

Postgraduate students train on Use of Kiwi Cup for Vacuum assisted vaginal delivery

The department of obstetrics and Gynaecology with support from the Liverpool school of tropical medicine organized two training sessions on 10th and 14th November 2015 for a total of 35 post-graduates on Use of Kiwi Cup for Vacuum assisted vaginal delivery procedure.

The trainees found this very interactive training very useful and practiced performing the procedure on the humanistic models.

The international trainers were Dr Charles Ameh and Dr Sophia Webster and the workshop was organized by Clinical innovations Kenya office.

