

Education for Children with Emotional and Behavioral Disorders in Kenya: Problems and Prospects

Mukuria, Gathogo; Korir, Julie

URI: <http://www.tandfonline.com/doi/abs/10.3200/PSFL.50.2.49-54#.UclbaZygC6M>
<http://erepository.uonbi.ac.ke:8080/xmlui/handle/123456789/39567>

Date: 2006

Abstract

There is a continuing disparity in educational services in Kenya for children with disabilities. Traditional African beliefs, cultural perspectives, and religious practices have resulted in negative attitudes toward individuals with disabilities. As a consequence, educational services for individuals with special needs (especially for those with emotional and behavioral problems) are not being addressed adequately.