

puberty in a Kenyan African child: a case report.

Mwathe, EG; Ojwang, SB; Okeyo, SA

Abstract:

A female Kenyan child with pseudoprecocious puberty due to juvenile granulosa cell tumour is presented. Clinical features in this patient included a mass in the lower abdomen, a growth spurt and appearance of pubic hairs as well as enlargements of the breasts. No similar case has been reported in a Kenyan child. The management and review of literature are discussed.
