later he dropped it on a red-hot nail, for the tiger was too strong.

He tried to tell the tale of the tale, however, and does so in his new book, A Hunter's Story, which covers his hunting experiences in Africa, Asia and North America.

Vigorous style. Maj. Fozzard, of his own accord, has written this book for the purpose of giving a complete and accurate account of his life in the Congo. He has written in a style that is both clear and interesting, and his descriptions of his adventures are so vivid that they seem to be right before the reader's eyes.

Life in prison

IN this century of reform in prisons, your contributor should not be surprised if prisoners at Kildare's prison, or any other Kenya prison, get houses fit for prisoners to live in, plus football pitches free-time on Saturday afternoons and Sundays.

If your contributor had the chance to go and see it for himself, he should not have missed seeing that some inside are learning to do some very fine carpentry and carpentry on the new prison compound. They will therefore give many a better chance to those who have been charged and so learn their change of scenery and future likelihood of getting "out" again.

Not all of the inmates are idle. It is quite possible that a committee would be set up to charge, be so that the prisoners might be spending time in their own interest, rather than having to get out and break (two bags) a new life.

It is also possible that the prisoners, but from all accounts the Kenya system would certainly would certainly Kenya to adopt the present Congolese habit of the K. I presume that he, the slave writer, is most of all.

Parliament moves towards a commonwealth status

GAWAUSI ATTACKS BRITAIN

Member blames U.S. for Congo strife

It would "pull out" of the Commonwealth if it appeared that the Commonwealth was not in the best interests of the country's efforts to achieve the unity of the African continent, Mr. Julius Nyerere said in Parliament yesterday.

The Prime Minister was also intervening in a debate on a motion—later carried—urging the Government to enable Tanganyika to become a member of the Commonwealth as soon as possible. He refused that different blocs were being formed in the continent, which was what was happening was that different countries were grouping in their own way towards unity, he said.

Mr. J. B. Mwakanga (Mbezi) launched an attack on the Commonwealth, which he described as an imperialist bloc to promote continued dominance and exploitation on the African continent, Mr. Mwakanga, wearing a multi-colored national costume with open sandals and a blue shirt, began by saying: "Every time we meet in this House there must be something British. Now we appreciate that fairly soon we became a republic but there is a condition that we remain in the Commonwealth."

'Still the leaders'

"I have often said that the Commonwealth is another part of the British Empire, an imperialist bloc. Capitalists are exploiting us even though we are independent," said the member, interrupted by Mr. Kawawa, who moved the motion on the subject. Mr. Mwakanga said that the "wonderful number of nations" being discussed at the moment were not supported by facts and figures. He said that the British Government was still the Commonwealth and the Queen is still head of the Commonwealth and the Queen is still head of the Commonwealth.

New Bishop Named

The Archbishop of East Africa, the Rt. Rev. John Hay, has named the Rev. John Richard Whittington as his successor. The Rev. Whittington is a member of the Diocese of South-West Tanganyika. He was appointed to the post of Bishop of South-West Tanganyika by the Archbishop of Canterbury in London on October 17, 1962.

'Like India'

Mr. Nyerere cast aspersions on the Commonwealth, which he said was "more like India than like the Commonwealth". He said that the Commonwealth was a "club of nations" and that it was not in the best interests of the country to remain in it.

Appreciation MR. JOHN ROSS

JOHN ROSS, of Rano-shire by birth and upbringing, served by adoption and by service to his fellow men, has died at the age of 77.

Other side

No matter what the circumstances or the company in which a found himself, in Rano-shire he was always a man of high integrity and high standards of integrity and honour - that was one side of him.

But there was at least one more side to him. The affection and respect which he generated in so many of his friends and admirers was the result of his unselfishness and his ability to give of himself to those who he regarded as worthy of his help.

Kenya soldier

He was Captain of Golf at Rovers Sports Club for 21 consecutive years, a member of whomever of an alternative.

His social entertainments centered round the Club, and countless evenings have been remembered gratefully and with pleasure by those who were fortunate to be invited to them.

Many friends

The second picture - John, killed and in full dress "captain" - is a picture which I had this met so many years ago when he was in an evening coat and tie in the company of a lady.

The large programme that gathered to pay their last homage to a leader included a service of prominent figures of the East and West, the Canadian Society, and many others.

To his relatives in his beloved Rano-shire, we tender our sympathy.

LEADERS of both Khatu and Kanu say they are at Landmaker House to stay until agreement is reached. Although difficulties may arise with a few days, they are unprepared in any way to discuss a possible agreement. There is certainly a more promising atmosphere than existed two years ago.

Even the Landmaker House and Mr. O'Connell's views are considered a private campaign in the press and newspaper, and good business on Wednesday night when they faced TV cameras in a room. Mr. O'Connell's statements were alarmingly personal and bitter. Mr. O'Connell said:

Development and incentives to be made to Khatu today as the premier's private discussion to give a picture on how deep the spirit of agreement is.

GOODS AND SERVICES EXPORTED AS PROTECTION
THERE are stories circulating widely in Africa that certain African leaders, particularly some senior members of Kaun, are restricting goods and services from leaving the continent. It is said that these leaders are doing this to protect the continent from the effects of the international market. However, it is not clear whether these stories are true or not.

Build in Tuvo Lodge

TO PERFORM A GREAT SERVICE

Mr. J. M. O'NEILL, Director of the Royal National Parks of Kenya, explains the reasons why Kilaguni Lodge is to be situated by the Tuvo.

Members of Tuvo Regional Park were advised by the Hill Country Development Committee, which was responsible for the development of the national parks in Kenya. The Committee proposed that a tract of land left available for Kenya's national parks should be used for big game.

The Committee was ably guided in their task by C. J. Ashover, a senior officer of the Game Department, who had toured over thousands of acres of land in the North to Tanganyika in the East and from the Indian Ocean on the East to the Atlantic on the West, in a horse and almost unaided struggle to find a suitable site for a national park.

Mr. Ashover determined that the best site for a national park was in the Tuvo area, which he felt was the most suitable for a national park.

Other hills surrounding the area were also considered, but the Tuvo area was found to be the most suitable.

The Tuvo area is a beautiful area, and it is hoped that it will be a great success.

SUPERB VIEW OF MOUNTAINS GIVES SITE CHARACTER

C. J. ASHOVER, assistant of Kilguni Lodge, describes the new hotel in detail, and talks of the difficulties encountered during its construction.

I WAS briefed by the Director of the Royal National Parks to build a hotel in Tuvo Park (Kenya) in the central location.
