THREE MEET AGAIN

that African film brings relations

WHILE Robert Kerr and his husband, Tony Barry, met Stewart Granger at the Los Angeles airport before the British actor's arrival in Hollywood to prepare for his starring role with Miss Kerr in Madame Bovary, King Solomon's Mines - to be produced shortly in Nairobi - was cancelled on a mutual decision for the time being.

But for the premiere performance in Nairobi, of a former Kenya Supreme Court judge, the union might have been needed as the two actors were in the city when they arrived in Nairobi about the 15th of this month.

The introduction

It was Granger who introduced the Barthers while he was in the city during a recent visit in 1945, following their voyage to East Africa and Holland. The two met in the presence of the late Sir Anthony Ashley of the A.P.F., went back-stage, introduced Granger and asked to meet Miss Kerr.

Granger promptly obliged and the three became film friends, with constant film meetings between the actress and the British actor.

They were married later in the year.

Mr. Barry is a nephew of Sir Sir Richard Hannington Barter, who was known to be on his way to the East African continent in Kenya for 18 years, after his return from a month's stay.

Great experience

Purpose of Stewart Granger's first visit to Hollywood was for a series of wardrobe fittings and film tests before his departure for New York, Paris and Cairo. He has since had a long and varied experience on set and would be a valuable professional experience in East Africa.

Reference to Hollywood's weather is commented: "I presume that weather is arranged to reply in, for the best we may expect on location. King Solomon's Mines will be the first feature of Miss Kerr and Granger in a motion picture."

Moral rearmament

AMERICANS SEEK FAIR TREATMENT FOR CAPITAL INVESTED IN DEVELOPMENT

ONE of the principal recommendations made by the United States Government in its programme of economic assistance to underdeveloped areas of the world is that treaties securing fair treatment of American capital should be a prerequisite of technical or other aid. In its Washington report the State Department has said:

"This programme, if it is handled on a sound basis, should create an attitude on the part of foreign governments that American investment capital and thereby give economic development of the world and the development of the world will be restricted to countries which are open to the investment of American financial guarantees. The purpose of this report is to state the attitude of the United States Government on this subject."

Eight recommendations

These eight recommendations are:

1. The investment should be on a sound basis and carefully considered.
2. The investor should be given the same rights of ownership and control as the host country.
3. The American private enterprise should form the cornerstone of the programme.
4. The host country should appoint an advisory board to advise on the investment.
5. The host country should guarantee the investment.
6. The host country should guarantee the investment.
7. The host country should guarantee the investment.
8. The host country should guarantee the investment.

Some of the best Free State investment opportunities are in the fields of agriculture, public health, education, food supply, natural resources and public housing. The Government should be the supervisor and administrator of these fields such as public health, education, food supply, natural resources and public housing.

It has everything to gain from encouraging the investment of capital from South Africa. The fact that the report of capital from South Africa has been from South Africa is a fact which means the report of capital from South Africa has been from South Africa.

NAIROBI DRIVERS TRICKING BACK

Ultimatum to the absentees

SUMMARY DISMISSAL UNLESS WORK IS RESUMED

The strike of Nairobi's African drivers called by the Executive Committee of the Transport and Allied Workers Union as a protest against certain Municipal by-laws—two by-laws relate to scavengers—shows signs of peeling out.

Hardship of all employers was the Kenya Bus Services which began Monday, first day of the unofficial strike, with only two regular drivers at its disposal. Use of ticket examiners and mechanics enabled it to operate at 50 per cent service during the 1st day; the number of buses operating was increased from 30 to 42 yesterday but little of the expansion was caused by the return of regular drivers—three more reported for work during the day. The same emergency periods will continue in the meantime.

By the end of the day, the Municipal Council was almost at full strength at the end of the day. On Monday only three drivers were reported for work but 9 a.m. yesterday another 40 were on duty. Two hours later, 16 more had returned and there was a steady trickle throughout the day.

Kenya Government yesterday distributed leaflets pointing out that the strike was not a trade dispute and employers who showed themselves unready to do so at their own risk as regards re-employment.

EAST GERMAN GOVERNMENT EXPECTED

Soviet protest to pave the way

THE Soviet Union's protest against the formation of the West German Government is expected to be a prelude to the establishment of an eastern German government which will claim to speak for all Germany in the general view in the West.

A meeting of the Soviet-sponsored People's Council was held in East Berlin on the basis of a constitution drafted earlier this year.

Further moves pointing towards the division of responsibility for the establishment of a government in East Berlin by a second group into the working class and the peasantry were reported yesterday.

Germany has joined Russia in a protest against the formation of the West German Government and Allied Forces Government and Allied Forces Government.

COFFEE SOARS TO NAIROBI AUCTION

Grade 'A' reaches £308 a ton

WITHOUT SPECIAL PROVISION THE SHOP PRICES MAY RISE 1/-

Standard Agricultural Correspondent
A shock of devaluation on local produce markets was the result of yesterday's Nairobi coffee auction, when Grade 'A' coffee soared to £308 per ton while the average price paid for all grades offered and sold was £299 covering all grades. This was the second auction of the new season and, although a week ago a £225 average, there was a 70 per cent increase in the devaluation rush which occurred yesterday. The result was a 1500 ton lot of the new Kenya crop being sold for roughly a quarter of the total. The British Ministry of Food has contracted for 3,000 tons of the Kenya crop per ton, but the long-term contract for coffee is usually for coffee to be delivered in 1966 in coffee prices may be raised in the retail price of coffee locally. Air Commerce Department officials at the local Coffee Board said they do not think anything is due to give in the local market at last year's prices, the retail price of coffee to go up by 1/- per pound.

Prison presses in favour of hanging

Several prison officers in the Cape of Good Hope have signed a petition in favour of the death penalty. The petition is addressed to the South African Government and asks that the death penalty be retained in the Cape of Good Hope. The officers claim that the present system of imprisonment is too lenient and that the death penalty is necessary for the maintenance of law and order.

Detention effect. The Government has announced that it will consider the petition. The officers are also concerned about the effect of the death penalty on the morale of the prison staff. They believe that the death penalty will help to restore discipline and order in the prisons.

Prisoners' views. The officers also mention the views of the prisoners. They claim that the prisoners are in favour of the death penalty and that they believe it is necessary for the maintenance of law and order. They also mention the views of the public, who are also in favour of the death penalty.

Suspected kidnaping. The Government has also announced that it is investigating a suspected kidnaping in the Cape of Good Hope. The officers are concerned about the safety of the public and are taking steps to ensure that the kidnaping is resolved as quickly as possible.

PERSIL WASHES BRIGHTER
 I thought Betty's dress was bright... until I saw Peggy's Persil-washed one Betty's dress was washed in the rich, oxygen-charged lather of Persil, so it became as bright as new. It didn't need hot rubbing, either, because Persil uses soluble dirt granules that thoroughly "penetrate" stubborn grime, fighter and washes away.
