THE JUNGLE IDEA

MANY of YOU, I expect, will have read 'The Weekend Book' at some time or other, and will be doubtful as to mind the appropriate item:ic concerning The Jung Idea.

The two things which frequent picture palaces

And although Doctor Freud is distinctly annoyed... They cling to their long-standing fallacies.

Well sometimes I wonder what the young things who frequent picture palaces really do like, particularly after I have noted the popular success of certain 'thrilling' and even avante films.

Then I pull myself together and remember all those other things that have had equal, if not greater, success... And entertainments in the knowledge of most of the picture world to smelt the same degree as it is in the literary world.

Well, I can't think who is writing about these things... Personally I would think 'The Drum' is one thing that is not to be taken too seriously.

Personally I would think 'The Drum' is one thing that is not to be taken too seriously... I should give it a rating of B.

THE CITADEL... The Citadel may be one of our best... It is a story of a young doctor who goes to a remote village.

THE DRUM... CAPITOL... The story which is by Mr. A. E. W. Mason, concerns one of those mysterious cases which are always on the point of settling the whole of the East in a series of 'big game' expeditions.

It is especially striking when after it was over, I took up a little while to read down and step through with excitement... The setting in the North-West Frontier, and the fantastic nature of the events, there is scarcely a single scene which is not wildly picturesque.

The mountain landscapes have a grand magnificence, the architecture is wonderfully appropriate, and the necessary other incidents are so well adapted to play to the setting, particularly as they are almost entirely foreign to a British regiment.

Such a film does not really depend on the action, but it may be regarded as a masterpiece of the genre... The film is a masterpiece of the genre.

men that he does not need any tricks. Other stage actors, even good ones, are not so lucky... He is a real film fan, full of drama and glamour.

One mistake to use the word 'great' about any film actor I believe one can fairly say... ANGEL EMPIRE... 'Angel' is a real film fan, full of drama and glamour.

Locusts are doing serious damage to food crops in some parts of Uganda, large areas of which are infested. Large swarms of locusts are also reported in Abyssinia.

The campaign against locusts in Kenya is being pursued with considerable success, though it is impossible to say how great the damage is from the swarms in the practically uninhabited Northern region.

The Kenya Department of Agriculture has issued a report on the latest situation of locusts on July 4th.

The Migratory Locust (Gonista migratoria migratorius).

YUGANDA.—Reports from Kamukuni in the Northern region, in the district of Iganga.

PREMIER MAY SPEAK ABOUT DANZIG TODAY

To Make Britain's Attitude Clear Beyond Doubt

NAZI "PLAYGROUNDS"

MR CHAMBERLAIN WILL MAKE A STATEMENT THIS WEEK... IT IS CONSIDERED LIKELY THAT IT WILL BE MADE IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS TODAY... IN WHICH HE WILL, ONCE AGAIN, CLEARLY DEFINE THE BRITISH ATTITUDE TO DANZIG.

For some time the Poles have alleged that Nazis in Danzig have been busy building fortifications but the Nazis replied that they were only constructing children's playgrounds.

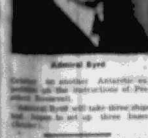

A similar interpretation was sent to one of the "playgrounds" found (traps, barbed wire, military terms and anti-aircraft guns).

European Policy

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard"
Sir—There has been a great deal of reference lately to the problem of lack of accommodation in Kenya Schools. I wish to draw attention to the Kenya Girls High School.

I understand that the present intention is to build a new Secondary School for the Senior Girls, and that the existing Kenya Girls High School is to be used for the Junior girls. This is a very good idea. It is a pity, however, that two-thirds of the Kenya High School girls are sent to Standards IV & V. This is a waste of money. It is better to build a new Secondary School for the Junior girls in the same building as the new Secondary School for the Senior girls. This would be a great saving of money.

Refugees

To the Editor, "E.A. Standard"
Sir—Your issue probably sent out to different parts of the world and has been open every where. An average man will naturally inquire what is the matter with the refugees in distress. Having no knowledge of what they are or whence they come, I am sure that many of them must be very grateful for any help they can get.

PRIME MINISTER'S STATEMENT ON DANZIG POLICY

Britain will Honour Her Pledges To Poland

NEGOTIATIONS HINT

IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS YESTERDAY THE PRIME MINISTER REPEATED THE ASSURANCE THAT BRITAIN WAS FIRMLY RESOLVED TO CARRY OUT HER PLEDGES TO GO TO POLAND'S ASSISTANCE IN THE EVENT OF A THREAT TO POLAND'S INDEPENDENCE WHICH THE POLISH GOVERNMENT CONSIDERED IT VITAL TO RESIST.

At the same time Mr. Chamberlain made it clear that it would be possible to consider improvements in the Danzig settlement; provided there was an assurance of Germany's peaceful intentions and peaceful methods.

Mr. Chamberlain said that the British Government was not in a position to discuss the Danzig question until the Polish Government had taken the necessary steps to secure the independence of the city.

Three Hour Talk In Moscow But No Decision Yet

Despite long talks between the French and British representatives and the Soviet Prime Minister, the difficulties which so far have prevented Russia's adherence to the Anti-Agression pact have not yet been removed.

It is difficult to describe this new TAUCO saw in words that will give you an adequate picture of what the machine really is.

It represents the thorough study of every type of existing circular saw, in the effort to locate every feature of design and use.

Workmen's Compensation In The Colonies

In answer to a question in the House of Commons, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald outlined the position with regard to Workmen's Compensation in the Colonies. In the case of East Africa, West Africa, Governments have been asked to frame legislation on the lines of a draft Ordinance.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.
 London, July 13.—Even when the bill had been drafted by a medical and legal committee, the particular employment, and practicing in a district where the particular occupational disease was not usually found, it was considered necessary for the case to be referred to the Health Department for approval by the Secretary of State for the Colonies. This difficulty was met by the Colonial Department, which, with the necessary assistance of the medical and legal committees, was able to provide for the case. It was therefore considered that in Colonial Dependencies, where there were industries in which occupational diseases might be contracted, the provision of appropriate regulations would require special care, and that the measure it would be desirable and expedient to place on the Statutory list of diseases which are compensable under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1920.

THE MEDICAL BOARD.
 In the case of the East and West African Dependencies, the Governments have been asked to consider the proposed bill in the light of a draft ordinance prepared in the Colonial Office, which is the subject of a question. A number of Colonial Dependencies, including Barbados, Gibraltar, Jamaica, the Somaliland Protectorate and Tanganyika Territory, have reserved employer's liability or other legislation, which provides for the payment of compensation for injury arising out of defects in machinery or plant, etc., of employees on the part of the employer or his agents.

In the mining legislation in force in Kenya, Tanganyika Territory, Nyasaland, Nigeria, Sierra Leone, and the provisions made for the payment of compensation for injuries arising out of defects in machinery or plant, etc., of employees on the part of the employer or his agents.

WORLD REACTION TO PREMIER'S SPEECH

German Attitude To Danzig & Prague

Except in Germany and Italy the statement made by Mr. Chamberlain in the House of Commons on Monday is generally regarded as making clear Britain's policy concerning Danzig.

Referring to the German demand for self-determination by the inhabitants of the Free City, The Times says: "If self-determination is to be the only criterion, why should it be decisive in Danzig and wholly inoperative in Prague?"

London, July 11. Mr. Chamberlain's declaration in the House of Commons yesterday regarding the Free City of Danzig is being regarded as a fresh warning to the Government not to yield to any further demands for self-determination.

The Paris Press endorses the statement but would have preferred to see the Prime Minister's speech clearly stated that the international situation is not a matter of compromise.

It is, however, natural and proper that the question of Danzig should be the subject of discussion between the two Governments.

The Times says: "There can be no question of a compromise in Danzig, whether Germany or France is the party in the wrong."

COLONIAL AFFAIRS

New Committee Urged

It was again suggested in the House of Commons that a Standing Parliamentary Committee should be formed to deal with such matters as the Colonies.

Lord Commissioner Parker asked the Prime Minister whether he was prepared to make any proposal for the establishment of a Standing Parliamentary Committee.

The Prime Minister: I am not in a position to do so at the present time. I have to be very frank in saying to the hon. and gallant Member on this point.

Lord Commissioner Parker: In view of the great interest which is taken in this matter in all quarters of the House, would it not be possible to form a committee in the House, similar to those which are formed in other countries, to deal with such matters as the Colonies?

The Prime Minister: There is an annual question on the Paper on this subject.

Mr. Riley asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies whether he was prepared to set up a Standing Parliamentary Committee for Colonial Affairs, and whether, in view of the pressing urgency of many colonial problems, he would be able to make any early statement on the issue?

A Written Answer.

Mr. MacDonnell: I am aware that the proposal contained in the question is a very important one. It is one which would be of great value to the House and to the public. I am, however, unable to give any definite answer at this time. It is a matter which is being considered by the Government, and I shall be in a position to make a further statement in the near future.

Mr. Peckover: Is there anything which the Government are doing to prevent the formation of a committee of the House to deal with such matters as the Colonies? It is a matter which is of great importance to the House and to the public, and I am sure that the Government will be prepared to consider it.

Mr. MacDonnell: All sorts of committees are being formed in the House of Commons, and I am sure that the Government will be prepared to consider any proposal which is put forward to them. It is a matter which is being considered by the Government, and I shall be in a position to make a further statement in the near future.

A WARNING TO GERMANY
The Danzig Threat

The Prime Minister carried a step further on Monday in his guarantee to go to the assistance of Poland will become operative if the Polish Government decided that counter-force is necessary to restore the position. In doing so Mr. Chamberlain merely repeated the solemn warning given by Lord Halifax a week before in a speech which has been heralded at the clearest statement of British policy in Europe made for some years. There is no room for doubt now in the mind of Herr Hitler and his colleagues, who may be ignorant in which the German people have been purposely kept by the controlled press.

Mr. Chamberlain made no secret of his hope, which he has always entertained—and all peace-lovers must continue to entertain—that war is not inevitable over Danzig, or over any outstanding question of the German people are prepared to discuss their grievances and their aspirations. He admitted that Danzig will largely be a German city but he emphasised, what is clear to everybody who has even a casual acquaintance with the world, that the prosperity of the town depends on Polish trade and that any change in ownership which brings it under the domination of a foreign Power will mean a clear military and economic threat to the Polish people. The British Government is prepared to decline the future of Danzig and their will has been shared by the Polish Foreign Minister, Colonel Beck, whose only qualification for discussion is that a settlement must be brought about by peaceful methods and be governed by peace considerations. That provided in the condition which must be applied to any attempt to settle the problem of Europe that there still room for the German Government has up to date failed to make its own position clear. Herr Hitler has done nothing during the past anxious weeks to indicate a change of heart. He has been silent on the subject of Danzig but he has not discouraged his nationals in the city from making preparations of a military character to set the stage for another German coup. The world has been told, with grim German humour, that what is happening in Danzig is not the erection of sinister fortifications but the construction of children's playgrounds. Even who anybody's engaged from the "road to ruin" of "the future of Europe" is not left to the imagination.

FOOD AS MUNITIONS

Dressed Up as Hiker

Disguised as a hiker, a convict named Freeman got away from the prison party working about half a mile from Dartmoor Prison tonight when he was released the dress of a hiker.

Within three hours Freeman was found, hiding behind the prison farm hop that fifty yards from the main entrance to the prison. A police constable, seeing a hiker, was found last week to have seen through one of the bars on the door of the hiker.

A few features that are exclusively peculiar to Orthol 'K' are: 1. The low percentage of Orthol 'K' required in order to kill such resistant pests as MEADLY BUG, BEEF SCALE, etc. in no less than 10 to 25 gallons of water.

Agonies of Wind and Stomach-Ache

By Dr. F. B. Scott, M.B., F.R.C.S. Although most cases of dyspepsia are due to faulty dieting, I think that the most common cause of the wind and stomach-ache is due to the use of cold water.

Dr. Scott's remedy is a simple one and is known as "Scott's Emulsion". It is a mixture of cod liver oil and egg yolk, and is a most effective remedy for all cases of wind and stomach-ache.

THE PRIME MINISTER'S TASK

Mr. Chamberlain's position of representing opinion in the Parliament is a very delicate one. He is not a "rubber stamp" or "servant". There are certain issues which he cannot ignore. We can safely leave the signing of the League of Nations to the people of Great Britain.

Shortage Of Well-to-do Schoolboys In Britain

The public schools of Britain are expected to face an increasingly serious position owing to the fact that fewer boys from rich families are being entered on the books. The situation may lead to a reduction in fees.

['STANDARD' CORRESPONDENT] London, July 13. Headmasters of public schools, faced with falling revenues and dwindling waiting lists of future pupils, are to meet in London this week to discuss drastic remedies. The Association of Collegiate and Preparatory Schools, which will convene the serious portion, will have before it some 150 names of the rich who are being entered at Britain's leading public schools.

Governors and headmasters of the public schools have been summoned to the meeting by the Headmasters' Conference, their controlling body.

They are to discuss (says the Sunday Express): the establishment of a quota reducing and limiting the number of future pupils at all public schools, except Harrow; the standardisation of fees; the removal of modification of law on advertising by public schools.

Payment of compensation for pupils obtained. This is at present forbidden.

Narrow's Quota

Harrow is exempted from the proposal to introduce a quota because it has already done so. Early this year it closed its list of boarders to 100 boys and a number of "small" houses.

This number will be adapted to 500 as the maximum number of boarders to be taken in Mr. W. Taylor, secretary of the Headmasters' Conference, informed at this body's office in Clarendon-square, W.C. 2.

The position of public schools from next year onwards will be more interestingly serious. It will be the falling birth-rate which will give us a decline in the eleven-to-eighteen years age group beginning next year.

"Something drastic will have to be done, but the old school tie is not so sacred with extinction. The school's true work is still to be done, and it is essential and always important to fully equip to become prepared."

Arrangements are being made for additional recreation grounds. Every school will receive special grants for extra sports and games gear.

COLONIES AND MANDATE SYSTEM

['STANDARD' CORRESPONDENT] London, July 13. The Prime Minister was quoted in the discussion of Chamberlain on July 3 about the substance in Lord Halifax's speech to the Editors of Britain's Colonial system.

Mr. Chamberlain stated that the present system of the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs is not the system of the Government's policy of the League of Nations, and whether this system will be retained or not will be decided after a year or so.

The Prime Minister: "The words used by my colleague are not correctly reported in the question. The statement of the Government Secretary was that we should be ready in the course of our Colonial administration 'to go far upon the economic side, as we have already done on the political side, in making wider application of the principle which we have obtained in the Mandate Territory. My words were not intended to suggest any modification of our policy towards the other nations as the establishment of a Federal Commonwealth and this is clearly a prerogative of the League of Nations."

Mr. Chamberlain: "The right hon. member must agree that the Prime Minister's statement was open to the modification mentioned in one question, and may I further ask whether we are taking it more than His Majesty's Government's responsibility to the principle of the Mandate system?"

The Prime Minister: "In reply to the first part of the question, I would not say that the principle of the Mandate system is open to any modification, but I am prepared to accept that the principle of the Mandate system is open to any modification, but I am prepared to accept that the principle of the Mandate system is open to any modification."

The Prime Minister indicated that he was prepared to accept that the principle of the Mandate system is open to any modification. He stated that the principle of the Mandate system is open to any modification, but he was not prepared to accept that the principle of the Mandate system is open to any modification.

GAMES FOR MILITARIAN

['STANDARD' CORRESPONDENT] London, July 13. The War Office has asked that the men of Britain who are called upon to play the game of war should be trained in the principles of the game. It is proposed to give them a special set of rules.

Every Militarian will have his own set of rules, which will become his own property on completion of training. The true spirit of the game is to be shown in the play of the War Office. The Army's definition of a game is to play the game for the sake of the game, and to play the game for the sake of the game.

IN UGANDA TODAY
 An Administrative Survey

Kenya is the only Dependency in the three mainland East African Territories that has not adopted the useful and wholesome system of publishing the reports of its Provincial Commissioners. The practice in Kenya is to publish extracts from these provincial reports in the annual survey of Native Affairs published by the Commissioner. The result is that whereas in Tanganyika and Uganda the senior officers of the Administration have some opportunity of reaching the public through a personal survey of their work, the Provincial Commissioners in Kenya do not meet not infrequently in private conference to discuss their work to be judged by such sections of their annual record as the Chief Native Commissioner thinks suitable for public consumption. At the present time, when so many people are giving thoughtful attention to important aspects of Native Policy, we ought to hear much more about what the officers in the field are doing to solve the problems and perhaps some enterprising Editor might be persuaded to elect a member with wide knowledge of the situation of the Department to the discrepancy in East African practice and suggest that what has been found to be useful and informative in adjoining Territories might be followed in Kenya. If for other reasons the desirable uniformity and the presentation of a more complete picture of Native Affairs and the more they conduct them than is available to the public today.

The reports on these Provinces in Uganda for last year, contain much that is interesting to the public in the other Territories. Here we have a good young adult working class, with principal crops not so good as was hoped, but a fair amount of evidence of fundamental administrative Service unbalanced in quality, and many useful and encouraging experiments in agriculture, a considerable foundation. Against that background the only discordant notes are the five country on imported labour from the Belgian Territories and the advanced survey of the land in the Province, and the emergence of native politics due to the failure of cities in some degree to maintain contact with their peoples and, of course, to the effects of education on the European model.

Urgency of Fauna Protection

STRIKING PLEA BY SOUTH AMERICAN AUTHORITY

Urgency of the National Parks question in East Africa is emphasized in the following article by Professor Hugo Salomon, a leading authority on fauna in South America. After a period here he will report to his Government on the problems associated with the preservation of fauna.

While in Brazil after having visited the game reserves of South and Central America, Prof. Hugo Salomon, Director of the Argentine National Fauna Commission, has returned to the East African Bureau with a striking plea for the protection of our fauna. He has seen the results of the destruction of the fauna of Central America and South America, and he has seen the results of the destruction of the fauna of South America. He has seen the results of the destruction of the fauna of South America. He has seen the results of the destruction of the fauna of South America.

It is not only the fauna of South America that is being destroyed, but also the fauna of Central America. GERMANS TO ADD A WORD

To What Premier Said

London, July 12. Great satisfaction is expressed in Polish official circles at the speech made by Mr. Chamberlain in the House of Commons on Wednesday night, and it is described as a clear warning to Germany. One passage which Mr. Chamberlain proved that the Poles had shown their determination to resist German demands before they received the British pledge in particularity—namely, that they would not be allowed to enter the Polish territory.

In Berlin every article is being made up to get round this point. The fact that Mr. Chamberlain said that the Poles had shown their determination to resist German demands before they received the British pledge in particularity—namely, that they would not be allowed to enter the Polish territory.
