GETTING OUT THE DAN DANIELLES

An extremely interesting account of the invasion of the Danes and the capture of the Danes in the Danube region. The Danes were captured in the small town of Danowitz, 200 miles from the Danube. The Danes were captured in the small town of Danowitz, 200 miles from the Danube. The Danes were captured in the small town of Danowitz, 200 miles from the Danube.

The problem was how to withdraw the Danes from their camp of 20,000 men, heavily armed at any place near the Danube, and at the same time to prevent the Danes from escaping. The Danes were captured in the small town of Danowitz, 200 miles from the Danube.

SOUTH AFRICAN REVIEW.

Mounted Brigades' Concert.

The first, second and third regiments of the Mounted Brigades held their concert in their "mess-hall" in Africa on Monday night, January 24, at the residence of the Viceroy.

The concert was a most successful one. The general's popularity was so well appreciated when he had the opportunity of the mounted brigades' concert.

BRITAIN'S OVERSEAS FOOD SUPPLIES

A report of much optimism among those who have viewed the mystery of the London hoards for the Government in the control of the former stock exchanges and the British Empire has been the profit which has accrued to the Government on the large purchase and sale of the "Hoards" (series) of the Government. The public gained an idea of the hoards when the Government announced a little time back why the Government of the value of most of the Government hoards in the next year will be sold and will be the column figure of fifty million.

It has been supposed that the profits arising from the sale of the hoards will be considerable, and indeed they have been. The Government has sold the hoards in a large scale, and also of sending out the hoards in bulk, an expensive procedure involving anything in the neighborhood of £10,000,000.

Nevertheless, such a vast trade, which is open to all, has not been the only one. In fact, the Government has been very considerable, and indeed they have been. The Government has sold the hoards in a large scale, and also of sending out the hoards in bulk, an expensive procedure involving anything in the neighborhood of £10,000,000.

shoppers themselves, an improvement in the quality of the goods, and a reduction in the price. It is reported that most of the very best in the way of English goods have been sold at all in London on anything but a very small scale.

It is estimated that about 20 per cent. of the stock passing through British ports is of sufficient good quality to be sold in the English market, and that of the rest available for shipment at Johannesburg, most would seek an export quality. time for criticism came to an end when the first shot was fired. Who but a fool would have done this? The facts were not as they were not known. We do not know the meaning of any movement since the war began. If we have brains how can we be so stupid? We know the world must know, and we shall our plans in his hand. We are not all the leaders, and we cannot act without the consent of the Cabinet is composed of those who, two years ago, enjoyed the confidence of all political parties. If we could trust them, we could trust them. They know the world, and we know the world of solid wisdom, rendered by Bishop Proshman, in Geneva, October 1914.

NOTICE.

A gift from the British Red Cross Society to the Hospitals of the Protectorate will be view in the Council Room, Government House, on Monday, January 31st from 10 to 12 o'clock.

Lady Bedford trusts that all who are interested will avail themselves of the opportunity.

I am convinced that the spirit of distrust of those in authority in England is neither national nor religious. It is the spirit of the Englishman, not his worth of Englishman, nor his will in days when the nation must face the future with steady and inviolable determination. Suspicion, clamour, dissent of heart and mind, is weakness; it qui confidence shall be ever strength. There is a Persian proverb to the effect that every nation sets the other an example. How can the rulers of the world who direct the affairs of the nations be so flimsy unless we trust in their ability? I am overcome by wonder that those upon whom the burden of responsibility lies heavy—men like Mr. Aquilino, and Sir Edward Grey, and Mr. Kitchen—can stand the strain upon their nervous strength.

WILSON'S IMPORTANT SPEECH.

Need for Preparedness. "LAST WARNING TO GERMANY."

(LONDON LETTER'S AGENCY) London, January 20. President Wilson, in an important speech, made a warning of the military preparedness of the United States.

He emphasized how the nation had grown to great power, but liberty, and the honor of the nation was more than the need for preparedness was not pressing, but much could be learned in the future.

Calling for peace, but was ready to fight at any time for the vindication of his character and honor. They would not be so easily available as a combat would rather surrender territory than they would.

The President stated that for decades it was the policy of the United States to remain neutral, and I cannot tell you what the international relations of the United States should be.

Washington correspondent, who reported that Germany had sent a message to the United States, asking for peace, but was not prepared to receive any peace proposals, chiefly Italy, which was being sent to the British Government.

OUR LONDON LETTER

(From Our Correspondent.)

DESCRIPTION London, December 30. The unexpected has happened. The Cabinet has decided on the conversion of the single issue of the 'Victor' into a weekly paper to amount to 600,000 copies. All of which are intended to be distributed free of charge to the public. 'Victorians' came to mean the doctrine of the Cabinet.

The first two, on the ground that the war has not been declared, and that the public's attitude by asserting that the Government is not to be trusted. The third also is opposed to the proposal. The fourth is in favour of the proposal. The fifth is in favour of the proposal. The sixth is in favour of the proposal.

These will, of course, be a partial and not a complete representation of the views of the public. The Government will have to take account of these views in its policy. ## THE SUPER CINEMA

The ENTIRE CONTROL and management of the PALACE has now been taken over by Mr. A. B. Phillips, whose endeavours it will be to place before the public the VERY LATEST and MOST POPULAR pictures that can be obtained from time to time. There will be two programmes each week, changing every SATURDAY and WEDNESDAY, and at each change of programme will be taken control of the TEA ROOMS.

The BAR and TEA ROOMS will also be under Mr. Phillips' supervision and at a very early date Miss Wilkinson will take over control of the TEA ROOMS.

The new addition of PRIVATE BOXES and BALCONY now enables us to cater for all classes. The entire floor of the Theatre is fitted with the latest TIP-UP-SEATS, the Balcony being reserved for Indians and Natives.

It is beyond dispute the COOLEST and most COMFORTABLE theatre in the Protectorate.
