Uganda. A RECORD JOURNEY. A correspondent writes from Kampala...

As a parting question, the interviewer thought he would try and secure a recipe for his country building. Mr. Howitt said that he had managed to remember every line of his experience on this subject in a number of words.

Throughout the interview Mr. Howitt seemed extremely simple and unassuming, but his close denoting breadth of mind and shrewdly of things, was shown in his almost habit right in a stringing together of his own observations, was that there is much shrewdness in this country and shrewdness. By the way, he said, as a parting question.
