

DoGES starts Knowledge Café Series of Meetings

The Department of Geography and Environmental Studies has initiated Knowledge Café series of meetings for postgraduate students. Knowledge café, held every Friday, is an informal platform for sharing knowledge on sustainability issues – while having coffee and tea. The knowledge café series is also open for any academic staff, professional, practitioners and guest speakers who may have something to share with postgraduate students to enhance their knowledge on topical issues. For more information, you can contact the Chairman of Department.
