

During 1 month 46 persons with anaemia were studied at a provincial hospital in Kenya. Simple laboratory methods were used in establishing the anaemia and its underlying causes. The pattern of anaemia and its management in such a setting is discussed and suggestions for the approach to diagnosis and management are made