SECOND AREA BREAKS AWAY FROM NIGERIA

The O.A.U. Heads of State mission made final preparations to travel to Lagos to mediate in the Nigerian civil war: the Mid-West Region Government was announced by Maj. Obomoku, who was appointed military administrator of the region after Biafran troops had invaded and captured the capital of Benin.

NO TROOPS KILLED IN ONE MONTH BY FLOSY

The Biafran Government announced today that it had received a communication from the Nigerian Government stating that no Biafran troops had been killed in the month of August. This was the first time since the outbreak of the conflict that the Biafran Government has received such a communication from the Nigerian Government.

The O.A.U. mission is now expected to arrive in Lagos next Wednesday, but a Nigerian External Affairs Ministry spokesman said no arrangements had been made for it.

Maj. Obomoku, a 33-year-old doctor in Nigeria's Federal Army, proclaimed in a radio broadcast from Benin that the Biafran Government was now in the autonomous region of the Republic of Biafra. He said that the Biafran Government was now in a position to accept a major offensive to regain the Mid-West.

In yesterday's broadcast, Maj. Obomoku said the Republic of Biafra would cooperate militarily with Nigeria. He said that the Biafran Government was now in a position to accept a major offensive to regain the Mid-West.

Stern moves to curb corruption in co-operatives

Measures to curb corruption in co-operatives were being taken through the new Co-operative Societies Act, which is now being implemented, the secretary-general of the Kenya Federation of Co-operatives, Mr. J. M. Musundi, announced yesterday.

He said that many societies, with different methods of operation in the past, were finding it difficult to adjust themselves to the new Act.

The general membership of the co-operative societies felt that their money would be squandered under the new Act, which would streamline the running of the societies and improve their management.

There have been criticisms about the Act that the Department of Co-operatives had been given too much power. But, Mr. Musundi is going to curb the maladministration that had existed in the co-operative societies, it is fair that the Act should be given a chance. Mr. Musundi said.

MAKE A FLAG BUT DON'T CARE TRY TO PAY

It is believed to be the first time in the world's history that a flag was sold in Kenya on Saturday when a number of counters will be set up to raise as much as possible — by means of the sale of the flag.

The flag was sold in the morning at the Kenya Club, Nairobi, and the proceeds will be used for the purchase of a flag for the Kenya Club.

The flag was sold in the morning at the Kenya Club, Nairobi, and the proceeds will be used for the purchase of a flag for the Kenya Club.

MORE POWER FOR COMMISSIONER

SCOPE FOR PEACE IMPROVES

It pointed out that as soon as the co-operative societies were able to manage their own affairs, the powers which had been taken away under the new Act would be returned to them.

The Act provides that the Commissioner for Co-operative Development will have more power to investigate and guide co-operative societies.

It removes that all co-operative societies should be registered and expanding to help them to improve their management and to improve their financial position.

The Act provides that the Commissioner for Co-operative Development will have more power to investigate and guide co-operative societies.

It is believed that never before has the Middle East been so peaceful as it is at the moment. This is because of the co-operation between the Arab and Jewish states in the Middle East.

The Arab states have been able to work together with the Jewish state to improve the economic and social conditions of the region.

UNTAPPABLE RESOURCES OF WEST AFRICA

NEW HOPES FOR AFRICA

RIVAL NATIONALIST organisations in Africa, and South Africa generally, are acting up the road blocks hindering peaceful independence after the British withdrawal limited for December 31. Independence on that date had been promised by the British Government to the South African National Liberation Front (N.L.F.) but recently the British Government has announced that it will not grant independence to the N.L.F. until the South African Government has agreed to its proposals.

The N.L.F. has two main conditions: Direct talks with Flory, which is led by the N.L.F. and the N.L.F. are to be held in Cairo, and a refusal to send delegates to further meetings of the Commission on South Africa, which opened on Monday, until the intentions of the rival organisations are made clear. The N.L.F. has also refused to cooperate constructively in the work. As the Commission is composed of representatives from South Africa, Arabia, Kuwait, Tunisia and the Yemen, any outcome must be an undiluted Arab formula for settlement.

While political strife and bloodshed have continued in Africa, identified by clashes between supporters of the rival fronts, British troops and civilians have been steadily withdrawn. The British Government has been steadily withdrawing troops from the Sudan and the Congo. The British Government has been steadily withdrawing troops from the Sudan and the Congo.

Rising popularity of armed forces

The N.L.F. willingness to share South Arabian rule with Flory could well have resulted from the ultimatum, expiring yesterday, by the South Arabian armed forces demanding a decision by the rival groups as to whether they were prepared to negotiate with British command the future of the territory, so soon to gain independence without any ready-made administration to succeed the British.

The action showed the army in a new light. For months, the British Government has been accused of not being as active as it should be in the Sudan and the Congo. The British Government has been accused of not being as active as it should be in the Sudan and the Congo. PLAN TO EXTEND NOMBASA AIRPORT

Recommendations to be put to the Kenya cabinet by four UN experts who are studying the airport, it is believed, will be needed to start an international airport.

The UN experts are expected to be here for a week. They will be looking at the airport and the surrounding area. It is believed that the airport will be extended to handle international traffic.

The airport is one of the most important in the region. It is expected that the extension will be completed by the end of the year.

The extension will be a major step towards making the airport a fully international one. It is expected that this will attract more airlines to the airport.

The airport is currently used by several airlines. It is expected that the extension will allow for more airlines to use the airport.

Pilots saw Mr. Tshombe before release

British pilots released from detention in Algeria yesterday said they had seen Gen. Congo Premier, Mr. Moïse Tshombe, three days before they were freed. They said he "looked a bit melancholy."

Captain David Taylor and Capt. Trevor Copeland had been detained since June 30 in an Algerian prison, after the plane which they had been flying Mr. Tshombe had been hijacked and forced to land in Algeria.

Both men looked pale, but reasonably fit after arriving in London yesterday via Geneva. They were released on Saturday night. Capt. Taylor said at London Airport: "We saw some of the passengers from the plane in jail, but we were not supposed to. Their chief preoccupation was security."

Too tired to eat

In Geneva, they were met by a British Consulate official and had a few words with him, but in the airport restaurant they said that they were too tired to eat. They refused to make any comment at Geneva.

STOWAWAY RETURNING TO KENYA

A HAPPY KENYAN stowaway stepped ashore at the French port of Le Havre on Friday after spending six months aboard ship stowing away across the high seas.

Paul Warden, 28, was aboard the Norwegian tanker Samund (11000 tons) in Mombasa last month and got all "but because the two papers were missing when the tanker called at the port."

For six months he wandered the high seas, and returned to Kenya on a boat which he had stowed away on last night.

Mr. Warden said the captain's steward decided to call the ship and since they could not see him, he was taken to the ship by the British Consulate in Paris to give him papers that he had stowed away in France.

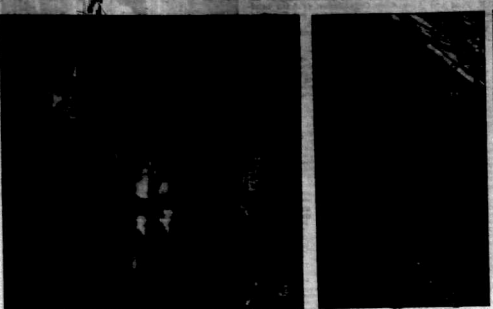

He was expected to fly home at the weekend.

PRESSURE FOR ASIAN CURB TO BE KEPT UP

Standard Staff Reporter

London

ALTHOUGH he would make no comment on his plans yesterday on return from a visit to Africa, the former British Commonwealth Secretary Mr. Sandys is expected to demand action to restrict the Asian influx into Britain when Parliament resumes next month.

It is no secret that Mr. Sandys has no intention of dropping the pressure on the Government to limit the number of permits to be issued to Asian immigrants within the framework of the Commonwealth Act.

He considers that they still represent a considerable percentage of the population of the United Kingdom and that they would not be considered in the ordinary way for British citizenship and many of them had made their own money.

While there is considerable opposition to restrict Asian immigration from East Africa, the Government has decided to restrict the number of permits to be issued to Asian immigrants.

Mr. Roy Jenkins, the British Home Secretary, said that if there is a real threat of an Asian influx, the Government will be ready to take steps to restrict it.

While they had the right to restrict immigration, Mr. Jenkins said that it would not be wise to do so unless it was necessary to do so.

A Somali delegation arrived in Mogadishu on Saturday to discuss the Somali Government's decision to withdraw from the United Nations.

The area where these were captured is well populated and it is strange that they have never come to light before now. It just goes to show how these things can remain almost under your feet."

Gen. Kenyatta and the Minister for Dr. Banda, Dr. Muzila, admit the Standard was won by the bare drummer of the Kenya Air Force.

Standard Staff Reporter

THOUSANDS of cheering people yesterday welcomed President Kenyatta back to Nairobi after his 36-day working holiday at the United Nations. He was the first to make a public appearance in the capital since September 1965. Mr. Kenyatta made three important points.

Speaking from the gates of Parliament Buildings, he issued a stern warning to anyone intending to demonstrate against the visit of the Malawi President, Dr. Banda. "We do not want the Government's respect for the guest of the whole nation," he said, and added that if would-be demonstrators were backed by the Kenya People's Union "we shall crush them ruthlessly as we did with Kadu and A.P.P."

The President also warned foreign diplomats against helping local people to subvert the Government. He said the Government was fully aware of embassies which corrupted local people to subvert the Government.

Referring to the visit of the Malawi President, he said: "We have invited our brother, Dr. Banda, to open the Show. He will be arriving in Nairobi tomorrow and I hear there is a group of people intending to demonstrate against him. I am sorry that they are going to be dealt with firmly. Dr. Banda is our guest. Come in great numbers to meet him at the Show and hear his speech. Kenya is very grateful and a lot of foreign investments is coming in."

The President said the foreign diplomats were invited to Nairobi to extend personal relations. "We do not extend our personal relations with anyone who is not a citizen of Kenya," he said. "We do not extend our personal relations with anyone who is not a citizen of Kenya. We do not extend our personal relations with anyone who is not a citizen of Kenya."

Although he would not like to say anything which might prejudice the talks, he said he was sure that the talks would be successful. He said he was sure that the talks would be successful. He said he was sure that the talks would be successful.

Kenya stabilisation in sisal industry

U.N.A. delegates to an F.A.O. conference on hard fibres in Rome... The delegation was headed by an Assistant Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Malinda, who held a Press conference at the airport that the conference had been called at Kenya's request to find some system of stabilising world prices and to work out a quota system.

During the four-day conference, at which 20 producers informally agreed to stabilise prices, it was proposed that for hard fibres - sisal, kenaf and abaca, the quotas export performance in the producing countries.

Although next year's quotas are 4.8 per cent lower than previous basic quotas, the exporter side had been persuaded to agree to an indicative price rise. It was hoped Mr. Malinda said Kenya was "very satisfied" with the new arrangements.

TONIGHT

AVATION FOR Dr. BA A

Streets lined from airport to city

KENYA yesterday gave a red-carpet reception — and a tumultuous welcome — to President Banda of Malawi who arrived in Nairobi on a five-day State visit.

Hundreds of people thronged in the waving base at Nairobi Airport to greet him. On the apron were Cabinet Ministers, members of the Diplomatic Corps and senior Kenya Government officials.

Thousands of people and schoolchildren waving Kenya and Malawi flags lined the streets at the motorcade of President Kenyatta and the nation's govt left the airport on the drive to State House.

Plans by the Kenya People's Union to stage a demonstration against Dr. Banda failed when the District Commissioner, Mr. Martin, refused to grant them a licence and warned that any demonstration would be unlawful.

President Banda, dressed in a dark suit and tie, was met at the airport by the Kenya People's Union and other groups. He inspected a group of boys mounted by the Kenyan Rifles after the military salutes.

He was introduced to Cabinet Ministers and members of the Government Council, Mr. M. N. Mwangi of the Education Dept., Mr. M. N. Mwangi of the Education Dept., Mr. M. N. Mwangi of the Education Dept., Mr. M. N. Mwangi of the Education Dept.

Other engagements yesterday included a luncheon at the Kenya Club and a reception at the Kenya Club.

Drive around

Today Dr. Banda, who left for Nairobi at 10.30 p.m. yesterday, will be driven around the city in a motorcade.

World Bank agency needs more money

THE World Bank president, Mr. George D. Woods, made a plea for rapid agreement on a new funding scheme for the International Development Association, the bank's agency for "soft loans" to developing countries.

Speaking at the 21st annual meeting of the World Bank and International Finance Corporation, Mr. Woods said it was "indispensable" for the I.D.A. to meet the needs of the developing countries, he said. But the World Bank had so far had no success in raising the funds for the new scheme.

Mr. Woods said the I.D.A. must be reconstituted, he said. But the World Bank had so far had no success in raising the funds for the new scheme. He said the I.D.A. must be reconstituted, he said. But the World Bank had so far had no success in raising the funds for the new scheme.

New farmers are in need of fertilisers

A NEW venture at Nakuru Park, to assist young farmers. People who have acquired land but have not had time to develop, on which to grow crops, are being encouraged to take advantage of the services of the Nakuru Park Fertiliser Co. Ltd.

The venture shows experienced farmers the benefits of fertilisation in the pitfalls of manure fertilisation. Part of the manure which is given in small patches along every crop growth in Kenya.

Three different types of manure are used in the experiment — Muramba, which is used by farmers in Kilimanjaro region, which is given in very dry areas, and the other two which is intended for altitude cultivation.

Separate plots of manure were treated with various fertilisers to make up a series of plots — supplied by Tanga Chemical Industries Ltd. — and insecticides. Identical in all cases.

The experts conducted the experiments with the view of showing the farmer the advantages of fertilisation in the pitfalls of manure fertilisation. Part of the manure which is given in small patches along every crop growth in Kenya.

C.B.D. COFFEE LACK OF GRADE COFFEE

ONE disappointment for visitors to the Nairobi Show this year is the lack of Grade I coffee. One of the coffee producers for this exhibit.

The Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Makenzie, who is due to take part in negotiations for a new international coffee agreement in November, said he believed the shortage of top grade coffee was the result of Coffee Board's policy.

"That there are certain areas where coffee is not suffering from lack of grade one coffee and I am sure that we will get some of grade one coffee from this area this year," he said.

Mr. Makenzie said that the new C.B.D. deal some of the things in the area around Nakuru Park, which has got its first year and should produce more very high quality.

Speaking of the Show-growth, Mr. Makenzie said that the coffee which is continuing to get better every year, but that the best of the best is still very scarce. He said that the coffee which is continuing to get better every year, but that the best of the best is still very scarce.

Stand with women in mind

WOMEN visitors to the Show are drawn like a magnet to the skillfully constructed "Resources of Natural Beauty" stand where, apart from Kenya's natural assets — water, forests and mineralogy — a recently formed company of products alone cutters can be seen at work.

Three craftsmen, equipped with hand-operated machinery, are busy at work on the stand, which is the first of its kind in the country. The company also have a display of fine selection of diamond jewellery.

Trick eyeing. On the same stand the Ministry have used imagination and have constructed a realistic miniature forest as well as displaying samples of various minerals found in Kenya.

Another art that is highly appreciated and is being displayed each day of the show is the art of the "trick eye" which is a very popular and profitable art.

Ancient Rome sets scene for comic opera

THE original stage musical, A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM, turns ideas and situations derived from slave life in ancient Rome into a comic vehicle for Zero Mostel.

With a large repertoire of funny reactions and a slow-burning pace, the comedy remains in the film, says Michael Craxson, who last year in The Ladies' Man, Keaton and Sawyer.

But changes in a comedy opera which make you breathless and with a comic pace which employs every trick situation in the book.

It is a combination of the original and the new with the old and the new. It is a comedy opera which is a comedy opera. It is a comedy opera which is a comedy opera.

Nairobi Showpiece

NAIROBI SHOW 97, which opened for business yesterday, will be officially opened on its 11th anniversary by Dr. Basia, accompanied by President Kenyatta, a son of the soil himself.

The formal ceremony will be one of the scenes of popularity during the next few days at Jamhuri Park. State guests and other V.I.P.s will be made welcome by the Agricultural Society of Kenya and their interest in the Show will be reflected in the many exhibits they will receive wide publicity. This comment, then, is confined to the Show itself and is written on the basis of the number of workers paid and visitors to the exhibition.

These numbers make no criticism of success, for quantity is often of great importance. It is not shown that quantity but the 97 Show could well break a new record for the number of visitors and exhibitors. The society's President a couple of years ago Mr. Jenack's opinion to this point is that an innovation, since he is not a farmer but a business man, has been the fusion of the two sectors of the country's economy. Without agriculture, there could be no services and industry yet without the town there could be no industry in the contemporary world.

The Show is a common meeting place for both producers and consumers of goods and services. It is Kenya's primary industry of agriculture, the men of the soil, to exchange views and gossip with the men of business who supply them with machinery and fertilizers and help to sell their produce.

Increased foreign participation

Quarantine restrictions have caused the withdrawal of some of the major exhibitors, including the number who usually win in the sheep and cattle classes. But these classes will not lose seriously. Indeed, in the words of the Show Chairman, Mr. Fox, their absence might mean some of the lesser known breeders taking off awards and, therefore, being encouraged to come back with even stronger challenges to the winners next year.

Mr. Fox is giving a dedicated account by setting up his own camp at the showground in order to spend the entire period "in residence." All the way along the line, however, there are officials and exhibitors who are themselves exclusively to the Show this week, along with the Show Jumping Association whose members go so much trouble to provide continual attractions in the arena.

Shows have been arranged under the aegis of the A.S.K. in many parts of the country, spreading the competitive spirit and incalculating interest in farming. The Nairobi Show naturally stands at the apex of seniority, but the splendid word of so many people from Mombasa to Nakuru and Kisumu in organizing district shows must not be forgotten, for their enthusiasm contributes so much to success at the centre.

The hope has been officially expressed that neighbouring countries will send representatives to see what Kenya is producing and has on display in range and quality. Also some of the notable lands of development such as the Ministry of Agriculture's experimental plot where the results of modern methods and the proper use of fertilizers are demonstrated in bigger and better yields of maize. The contrasts in this experiment ought to give peasant farmers, in particular, a lot to think about.

Foreign participation in the "overseas wing" has expanded in recent times, until its this year's includes 15 sponsored by Government and by the U.N. demonstrating the range and scope of its agencies for social and economic development in other parts of the world. It is exhibiting privately, in addition to the Zambian Government. With all this international display, it is surprising that Uganda and Tanzania, neighbours and partners with Kenya in the East African Treaty and common market area, are not present.

The organisers have done their preparatory work to the exhibitors and spectators have taken in their places. All that remains is for the weather to spare the Show from the extremes of an ice storm and for the crowds to roll up in their thousands.

Explanation of trade with 'White African' countries SHOW CROWD ROARS FOR DR. BANDA

Kenya agricultural progress praised

Standard Staff Reporter

ASSHUNT BANDA of Malawi received a standing ovation from thousands of cheering people yesterday when he declared the first visit of his country's President to Kenya to be an official one. The President had just completed a 21-day state visit in which he praised Kenya's agricultural progress, defended the country's diplomatic and trade ties with White-dominated African countries and called for more trade between Kenya and his own country.

President Banda, accompanied by President Kenyatta, received a clamorous welcome when he entered the main arena in sparkling sunshine to inspect a guard of honour supplied by the Kenya Army.

The capacity crowd roared to the two stadium as they were driven round the arena. As expected, there were no demonstrations against the Malawi leader.

OVERHELMED AT RECEPTION

'Thank you' Mr. Kenyatta tells crowd

President Kenyatta yesterday praised the people of Kenya for giving Dr. Banda a rousing welcome when he arrived on his State visit on Tuesday.

Introducing Dr. Banda to the Show, Mr. Kenyatta said he had also been impressed by the great turnout at the Show.

"I am sure that you show more year for Kenya than any other country has ever before," he said, "and you have the advantage of an especially attractive and wide range of agricultural products from our neighbour, Malawi."

Mr. Kenyatta said he was sure that Banda would be impressed by the Show's success for the first time in its history, and he hoped that the people of Kenya would be equally impressed by the success of the Show.

President Banda said he had been overwhelmed at the warmth of his reception in Kenya. The Malawi leader said he had just returned from his travels around the world, including Britain, the United States and India, and that he had seen a lot of the world you know.

The new Mercedes-Benz Transporter has increased usable space and payload. So, it is more manoeuvrable and economical than ever.

New truck ladder-frames. High carrying capacity, not susceptible to corrosion, resistant to bending and torsion.

The new Mercedes-Benz Transporter 40640 is an impressive further development of the transporters which have been built for the past 11 years. The new transporter is such a decided improvement that we are not in the least hesitant about making comparisons so that you can realise at once just what you are being offered.

351 different versions

However large or heavy your freight is, there's a Mercedes-Benz Transporter ideally suited to it.

3 total weights: 3.49 t., 4 t., 4.6 t. 13 different payloads. 3 engines (the particularly economical 60 gr. HP/SAE diesel engine 1 400), the specially sturdy 90 gr. HP/SAE petrol engine and, on request, the 78 gr. HP/SAE petrol engine for regular-grade fuel. Altogether 351 individual versions.

Chassis for all types of superstructure which are particularly easy to mount on the new ladder frames. Platform trucks and box-vans with short and long wheel bases (2.95 m and 3.5 m) and with standard higher loading space. Numerous door combinations; also with standard sliding doors.

Loading space as never before

Now one can make full use of the loading space and the payload. The rear loading-doors are wider by 31 centimetres and between 10 and 26 centimetres higher according to the particular version. They can be opened and held at 90° or 180°. Thus there is easier loading of larger goods!

Now hinged or sliding doors are available as standard for the driver's cab and side-loading openings. The sliding doors — when closed — lie flush with the outside of the vehicle.

And the loading space. The largest box-type van (1.75 m high) holds no less than 13.6 cubic metres. The largest platform truck has a loading area of 8 square metres. Payloads range from 1.2 t. to more than 2.6 t.

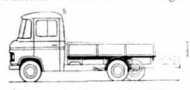

More manoeuvrable than any other large-series transporter

In spite of increased space and payload, the new Mercedes-Benz Transporter is more manoeuvrable and mobile than ever. With a wheel base of 2.95 m it is the most manoeuvrable of all large-series transporters. Turning-circle 10.8 m. The whole transporter is hardly longer than a large passenger car. But its turning circle is smaller.

A great surprise for the driver

This is what a completely modern, practical and comfortable working-place for the driver looks like: leg-room and freedom of movement increased by 25%. Windscreen is from 40° - 66° a larger Platform trucks with 3 m and 4 m platforms. New available with steel side walls and hinged safety locks.

according to particular transporter versions. Decidedly improved noise and temperature isolation Windscreen wipers cover 113% larger area than before. Windscreen washer is standard.

Now you can rationalise

Transport more with sturdy, thrifty, well planned transporters which require very little maintenance. That's what we call economical transportation.

We will gladly supply you with information. Let us demonstrate the new Mercedes-Benz Transporter to you.

Snapshot seekers 'jostled'

A TALKING point at the Showground yesterday was the alleged mishandling of photographers, some of them amateur, who wanted access to the photographs of President Kenyatta and President Banda. An official of the A.S.K. was quoted as saying that the security guard who refused to allow the photographers to take photographs of the President was a mistake. The official said that the security guard was not supposed to be there at the time and that the photographers were not supposed to be there either.

Worthwhile

Despite the derelict entry of the show, the Boran breed has been very worthwhile and has attracted the judge's attention. It was not the judge's fault that the Boran breed was not shown in a better light than it deserved.

Traders who had stocked Kenya bacon reported that prices were constant. Those prices would not be met by Uganda Bacon Factory, which stated this week that it was now possible to supply the Kenya market fully with all cuts of bacon.
