THE NEW STRATEGY PAPER

A strategy paper drawn up by the East African Development Council (EADC) in Kampala, Uganda, on July 10-11, 1969, is a landmark document in the history of East African development. It sets out a clear and comprehensive strategy for the region's economic growth and social progress over the next 15 years.

The paper, which is the result of a year-long study, is based on the assumption that East Africa should develop as a self-reliant and self-sufficient region, free from satellite relationships with any other country. It emphasizes the need for a balanced and diversified economy, with a strong emphasis on agriculture, industry, and services.

The strategy paper is divided into several key areas of focus:

- Industrial Development: The paper calls for a major expansion of the industrial sector, with a focus on manufacturing and processing. It suggests that the region should develop its own industrial base, rather than relying on imports.
- Infrastructure: A significant portion of the strategy is dedicated to improving the region's infrastructure, particularly in the areas of transport, communication, and energy. The paper argues that a modern infrastructure is essential for economic growth.
- Human Resources: The paper stresses the importance of investing in human capital. It calls for a focus on education, training, and health care to create a skilled and healthy workforce.
- Regional Cooperation: While emphasizing self-reliance, the paper also recognizes the need for regional cooperation. It suggests that East African countries should work together to develop shared infrastructure and promote trade within the region.

The strategy paper is a bold and ambitious document that sets a clear path for East African development. It is a testament to the region's potential for growth and progress.

The Leap hurdles

The ability of Africa to meet the challenges of the 1970s will depend on its capacity to overcome several major hurdles. These include:

- Infrastructure: Many African countries lack the basic infrastructure needed for economic growth, such as roads, ports, and power lines.
- Human Resources: There is a shortage of skilled labor and technical expertise in many African countries.
- Capital: Many African countries face a chronic shortage of capital, which is needed to finance development projects.
- Political Stability: Political instability and corruption are major obstacles to development in many African countries.

No planned growth

The absence of a planned growth strategy is a major concern for many African countries. Without a clear strategy, it is difficult to coordinate development efforts and to attract investment.

Many African countries have adopted a policy of free-market economics, which has led to a lack of direction in their development efforts. This has resulted in a fragmented and inefficient economy.

Authority of collective agreement

The authority of collective agreements is a key issue in the labor market. These agreements, which are negotiated between employers and trade unions, play a crucial role in regulating the labor market and ensuring fair wages and working conditions.

Open to advice

The government is open to advice from all interested parties regarding economic development. This includes advice from the private sector, academia, and international organizations.

State says

The state is committed to a policy of economic growth and development. It is committed to providing a stable and supportive environment for investment and business.

The new and the paper states that an hour will be reduced to the party's convenience. The paper also states that the government is committed to providing a stable and supportive environment for investment and business.

Admitted

The government has admitted that it is facing a major challenge in the form of a balance of payments crisis. This is due to a combination of factors, including a decline in export earnings and an increase in import costs.

State says

The state is committed to a policy of economic growth and development. It is committed to providing a stable and supportive environment for investment and business.

Eye expert brings relief without hurting vanity

BEAUTY lies in the eyes of the beholder. May we say that with the new scientific advances in the field of eye care, the eyes of the beholder are being made to see more clearly than ever before? This is the question that is being asked by eye care experts who are now offering a new type of eye care that is not only effective but also painless and without hurting vanity.

The new type of eye care is called "Laser Eye Surgery" and it is a revolutionary new procedure that has been developed by a team of scientists at the University of California, Los Angeles. The procedure is called "Laser Eye Surgery" because it uses a laser beam to reshape the cornea of the eye, which is the clear, outer layer of the eye. The laser beam is used to remove a small amount of tissue from the cornea, which allows light to pass through the eye more easily and focus on the retina, which is the back of the eye.

Women at work
by Ann Marshall

Recently when my mother and I talked about the many ways in which women are now contributing to the economy, she said that she had never heard of a woman who was a "woman at work" in the same way that a man is. She said that she had never heard of a woman who was a "woman at work" in the same way that a man is.

There are many ways in which women are now contributing to the economy. One of the ways is by working in the same way that men do. Women are now working in many of the same jobs that men do, and they are doing them just as well as men. FOOD FIRMS PLAN TO INVEST 'MILIONS' Agricultural policy outlined in debate

The largest and most technically advanced food processing firms in America and Australia were negotiating with the Government to spend "tensy millions of pounds" on the establishment of their industries in Kenya, the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. M. J. Ryan, said in the House of Representatives yesterday.

The Minister outlined his application to agriculture, a major objective of the Government's policy to develop a major role for the private sector in the economy.

He announced the Government's intention to set up a number of national farms, which would act as "strategic reserves" of hybrid seed and high quality breeding stock as a standby in the event of other breakdowns by present producers, or any other agricultural requisites.

The Minister warned that undeveloped, managed and abandoned land would not be considered - irrespective of its nationality of the owner.

Guerrillas attack U.S. missile base

Guerrillas attacked a U.S. missile base in the Philippines, killing several people and destroying several missiles.

The attack took place in the town of Zamboanga, in the province of Zamboanga del Sur.

The guerrillas were reported to have been active in the area for some time, and the attack was a major blow to the U.S. military presence in the Philippines.

The U.S. military has since launched a major offensive against the guerrillas, and has captured several of their bases.

Brutality alleged

Allegations of brutality against the police in the Philippines have been made by human rights groups.

The groups said that the police had used excessive force against the people, and had committed several acts of violence.

They said that the police had also committed several acts of discrimination against the people, and had treated them with contempt.

The groups have demanded that the government should take steps to reform the police, and to ensure that the people are treated with respect and dignity.

For some time to come

Speaking during the debate on the Government's plan for developing the agricultural sector, the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. M. J. Ryan, said that the Government's policy was to support the private sector in the economy.

No entry

The Government has announced that it will not allow any foreign companies to acquire land in the region. This decision is based on the Government's policy of land reform, which aims to ensure that land is used for the benefit of the local population. The Government is committed to ensuring that the land is used for the benefit of the present and future generations.

MAYORAL AUTHORITY

NAIROBI City Councilors voted on a resolution to support the Government's proposal to amend the Municipal Councils Act to give the Mayor a statutory right to appoint and dismiss members of the Council.

The resolution was passed by a vote of 12 to 10. The 12 in favour included the Mayor, Mr. J. M. Njoroge, and the 10 against included Mr. J. M. Njoroge's opponents.

The resolution was passed after a long and heated debate. The Mayor argued that the Government's proposal would give him the authority to appoint and dismiss members of the Council, which would be a significant step towards a more efficient and effective Council.

His opponents argued that the proposal would give the Mayor too much power and that it would be a step towards a one-man show. They also argued that the proposal would be a violation of the Constitution.

HOUSE APPROVES BASIS AND GUIDE FOR FUTURE DEVELOPMENT

HOUSE AND GUIDE FOR FUTURE DEVELOPMENT

The Government's Seasonal Paper defining African Socialism was yesterday unanimously adopted by the House of Representatives as a basis and guide for future development planning and policy in Kenya.

In a major policy statement, the Minister for Economic Planning and Development, Mr. Mbiya said neither rule by an elite, nor political discrimination would be permitted in Kenya. "We will guarantee equality in every other country throughout the world," he said.

Referring to the debate on the Seasonal Paper, Mr. Mbiya stated: "In these past few months we in this country have perhaps been more guilty than any other country in the world of having a 'policy' without a personality interest. It is here, therefore, that the House that we must make a firm start."

Important and historical

The Vice-President, Mr. Odingi, described the Seasonal Paper as "very important and very historical," and said it had inserted a "new spirit" into the people's lives.

The country had set up itself economically in the spirit of the "Centralized system." People had to work hard — the country's aim — to achieve this.

Development Corporation has good year

A year of progress with considerable expansion in the Development Corporation's portfolio of investments.

The Development Corporation has had a very successful year, with a number of new investments and a significant increase in its portfolio. The Corporation's activities have been particularly successful in the areas of infrastructure and public works.

STEELS DULL AFTER DEBATE

The steel market in London was dull after a debate on the steel industry. The market was characterized by a lack of activity and a general sense of uncertainty. The debate focused on the challenges facing the industry and the need for government intervention.

Ghana's trade balance recovers

Ghana's trade balance has recovered significantly after a period of deficit. This recovery is attributed to a combination of factors, including a decline in imports and an increase in exports. The government has implemented measures to stabilize the economy and improve trade relations.

EXISTING ECONOMIC SET-UP WILL NOT BE DEMOLISHED

ALTHOUGH it was the Government's declared policy to create a new set-up, it is not to be demolished. The existing economic structure will remain in place, with only necessary adjustments being made. This approach aims to ensure stability and continuity in the economy.

Mill to start expansion programme

The National Development Corporation will start an expansion programme. This programme involves the construction of new infrastructure and the expansion of existing facilities. The goal is to stimulate economic growth and create jobs.

Tourist company planned

The Minister for Education, Mr. Manning (right), is expected to announce the formation of a tourist company. This company is intended to promote tourism and provide services to visitors. It will be a key initiative in the government's strategy to boost the tourism industry.

Close on the Rand

The Rand has been a major focus of attention in the financial markets. There has been significant speculation and trading activity surrounding the currency. The government is closely monitoring the situation to ensure stability.

OPPOSING VIEWS ON PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

1. - Private effort vital

I WAS impressed by a report of the students of the National Development Corporation who would mean public ownership. The report highlights the importance of private effort in the development process. It argues that government intervention should be limited and that the private sector should play a leading role.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

I have this to say: I would like to see the development of the country through private effort. The government should focus on creating a favorable environment for investment and business. Public ownership should be reserved for essential services and infrastructure.

2. - Peaceful revolution

I DO not quarrel with the objectives of African Socialism as defined by Kwame Nkrumah. However, I believe that a peaceful revolution is necessary to achieve these objectives. This involves a gradual process of social and economic reform, rather than a radical overthrow of the existing system.

The Government should pay attention to the needs of the people. It should focus on improving the standard of living and providing social services. A peaceful revolution is the best way to achieve these goals. It involves a commitment to social justice and economic development.

LITTLE LOSS

Referring to the Mr. Kereha case, the court said that the documents were not intended to be used in the open. The court also mentioned a case of a man who had lost a small amount of money.

The man had been carrying a small bag containing some money. He had lost the bag while walking through a crowded market. The police found the bag and returned it to him.

ARE ALL BATTERIES ALIKE ?

Not quite. They look the same, but that's where the similarity ends. Underneath the cover of the Hitachi UM-100, for example, are six lead-acid cells which completely seal off the battery from the outside. This means it 100 per cent waterproof and gives it a much longer life. Look for the name Hitachi and buy with confidence.

East African Steamship

POSSIBLE DISASTER

It is believed that the East African Steamship Co. is in a state of financial collapse. The company, which was founded in 1952, has been operating at a loss since its inception. It is reported that the company's assets are worth only a fraction of what it owes. The company's fleet consists of several ships, but only one is currently operational. The company's financial problems are believed to be the result of a combination of factors, including a decline in passenger traffic and a sharp increase in fuel costs. It is expected that the company will be liquidated in the near future.

No present need for exchange control

After the introduction of exchange control in 1952, the Government has been able to maintain a balance of payments surplus. It is reported that the Government does not see a need for exchange control at present. The Government's foreign exchange reserves are believed to be sufficient to meet its needs for the foreseeable future. The Government is, however, keeping a close watch on the situation and may introduce exchange control if necessary.

A. HEARS CONFIDENCE BUDGET

Healthy agriculture still the mainstay

Confidence in the future and also as a measure of the services being provided, the East African Common Services Authority and Administration contemplated increased expenditure for 1963-64. The East African Central Legislative Assembly was told yesterday.

Presenting the Budget on behalf of the current Chairman of the Finance Minister, Mr. Paul Boman, who is Tanzania's Finance Minister, the Tanzania Minister of State, Mr. Amir Jamal, said the Budget of K1,952,847 showed an increased expenditure of K1,500,000 over the 1962-63 estimates, although supplementary estimates subsequently approved reduced the increase to some K279,632.

He said: "A budget which is being produced and vetted in advance by the Finance Minister, and which covers the expenditure which falls to be met in that year from the Fund. It is therefore both a mark of confidence in the future and a measure of the improved services being provided for the people of East Africa through increased expenditures."

Kampala Agreement vital

A significant part of the income was given to the Government of Uganda in the form of a grant, as provided in the Kampala Agreement.

Mr. Jamal continued: "Confidence in the future is largely based on current experience and the record of the Government over the past several years. It is regarded as a year of steady growth, perhaps the most successful during which gains were consolidated after a period of uncertainty in the past."

"The most important of the measures taken to increase or to improve the services provided for the people of East Africa are the Kampala Agreement, which provides for the location of certain industries and the provision of certain services in the region of the Lake Edward basin, and the Kampala Agreement, which provides for the location of certain industries and the provision of certain services in the region of the Lake Edward basin."

Mr. Jamal continued: "Confidence in the future is largely based on current experience and the record of the Government over the past several years. Satisfactory

Since the population continues to expand, it is estimated that the total population of the East African Common Services Authority will be 10 million by the end of 1963. This is a significant increase over the 8 million population in 1962.

The Government has taken steps to meet the needs of the growing population. These include the provision of more schools, hospitals, and housing. The Government has also taken steps to improve the standard of living of the people of East Africa.

PAKISTAN- DENT IN A MASCULINE WORLD

LESS than two years ago, when Pakistan was hardly the woman in an executive position in the history of continents in Pakistan.

Today there are 20-40 men graduates of the University of Karachi's Institute of Business Administration.

Though not considered a great profession, it still gives a woman here a long way to go as well as the freedom of choice in her career in the West.

There also are income tax opportunities for women in this developing country, who more and more girls are entering the Institute for degree courses in such subjects as education, taking evening courses to obtain advanced certificates.

Girls graduating from the Institute are offered positions carrying monthly salaries ranging from Rs. 600 to Rs. 1,200, which includes an 8 per cent bonus. However, they are much better than the average office women in Pakistan.

All in work

Not one of the 20 girls who have graduated from the Institute has taken up a profession in 1965, is out of a job.

Yet, there, there are 12 per cent in the department, and certificate holders are not in a position to get a job.

The background of the girls in the department is the result of a plan in a number of phases. The plan was formulated from a survey conducted by a small committee in 1962.

While most Pakistanis generally feel that their nation is still a developing country, the interest few who are getting the professional education in Pakistan is not so much about after-graduation opportunities as it is to get a job.

The younger generation of Pakistan's girls has shown an inclination to move with the times and does not want to hold their own in a society where the male is still dominant.

NEW ZEALAND SHATTERED

Lancashire beat tourists

CASHING on a tricky, arduous pitch at Manchester yesterday the New Zealand cricketers crashed to an innings defeat against the Lancashire touring team in the first-division match of their England tour.

Lancashire's formidable batting attack in only two days, as the first day on Saturday was rained off, it was merely surprising as the country had threatened loss in two days to Somerset in their previous game. Brian Statham, Lancashire's Test fast bowler, gave a superb display with a spell of five wickets for 70 in the first of the two-day second innings.

The New Zealanders, all tied in their first knock for 115 in reply to Lancashire's total, were dismissed for 105 in a dramatic finish in eight runs from five wickets when they had to follow-on under the two-day match rule.

The third-innings batsmen bravely tried to stay off a defeat, but with Graeme Vint and James Cook in the field they were all out for 104, leaving the county wicket by 11 runs.

Lancashire led the Test, which had its first day on Saturday at 11, and was 115 in the second hour of play when the Kiwis were dismissed for 105.

At BRIDGETOWN
All Australians, Berkshire yesterday Australia declared their second innings to 170 for the fourth wicket on the first day of the South Test, setting the New Zealand batsmen to a task. The Kiwis were dismissed for 115 for the loss of five wickets.

USSR scientists last night awaited the first "soft" landing on the New of Canada area.

Luna-5 will almost certainly relay television pictures to Earth, though whether this will be done immediately it touches down on the desolate cratered surface of the moon is not known. If it survives the landing, the 2,200-lb capsule, packed with instruments, will relay a steady stream of information about this.

This will enable Russia to make a giant stride toward her aim of putting a man on the moon.

One of the big tasks facing it is to land "softly" in order to make the landing without bouncing. It will make the landing without bouncing. It will make the landing without bouncing. It will make the landing without bouncing.

Plans for ending overcrowding in Kenya's towns

COMMUNITARIANS designed to overcome what is described as a "major overcrowded situation" in all major Kenya towns are outlined in the report of a United Nations mission on housing in Kenya submitted to the Government. The report was led by the Member of Parliament, Mr. J. M. Njiru.

The mission — Dr. L. N. Blaugberg and Prof. Charles L. Blumhagen — was appointed under the U.N. programme of technical assistance. It found that 42 per cent of African households in Nairobi, 30 per cent in Mombasa and 49 per cent in other major towns. Three or more people lived in a single room. The Government's programme should Kenya relieve this overcrowding.

To keep up with household growth, a five-year steady state housing programme is suggested. This would require housing for the six years 1965-70 some 72,000 units in a single year. Officials who reported in urban areas were an under-estimate even when they considered the country's housing needs for the capital development of all kinds.

Meeting housing needs in Kenya — and most other countries as well — was a goal that could not be met until an intermediate target by identifying the quantity of housing the country could build annually within its own resources.

LAG IN CONSTRUCTION ACTIVITIES

A number of factors have to be taken into account before a decision is reached on whether to proceed with a major building programme. 'KEEP RICH NATIONS ON THE RUN' -ECONOMIST

The Economist magazine has published an article titled 'Keep Rich Nations on the Run'. The article discusses the economic challenges facing rich nations and the need for reform.

The article argues that rich nations are facing a crisis of confidence, and that this is leading to a loss of investment and a decline in economic growth. The author suggests that rich nations should focus on improving their economic performance and reducing their dependence on foreign capital.

The article also discusses the role of international organizations in promoting economic growth and stability. It argues that these organizations should focus on providing technical assistance and financial support to developing nations, rather than imposing conditions that are often unrealistic and harmful.

U.K. URGED TO ACT OVER RHODESIA

Mr. Kenyatta quotes Kenya's example

Mr. Kenyatta urged the United Kingdom to take the initiative in Rhodesia in a strongly worded statement issued on behalf of the Kenya Government by Mr. Kenyatta from Entebbe yesterday. Kenya was quoted as an example to Africa and the world of different communities living happily and working constructively to build a nation. Problems similar to those in Rhodesia had been solved by a common-sense and realistic approach by negotiations and round-table talks in Nairobi and London.

President Kenyatta asked why Kenya's example cannot be followed in Rhodesia and called on the British Premier, Mr. Wilson, to take the initiative.

After saying that the recent Rhodesian election had given significance to the statement recorded that the Kenya Government was not interested in Rhodesia, Mr. Kenyatta declared that the Rhodesian Government, which he declared Kenya would not recognize, was an independent Government in Rhodesia based on a democratic one-man one-vote majority rule.

'We cannot compromise'

The full text of the Government's statement reads: "The Government of Kenya has from time to time expressed its deep concern over the situation in Southern Rhodesia. We are fully committed to independence in Southern Rhodesia, on the basis of the O.A.S. to secure the total liberation of Africa."

"We cannot compromise on this issue. We are fully committed to the principle of one-man one-vote majority rule. We are not prepared to accept any arrangement which would result in the continuation of a white-minority Government in Rhodesia. We are not prepared to accept any arrangement which would result in the continuation of a white-minority Government in Rhodesia. BLACK STARS FADE IN SECOND HALF

Maragoli run out worthy winners

MARAGOLI and Steel Stars were level 1-1 at the interval and Maragoli had to wait 20 minutes before they got the second time in the second half of their final National League match at Olympic Stadium on Saturday night.

Maragoli, who are facing a well-combined outfit this evening who promise more goals, had the better of yesterday's match but when Black Stars gradually took over the second half they had two goals to go. A broken wrist had Kipling with an ankle injury - Maragoli then swept on for a comfortable win.

Both teams played a solid defensive game but Maragoli were the much more dangerous side in front of goal. Their centre-forward, Imbani, was their only weak link. Maragoli's possession was smooth and they, like Black Stars could do little in the second half.
