Date and time:

Fri, 03/15/2013 - 08:42

The operational Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) between IDIS and the National Defence College (NDC) was renewed on Friday 15th March 2013. The MoU forms the basis of the collaboration between the two institutions. The collaboration is based on accreditation by the University of Nairobi and is aimed at equipping the the NDC graduands with the necessary tools to formulate and direct polocias at the strategic level. The first MoU between the two institutions was signed on 4th February 2002.

The MoU was signed by the Commandant of the National Defence College, Lt-Gen. J. N. Waweru and prof. maria Nzomo, the Director, IDIS and it will be valid for five (5) years.

The MoU refers to the course currently offered at the NDC that is attended by senior Kenyan and foreign military officers of the rank of Colonel and above and senior Civil Servants of the rank of Under Secretary level or its equivalent and above from the public service.

Two courses are offered at the NDC, namely Diploma in International Studies and Master of Arts in International Studies. Plans are underway to introduce the Master of Arts in Strategic Studies
