PURE WATER

The importance of having all water used for culinary or drinking purposes filtered cannot be over-estimated. Pure water is NOT a natural product, there is no more dangerous beverage than natural water.

THE "BERKEFELD" FILTERS

have successfully passed the most severe tests carried out under the scrutiny of the most eminent physicians and have amply confirmed their claim to confer complete protection against the transmission of water-borne disease germs.

 Queen's Hall Meeting.
 COURAGEOUS CHIEFS.
 Queen's Special to "E. A. Standard"
 Lord Curzon who presided at the meeting (leader details of which were given in our issue of Thursday) declared himself to be unalterably hostile to the granting of votes for women. Mr. Hobbson in supporting the resolution was supported by the Manager, from whom a Scale of Remittance Charges may be obtained application. Letters to the Press should be addressed to the Editor.

MINISTERS EMBARRASSED.
 London, Jan. 23
 Although it is authoritatively stated that there is no question of any of the Ministers resigning on account of the suffrage question, it is admitted that the embarrassment of the Government is increasing, besides which the extensive lobbying and go-on—Ministers themselves being actively engaged in the lobbying. Many members of the House of Commons are also publishing threatening letters. It is stated that many radicals are very angry at the possibility of the suffrage passing under the lot of Parliament. The feeling is growing that the suffrage bill may be replaced by the Pupil voting bill.

Anti-Tariff Reform Meeting.
 FREE TRADE RESOLUTION.
 London, Jan. 23
 At an influential meeting in London presided over by Lord Alverary and attended by Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Sir James Hobbson, Sir James Mackay and Sir Edgar Speyer, resolutions were passed in favour of free trade. The resolution declared that tariff reduction which was only a necessary condition of production was fraught with grave political and social consequences and was a danger to the Empire.

Australian Defence Policy.
 MINISTER'S PROPOSAL.
 Melbourne, Jan. 23
 Australian Minister of Defence, Mr. Power, thought it would be necessary presently to select an Australian Minister for the Imperial Committee because the Australian policy of defence had the approval of the Imperial Committee because the Australian policy of defence differed from that of the other dominions inasmuch as the Australian building provided was. It was all the more necessary in view of the agreement between New Zealand and Canada as to the defence of British interests in the Pacific that an Australian Minister should be appointed.

Charlton Hall, Stafford.
"I think that, so far, the prevailing impression left in my mind is that, at the price, it is the most extraordinary bargain ever offered to the reading public."
H. R. BAXTER.

The Chapelry, Horncastle, Essex.
"I never remember spending money on a book which seems to me to have more completely rewarded me for its cost than the India paper copy of the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Every week I grow more glad to possess it, both for what it tells me and for its delightful way of telling it."
(REV.) HERBERT DALE

Magnolia Lodge, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
"To obtain in separate books the knowledge I seek would cost at least ten times as much as the entire Encyclopaedia, without my being equally certain that they were all up to date. From the standpoint of economy I think the purchase by far the best I have ever made."
(REV.) ALEX. J. HARRISON, former "Boyle Lecturer."

65, Hereford Road, Bayswater.
"It is certainly a priceless co-ordination of human knowledge, and, at the subscription price, a marvel of cheapness."
ALBERT EARLE, B.Sc., A.R.C.S.

Littledon, Denton Road, Eastbourne.
"The price, of course, is marvellously moderate."
MALCOLM R. HAIN, M.P., General

Beckton Studios, Wigmore Street, W.
"I would not be without my copy for any consideration, and, under what one might characterize as your extraordinarily reasonable terms of purchase, I fail to see why anybody who has anything to learn should be without it."
ANDREW COVATTO.

Dikaaka, Woburn Road, Forest Hill.
"To those who have said they could not afford the Encyclopaedia, I have replied that, for my part, I could not afford to be without it."
F. H. BROWN.

85, Jackson's Lane, Highbury, N.
"My purchase of the Encyclopaedia Britannica has already proved a good investment from the point of view of my children's education. I have a son and daughter in their teens and I seldom go into the room where the Britannica is kept without finding one or other of them deep in some article—historical, geographical or literary."
D. MAC FAYDEN.

36, Peter Road, London, Chelsea.
"I know of no other library comparable with it."
C. R. B. MCGILCHRIST.

One's Own, Blandford.
"I hesitated some time as to whether I should not see the expense of the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. I am pleased to say that I have never regretted for a moment the expenditure. It is in every sense a complete library in itself."
A. LEWIS.

Redburn Street, Freetown.
"I have never made so useful a purchase in my life as the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia."
MAYNIE M. TAYLOR, A.R.C.S.

25, Colthorpe Street, Gray's Inn Road.
"I wish to express my indebtedness to you and to the associated with you in the production of the Encyclopaedia Britannica and to give you my thanks. I am sure that it is a consideration to you, but I have no idea where I could get anything approaching such a return for an equal expenditure."
C. S. BENNETT.

32, Cumberland Gardens, W.
"The best testimony I can give you is the fact that since it has been in my possession—a matter of two months—I have improved the total price paid for it through the information obtained from its pages."
WALTER BRUNNEN BARNES.

Bank Street, Freetown, Freetown.
"The Encyclopaedia Britannica is literally and honestly, in my opinion, worth its weight in gold, and yet the terms of my lease are so easy that practically everyone may possess it. Everyone who can afford it ought to possess it. If they do not there is indeed a great loss."
M. G. NICHOLLS.

Bangora Park, Iwer, Bucks.
"I had been content with a small encyclopaedia for my own library, until I was attracted by the handiness of your last paper edition. I then found that the information to be obtained from it was very complete and most interesting reading, and I consequently decided to purchase a set of the volumes for my own use. Several references I have since made have confirmed me in the opinion that it is a valuable addition to my library, and better worth the price given than many other of my purchases."
FREDERICK MOSLEY.

5, Crispiger Terrace, W.
"I know no better investment in the in the way of saving time and money; time being saved by the handiness and readiness with which desired information may be obtained, and money by the fact that other sources of information are, in many subjects, for the time at least unnecessary. You have to read and writers under a debt of gratitude by the name of the monumental work."
(REV.) ALEX. STEWART.

7, Cav. 24, Cranley Gardens, N.
"I think the Encyclopaedia should be in the hands of every one who can afford to pay for it, and, in view of the very moderate price, there should be comparatively few households in which it is otherwise could be justified on the score of expense."
G. H. BROWN.

11, Elmfield Avenue, Elmfield.
"If the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica did not cost the money, it would still be a most remunerative investment for every intelligent middle-class household."
HARRIS C. CRAWFORD.

22, Palace Square, Newport.
"I recently sought some information under the heading 'Colour,' 'Pigments,' 'Printing,' &c., and after spending a long time in obtaining the information elsewhere, found that your article on 'Dyes' would have served me equally well."
H. L. ESTERHASE FEAR.

The new Encyclopaedia Britannica (11th edition) is an entirely new work, founded upon a fresh survey in every department of knowledge. Its 29 quarto volumes (1 in. thick, on India paper) contain 1,000 pages each, with 1,500 words to each page 44 million words in all. There are 9,000 illustrations in the text, 400 full-page plates, 400 maps and plans. The articles (ranging from a few lines to 50 pages and more) afford, in respect of every subject, the most recent information. They are the work of some 1,500 contributors, including leading authorities in every branch. The Index (Vol. 29) contains over 500,000 entries. The cost of preparation alone exceeded £250,000 and over 30,000 orders have been received within a few months of publication.

The new edition will be published till 1925 at earliest

The "Vellum" travelling case is made so that it may be laid on its side when the lid is removed, and thus form a convenient stand for the books. To those who know the previous edition, which occupied a shelf-room of 8 feet, and weighed close upon 2 cwt., the fact that the present edition, though it contains more words, has, by the use of India paper, been so reduced in size as to become an easily portable piece of luggage, will seem not the least noteworthy feature of the issue.

ONLY A FORTNIGHT

now remains during which orders can be executed at the minimum price and for small monthly payments. Applications must reach Nairobi by February 15

A FORM OF SUBSCRIPTION, ready for use, is printed at the foot of this page, in order to give readers the opportunity of applying while they know that there is still time to secure a copy of the new edition at the subscription rate. It should be enclosed, with a first payment, to the address given, without delay. If this advertisement is seen by any reader who is too late for his order to reach Nairobi by post, he should

The Encyclopaedia Britannica has been called the "King of Books," and it may interest readers to see the devices which ornament copies possessed by various royal owners. It is one of those possessions which appeal as an invaluable resource to every class of reader, whatever may be his position or occupation in life.

The Directors are not putting forward any estimate of future profits as the business of John Cook & Company has grown, and is growing, at such a rapid rate that it is practically impossible to do so, with any degree of accuracy.

It is however only to cope with the increase in business and to develop it to the fullest extent that the increase in Capital is being made, and the Directors feel confident that they will be able to fully and profitably make use in the business of Capital now offered for subscription.

The Assets of John Cook & Company exceed the Liabilities by £18,400. (Rs. 276,000) and the Directors feel justified in paying for the contracts, Agencies and Goodwill, £20,000 (Rs. 300,000) which is equivalent to 8% of the Capital of the new Company, all of which will be paid for to the Vendors in fully paid shares of the Company, the Vendors thus sharing their confidence in the business by coming in on equal terms with prospective shareholders taking no payment whatsoever in cash.

The Directors have in view, amongst other propositions, the opening of a branch in Uganda, for which purpose a sum of £10,000 (Rs. 150,000) will be set aside. Here also they have been promised immediate contracts of considerable value, and there is reason to anticipate great prospects from a building point of view, as well as great Engineering possibilities.

In Nairobi the Company have the contract (now third completed) for the Methuen Estate (near Residential district of Nairobi), of some 50 residential plots from two to ten acres, which entails the entire work of laying out the whole Estate, the making of all roads, providing and installing a complete water scheme, erection of the Methuen Club, Estate Buildings and Private Residences, and also that for the division of Nairobi House, the first four-story concrete building in Nairobi. The Company have also been approached, with many other offers of work for important buildings, and in addition engaged in completing various water, lighting, coffee and other schemes.

Many Engineering schemes have been successfully undertaken by John Cook & Co. all over the country, including water schemes of every description, road making, erection of water, steel and other machinery.

The Company own the only private up-to-date and completely equipped Engineering Works in B. E. A. and Uganda, employing a competent staff of European Engineers and foremen to supervise. The Buildings of the workshops and stores cover an area of 22,000 sq. feet and are situated in the premier industrial position in Nairobi on a plot of 1.2 acres in extent, with a railway siding.

The Machinery employed is of the latest type and several valuable additions are now in course of transit.

A fully equipped Foundry has just arrived from England and is being laid down, and all castings of a reasonable size can be undertaken.

Having recently acquired the well-boring business of Messrs. James Hickman & Co. Nairobi, the Company is able to carry out contracts for well boring of all descriptions, and has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. J. Hickman to supervise such work.

A Garage has been opened and an expert Motor Engineer sent out from England to manage it, and although this has been opened but a short time, excellent results have been achieved and numerous Cars and Motor Cycles have been sold.

The Joinery Department is about to be supplemented by a large number of woodworking machines made by Messrs. Thos. Bramson & Sons, Ltd. Hertsford, England, now on the way out here, which will enable a far greater volume of work to be handled with greater and better results.

A valuable feature of the Company's business is the Wagon Building Department, which is under the Management of Mr. G. C. Brown, and covers in South and East Africa amongst others the use of wagons and carts, and the fact that at the Nairobi Show, 1911, the Gold Medal, and first prize, were awarded for the Company's exhibits from this department quite for itself. The business of this Department is increasing each year.

A proposal is under the consideration of the Board, to purchase a large block of forest land, well timbered and adjacent to the Railway, which would enable the Company to have in about two years' time a valuable stock of seasoned timber, a thing at present unknown in B. E. A. and, moreover, when all the trees have been felled, the land so cleared should realize more than its present purchase price.

With the Capital it is now proposed to obtain, it will be possible to keep larger stocks of materials and to buy in the most advantageous markets.

The many branches of industry the Company carries on have been entered into after due consideration and experience, and have been adopted with a view to each branch helping the others in obtaining and increasing business and to enable the varied work of the Company's many clients to be fulfilled by one self contained organization.

Agreements.—An agreement has been entered into between the Company and John Cook & Company whereby their business is acquired on advantageous terms as a going concern, all Land, Buildings, Plant, Machinery, Stock in Trade, etc., etc., as from December 1st, 1912, showing a surplus of Assets over Liabilities of £18,400 (Rs. 276,000) as per details below, and this together with the undated contracts in hand, Agencies and Goodwill, the Directors have been able to purchase for £20,000 (Rs. 300,000), payable in fully paid Ordinary shares of the Company. Copy of the said agreement can be inspected at the office of either of the Company's Solicitors.

...and demonstrates its disapproval and disgust by extending its head and curling its lip. It is by operating upon the same sense that the animal is made to make his horse appear to laugh.

The sense of smelling is not, in my opinion, so fully developed in the horse, although many think otherwise, basing their opinion upon the frequency with which the animal sneezes. But there is really no connection between the act of sneezing and the exercise of the sense of smelling. Sneezing is merely a reflex action, and is a variety of emotion, such as curiosity, surprise, terror, anger, and indignation, and also love. The kind of sneeze and the vehemence with which it is emitted indicate ready to the mind the nature of the emotion which is the real nature of the action. The animal wishes to express. To receive the proper training of the horse is to be able to read the real nature of the emotion the animal wishes to express. To receive the proper training of the horse is to be able to read the real nature of the emotion the animal wishes to express.

In addition to the above explanation of the Galvayne system of training and playing polo, the author also discusses the various methods of training and playing polo, and the importance of the horse's health and condition.

Also a particular welcome must be accorded to the practical treatise on training ponies and playing polo. It is a most valuable work, and is a must for every horse owner and trainer.

Our Weekly Serial.

ALICE & CLAUDE AS NEW

that Bruce and Dorcas were early in the following year. No man at all for a longer No. 11 had hidden in the the leaking of the cup. It was exploded, as Lord Paignton said, and everyone else and the fact that the more breaking of a story would be the more he really rather a good thing that he had been shown up for what he was.

The faintest suggestion of a scandal about Dorcas was the port of Marian's and Amy's first season. Wandsborough House had just been sold, and the fact that Lord Paignton had been deluged with the comments which had been showered upon him for the manner in which he had prepared it for the reception of his family had been shown up for what he was.

"But oh, what a lot of money you must have spent, Mary! Marian had exclaimed after she had thoroughly explored all the wonders. "I really had no idea that we were able to afford such a place as this and to keep up Clifton Park as well."

"Afford it, my dear—of course we are able to afford it," said Dorcas. "I have been in my usual way manner. There never yet was a Paignton who could not allow himself a luxury that he desired."

Yet it must be admitted that even Lord Paignton himself had been a little taken aback by this manner of talk, which he had had to be settled for the decorating of his new abode. It had not been without some trouble that he had been able to get himself to the subject, his shoulders were sore, and he had been told that he had been shown up for what he was.

"You are a wonderful man, with his leadership reply," said I think Heaven every night and morning he having shown you in my way."

Orwin Mortimer muttered something unobscure in reply and changed the subject. There had been considerable further conversation, but the matter was not to be presented at Court. Dorcas by her sister Mrs. Cleveland, Marian and Amy by their mother, had been shown up for what he was.

London that season. There had naturally been a great deal of entertaining, but Dorcas was coming to an end, in a ball at which she had been shown up for what he was.

Marian had enjoyed those two months of the winter holidays, and excellent amusement had been hers, but she had not been so busy as she had been shown up for what he was.

She was sure that he would, and yet there was a subtle difference in his behavior towards her now that he knew that she was a girl of great and high station. He had returned to would be a little for her, but she had not been so busy as she had been shown up for what he was.

CHAPTER IV. (Continued).

"What a little fool I was," she sighed, "ever to have asked you those silly questions, Bruce. Why do women always do that sort of thing when they know they will not be having up trouble for themselves in the future? But oh, Bruce, you do promise me that you'll never see Miss Musgrave, for sure you can help," she said, and that was the last she said for some time.

It was an informal but cheerful party that assembled round the hospitable board at Dorcas that night. At the same time Mr. and Mrs. Musgrave were naturally not in evening dress, since they were returning to London by the night train, and so for the rest of the party, with their boxes packed because of the migration on the following day, they felt that the most proper somewhat of the nature of a party.

Lord Paignton, as usual, was the life and soul of the party. The spirit's were quite lively. When Dorcas was put upon the table he was in his place, and he said a few words, which he referred to the engagement, and then he said a few words of his delight that she and her parents, his very friends, should be at that moment in the same time he had been shown up for what he was.
