

The Annual Aspire Leadership conference

The Annual Aspire Leadership conference, a brainchild of Greenhorn

Mentorship Programme took place on Wednesday 26th March and was a big success. It featured a host of corporate leaders, notably Iacopo Lorenzo the

MD for P & G East and West Africa expansion Markets who was very impressed with the Mentorship programme's efforts to get students involved in mentorship. He pledged to be a mentor himself and to work with his HR department to involve P&G employees too. Sam Omukoko, a mentor and MD of Metropol Kenya gave his advice on the burgeoning credit industry and opportunities for the youth.

The day also featured the exciting Ewart Salins the CEO of Africa Alliance who gave a powerful talk on being the best in a global world. His message to the youth, simply, "Think!" Nana Kimemia a mentor and a successful SME builder also enthralled the audience with her take on integrity.

Elizabeth Chweya a mentor and Lower Kabete alumni shared her bit on Unilever and opportunities for future leaders, Ken Mbugua and Joseph Muindu, mentors from BAT challenged the students to aim for the top. Giving valuable tips about applying and selection processes in various Management Trainee programmes. Mercy Mbugua a Meta coach inspired the students to actualize their dreams. It was a successful day and despite the Cats going on, the turnout was encouraging. Greenhorn Mentorship programme would like to thank the students, the guests and the administration for the continued support. Parting shot don't only make a difference, be the difference!
