PORTS TO END RAIL STRIKE REDOUBLED Way sought out of wages deadlock SEAMEN LOSING PORT STRANGLEHOLD

AFTER a weekend of reflection, the British Transport Commission and leaders of the railway unions yesterday intensified their efforts to end the rail strike. The dispute, over the wage margin between locomotive men and other railwaymen, is in its 16th day.

The officials of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, which has 79,000 members, are not all of the same mind. The Transport Commission says that it is not prepared to meet the demands of the unions, but that it is willing to consider other proposals.

Some after the talks were resumed, the Cabinet met. Later, the House of Commons was due to debate the stoppage which is threatening to stop industry of raw materials.

Although the two sets of strikes are continuing, the stoppage by seamen below decks is weakening. The Cunard liner Meda (11,340 tons) was the first other ship which sailed from Liverpool.

The Minister said that the House of Commons had decided in favour of the seamen. He said that the Government would be prepared to consider other proposals.

New Silhouette Is Just An Evolution

NO NEW new silhouette has appeared in fashion, today, which can be traced back to another century or more past.

It is true that designer and fashion makers are not content with the styles of the present, but they are not content with the styles of the past either. They are content with the styles of the present, and they are content with the styles of the past.

During the reign of Louis XV, the fashion of the French court was based on the fashion of the French court. It was a fashion of the French court, and it was a fashion of the French court.

The fashion of the French court was based on the fashion of the French court. It was a fashion of the French court, and it was a fashion of the French court.

MAKE IT YOURSELF...

MOVIES and popular fashions are a delightful idea that come together, although in no way would we wish to imply that it is possible for those fashions which have been a good one for the individual. It is a fashion which has been a good one for the individual.

It is a fashion which has been a good one for the individual. It is a fashion which has been a good one for the individual.

RUSSIANS SUGGEST LONGER CONFERENCE

Four days too short to solve problems

GENEVA ACCEPTED AS VENUE FOR TALKS

RUSSIA, in Notes to the Western Powers accepting Geneva as the venue for "Big Four" talks from July 18 to 21, has suggested, by implication, that the time limit allotted by the West is insufficient to solve the problems facing the Heads of State.

The Notes stated that the proposals "avoided important questions" mentioned in earlier Russian Notes. "In the present circumstances the efforts of the Governments of the four participating Powers must be directed, above all, to assure achievement of the basic task of the meeting—the relaxation of tension in international affairs."

Western observers interpret the Soviet Note to mean that when a "Big Four" meeting starts in Geneva next week, presumably in an effort to go more deeply into one or two of the more detailed considerations of the problems by their Foreign Ministers. The Soviet Foreign Minister, Mr. Molotov, is expected to raise this point when he confers with the Western Foreign Ministers at the United Nations July anniversary celebration in San Francisco next week.

Western observers have noted the brevity of the latest Soviet Note and the absence of any reference to Geneva and the "Big Four" meeting which sharply attacked the United States policy.

Day nurseries only temporary expedient

MAYOR'S ADVISE TO MOTHERS

INFLUENCES which bring up family life were criticised by the Mayor of Nairobi, Ald. R. S. Alexander, when he opened the new day nursery for African at Zewani Location. The Mayor said that while day nurseries were undoubtedly necessary institutions, he saw a bad influence in their wake. They were a... discouraging influence, he saw a bad influence in the break-up of family life.

Man and wife on Cape trip visit Nairobi

They make a regular for wives to leave their homes and go to work. The Mayor continued to insist that it was necessary to maintain a standard of living, if the women were to go to work. But in the provision of these nurseries, I see a danger of making it too easy for wives to go to work.

Wholesale European life

A feature of European life would not continue in the African in the wholesale departure of wives from the homes every day to go to work. They go home tired, and they are not really able to give to their children the attention they demand. In these days of inflation, therefore, I see a danger of encouraging wholesale European life in the African. The Mayor said he suggested that African boys were going to use the day nursery and other similar institutions should regard it as a temporary expedient and that proper steps to be taken to have their wives to look after the children, they should do so.

African help

It is suggested that it was a great crying shame of the nursery that the African themselves should contribute £200 towards the cost of about £1,000. The Mayor said "I may really have been able to encourage Africans to help themselves, and that would be a great advantage to the Government and the African in this way."

STATE AIM TO 'FREE' SUGAR Earning yield on Steels leaps in year SHARE PRICE DOUBLES

THE GOVERNMENT'S proposed legislation on the Commonwealth Sugar Agreement will be aimed at ending the system of State trading of sugar in Britain, according to political sources in London.

But the legislation will be designed to prevent importation of sugar from other Commonwealth sugar exporters and to provide a measure of market and price stability.

Leads until 1962

Under the long-term agreement signed in London, 1931, the British Government and the other 14 Commonwealth nations agreed to export to the United Kingdom a certain quantity of sugar for a period of 30 years. It was stipulated that the price of sugar should be fixed at a certain level for the first 10 years, and then gradually rise to the market price by the end of 1962.

Apart from providing a certain measure of price stability and maintaining a high level of sugar exports, which the Commonwealth (London)

WHILE there are signs that the general boom in industrial shares on the London Stock Exchange is slowing down, the exciting yields on steel shares are fantastic, writes Bester's Financial Editor. The price of Shearwater and Liberty, for example, stands at double that which the firm was discounted less than a year ago.

On their last published profits, these two firms were up in the end of last September, 1937, more than 40 per cent on their 1936 figures. In the case of Shearwater, the profit was up 100 per cent, and in the case of Liberty, the profit was up 50 per cent.

Double amount

When Shearwater was demergered last January, its price was 100. It was now 200. Liberty was 100 and is now 200.

It seems as if the market is still not ready to let go of the idea that the steel industry is still in the doldrums. But the fact is that the steel industry is not in the doldrums. It is in a boom.

As the bank rate has fallen to 2 per cent, the price of steel shares has risen to 100. The price of steel shares is now 200.

When your engine begins to fire and feel its age, use oil and less power—then it's time to fit WELLWORTHY Piston Rings.

No Piston Rings will give you a free engine, "DOUBLE" MILE-MASTER Matched Sets will put back into your engine the spark it had in its youth. Overhauled, but never equalled, WELLWORTHY Matched Sets include the famous DUAFLEX Oil Control Ring, the most efficient form of Oil Control Ring yet devised. It is truly soft of the DUAFLEX, "in fits a worn cylinder like water fits a glass." See your Garage about re-ordering your engine with these rings.

Spinning Out £12 In Nairobi

This is the second article on The Housewives' experiments in seeing what can be achieved with £12 for different types of women.

ONCE again we show you that by selective buying—and we must admit that selective buying is a reasonable outfit can be bought for a woman who past the teenage, needs a little more sophistication.

While looking for our teenage form we found a really-made one suitable for a woman who had just graduated out with white stripes attractive, used in the pattern of the dress. It was £7 and so on.

These, which seem to be the most expensive part of a woman's wardrobe, were made from a single fabric and price, which are displayed in one of our windows at 10/1. They were made from a suitable fabric for office or lady-ward—was it all the outfit.

Shakings at 7/6; a handsome blue fabric with a little stripe at the waist, a small matching-shoulder jacket both the outfit and hand, and a little white shirt affair with a large pom-pom, perhaps not a little expensive one, but that is not the case at all. White shirt and a hat at 2/6; completed the outfit with 12/1 for a pair. This outfit is a really-made one of underlining, hosiery, Persian pattern at 12/6.

- And so to the hat. Both this outfit and the last have been made for some people who were without for years—a beautiful headgear of a reasonable price and a few days of a large pom-pom, perhaps not a little expensive one, but that is not the case at all. White shirt and a hat at 2/6; completed the outfit with 12/1 for a pair.

The whole outfit with the names of the shops and the price will be displayed from later in a display at 10/1 of 'Her Own Voice Cuts Her Off the Phone'.

We would like to express our thanks to all shops who have helped us by allowing us to have garments on approval.

HER OWN VOICE CUTS HER OFF THE PHONE

SHAKESPEARE truly said of Cleopatra that her voice was "sweet soft, gentle and low, an excellent thing in a woman," but at the other end of the scale, high vocal notes have been known to shatter wine glasses, and many a married man has been made about his woman's "singing" voice.

The latest instance of a voice with peculiar properties that mark when a young woman has been raised a great deal out of tune with her telephone because her voice possesses the "high" property of putting the telephone receiver into a "singing" position. When she laughs, and sometimes even in ordinary conversation, she sings.

At first she thought her husband had broken down, but when the engineers look the instrument to pieces and find nothing wrong with it, she was surprised to find that she was singing several times and that a series of notes, which she thought were the notes of a telephone, were being discovered. On one occasion she spoke in a normal voice, but when she spoke again, she found that the telephone receiver was vibrating and that she was singing. She was surprised to find that she was singing several times and that a series of notes, which she thought were the notes of a telephone, were being discovered.

The unfortunate lady says she has been singing since she was a child, but she has never been aware of it until now. She has been singing since she was a child, but she has never been aware of it until now.

SOTIK HEARS REPORT ON E.A.W.L. WORK

THE President of the East Africa Women's League, Mrs. C. B. Anderson, accompanied by Mrs. G. Dolly, Vice-President, and Mrs. J. M. Silver, the Executive Officer, visited Sotik last week and addressed a well-attended meeting of the Sotik Branch. In the chair was Mrs. N. Charles, the D.V.P.

Mrs. Anderson spoke of the work of the League and the progress of the League in connection with the City and County Councils to further the social project.

Polionylitics

She then turned to the urgent need for more funds for the Polionylitics Recruitment Centre, which was being built up in Kenya on account of the increased incidence of the disease. Recently, she said that she had £3,000 to send one team to England for rehabilitation treatment because of the lack of proper equipment for dealing with the after-effects of the disease. The Ladies Branch of the League had raised £1,000 and bought a rocking bed which would be used for the treatment of polionylitics cases.

Holiday camps

There was, unfortunately, an unfortunate incident of child abduction in Nairobi, which was reported among the members of the Executive. Mrs. Anderson also spoke of the scheme for setting up holiday camps for schoolchildren, whose movements were necessarily restricted on account of the Emergency, which the League hoped to inaugurate in the near future. The Kenya National Parks and Game Reserve has been set up in the new park, which will be a great boon to the people of the country. The Executive is now working on the basis of the existing law, which is being revised.

THE PROBLEMS OF CAREER WOMEN

WHETHER men like it or not, women tend slowly but surely making their legal equality a reality. It's a slow and difficult task when it comes to the really top appointments, but professions are being made and already we're beginning to read about managing-directors, but even more famous advocates and even judges are being made. But it's still rare enough to be true that we should be able to see a woman in a man-made and very difficult for a woman to get on in real advance in these fields of endeavor. Only in medicine do we get real recognition. It's not that women are not doing well in other fields, but they are not getting the same recognition as men. It's not that women are not doing well in other fields, but they are not getting the same recognition as men.

HER OWN VOICE CUTS HER OFF THE PHONE

SHAKESPEARE truly said of Cleopatra that her voice was "sweet soft, gentle and low, an excellent thing in a woman," but at the other end of the scale, high vocal notes have been known to shatter wine glasses, and many a married man has been made about his woman's "singing" voice.

The latest instance of a voice with peculiar properties that mark when a young woman has been raised a great deal out of tune with her telephone because her voice possesses the "high" property of putting the telephone receiver into a "singing" position. When she laughs, and sometimes even in ordinary conversation, she sings.

WAYMEN BACK AT WORK IN BRITAIN

Talks on new wage structure opened

'BIG STRIDES' MADE IN DOCK NEGOTIATIONS

THE hush which hung over Britain's railway stations for 17 days was broken yesterday as train services were resumed after a settlement and the railway strikers.

In London, the suburban services were back to normal, with thousands of workers using the main lines and causing the congestion on the capital's roads. It will be a few days, however, before the long-distance services return to the official schedule.

Meanwhile, the two other big strikes — involving 20,000 dockers in 14 ports, the other 100,000 on five transatlantic liners — remain unsettled. The seamen's dispute has worsened with about 100 members of the Queen Mary joining the strike at Southampton, but Mr. Maclean, the Minister of Labour, dockers' leaders said at the Ministry yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon, the first talks on the railway, Mr. Jim Bayly, general secretary of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen — the stoppage of four out of five of the nation's trains and society £260,000 in strike pay — and other parties involved in the dispute, put their views before the dockers.

Earlier, when agreement to call off the strike was reached by the Transport Commission and the strikers claim that there should be higher rewards immediately for special skill and responsibility, thus preserving the merits in pay between skilled and unskilled men.

The agreement, it is reported, detailed talks on a new wage structure for the British's 50,000 railworkers.

Both parties agreed to respect Lord Selkirk's decision, and the N.L.R. secretary, Mr. Jim Bayly, said that the settlement was approved yesterday by leaders of the Railway Union of Railworkers who had insisted on being consulted.

Caution advised on question of credit to African farmers

LOANS SEEN AS GIFTS OF A BOUNTIFUL PROVIDENCE

CAUTIOUS approach by Governments and commercial lenders to the question of granting loans to African farmers for agricultural development is stressed by the Royal Commission on Lands and Populations. While making it clear that long and arduous negotiations are necessary and suggesting that they should be made in a spirit of generosity by Government-controlled or approved farm agencies, the Commission goes on to warn in its report that the material advantages which accrue to an African in his traditional society appear to him as gifts of a bountiful providence, and that it need occasion no great surprise if he frequently regards money loans in a similar light.

The Commission states that in the African a considerable measure of the value of the land is lost and about the conditions under which the land is used.

Discrimination belief

They believe that this attitude on the part of non-African commercial Government lenders is in the general view of African credit facilities and that this was one of the factors which retarded African economic development.

Among many Africans there was a strong feeling of resentment to be believed on some similar lines, and from the fact that some of the facilities which were made almost entirely to non-African farmers, and a widespread belief that any money loaned to an African was a gift, which in all circumstances should be repaid as soon as possible, and that the provision of credit facilities would provide a stimulus to all the African's economic activities.

Need for facilities

Many Africans did in fact regard loans as facilities which were given to contrast with the Government's view that they were a loan which was to be repaid.

It might appear from these views that the security offered falls well below the level of security which would secure in these areas the most productive use of the land.

Although it was the Government's duty to secure the best use of the land, it was also its duty to secure the best use of the land for the benefit of the African farmer.

Co-operative facilities

The Commission believes that eventually, when co-operative facilities have been established, members were bound to have a large effect on the economic development of the African farmer.

Strengthening of staffs

At this process of evolution could occur only as a result of the supervision of the activities and activities of the staffs of the Government.

"Dangerous practice"

The present practice of African local government bodies to lend directly to private individuals is a dangerous practice which should be discontinued.

'Great inducements' needed to obtain overseas capital

INCENTIVES BEYOND SCOPE OF E. AFRICA'S ECONOMY

IN considering the economic development of East Africa the Royal Commission on Land and Population contends that special inducements to encourage any large-scale production of raw materials from overseas would have to be "very great." At the same time, the Commission states that the economy of East Africa cannot afford to be primarily a primary industry.

It is stated: "The economic development of East Africa depends on the standard of life of the African population, and the standard of life of the African population depends on the standard of life of the African population, and the standard of life of the African population depends on the standard of life of the African population."

Increased rate
The political objective is to provide greater African participation in the political and economic life of the area and this may mean the adoption of measures which are restrictive of the external operations of those enterprises which are not African in origin.

It may happen that the Government will be unable to carry out its policy of increasing the rate of economic development of East Africa by means of economic incentives, but the Government should be prepared to take such steps as may be necessary to ensure that the rate of economic development of East Africa is not retarded by the operation of those enterprises which are not African in origin.

Local savings
The saving capacity of the local population is likely to be expanded to some extent as a result of the economic development of East Africa, but it is not likely to be sufficient to meet the requirements of the area. It is therefore necessary to encourage local savings by means of measures which will provide a secure and profitable outlet for the savings of the local population.

Sectional approach
Further entering by the surplus from the area and the further expansion of capital and enterprise might be expected to be a result of the economic development of East Africa, but it is not likely to be sufficient to meet the requirements of the area. It is therefore necessary to encourage local savings by means of measures which will provide a secure and profitable outlet for the savings of the local population.

ANNIVERSARY MILESTONE TO PEACE

Foreign Ministers arrive for talks

WEST LEADERS REACH AGREEMENT ON POLICY

FOREIGN MINISTERS of the world's great Powers arrived in San Francisco yesterday for the tenth anniversary celebrations of the United Nations — an event which looks like being far more important for peace than when it was planned a few months ago.

The "Big Three" Western leaders, Mr. Macmillan, of Britain, Mr. Dulles, of America, and Mr. Pinoy, of France, earlier had wound up discussions in New York together themselves and with the West German Chancellor, Dr. Adenauer, after reaching "full agreement". They flew to San Francisco in separate planes.

In conversations with the Soviet Foreign Minister, Mr. Malenkov, they are expected to lay the foundations for the all-important meeting of the "Big Four" heads of State, which it is proposed should be in the same line as the 1954 Berlin conference.

During the weekend, President Eisenhower worked on his major address to be delivered at the opening of the U.N. celebrations today. It is a message to the U.N. Secretary-General, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, that he considers it "both a responsibility and a great opportunity to present to the world the shining hope that people that are this international organization in its second decade are giving an increasingly more potent force for peace among the nations."

He also has Soviet "attitude of mind" in mind. He said: "I wish to state that the Russians have in mind the U.N. Secretary-General, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, Dr. Adenauer, broke his journey to New York to see Mr. Adenauer in Washington.

Retention of privilege a drain on resources

PRODUCTIVE EFFICIENCY THE CRITERION FOR INCOME

EAST AFRICA'S social and economic development, in the opinion of the Royal Commission on Lands and Populations, must rest on the clear appreciation of two fundamental principles. These involved the abolition of privilege and the retention of that which is in the interests of the welfare of society as a whole.

The Commission states in its report that the retention of privilege is a drain on resources. It is a drain on resources because it is a drain on the country's wealth. It is a drain on resources because it is a drain on the country's productivity. It is a drain on resources because it is a drain on the country's economic development.

Railway settlement helps Stock Exchange to reach new peak

The London Stock Exchange boom reached a climax last week, as the settlement of the railway strike was completed and the market resumed its upward movement. The settlement of the strike was almost completely untroubled.

By a spin-off of good company results, investors' prices in high-class equities, drove the market to a new peak. Everyone has been surprised and delighted to find that the strike was so untroubled and has still to be followed and most of the big thing of all is surely the fact that during the strike the railway industry did not produce anything extraordinary abnormal. It continued to work steadily and profitably, and it is a credit to the industry that it has been able to do so.
