ALSACE RE-TAKEN.

Mulhausen Occupied.

GERMAN TROOPS ROUTED. Brilliant Success of French Cavalry.

[TERRACQUE AGENTS' AGENCY.]

London, Monday.
The Bank of England discount is raised to 5 per cent.

A wireless message has been received from the Louisiana that all is well. Bester's correspondent writes that the French cavalry made a rapid advance on the east of Long.

The British forces on the field coast in the instruction of Mr. Hagenau seized Lim in German Topographical West Africa without resistance, and South Uganda to 120 kilometers north from the Coast. This success was unexpected.

Bester's correspondent in St. Petersburg writes that a German fleet of twelve battleships and cruisers are including with French fleets at Koenigsberg and Varna. The decrease in imports is £2,309,401 in exports £275,882.

Women non-combatants of Paris and other parts of France are going in the boats to assist the harvesting.

The French and German forces met at Altkich in equal strength. The French met the successive lines of combats with the result that the Germans fell pell-mell. The French dragoons pushed through Mulhausen close on the heels of the remainder of the fleeing troops, the inhabitants of Mulhausen repeatedly received the French troops.

The British Government send congratulations to General Joffre on his success. In Montenegro the Agrarian Ambassador received his passport.

The gold influx in England amounts to £17,000.

Bester's correspondent cables from Melbourne that Cook made a statement to the people of Australia in which he says he must see this through, whatever the difficulty and at whatever cost we must preserve the great fabric of British freedom, remember that we are Britons."

A Paris message says the French troops crossed the frontier at Alben and seized Altkich, after a fierce battle. They pursued the retreating Germans, and continued the movement in the direction of Mulhausen. The success of the French troops was extremely brilliant. Another message says the French troops have entered Mulhausen.

The people of Alsace-Lorraine were overjoyed at the news of the French troops and they set up the boundary marks.

Mr. Churchill has accepted the Duchess of Cornwall's offer of a hospital ship, on the 10th of the service of Canada.

The Austrian Ambassador is still in Paris. It is understood that Anglo-French relations are unchanged. Pending the issue of the latter will be regarded as neutral. This will affect the position of the British and French, now believed to be in the Adriatic.

The British Consul at Vannes reports that the Austrian fleet is of 100 ships.

It is finally reported in Paris that French troops have entered Mulhausen. The French advance guard arrived at Altkich at midnight on Friday. The town was defended by a German brigade including 100, which the French carried after a fierce bayonet fight. The Germans fled in disorder. They lost heavily in a cavalry pursuit.

The Free of Wales Relief Fund has reached £600,000.

At Brussels at 10 o'clock in the evening, the Minister announced the situation is hourly improving. The co-operation of the French and Belgian troops continues unflinchingly.

General Joffre, the French Commander-in-Chief in a proclamation, says: "Children of Alsace, after forty-four years of wonderful waiting French soldiers again tread the soil of your noble country. They are the possessors of a great work of revenge."

There is rejoicing in Paris over the first French victory on German soil, and the fighting moved on Alben.

It is stated in Brussels that the Belgian army was awaiting a night attack but all was quiet at 2 o'clock in the morning.

VICTORIOUS BELGIUM.

8,000 Germans Killed

SEVEN GUNS CAPTURED.

Hundreds Wounded.

[VERHOEF BUREAU'S AGENCY.]

London, Friday.

The German Ambassador left this morning for Germany.
The Bank of England discount rate is reduced to 5 per cent.
The newspapers in Brussels state that the German losses in the fighting in Belgium have reached 8,000 killed, seven guns captured, while 8,000 wounded Germans have arrived in Brussels.
The British Dominions have made magnificent and most enthusiastic offers of help, the smaller colonies as well as the larger. The Indian Empire has also sent warm-hearted offers.

The most splendid Anglo-French naval and military operations are proceeding. The progress are pushing into Belgium, consolidating the country on its lowest defences.

WAR LOCALITIES.

WHEREIN THE PLACES ARE

- Many of us are ready bravely to admit that our geographical knowledge has grown somewhat rusty. While most people retain a vague memory of the map of Europe, quite a number, apparently, find it difficult to state of hand exactly where a difficult place is, for instance. Without further apology, therefore, we offer the following particulars to those who care to have them.
- AUSTRIA-HUNGARY—Southern bound, 87; Bosnia (annexed), Servia, Rumania, Eastern Rumania, Russia, Western, Eastern Sea, Venetia, Italy, France, Germany.
- BELGIUM—Northern, Holland, Southern France, Eastern, France, Western, France, North Sea.
- FRANCE—Northern, English Channel, Belgium, Southern, Spain, Mediterranean Sea, Eastern, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Bay of Biscay.
- GERMANY—Northern, North Sea, Denmark, Sweden, Baltic Sea, Southern, Switzerland, Austria, Eastern, Bohemia, Switzerland, Poland, Western, France, Austria, Holland.
- HOLLAND—Northern, North Sea, Southern, Belgium, France, Eastern, France, Western, North Sea.
- ITALY—Northern, Switzerland, Austria, Southern, Mediterranean Sea, Eastern, Adriatic Sea, Western, Tyrrhenian Sea, France.
- RUSSIA (in Europe)—Northern, Arctic Ocean, Southern, Austria, Rumania, Bulgaria, Black Sea, Asia Minor, Eastern, Caspian Sea, Asia, Siberia, etc. Western, Poland, Baltic Sea, Sweden, Austria, Prussia, Italy, Sea, Sweden.
- SWEDEN—Northern, Southern, Finland, Belgium, Holland, Eastern, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Western, Sweden, England.
- RUSSIC SEA—Northern, Barents Sea, Poland (Russia), Southern, Prussia.

Eastern, Russia; Western, Denmark, Prussia. (Most of Germany's sea-board is on the Baltic, which is connected with the North Sea by the Kiel Canal.)

LIMBURG (Holland), reported to have been invaded by German troops, is on the north-eastern border of Belgium, joining Prussia.

AZENSTUCHOVA—BENTZIN and KALINZ, invaded by the Germans, are in Poland, on the Prussian border.

LIEGE, on the river Meuse, is a Belgian town in a province of the same name, 20 or 30 miles from the German border. EUPON is on the border in the same vicinity. VERVIER is a Belgian town between Liege and the border.

AYWALLE is in Limburg. Caution are reported to have been heard here. EYSDEN, VISE and ARBENTON are, apparently, towns in villages in the province of Liege.

SAMUR is a town on the Meuse, southwest of Liege, in a province of the same name. The Belgian province of Limburg plus that of the same name in Holland, Maastricht, whence the people of Vise are said to have fled, is between Limburg and Liege.

BIALA, from which the Germans are said to have fallen back, is a town in Poland in the government of Siedlec.

GREAT AFRIKANDER.

JAN HOPMEYER'S LIFE

The biography of Jan Hopfmeijer which was published recently in the work many of his nephews, who, after graduating at the University of the Cape with a double first in Mathematics and Classics, is some 300 pages in length, not yet 21 years of age. Mr. Hopfmeijer, formerly President of the Free State, collected material for the book, research and selection among the numerous mass of material, as well as the careful shaping of the biography which over the years he had attempted to present in a comprehensive and powerful of condensation, in a volume which consists of between 300 and 400 pages, in an extraordinary production for a youth of 20.

The biographer dignifies his subject as being to present a picture of a man who has given the possibility of combining the highest feelings of a South African patriot with the fullest acceptance of responsibility as a citizen of the Empire. "The volume exhibits Hopfmeijer's long political career for the Union of South Africa on the basis of the amalgamation of the white races, the fundamental presuppositions of amalgamation being recognition on the side of the British of equal language rights, and on the side of the Dutch of citizenship on an equal basis with the British subjects. This brought him at times into sharp conflict with his own countrymen, especially with Kruger, who on one occasion denounced him as a "traitor to the Afrikaner cause," and at other times caused him to be misunderstood by the British.

The story of the Brinkman of Brinkman and Cecil Rhodes is told with a simple candour which has something of the pathos of a historical tragedy. All the great figures of South African and Anglo-Afri history during the past 40 years come on the stage, and activities particularly of Cecil Rhodes and Mr. Chamberlain will be described in a way that is never unimpressive, and the young biographer's own life is clearly to have done his work in a spirit of honesty, thoroughness and logical administration for the good of the people who have helped to make South Africa great.

The Union Castle Steamers "Eleonora Castle" is not proceeding to Mombasa but will take a further route to England.

THE EAST AFRICAN STANDARD

All hope of relieving the East of the grip of the German Empire is now gone, and the German Empire is now being completed to the East. It is not easy to understand the extraordinary ambition of the German Empire as the present moment. Might as her army, as well as her navy, may, Germany is now practically challenging the world to a general war.

The world has grown to a point of indifference regarding it, even that the hope to escape being crossed, and completely is incredible. Europe has not yet felt the value of peace to which it was wontly disturbed by an ambitious search. The day is gone by. The German Empire is now a reality. These things belong to the land of ocean all over the world.

EAST INDIA COFFEE.

METHODS OF PREPARATION.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION.

Messrs. T. H. Allen & Co., 17, Grosvenor Street, E.C. 4, have sent us the following description of the method of preparation employed by East India coffee planters. Many of the details given are elementary, but as, without them, the record would be incomplete, we submit the general practical hints which stand for our own information.

PICKING.

As soon as ripeness begins to appear a few workers are sent out to gather them. The quantity of fruit collected is not fixed, it covers the whole of the day picking, and it is called a "lot" or "pick." The lot is made up of the fruit which has been picked in the morning, and the rest of the day's pick is added to it. The fruit is then taken to the mill, where it is weighed and the weight of the lot is noted. The fruit is then taken to the mill, where it is weighed and the weight of the lot is noted.

DRYING.

After being taken from the vats the parchment coffee is spread on mats. The mats are made of wire gauze and when an entire mat is covered with coffee it is spread on a wooden table. The coffee is then spread on a wooden table. The coffee is then spread on a wooden table.

PACKING.

The coffee is then packed in sacks. The sacks are made of gunny cloth and are filled with coffee. The coffee is then packed in sacks. The sacks are made of gunny cloth and are filled with coffee.

It thoroughly washed. If, however, fermentation is allowed the liquor of the coffee will be spoiled. The coffee is then washed. The coffee is then washed.

Permutation completed, the parchment is spread in a thick layer over the floor of the vat, and thoroughly trodden out by the feet of the coolies. The coffee is then spread in a thick layer over the floor of the vat, and thoroughly trodden out by the feet of the coolies.

Germany Declares War on Russia and sends Ultimatum to France.

[REUTERS' SERVICE'S] AGENCY

London, August 8. A message from St. Petersburg states that Great Britain is making a bid to find a formula acceptable to both Serbia and Austria, but with little hope of success. A general mobilization of the Russian Army will have been ordered. The Kaiser's army of 1,000,000 men, which never moves as one district, is only called out in case of actual war. The French Government has issued a proclamation appealing to workers not to aid the enemy by agitation. The minister of Justice has ordered the arrest of all socialists. The members of the French Senate have been ordered to meet at 10 o'clock to-day. The Kaiser has ordered a general mobilization of his army. The Kaiser has ordered a general mobilization of his army. [Notes.—In the haste to print the latest news in the hands of the public, a mistake occurred in the Special Supplement issued on Sunday evening. It was stated that Russia had declared war on England. This should have read "Germany" and not England.]

A message from Washington says that President Wilson and the Congress have agreed on a Bill permitting foreign ships to take American registry during the European crisis. The announcement was received with relief.

It is estimated that 150 million barrels of wheat which were taken up during the past month for export are laid back owing to lack of means of transportation.

THE GERMAN MILITARY BUBBLE

WHO WILL PRICK IT? (By "AN AVANT" in the London Magazine)

There can be no doubt that in military and diplomatic matters political advertisement has gone far and wide in all the great European nations.

For half a century Turkey staid upon its reputation for army had as at Vienna; for a similar period the German Army has been on the march, conquering in 1806 and 1870, against the Austrians and the French.

For half a century Turkey staid upon its reputation for army had as at Vienna; for a similar period the German Army has been on the march, conquering in 1806 and 1870, against the Austrians and the French.

There are a hundred and one qualities that are supposed to constitute the military efficiency in an army, such as numbers, discipline, morale, and so forth, but the most modern military education as applied will doubtless agree with me—that the chief of the individual soldier is his individuality, and his individual determination.

Now, the German system of life and of military training is designed to encourage individual effort, but rather to individualize to reduce the individual man of unit to the rank of a disconnected machine.

In most professions and trades such a training is excellent, for by dint of mind power each unit is made to do his part perfectly—each learns to do his part as well as to do it in unison with the rest of the unit.

The business of an army, however, differs from any other, for it is a collective business. What men do in an army is not a matter of individual choice, but a matter of collective duty.

There is one other quality which is essential to the success of an army, and that is the ability to adapt to circumstances. This is the quality which is most often lacking in the modern military education.

THE EAST AFRICAN STANDARD

FRIDAY, AUGUST 14, 1914.

THE MOST IMPORTANT feature of the war up to the present has been the general peace which has been maintained. It would appear that the day of the "war of attrition" has not yet begun. The general peace which has been maintained is a result of the fact that the war has not yet reached the stage of a general peace.

It is a well-known fact that the war has not yet reached the stage of a general peace. The general peace which has been maintained is a result of the fact that the war has not yet reached the stage of a general peace.

NAVY WARFARE IN NEUTRAL WATERS.

In view of the vast maritime interests of Great Britain, some further particulars regarding international usage in neutral waters are of interest. It is generally known that the Convention of 1856, which was signed by England, France, Prussia, Austria, and the United States, and the extension of the right of visit, search and seizure of neutral ships, was the result of a treaty between the United States and Great Britain.

When a vessel has been captured in neutral waters, the neutral power shall, if possible, detain the vessel until the capture is confirmed. If the prize is not of sufficient importance to warrant the expenditure of the cost of the vessel, the neutral power shall release the vessel.
