STATIC ELECTRICITY.

Advice Regarding Petrol Pumps.

SHOULD BE BARRIQUED.

The petrol stations in the handling of motor cars are so numerous that it is difficult to visit every one of them, but the following advice is given to those who receive petrol deliveries. The driver should be instructed on the subject of static electricity generated when filling a tank, to obtain the most powerful static charge of several thousands of volts equal, in fact, to the high tension voltage from a dynamo, can be generated by petrol or similar liquid flowing through rubber or even metal tubing, and now that tanks are filled through a hose from roadside pumps as a replacement for the old petrol pumps, the hose being fitted with a complete earthing of the tank, as well as the hose, through the medium of an insulated spiral wire.

One earthing point is not electrically sufficient, and it is desirable to install a spiral wire round the tank by a piece of chain attached to the ground, or a petrol pipe should be made to earth to the tank. Provision for the subsequent maintenance of the earthing devices. According to investigations made, the static charge on the atmosphere conditions, it would be quite easy to arrange a configuration by the mere structure of a fountain pen or celluloid case in the flight, as quite a minute spark will cause a pen or fountain pen to discharge, and a pen or fountain pen, or even dry paper should be handled in the vicinity of "radio-jet" static radio sets, or be used as a maximum.

A WEAKNESS IN SOME SMALL CARS.

As a result of extensive reports made by the public, the Government has decided to take steps to reduce the noise of small cars. The Government has decided to take steps to reduce the noise of small cars.

A SUGGESTED TEST.

The unfortunate part of it is that the "average owner-driver cannot" tell whether there is any real improvement in the running of his engine or not. He may think there is, but it would mean to him that the engine is not so good as it was when he bought it.

Decipere Grease Levels.

"BACK LASHES MAY BE APPLICABLE."

Back lash in which grease is not used, may prove very deceptive with respect to the level of the lubricant as seen through the filling window. It is suggested that the driver should be instructed on the subject of back lash, and that the driver should be instructed on the subject of back lash.

Cylinder Lubrication.

SHOULD EMPLOY THE "BUNDLING" SYSTEM.

The "bundling" system of cylinder lubrication is generally used in motor cars. It is suggested that the driver should be instructed on the subject of bundling, and that the driver should be instructed on the subject of bundling.

STATIC ELECTRICITY.

Advice Regarding Petrol Pumps.

SHOULD BE ELECTRIFIED.

The petrol engine, which is the heart of the motor car, is a very sensitive piece of machinery which will be ruined by static electricity. The Motor states that recent investigations have shown that the cause of the trouble is static electricity generated when filling a tank. It has been found that powerful static charges of several thousand volts are generated by the high temperature of the fuel, which is ignited by the spark plug. The static electricity is attracted to the metal parts of the pump, and when it reaches the petrol, it causes a spark which ignites the fuel.

CAN WE STILL BE CHRISTIANS?

No. 1.

DOES GOD FIT IN WITH THE FACTS OF DAILY EXPERIENCE?

An Examination of Faith
(BY A KENYA CHAPLAIN.)

The article in this issue has been translated from the English original published in the "The East African Standard" for the month of October, 1921. It is a study of the modern scientific movement and its effect on the Christian faith. The author, a Kenya Chaplain, examines the scientific method and its application to the study of nature, and asks whether the scientific method can be applied to the study of the human mind and the soul. He concludes that the scientific method is only applicable to the study of the material world, and that the human mind and the soul are beyond its reach.

THE DIFFICULTY OF FAITH

The article continues the discussion on the difficulty of faith in the face of scientific progress. It explores the tension between the empirical evidence provided by science and the spiritual beliefs of the Christian faith. The author argues that while science can explain the material world, it cannot explain the human experience of faith and the existence of the soul. He suggests that faith is a personal conviction that transcends the limitations of scientific inquiry.

Fordson

The Farmer's Most Reliable Hired Man

TO put the farmer on a par with the city manufacturer. To put his produce factory—for that is what a farm is—on an efficient production basis.

Sponsored by this ideal Henry Ford brought the Fordson Tractor into being.

Ten years have elapsed since the introduction of the Fordson. Built primarily for the farmer, the greater part of the 400,000 Fordsons that have been produced are on big farms more productive—and with greater returns to their owners. Farm profits do not come from greater and better crops alone, but depend much upon time and labour and the results of diversified farm activity. Fordson methods are directly responsible for the profits that result.

Enter the ad of the Fordson now for greater farm profits. Ask your neighbours who own Fordsons and give us a chance to show you. Fordson farming will be more profitable to you.
