UoN incorporate expenditure system in its processes

The University of Nairobi will incorporate an online expenditure management system in its processes. This was revealed when the Project Manager, Fraxion, Mr. Hendrie Cromie paid a courtesy call on the Vice-Chancellor, Prof. Peter Mbithi.

The University will use the system dubbed Fraxion in various processes such as procurement, employment re-imbursements, petty cash processes, local and international travels, invoice statements, credit notes, among others.

Already, a team from UoN and Mr. Cromie, have configured the software to feature the University's systems and processes. The University will start using the management system in July 2015.
