POWER ALCOHOL FROM KENYA PRODUCE.

Expert In Negotiation with Government.

MAIZE AS A RAW MATERIAL.

Scheme Adopted Officially in Southern Rhodesia.

(T.A. Standard's Report)

There was little, which means large volume in America, has been achieved in Kenya at the initiative of the Department of Agriculture to investigate the possibility of using the Colony's surplus maize as raw material for the production of power alcohol. It is recently found that a similar scheme has been accepted and is now being carried out here by the Government.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the Government of Kenya has been working towards the production of power alcohol in order to meet the requirements of the various industries in other countries and also to meet the requirements of the Government of Kenya.

EAST AFRICA AND JAPAN

Has now INTERESTS in common in our growing fields. Both have immense HAPPINESS and PROSPERITY. Through the growth of Trade which brings Prosperity.

THE JAPAN TIMES

The Municipal Board has now decided to erect a large portion of the light through the road to be properly covered, and to be subdivided into residential sites of one from two to five acres, which in all probability smaller plots in the neighbourhood of the Government School will also be demarcated so that those who have children, and who wish to be in proximity to a place for education, may be able to obtain what they want at a reasonable figure. As soon as the survey has been completed concrete plans will be prepared for consideration and if the approved portions for residential plots are sanctioned we hope that the work will be speedily carried up to its final stage.

What she has said with its magnificent views should attract those people who are not anxious to spend money where they can build a home in a country which is not overcrowded with taxation. There are numerous who have retired from India and elsewhere to the beautiful country in Kenya, which would find their people in a more settled atmosphere, they attempt to live in England with its heavy taxation. There is a growing centre. It has good shops, hotels, a cinema, golf and a first class fishing and shooting, but not actually close to the town, can be obtained without entering a district, and in the neighbourhood of Nairobi.

We have an excellent school with first-class buildings and an excellent staff. Our War Memorial Hospital is certainly the best in the Highlands of East Africa, and there are three European Doctors who have built up a fine staff of nurses and we are fortunate in having a staff of 100, while, during our lifetime, we have the privilege of a selection from quite a number of foreign countries.

In the course of the year of Kenya we find very different to those in the highly advanced, and in consequence, the fees are very heavy. The Government schools are limited. The Committee, with practically no money, has been instituted to improve the scheme at extremely reasonable rates, but money is badly wanted for universities want—university apparatus—in competition with the British and American Universities. In spite of the fact that there is a large number of arid, large and small estates and land, which are not occupied by Mission, Deacons and Mission at the Club on Station, which, when just above £100 was made. The sale of estates in the Empire has not been so good, but there is still plenty of them.

He has been here since a short time, but he has found that the situation is still rather unattractive. He knows that it will be some time before it will be in the position that he has seen in the past. He has seen in the past that it will be some time before it will be in the position that he has seen in the past.

There were 80 Europeans employed on the Railways on October 1, 1910, of whom 20 were employed on the Nairobi section. The number returned since that date is approximately 100. The General Manager of the Railways has stated that the number of Europeans employed on the Nairobi section is now 100, of whom 20 are employed on the Nairobi section.
