WAR NOTES.

[By E. Tommas]

LONDON, November 17

We are continually hearing of British and British who have not seen each other for years, meeting in the streets of London, and in the local sporting places. A man serving at the front, returned, received an order from his wife to come home. His wife means to be home in 8 days...

It has also been established beyond doubt that information regarding armaments, which Britain has given to the neutrals, have been ignored and in no case the information has been given to the neutrals...

It has already been mentioned in these few lines that the neutrals are not allowed to show a white flag as a sign of surrender. It is now reported that America will have a white flag as a sign of surrender...

Manchester is very proud of Capt. East who has just received the Victoria Cross for gallantry. He has the rather curious reputation of having been a school teacher after he had finished his course of instruction...

THE GERMAN INFLUENCE One of the things the average man in the street rarely understands is why our Government is so determined to get rid of the German people...

MARRIAGE. CURWEN—FRET—At the Memorial Chapel, Mombasa, on December 31st, 1915, ROBERT CURWEN of Mombasa to BEVERLY CHARLOTTE FRET of Zurich, Switzerland.

THE WEEK'S REVIEW. The East African Standard, Dec 30, 1915. The War. This war has taught the world to think in big War figures.

THE EAST AFRICAN STANDARD. The Second of the nation received with something like consternation. To-day we learn the truth with bowed head and a stab of pain, and sense of terrible hurt...

most insignificant. We know, finally, that many of the wounds... reason that, in the French army, wounded amounted to about five per cent.

It is definitely known that the German army has already reached millions.

Therefore, in the grim struggle of the Balkans, Germany and Austria against Germany and Italy on our favour.

The East African Standard, Dec. 1, 1918

The Mightier humor is, in all the world, reflection that a nation, by its own sword, military superiority and perfection, is placing more and more its trust in its own arms which would not be beyond the power of the weakest State in Europe.

Germany and Italy are grasping upon her spies and agents to make good the breakdown of her army.

It is the purpose of the Balkan attempt to retrieve her army's shattered momentum.

Her persistent efforts in this direction indicate the hopeless nature of any military action.

The war will be won by the nation which can raise and maintain the largest army.

The most elaborate political intrigue will crumble away before a superior army.

To the principal war theatres, the Balkans, the heaviest artillery is being brought to bear.

"Lacka way through," has already been definitely to a stand.

It may be realized that the Balkan area was the aggressor, and to the aggressor loss of the initiative is a serious business.

Germany's defence in the Balkans does not cover the grim fighting in the West, and as her real object was concerned, the Balkans were less significant on the Russian front.

Russian are at a standstill. Germany's admission of defeat is not to be holding her own.

Her persistent effort to create a diversion on the Near East is a sufficient admission of failure.

If Germany had power to shake off the straggling grip in the West, she would not wait for the Allies.

Her munitions for the Balkans had her power to inflict a decisive blow.

Apparently, it was not the great desire, sooner or later, to win.

My man may precipitate a conflict in this thought, but it will certainly do nothing to help her.

If she is to be anything to help her, she will probably be left deplorable.

Her theory, since the potential developments of the Balkan situation, she is altogether on the side of Teutonic culture.

The Dream of Every Child

Between the ages of 12 and 24 is a copy of the 1918 issue of 200 pages of heavy stock, containing a picture, and numerous plates.

The complete history of the Balkan conflict, which the British navy may enable the Allies to bring against

The East African Standard, Dec. 9, 1918

There are indications of a Balkan situation, which will become still more important in the not distant future.

While the Government of Greece still maintains its neutrality, the Balkan situation is a very serious one.

German Role in Poland.

The following is a description of the German role in Russian Poland by a leading authority on the subject, Polish Ambassador Dary, says "The Times". The Polish State, independent both of Russia and Germany, is the only one in Europe created and supported by the National Council of Austria-Poland, which, under the leadership of Andrzej Stronkowski, the English diplomat known in connection with the famous "Austrian question" of the war. The article of this memorandum, which is a study of the German role in Poland, is not against Germany's aims, but against Germany's aims.

On the main features of the German role in Poland, the following is a summary of the author's conclusions. The German role in Poland was not a simple matter of occupation, but a complex one, involving the interests of the German people, the interests of the Polish people, and the interests of the world. Balkan Position.

The situation in the Balkans, and the complications with Greece arising there, are of such importance that the establishment of a working agreement between the various states in the Balkans, which could only be left to the judgment of the "disinterested" states, is not of such importance as it is.

defence and the acquisition of additional power by the King. The military aspect of the situation now more obvious than ever.

The position of affairs in the New East Africa, and it is being treated from a more comprehensive point of view, than what the Far East has received. The position of the Greek Islands in the present situation, in which there is a real opportunity of a settlement in the near future, is also dealt with.

The problem of the Dardanelles has now become of far greater importance, military or political as well as commercial. The operations in that peninsula, which will be dependent upon the whole of the strategic situation. On the one hand it will be allowed to weigh in the final scale of any peace treaty.

To render the troops at present in the peninsula in much more than the same sense in a different manner. It is not only a question of what troops are sent there, but also of the draft on our reserves which a vigorous offensive may entail. It may be better to cut our losses.

On the other hand the operations on the peninsula may develop in the direction of Dardanelles and Focæ, and so assist in the solution of the Gallipoli problem.

Speaking of the last stage in the Serbian campaign the same writer observes: "Though one cannot endorse the Lombardian method of the Kaiser's strategy, it is the conclusion of the Serbian campaign. There is no doubt that the Serbian army in the field has practically made good its retreat to the Albanian and Montenegrin frontiers, where the enemy had to respect the fact that those in the line are engaged in the direction of transport and communications are under the control of winter. It would be unfair to speak of the withdrawal of the Serbian army as having made a real retreat, for that would imply that the southern and northern Serbian and demoralized army, whereas the latter carried out its retreat in the winter season, was covered up to the last by troops forming a rear-guard, with the view of covering their retreat."

It may be truly admitted that the retreat of the Serbian army is especially in progress, among the details of which it is to be certain, especially in the direction of tactical importance. It should be laid on its side at the moment in order to allow the enemy to make good their retreat. It is to be expected that the Serbian army will be spending and cutting off of any large part of the Serbian army and in the present announcement that the Serbian army retreats with them, it is 20,000 Austrian prisoners in very tight places. The retreat made by the Serbian army is the most costly because they inflicted upon the Austro-Germans in the latter stages of the campaign of the severe crushing of the Danube, and the disintegration, which was achieved by several of the enemy's communications.

I do not think it would be profitable to make any comparison of the figures of the German reports, as we know that they are not true. It is to be expected that the Serbian army, which has not only been defeated, but also annihilated, and otherwise disgraced. It is to be expected that the Serbian army, which has not only been defeated, but also annihilated, and otherwise disgraced. It is to be expected that the Serbian army, which has not only been defeated, but also annihilated, and otherwise disgraced.

We must remember that, in accordance with the terms of the armistice, the Serbian army in the hospitals would be included in the list of prisoners, and these probably were considerably, as the lack of railway transport services in the Balkans, and enemy troops would be very difficult to maintain in the field. It is to be expected that the Serbian army, which has not only been defeated, but also annihilated, and otherwise disgraced.

It is to be expected that the Serbian army, which has not only been defeated, but also annihilated, and otherwise disgraced. It is to be expected that the Serbian army, which has not only been defeated, but also annihilated, and otherwise disgraced.

Wherever they have been, there is evidence that the loss of the enemy were not only in the form of an ever-growing pressure, but also in the form of a steady pressure, which has been leading into the Kosovo plain and towards the Albanian coast. It is to be expected that the Serbian army, which has not only been defeated, but also annihilated, and otherwise disgraced.

Tea

If you would escape the ills of impure water use tea. To make tea the water must be boiled. Boiled water is tasteless, but boiling water added to Brooke Bonds Tea makes the finest possible drink.

Refreshing, stimulating and beneficial in all respects. See Brooke Bonds name on every tin.

In this market Brooke Bonds tea can be had in two qualities—Red Label and Green Label. Red Label is really fine Indian tea of finest Darjeeling flavour; the Green Label is sound wholesome Indian tea. Packing and blending is done in the Company's factory in Calcutta, whence it is shipped to East Africa direct.
