

The Confucius Institute at the University of Nairobi and Kenya's Institute of Curriculum Development (KICD) have expressed intentions to jointly launch textbooks of Chinese language as more Kenyan students are attending Chinese classes.

The Confucius Institute has donated books and a multi-media television screen to the KICD to establish a Chinese language corner there.

Speaking during the donation ceremony, Kenyan officials said to promote the books from the Confucius Institute among Kenyans will boost their awareness of the Chinese literature, culture and philosophy.