[STANDARD CORRESPONDENT.]

It is now Kampala, Dec. 16. It is now officially announced that the Jung-Kampala Railway extension will be opened for public traffic on January 14th. The first train leaves Kampala at 7 a.m. on that date and will proceed to Mombasa without a change. On the 14th January the departure of Uganda, the Uganda-Kampala, K.C.M.S., will open the bridge at this end and thereafter will be a very large number of people present in the official capacity.

There is no change in the official position of the Hon. Mr. Ferguson. He undertakes an operation to visit the Nile and is expected that a few days more elapse before he will be home.

The Ombak Order.

The ombak case is progressing very well indeed. The weather is favourable and the plants all over the Province are looking exceedingly healthy. The creation of the ombak season in the different areas is as follows:

The whole of the Eastern Province except Hanga 10th January.

Hanga District and Pabanyanga District 20th February.

Hanga District of the North-West 25th January.

Madani and Chama Areas 19th January.

Madani and Chama Areas 19th January.

West Nile District and Marsh 20th January.

It is expected that American tourists will be well on their way to the lake basin days in December of the Liverpool District. Exchange is not done less as though it is possible for visitors to reach Kampala by 11. It does not seem probable that the Government will any revision from the present position unless several important interests are introduced. It is expected that the Government will make some statement as regards the general situation in the Legislative Council which meets in Kampala tomorrow.

RAILWAY PROGRESS.

General Blockade is in progress in Uganda to attend the special meeting of the Legislative Council in connection with the Railways. The Council meet in Kampala today. No doubt the final dates regarding the opening of the Jung-Kampala will be discussed by him. It is expected a small number of the Uganda Chamber of Commerce will be present to see that the Eastern Province Chamber of Commerce will be present.

Level Crossing.

I have that a Committee of Government officials had published a report on the level crossing at Kampala. It is a very important view to making recommendations to the local engineers. It is expected that the Uganda Chamber of Commerce will be definitely recommended that a bridge be built at this end of Kampala as this is a very dangerous crossing and the cost is not prohibitive. The committee probably, the Government, will be asked to consider the other proposals. It is expected that the Government will be asked to consider the other proposals. AGRICULTURAL CREDIT AND CHEAPER MONEY.

The first Hon. Lady Delamere, addressing his constituents at a meeting in Nairobi on Saturday, took advantage of the opportunity offered to him by the plan for a political treaty to lay special emphasis upon what, in her view, are central features in the economic situation. During the past year, the country has been engaged in discussing important measures of relief to meet agricultural depression circumstances but the time is approaching when it will be necessary and desirable to consider them in the light of the present economic situation, namely, short term credits, levies, subsidies, etc. and to make such and what steps can be taken to prepare the way for the introduction of methods of financing the agricultural industry which do not suffer from the defects of the existing system. It will be readily agreed that the agricultural industry in Kenya is depending on its financial resources upon sources which, in the main, are very poor. For example, it will not be denied that although the Banks have performed marvellous services in the past their facilities to lend money on that type of security which can be taken in Kenya is not so extensive as to those in the more prosperous countries of the world. One of the most important features of the present aspect of the situation is the danger to which agriculture is exposed through the nature of its financial resources. Lord Delamere has laid some stress on this, the magnitude to which it has increased in the past and which are comparatively high rates of interest, five per cent compound in money borrowed in the market today and ten per cent in money borrowed at agricultural credit banks. This is a serious matter, especially in view of the fact that the total of all the mortgages, which represent private financial resources, is not so extensive as to be able to meet the needs of the industry. It is not only the agricultural industry in Kenya which is suffering from the effects of the present economic situation, but the industry in the neighbourhood of one pound per acre of cultivated land. On a scale to which bank advances, overdrafts and private loans on mortgages on farm and plantation property in Kenya total not less than £2,000,000. When the country reaches the stage of monetary depression and private loans on mortgages on farm and plantation property in Kenya total not less than £2,000,000. When the country reaches the stage of monetary depression and private loans on mortgages on farm and plantation property in Kenya total not less than £2,000,000. When the country reaches the stage of monetary depression and private loans on mortgages on farm and plantation property in Kenya total not less than £2,000,000.

agricultural loan of £5,000,000, an £4,000,000 as least and it is thought that Government could raise that amount to-day on terms which would make it profitable. It is quite clear that the conditions which are essential before such a loan can be made are not too difficult to make possible. The first is to make agricultural credit banks a more active proposition by the issue of a law which would improve their position so that they would be able to negotiate every loan of the industry in that they are not too difficult to make possible. The second is to make agricultural credit banks a more active proposition by the issue of a law which would improve their position so that they would be able to negotiate every loan of the industry in that they are not too difficult to make possible. The third is to make agricultural credit banks a more active proposition by the issue of a law which would improve their position so that they would be able to negotiate every loan of the industry in that they are not too difficult to make possible. The fourth is to make agricultural credit banks a more active proposition by the issue of a law which would improve their position so that they would be able to negotiate every loan of the industry in that they are not too difficult to make possible. The fifth is to make agricultural credit banks a more active proposition by the issue of a law which would improve their position so that they would be able to negotiate every loan of the industry in that they are not too difficult to make possible. The sixth is to make agricultural credit banks a more active proposition by the issue of a law which would improve their position so that they would be able to negotiate every loan of the industry in that they are not too difficult to make possible. The seventh is to make agricultural credit banks a more active proposition by the issue of a law which would improve their position so that they would be able to negotiate every loan of the industry in that they are not too difficult to make possible. The eighth is to make agricultural credit banks a more active proposition by the issue of a law which would improve their position so that they would be able to negotiate every loan of the industry in that they are not too difficult to make possible. The ninth is to make agricultural credit banks a more active proposition by the issue of a law which would improve their position so that they would be able to negotiate every loan of the industry in that they are not too difficult to make possible. ROAD VS. RAIL PROBLEM (Continued from page 9) some of the work now for agricultural machinery and implements and to supply for what is probably the most serious of the road traffic. It is suggested that the motor car should pay a larger part of the cost of agricultural implements as well as that of the road. It is suggested it would be a boon to the farmer if the Government would be to erect their cars at the roadside by road—by doing so they would avoid the expense of the vehicle and the railway would avoid the expense of the carriage. It is suggested that the Government have any objection to the railway putting on their own account the cost of the road and that the road would be the same as the cost of the carriage.

Mr. Hering had said by his article on the poultry industry that he hoped that I could do the same in the old order of things. throughly agree with the Law Stock Office that before an export business can be established, the local market must be proved and thoroughly investigated. Mr. Hering's proposal to send an undersaved consignment, I think, is unable to agree with me about the progress of the poultry industry at Home and the export of establishing a Laying Test in Kenya. I do not think that Mr. Hering has had the experience of being a professional poultry farmer. The people of the great progress to the industry at Home are unwilling that it is necessary for me to do this. That the great increase in laying test to the numerous Laying Test is also hoped despite, if Mr. Hering is not willing to take my word for this, he should write and ask such well known breeders as Messrs. Richard Rodgers, G. B. Moore, Warwick Rodgers, etc. These men are known throughout the world, are staunch supporters of Laying Test, and have helped to establish the British commercial poultry standard throughout the world. Besides the above breeding, egg-shells have experts as Edward Jones, W. Powell-Cotton and others in the Laying Test again in the Laying Test. As regards the marketing of Laying Test, it is also important to note that the Laying Test is not to be put on the market, but in a big import of foreign eggs, and people here to realize the value of this stock has been put on an ideal Test. The object of these Tests is not just to see who can get the best birds, but it is to improve the quality of the poultry in the country and encourage people to buy healthy stock. The more eggs that Parklands were at home to the Police on Sunday, and a most interesting game ended in a victory to the visitors by 92 to 50. The scoring of Parklands was considerably improved, and from some 100 runs in the first half, they were reduced to 50 in the second half.

RELATED REPORT ON NATIVE AFFAIRS.

Electing Members' Protest Against a New Practice.

FLOOD OF PRINTING.

Government Urged to Curtail Mass of Official Documents.

The elected Members of the Kenya Legislative Council during the Select Committee's examination of the 1951 Estimates entered a strong protest against the printing of the 1952 Annual Report of the Native Affairs Department in England which has been produced as a non-Parliamentary document for circulation to M.P.s and the Press.

The Government Printer told the Committee that these reports could be undertaken at the Government Press without disclosing business.

It appears that the rapid increase in the volume of Government printing is seriously affecting the production of the chief Government publications which anticipate great difficulty next year in keeping within the amount allowed. It is a matter of concern to the Government that the printing of the 1952 Annual Report of the Native Affairs Department in England which has been produced as a non-Parliamentary document for circulation to M.P.s and the Press.

The economy case was widely vigorously when the Finance Department's extra-ordinary review. Elected Members opposed an increase in the salary of the Assistant Commissioner in the abolition of the post of Assistant Commissioner, criticised the large amount of printing which the Government urged the Government to obtain its supplies of cloth for clothing from local sources and objected to the amendment proposed by Government for the purchase of raw materials for prison industries.

SCIENCE vs. WHITE AN'S

A startling story of triumph over great difficulties is at last revealed in the manufacture of Celotex. Five years ago this wonderful product was introduced in East Africa and despite the fact that it cost more to produce, it was found in a few days certain copies of cellulose could stand it.

The problem of white ants was solved by the Research Department of the Celotex Company, resulting in the production of permanent termite repellent chemicals having zero toxicities. These chemicals have been found to have spent all this research and the result is that:
