

New Mortuary Science Students Admitted

Date and time:

Mon, 2015-02-23 21:45

Some of the Mortuary Science Students during the orientation meeting

Seventeen new students for a three month certificate in Mortuary Science at the Department. This is a comprehensive course that gives students a hands-on experience in modern embalming techniques, reconstruction and reconditioning, postmortem procedures, counselling, customer care among others, with more emphasis on customer satisfaction.

The new intake of students were taken through orientation by Dr. Moses Obimbo, the Chief Technologist, Ms. Sarah Mungania and Senior Technologist, Mr. Martin Inyimili who mentioned on the requirements of the students and the code of conduct that is adhered to during the training. Students were taken through the thorough procedures at Chiromo Funeral Parlour, what to do and not to do and what is expected of them with the golden rule being, “superior quality service aimed at customer satisfaction and care”.

The students had A chance to ask frequently asked questions regarding the course which were well answered by the panel. They were also taken round the department and got a chance to meet the various staff and tutors. The process ended with a cup of tea courtesy of the Chairman, Prof. Said Hassan who earlier on had welcomed the students and wished them a happy course.

Sarah Mungania Taking the students through a session

We wish the students well during their training